Hadhrat Kumayl bin Ziyaad narrates, "Hadhrat Ali bin Abi Taalib woo once caught hold of my hand and took me into the desert. When we were in the desert, he sat down, sighed and said, 'O Kumayl bin Ziyaad! Hearts are like containers and the best of hearts are those that take heed the most. Remember well what I have to say to you. People fall into three categories. There is the Aalim who is attached to Allaah, the learner who is on the path of salvation and a mean uncultured type of person who follows every noise-maker, who sways with the wind, who has gleaned nothing from the light from divine knowledge and who has not even taken support from a strong pillar. Knowledge is better than wealth because while knowledge guards you, you have to guard wealth and while knowledge increases with spending (by practising on it and teaching it), wealth decreases with spending. Love for knowledge is a loan that will be repaid (by Allaah). Knowledge earns authority for the Aalim in this life and fond memories after his death while the achievements of wealth disappear once the wealth is no more. Even though they are alive, the treasurers of wealth are really dead while the Ulema live on throughout the annals of time. While the Ulema (after death) may not be visible to the eye, their honour and love still lives on in the hearts (of

"Ah!" Hadhrat Ali Simo sighed. Pointing to his chest, he said, "Verily in here is such knowledge that I wish I could find a bearer for it. However, all I can find are quick-witted people who cannot be trusted. They use the instruments of Deen for worldly purposes by employing Qur'aanic arguments against the Qur'aan and the bounties of Allaah against His servants. The only other type of person I find is one who follows people of the truth but has no insight into inspiring it. He therefore falls into doubt with the first doubt that presents itself, because of which he does not know where he stands. The other type of person I find is one immersed in carnal pleasures, who is a devout follower of passions. The other type I find is the one who is infatuated with wealth and amassing wealth. In fact, the last two types are not even callers to the Deen (2) and the most fitting description of them is to liken them to grazing animals. So knowledge dies with the death of people capable of bearing it. At the same time, the earth is never empty of people who stand up for Allaah using His contentions so that everything that Allaah has proved and made clear to people should never be lost to mankind. Such people are however exceptionally few in number but most valued by Allaah. It is by them that Allaah rebuts criticism against His arguments until they pass on and cultivate (their knowledge and expertise to) others like them. Their profound knowledge swiftly guides to them perceive the reality of all matters, making it easy for them to understand intricacies that are beyond those who live in affluence and luxury. They are comfortable with matters that perplex and frighten ignorant people. While their bodies are in contact with the world, their souls are attached to a greater scene (the Aakhirah). Such people are Allaah's deputies in the lands and the true callers to his Deen. Ah! Ah! How I long to meet them! I seek Allaah's forgiveness for me and for you. You may now leave if you please." The Encouragement Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal gave Towards Knowledge Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal said, "Acquire (divine) knowledge because learning it is fear of Allaah, going out in search of it is Ibaadah, rehearsing it is Tasbeeh, discussing it is Jihaad, teaching it to those who do not know is Sadagah and spending it on those worthy of receiving it promotes nearness to Allaah, This is so because knowledge highlights what is Halaal and what is Haraam, it is a beacon for people on the road to Jannah, it is a companion in loneliness, a friend in the wilderness, a partner to talk to in solitude and a guide in prosperity and in adversity. Knowledge is also a weapon against the enemy and makes one shine out when amongst friends. Allaah elevates nations by virtue of this knowledge, making them leaders in virtue so that people follow in their footsteps, emulate their actions and always adopt their opinions. In addition to this, the angels are eager to be with them and rub their wings against them. Everything on land and water seek forgiveness for them, even the fish and other creatures in the oceans and the wild and tame animals on land. This is all because (divine) knowledge brings life to hearts (that have died after suffering) from ignorance, it is a lantern of the eyes against darkness and by virtue of this knowledge, a person reaches the ranks of the chosen ones (of Allaah) and elevated stages in this world as well as in the Aakhirah. Thinking deeply about such knowledge equals fasting while learning and teaching it equals standing in salaah. It is because of this knowledge that family ties are maintained and the lawful is distinguished from the unlawful. This knowledge is the leader of deeds and all deeds follow from it. It is only the fortunate who are inspired with it,

The Encouragement Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood gave Towards Knowledge

Hadhrat Haaroon bin Rabaab narrates that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood said, "Start your mornings as either an Aalim or one busy acquiring the knowledge of Deen but do not be something other than these two because anyone other than these is an ignorant person. Verily, out of their happiness for what he is doing, the angels spread out their wings for a person who ventures out in the morning to seek knowledge." (2).

Hadhrat Zaid reports that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (5) once said, "Start your mornings as either an Aalim or one busy acquiring the knowledge of Deen but do not be one who knows nothing and follows blindly." (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (See once addressed the people saying, "O people! Ensure that you acquire the knowledge of Deen before it is taken away from this world. The manner by which it will be taken away is the departure of its bearers. Ensure that you acquire the knowledge of Deen because none of you knows just when you will need it. Ensure that you acquire the knowledge of Deen but beware of hair-splitting and excessiveness. You should also ensure that you follow traditions (that which the Sahabah (See did) because there will soon appear people who will recite the Qur'aan but then cast it behind their backs. (4)

Hadhrat Abul Ahwas narrates that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood Said, "No person is born an Aalim. Knowledge is gained only through studies." (5) Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood Said; "Start your mornings as either an Aalim or one busy acquiring the knowledge of Deen but do not be something other than these two. If you are unable to do this, then at least have love for the Ulema and never despise them." (6)

The Encouragement Hadhrat Abu Dardaa @@@@ gave Towards Knowledge

Hadhrat Hasan narrates that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa ("Either be an Aalim, a student acquiring the knowledge of Deen, one who loves such people or one who follows them. However, never be the fifth person otherwise you will be destroyed." You people are our brothers in Deen, our neighbours in nationality and our allies against the enemy. However, what prevents you from being friendly with me when it is others (and not you) who are paying my expenses. Why is it that I see your learned ones leaving while the ignorant ones fail to learn? Why do I see you people hankering after that (sustenance) which is being taken care of on your behalf while you neglect that which you have been commanded to do? Remember that there were people who constructed sturdy buildings, who amassed an abundance of wealth and who entertained distant hopes. However, their buildings became their graves, their hopes proved to be deceptive and all they amassed was destroyed. Remember that you must learn and teach others because the reward of the student and the teacher is alike and had it not been for these two, there would be no good in the rest of people." (1)

Hadhrat Hassaan reports that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (Marcon and Paragraphics) addressed the people of Damascus saying, "Are you people content to just filling yourselves with bread made of wheat flour year in and year out without speaking of Allaah in your gatherings? Why is it that your Ulema are leaving and your ignorant ones are not learning? If your Ulema had the desire, their numbers could increase and if your ignorant ones look for knowledge, they will certainly find it. Do what will benefit you rather than that which will harm you, i swear by the Being Who controls my life that every nation that was destroyed, was destroyed only because they followed the dictates of their passions and regarded themselves as spiritually pure."

Hadhrat Qurra narrates that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (Siess) once said, "Acquire knowledge before it is taken away because its disappearance will be effected by the demise of the Ulema. There are only two categories of men; the Aalim and the student. There is no good in those who do not fall into these categories." (3)

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Mas'ood Faraazi reports that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa once said, "Whenever anyone proceeds to the Masjid to learn or to teach anything virtuous, he receives the reward of a Mujaahid who returns with booty." (4)

The Encouragement Hadhrat Abu Dharr and Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah gave Towards Knowledge

Hadhrat Abu Dharr and Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah both said, "Learning even a single chapter of knowledge is more beloved to me than a thousand Rakaahs of Nail salaah." They also narrate that Rasulullaah said, "If death comes to someone studying the knowledge of Deen when he is still studying, he dies as a martyr." (1)

Another narration states that they stated, "Learning even a single chapter of knowledge is more beloved to me than a thousand Rakaahs of Nafl salaah, regardless of whether the knowledge is practised upon or not." (2)

The Encouragement Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas gave Towards Knowledge

Hadhrat Ali Azdi reports that when he once asked Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas about Jihaad, the Sahabi (1996) replied by saying, "Should I not tell you about something that is better than Jihaad? It is that you go to the Masjid and teach the Qur'aan, Figh or the Sunnah." (3)

Hadhrat Ali Azdi reports that he once asked Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas about Jihaad. The Fervour that the Sahabah All Market had for Knowledge

The Statement Hadhrat Mu'aadh Made on his deathbed about his Fervour for Knowledge

When he was on his deathbed, Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabai saked the people to see whether dawn had broken. When they reported that it had not yet come, he again sent them to see. After this happened several times, they eventually reported to him that dawn had broken. To this, he said, "I seek Allaah's protection from the night followed by a morning that takes one to Jahannam. I welcome death with open arms. It is that long absent visitor and a friend in need. O Allaah! While I had always been afraid of You, today I long to meet You. O Allaah! You know well that I never loved this world or to live long here to dig canals or to plant trees. I loved it only for the thirst in the extreme afternoon heat (when fasting), for enduring times of hardship and to sit on my knees when associating with the Ulema in gatherings of knowledge." (1)

The Fervour that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (1996) had for Knowledge

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa woo once said, "Had it not been for three things, I would have loved to be no longer in this world. When asked what the three things were; Hadhrat Abu Dardaa woo said, " (The first is)Placing my head on the ground before my Creator in Sajdah during the hours of day and night so that it is sent ahead (as rewards) for my (true) life (in the Aakhirah). (The second is) Enduring thirst during hot afternoons (while fasting) and (the third is) sitting with people who choose their speech as carefully as you choose your fruit." The narration continues further.

The Fervour that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Bin Abbaas Rowledge

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas says, "When Rasulullaah are plenty in number. Come. Let us learn from them." I am astonished at you, O Ibn Abbaas! he said, 'Do you think that people will need you (to learn from) when so many of Rasulullaah ses senior Sahabah are amongst them? I left that as it were and proceeded to learn from the companions of Rasulullaah ses. When I heard that a Hadith was narrated by someone, I would go to his door and if he was having his siesta, I would roll up my shawl there and use it as a pillow. (As a I waited there) The wind would blow sand on me and when the man came out, he would ask, "What brings you here, O cousin of Rasulullaah ses? Why did you not send for me and I would have come to you?" I would then say to him, 'No. It (I) Abu No'aym in his Hilya (Vol.1 Pg.239). Ibn Abdul Birr has also reported the narration in his Jaami Bayaanil Ilm (Vol.1 Pg.51).

is I who should be coming to you.' I would then ask him about the Hadith. My Ansaari friend happened to live to the time when he saw people gathering around me to learn and would say, 'He has been a much smarter youngster than I.''(1) Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas was says, "When the various cities were being conquered (by the Muslims) and people started focussing their attention towards the things of this world, I started focussing my attention on Hadhrat Umar was 'I is because of this that most of the Ahadeeth narrated by Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas was are from Hadhrat Umar (2).

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah sow's Fervour for knowledge Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah sow narrates, "Rasulullaah so once said to me. 'Are you not going to ask me for a share of the booty as your companions are asking me?" I replied, 'All I ask of you is to teach me that which Allaah has taught you.' I then spread out the striped shawl I was wearing between us. In fact, I can even picture seeing the lice crawling on it. Rasulullaah so then narrated Ahadeeth to me and when I had heard everything, he told me to pick up the shawl and wear it (which I did). Thereafter, I have never forgotten even a single letter of what Rasulullaah so had narrated to me." (3) Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah 经运送 once said, "People say that Abu Hurayrah narrates plenty of Ahadeeth! It is with Allaah that we have an appointment (and He will judge). People ask why the Muhaajireen and Ansaar do not narrate as many Ahadeeth as Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah Signifi While trade in the marketplaces occupied my Muhaajireen brothers and commitments to their properties occupied my Ansaar brothers. I was a poor man who stuck close to Rasulullaah so that my belly could be filled. I would therefore be present (with Rasulullaah (数据) when they were not. I also remembered much when they had forgotten. Rasulullaah es one day said, 'If any of you spreads out a cloth until I finish speaking and then holds it close to his chest, he will never forget anything that I say.' I therefore spread out my striped shawl because I had nothing else (to spread out). After Rasulullaah (had finished speaking, I put it to my chest. I swear by the Being Who sent Rasulullaah (with the truth that from that day to this, I have never forgotten anything Rasulullaah & said. By Allaah! Had it not been for two verses of the Qur'aan, I would never have narrated anything to you people. (The verses are):

﴿ إِنَّ الَّذِيْنَ يَكُتُمُوْنَ مَا أَنْوَلْنَا مِنَ الْبَيِّنْكِ وَالْهُدَى مِنْ بَغْدِ مَا بَيَّتُهُ لِلنَّاسِ فِي الْكِتْكِ

﴿ أُولَٰئِكَ يَلْعُنُهُمُ اللَّهُ وَيَلْعَنُهُمُ اللِّعِنُونَ ۞ الَّا الَّذِيْنَ تَابُوْا وَاصْلَحُوْا وَبَيَّنُواْ فَأُولَٰئِكَ

Certainly those who hide (from people) the clear things and guidance which We have revealed after We had explained it to them in the Book for the people; such people (those who hide these things) are cursed by Allaah and by all those who (are commanded to) curse (such as the angels, humans, Jinn, animals). (This applies to all such people) Except those who repent, correct (the wrong they did) and clarify (what they hid). These are the ones whom I will forgive, for verily I am The Greatest Acceptor of repentance, The Most Merciful. (Surah Baqarah, verses 159,160) (1)

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah conce said, "People complain that Abu Hurayrah narrates too many Ahadeeth. I was a person who stuck with Rasulullaah to have my belly filled because it was a time when I was unable to eat leavened bread, wear silk or have slaves in attendance. Because of extreme hunger, I would press my stomach against stones (so that the coolness of the stones would alleviate the burn of the hunger). I would ask a person to recite a verse of the Qur'aan for me although I knew it only so that (as we engaged in discussion) he may (offer to) take me home for meals. The person who treated the poor best was Ja'far bin Abi Taalib . He would take us home and feed us everything he had in his house. In fact, he would even take out for us a (honey or butter) container that was empty, wipe out whatever remained (stuck to the sides and bottom) and then give this to us to suck." (2)

The True Meaning of Knowledge and what the Word Knowledge Refers to when Used in a General Context

Narrations from Rasulullaah Concerning the True Meaning of Knowledge

Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari marrates that Rasulullaah said, "The example of the guidance and knowledge that Allaah has sent me with is like a drenching rain that falls on a particular piece of ground. While a part of the ground is fertile and absorbs the water to grow grass and an abundance of vegetation, another portion of the ground is hard and holds the water. However, Allaah still allows it to benefit people because they drink from it, give their animals to drink from it and also irrigate their fields with it. The rain also falls on another portion of the ground that consists of a rocky terrain which neither holds the water nor grows any grass. Such is the example of a person who has a deep understanding of the Deen of Allaah. That which Allaah has sent me with benefits him, because of which he becomes knowledgeable and teaches others as well. It is also the example of the person who pays no heed to it and refuses to accept it." (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood in arrates that Rasulullaah is said, "Every Nabi that Allaah has sent before had close friends and companions who adopted his ways and obeyed his instructions. However, there came after them generations who did not practise what they preached and who did what they were not instructed to do. Whoever resists them physically is a Mu'min, whoever resists them verbally is also a Mu'min and whoever resists them by heart (by disapproving of what they do) is also a Mu'min. After these (three categories of people) there remains none with even a mustard seed of Imaan." (1)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Amr reports that Rasulullaah said, "Knowledge is of three types; explicit verses of the Qur'aan, concrete Ahadeeth (with authenticity that is beyond doubt) and injunctions of the same standing (timaa(2) and Qiyaas(3) that is beyond doubt). Everything apart from this is extra (it is not compulsory to learn)." (4)

Hadhrat Amr bin Auf (1986) reports that Rasulullaah (1986) said, "I have left with you two factors that you will never go astray as long as you hold fast to them. They are the Book of Allaah and the Sunnah of your Nabi (1986)."

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah Freports that Rasulullaah Freports once entered the Masjid where he found the people gathered around a man. "What is happening?" Rasulullaah Freports on Allaamah." "What is an Allaamah?" Rasulullaah Freports on Allaamah." "What is an Allaamah?" Rasulullaah Freports on Allaamah. "Someone who knows Arabic better than anyone else and also has the most knowledge of poetry and the differences between the Arabs." Rasulullaah Fremarked, "That is knowledge that does not benefit a person and no harm will be done to remain ignorant of it." (6)

The Statements of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas

Concerning the real meaning of Knowledge

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar (Sie once said, "Knowledge is in three things; the talking book (the Qur'aan), the perpetual Sunnah and to say 'I do not know' (when one does not know something)." (7)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Said, "Knowledge is really in the Book of Allaa!, and the Sunnah of Rasulullaah & Based on personal opinion, if anyone says anything other than this, I cannot say whether he will find it included amongst his good deeds or amongst his sins," (8)

Hadhrat Mujaahid says, "Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas & was once

Rasulullaah Reprimands People who did this

Hadhrat Amr bin Yahya bin Ja'dah wiss narrates that when someone brought to Rasulullaah as a scripture written on the shoulder blade of an animal, Rasulullaah se remarked, "It is enough for a person to have himself classified as a fool or a person gone astray just to turn his attention away from what his Nabi self has brought and to focus it on what another Nabi self had brought, or to turn his attention to a scripture other than his own." It was then that Allaah

Hadhrat Umar Rebukes a man who Wrote the Scripture of Hadhrat Daaniyaal Ame and His Incident with Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Khaalid bin Urfuta narrates that he was with Hadhrat Umar when a man from the Abdul Qais tribe was brought. The man lived in a place called Soos (where Hadhrat Daaniyaal will is believed to be buried). When Hadhrat Umar was a sked him whether he was a particular person from the Abd tribe, the man replied that he was. Hadhrat Umar will then struck him with a staff that he had with him. "O Ameerul Mu'mineen!" the man cried, "What have I done?" Hadhrat Umar will told him to sit down and when he did, Hadhrat Umar will recited the following:

﴿ الرَّافِ يَلْكَ الِتُ الْكِتْبِ الْمُبِيْنِ ۞ إِنَّا اَنْزَلْنَهُ قُرُهُ لَا عَرَبِيًّا لَعَلَّكُمْ تَعْقِلُون نَحْنُ نَقُصُّ عَلَيْكَ آحْسَنَ الْقَصَصِ بِمَا آوْحَيْنَا إِلَيْكَ هٰذَا الْقُرَّانَ فَوَانُ كُنْتَ مِنْ قَبْلِم لَمِنَ الْغَفِيلِيْنَ ۞ ﴾ (سورة يوسف آيت ٢٠)

In the name of Allaah, the Most Compassionate, the Most Merciful. Alif Laam Raa. These are the verses of the clear Book (the Qur'aan). Undoubtedly We have revealed it (the Qur'aan) as an Arabic Qur'aan so that you may understand. We narrate to you a most beautiful story in this Qur'aan that We reveal to you. Before this you were of the unwary. (Surah Yusuf, verses 1-3)

Hadhrat Umar Siles recited the verses thrice and hit the man thrice. Again the man asked, "What have I done, O Ameerul Mu'mineen?" Hadhrat Umar Siles said, "You are the person who wrote the scriptures of Daaniyaal Siles." "I am prepared to do whatever you instruct me," the man said. Hadhrat Umar Siles then said to him, "Go and erase it with (pouring) hot water (over it) and (the wiping with) white wool. I neither want you to read it or to give it to anyone else to read. If the news reaches me that you had read it or had given it to someone else to read, I shall punish you very severely."

Hadhrat Umar then told the man to sit down, and when he sat in front of Hadhrat Umar then told the man to sit down, and when he sat in front of Hadhrat Umar then the Ahlul Kitaab on a piece of leather. When Rasulullaah saked me what it was I had in my hand, I said, 'O Rasulullaah saked me what it was I had in my hand, I said, 'O Rasulullaah saked me what it copied to supplement the knowledge we have.' Rasulullaah saked then became so angry that his cheeks flamed red. (By the Instruction of Rasulullaah said) The announcement 'As Salaatu Jaami'ah' was made (to gather the people), to which the Ansaar said, 'Take your weapons! Take your weapons! Your Nabi sabeen angered.' The people then amassed around Rasulullaah said, 'O people! I have been granted speech that is comprehensive, conclusive, yet very concise. I have also brought to you a creed that it exceptionally pure. Therefore, you need never be confused and never allow yourselves to be deceived by the confused ones (the Ahlul Kitaab)."

Hadhrat Umar Continues, "I then stood up and said, I am satisfied with Allaah as my Rabb, with Islaam as my religion and with you as my Nabi." Rasulullaah : then descended from the pulpit." (1)

Hadhrat Jaabir 劉璋爾 narrates that Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab 劉璋爾 once brought to Rasulullaah as a scripture that he got from some people of the Ahlul Kitaab. "O Rasulullaah (###)" he said, "I just got an excellent scripture from some people of the Ahlul Kitaab." Rasulullaah & became angry and said, "Are you people in doubt. O son of Khattaab? I swear by the Being Who controls my life! What I have brought to you is clear and pure. You therefore have no need to ask them. (The danger is that) They might tell you some truth that you may reject or tell you some false that you may believe. I swear by the Being Who controls my life that even if Moosa was alive, he would have no option but to follow me "(2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Thaabit (1986) narrates that Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab once came to Rasulullaah and said, "I was passing by a friend from the (Jewish) Banu Qurayzah tribe, so he wrote down for me some quotations from the Torah. Should I read them to you." When Rasulullaah (學學's face started reddening (with anger), Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Thaabit 500 said to Hadhrat Umar 空間後。"Can you not see Rasulullaah (報答's face?" Hadhrat Umar 空間後 immediately exclaimed. "I am satisfied with Allaah as my Rabb, with Islaam as my religion and with Muhammad 您能 as my Nabi." Rasulullaah 您能's anger then subsided and he said, "I swear by the Being Who controls the life of Muhammad! If Moosa will had to be amongst you and you leave me to follow him, you would certainly go astray. You are meant to be my Ummah and I am meant to be your Nabi."(3)

Hadhrat Umar Rebukes a man who told him That he Found a Scripture with wonderful Content

Hadhrat Maymoon bin Mahraan narrates that a man came to Hadhrat Umar saying, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! When we conquered Madaa'in, I found a scripture with wonderful content." "Is the content consistent with the Book of Allaah?" Hadhrat Umar saked, When the man said that it was not, Hadhrat Umar seems sent for his whip, lashed the man and recited the verse:

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (Condemn Questioning The Ahlul Kitaab

Hadhrat Hurayth bin Zuhayr reports that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood Sees said, "Never question the Ahlul Kitaab about anything because since they are misguided, they cannot guide you. (The danger is that) They might tell you some truth that you may reject or tell you some false that you may believe." (2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Sies) also said, "If you have to ask them (the Ahlul Kitaab), then consider what they say. If it coincides with the teachings of Allaah's Book, you may accept it, but you must reject it if it does not." (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas once said, "How can you people ask the Ahlul Kitaab about anything when you have with you the Book that Allaah has revealed to His Nabi we, which happens to be the latest scripture from your Rabb? It is new and has not been interpolated. Has Allaah not informed you in His Book that they (the Ahlul Kitaab) had altered Allaah's scriptures (the Torah and Injeel) with their own hands and said that it was from Allaah? This was done only to earn some meagre worldly profits. Does the knowledge that has come to you not prevent you from asking them? By Allaah! I have never seen any of them asking you about what Allaah has revealed!" (4)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas ("You ask the Ahlul Kitaab about their scriptures when you have Allaah's Book which is the latest of Allaah's scriptures? It is new, has not been interpolated and you are even able to read it." (5)

Being affected by the Knowledge of Allaah and His Rasool

Hadhrat Shufay Asbahi narrates, "Upon entering Madinah one day, I saw many people gathered around a particular man. When I asked who the man was, I was informed that he was Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah (I have upon you in the sat down in front of him as he narrated Ahadeeth. After he had completed and was alone, I asked, 'I ask you in the name of the rights (I have upon you in that I am a Muslim, a traveller and a student) to narrate to me a Hadith that you heard from Rasululiah (B) and that you understood well. He said, 'By all means. I shall narrate to you a Hadith that Rasulullaah (B) narrated to me and which I understand well.' He then sighed so deeply that he was close to falling unconscious. We waited a while until he regained his composure and said, 'I shall relate to you a Hadith that Rasulullaah (B) narrated to me in this very house when there was none here besides him and I. Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah then again sighed so deeply that he was close to falling unconscious.

When he regained his composure, he wiped his face and said, 'I shall relate to you a Hadith that Rasulullaah an narrated to me in this very house when there was none here besides him and I. Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah then again sighed so deeply that he actually fell on his face. I held him up for a long while and when he regained consciousness, he said, 'Rasulullaah an narrated to me that on the Day of Qiyaamah, every nation will be on its knees when Allaah will descend to pass judgement between the people. The first to be summoned (for reckoning) will be the person who memorised the Qur'aan, the person who was martyred in the path of Allaah and the man with plenty of wealth. Addressing the Qaari, Allaah will say, 'Did I not teach you that which I revealed to my messenger?' 'Indeed you did, O my Rabb!' he will respond. Allaah will ask him further, 'And what did you do with that which I taught you?' He will reply, 'I recited it day and night.' 'You are lying,' Allaah will declare. The angels will reiterate saying, 'You are lying,' Allaah will then add, 'Your only motive was that people should call you a Qaari, which they have already done.'

Next, the wealthy man will be summoned. Allaah will ask him, 'Did I not grant you plenty so that you never depended on anyone else?' 'Indeed you have, my Rabb!' he will admit. 'Then what did you do with that which I gave you?' Allaah will ask. He man will say, 'I used to maintain family ties and give charity.' 'You are lying,' Allaah will declare. 'You are lying,' the angels will reiterate. Allaah will then say, 'Your only motive was that people should call you a generous person, which they have already done.'

Next to be summoned will be the one who was martyred in the path of Allaah. Allaah will ask him, 'For what objective were you killed?' His reply will be, 'because we were commanded to fight in Jihaad, I fought until I was killed.' 'You are lying,' Allaah will declare. 'You are lying,' the angels will reiterate. Allaah will then say, 'Your only motive was that people should call you a brave person, which they have already done.' Rasulullaah : then hit his hands on my knees and said, 'O Abu Hurayrah! These three will be the first of Allaah's creation with whom the fire of Jahannam will be fuelled on the Day of Olyaamah."

Hadhrat Abu Salamah bin Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf reports that when Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Amr bin Al Aas the met at Marwa, they started discussing Ahadeeth. When Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Amr the left, Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar remained there weeping. "What makes you weep so much, O Abu Abdur Rahmaan?" someone asked. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar replied, "That man Abdullaah bin Amr the says that he heard Rasulullaah say, 'Allaah will throw a person headlong into the fire of Jahannam if he has pride equal to (1) Tirmidhi (Vol.2 Pg.61). Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Rawaaha (1996) and Hadhrat Hassaan (1996) Weep when Allaah Revealed the Verse: "Only deviant people follow the poets"

Hadhrat Abul Hasan the freed slave of the Banu Naufal tribe reports that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Rawaaha (both acclaimed poets) came weeping to Rasulullaah (but when Allaah revealed Surah TaaSeenMeem Shu'araa. Rasulullaah (but recited to them the verses:

Only deviant people follow the poets (by repeating those poems of theirs that contain rambling speech and useless talk). Do you not see that they (poets) wander lost (distracted) in every valley (have no direction and tend to sway to the extremes)? And (do you not see) that they say things which they never do? (Such is the condition of all poets) Except those who have Imaan, who do good acts, who remember Allaah abundantly and who avenge themselves after being oppressed (by counteracting the satirical poetry that the Kullaar direct at Islaam and at Rasulullaah with poetry of their own). (Surah Shu'araa, verses 224-227)

When Rasulullaah recited the verse "Except those who have Imaan, who do good acts", he said, "That refers to you." Thereafter, when he recited "who remember Allaah abundantly", he again said, "That refers to you". Again, when reciting the verse "and (those) who avenge themselves after being oppressed", he said, "That refers to you." (2)

The People of Yemen Weep when they Hear the Qur'aan During the Khilaafah of Hadhrat Abu Bakr

Hadhrat Abu Saalih narrates that when some people from Yemen came to Madinah during the Khilaafah of Hadhrat Abu Bakr was and heard the Qur'aan, they started weeping excessively. To this, Hadhrat Abu Bakr was remarked (in humility), "That is how we used to be, but then hearts started to harden." Hadhrat Abu Nu'aym explains that the phrase "hearts started to harden" means that their hearts strengthened and became content with the recognition of Allaah. (3)

A Warning to the Aalim who does not Teach others and to Ignorant Person who does not Learn Hadhrat Abzah Abu Abdur Rahmaan reports that Rasulullaah reports once praised certain groups of the Muslims in his sermon. Thereafter, Rasulullaah reighbouring tribes understand Deen, nor do they teach it to them, explain it to them, enjoin them (to do good) or forbid them (from evil)? What also is the matter with other tribes who neither learn from their neighbours nor make an attempt to understand the Deen or to be conversant with it? Take note that people will have to teach Deen to their neighbours, explain it to them, enjoin them (to do good) and forbid them (from evil). At the same time, others will have to learn Deen from their neighbours and make an attempt to understand it, otherwise they will all be punished very soon in this very world." Rasulullaah then descended from the pulpit and entered his room.

"Who do you think Rasulullaah was referring to?" some people asked. "We think that he must have been referring to the Ash'ar tribe who have a good understanding of Deen while their neighbours are uncultured Bedouins living at an oasis. When the news reached the people of the Ash'ar tribe, they came to Rasulullaah was and said, "O Rasulullaah we! Why is it that when you praised some people, you criticised us? What have we done?" Rasulullaah : replied, " that people will have to teach Deen to their neighbours, explain it to them, enjoin them (to do good) and forbid them (from evil). At the same time, others will have to learn Deen from their neighbours and make an attempt to understand it, otherwise they will all be punished very soon in this very world." "O Rasulullaah "they pleaded, "Will we be held responsible for the wrongs of others?" When Rasulullaah repeated his words, they again asked, "O Rasulullaah !! Will we be held responsible for the wrongs of others?" This time again, Rasulullaah repeated what he had said. They then requested Rasulullaah is for a year's grace to educate their neighbours and to give them a sound understanding of Deen. Rasulullaah es granted them the grace. Rasulullaah then recited the verse:

﴿ لَعِنَ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوْا مِنْ بَنِي إِسْرَآتِيلَ عَلَى لِسَانِ ذَاؤَدَ وَعِيْسَى ابْنِ مَرْيَمَ * ذَٰلِكَ بِمَا عَصَوْا وَكَانُوا يَعْتَدُونَ ۞ كَانُوْ الاَ يَتَنَاهَوْنَ عَنْ مُّنْكَرٍ فَعَلُوهُ * لَيِنْسَ مَا كَانُوا يَفْعَلُونَ ۞ (سورة ماندة: آيت ٧٩،٧٠)

Those of the Bani israaleel who committed kufr were cursed on the tongues of Dawood  and isa  the son of Maryam. That was because they were disobedient and they overstepped the limits (of their religion). (Among the reasons for which they were cursed was that) They would never prevent each other from the evil that they used to carry out. Evil Indeed was that which they did (not preventing each other from sinful acts). (Surah Maa'idah, verses 78-79)(1)

Allaah will Grant Whoever Strives to Gain Knowledge and Imaan

The Words of Hadhrat Mu'aadh (to a Man who Was Weeping by his Bedside before his Death

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salamah narrates that a man came to (the bedside of) Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal (and started to weep, "What makes you weep?" Hadhrat Mu'aadh (and saked. The man replied, "By Allaah! I am neither crying because of the ties of kinship we have nor because of the material gains I used to get from you. What makes me weep is the fear that the knowledge I used to glean from you will soon come to an end." Hadhrat Mu'aadh (and consoled him saying, "Do not cry because whoever strives to acquire knowledge and Imaan, Allaah will grant them to him just as He granted Hadhrat Ibraheem (and during times when there was no knowledge and Imaan." (2) Hadhrat Haarith bin Umayrah reports that when Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal was about to pass away, the people around him started to cry. "What makes you people cry?" he asked. They replied, "We are crying because of the knowledge that will stop coming to us when you pass away." Hadhrat Mu'aadh Said, "Verily knowledge and Imaan shall remain as they are until the Day of Qiyaamah. Whoever searches for them shall find them in the Qur'aan and the Sunnah. While you ought to judge every piece of information by the standards of the Qur'aan, never judge the Qur'aan by the standards of any piece of information. Seek knowledge from Umar (Sings), Uthmaan (Sings) and Ali and if you do not meet them, seek knowledge from four men; from Uwaymir 劉德等 (Abu Dardaa 劉德等), Abdullaah bin Mas'ood 劉德等, Salmaan 多域等 and from Abdullaah bin Salaam 多域等, who had been a Jew before becoming a Muslim. In fact, I heard Rasulullaah 微麗 say that he (Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam ($1000) will be the tenth of ten people to enter Jannah (without reckoning). You must however ensure that you beware of the mistakes of an Aalim. You should accept the truth from whoever brings it to you and reject falsehood from whoever brings it to you, regardless of who the person may be." (3)

Hadhrat Yazeed bin Umayrah narrates, "During the illness that claimed his life, Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal Sisses would often fall unconscious and then regain consciousness. When he once fell unconscious for a long time, we feared that he had passed away. When he regained consciousness, I was standing in front of him crying. 'What makes you cry?' he asked. I replied by saying, 'By Allaah! It is not because of the worldly benefits I received from you that I am weeping and also not because of our kinship. What makes me weep is the departure of the knowledge (of Deen) and knowledge of Islaamic law that I had been acquiring from you. His response was, 'Do not weep because knowledge and Imaan shall remain as they are and whoever seeks them shall surely find them. Seek them as Ibraheem was sought them. When he had not acquired them fully, he asked Allaah saying:

T am going to (a place where) my Rabb (has commanded me to go), (it is only Allaah) Who will soon guide me.' (Surah Saaffaat, verse 99)

After I die, seek knowledge from four persons. If you cannot find what you seek with any one of them, then ask the people for the best amongst them. The four men are Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (See), Abdullaah bin Salaam (See), Salmaan (See) and Uwaymir Abu Dardaa (See). You should also beware of the blunders of the wise and the verdict of a hypocrite.'

'How will I identify the blunder of a wise man?' I asked. He explained, 'It is misguided speech that Shaytaan casts on the tongue of a man which he utters without thinking. However, it sometimes also occurs that a hypocrite speaks what is true. You should therefore absorb sound knowledge from wherever it comes to you because there is light in the truth. Matters that are dubious should however be avoided."

Hadhrat Amr bin Maymoon narrates, "We were in Yemen when Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal (Came there and addressed us saying, 'O people of Yemen! Accept Islaam and live in peace. I am the envoy of Rasulullaah (Came to you.' Since then, I took a liking to him and never parted from him until he passed away. When he was leaving the world and I started to weep, he asked, "What makes you cry?" I replied, 'I am weeping because of the knowledge that will be leaving with you.' He consoled me saying, 'Verily knowledge and Imaan shall remain until the Day of Qiyaamah..." The rest of the narration is similar to the ones above. (2)

They also do not know where it is appropriate to stop and scatter the verses about like unwanted dates." (1)

Hadhrat Jundub bin Abdullaah said, "We were youngsters almost coming of age when we learnt Imaan before the Qur'aan with Rasulullaah see. When we then learnt the Qur'aan, our Imaan grew even stronger." (2)

Another narration adds that the Sahabi said, "We used to learn the Qur'aan as well as how to practise on it. There shall however come people who will inherit the Qur'aan after us who will drink up the Qur'aan like water without it passing by their collarbones. In fact, it will not even pass here." He then placed his hand on his throat. (5)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood states said, "Whenever we learnt ten verses of the Qur'aan from Rasulullaah states, we would not proceed to learn the next ten verses until we had learnt whatever was in them." When someone asked a narrator named Hadhrat Shareek whether this referred to practising the ten verses first, he replied in the affirmative. (6)

The Words of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar to a man who Wrote to ask him about Knowledge

Hadhrat Abu Qayla reports that when a man wrote to ask Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar with about knowledge, the Sahabi wrote back saying, "You have written to me asking about knowledge. Knowledge is however something much greater than I can write back to you about. However, (the advice I will offer is) if it is possible for you to accomplish, you must make an effort to meet Allaah in a manner that you have held your tongue from dishonouring a Muslim, you do not have the burden of any Muslim's blood on your back, your belly is empty of the wealth of the Muslims and you have remained united with them." Rasulullaah we welcomed us and as he looked at us, he asked who our leader was. When we all indicated that he was Mundhir bin Aa'idh. Rasulullaah  said, 'Sit here, O Ashaj.' He sat on Rasulullaah  right hand side and, sitting up straight, Rasulullaah  welcomed him and treated him warmly. Rasulullaah then turned to the Ansaar saying, 'O assembly of Ansaar! Treat your brothers well because together with being Muslims like you, they also resemble you most closely in hair and complexion. (Like you) They have accepted Islaam willingly and have neither been forced to accept nor was there any need to attack and fight them for refusing to accept.' (The Ansaar then hosted the delegation). Some time later, Rasulullaah saked the delegation, 'How did you find the hospitality that your brothers gave you?' They replied, 'They are the best of brothers. They gave us soft beds to sleep in, superb food to eat and they spent their days and nights teaching us the Book of our Rabb and the Sunnah of our Nabi say.' This impressed Rasulullaah and made him very happy. Rasulullaah then turned to each one of us to assess what we had learnt and what we had been taught. While some of us had learnt the Tashahhud, some had learnt Surah Faatiha, others had learnt a Surah, others two Surahs and there were also others who had learnt one or two Sunnah practices." The narration still continues further in great detail. (1)

Thereafter, Rasulullaah gave instructions for every man of the delegation to be hosted by one of the Muslims, who would teach him the Qur'aan and salaah. Acquiring knowledge While Travelling Rasulullaah  Teaches the Injunctions of Deen While Travelling for the Farewell Haii

Hadhrat Jaabir (Simo) narrates that after living in Madinah for nine years, Rasulullaah (Simo) did not perform Hajj until the announcement was made one day that Rasulullaah (Simo) would be performing Hajj that year. A great multitude of people then arrived in Madinah with the intention of following Rasulullaah (Simo) and doing what he did. There were still five days left of Dhul Qa'dah when Rasulullaah (Simo) left (Madinah) with the Sahabah (Simo). It was when they reached Dhul Hulayfah that Hadhrat Muhammad bin Abu Bakr (Simo) was born to Hadhrat Asmaa bint Umays (Simo). She sent a message to ask Rasulullaah (Simo) what she was to do, Rasulullaah (Simo) replied saying, "Take a bath, use a cloth to hold the blood and enter into Ihraam."

Rasulullaah the then proceeded further and it was when his camel took him to Baydaa that he called out the Talbiya of Towheed saying:

The Sahabah also recited the Talbiya and although Rasulullaah heard some of them add phrases like " " ("Dhal Ma'aarij"), he did not rebuke them. Hadhrat Jaabir says, "The people in front of Rasulullaah reached as far as I could see. They were on foot and on animals. Behind Rasulullaah were just as many people, and there were also that many on his right and his left. Rasulullaah was in our midst and he was well aware of the meanings of the Qur'aanic verses that came to him. We therefore did exactly what we saw Rasulullaah doing." (2)

The aspects of Deen that Rasulullaah the Sahabah the Sahabah on this journey and in the sermons he delivered during the Hajj will be quoted in the chapter discussing Hajj. Some of it has however passed in the chapter discussing learning while out in Jihaad.

carrying my provisions when I came to Rasulullaah II rode with him until we reached a waypoint. Rasulullaah II dismounted and entered a leather tent, the door of which was guarded by more than thirty men armed with whips. As I drew closer, one of them started pushing me away. I said, 'If you push me, I shall push you and If you hit me, I shall hit you.' 'You must be the worst of all men!' he remarked. 'By Allaah!' I retorted, 'You are worse than me,' 'How is that?' he asked. I have come form the far ends of Yemen to listen to Rasulullaah II may report back to my people at home, yet you are pushing me away.' You are right,' the man submitted. I swear by Allaah that I am worse than you.'

Rasulullaah then rode on and it was from the Jamarah Aqabah in Mina that people started crowding around him in great numbers to ask him questions. However, because of their large numbers, none of them could get close to him. A man who had trimmed (and not shaven off) his hair came to Rasulullaah saying, 'O Rasulullaah see! Do pray that Allaah showers His mercy on me.' Rasulullaah said, 'May Allaah shower His mercy on those who shave off their hair.' Again the man pleaded saying, 'Do pray that Allaah showers His mercy on me.' Rasulullaah see repeated, 'May Allaah shower His mercy on those who shave off their hair.' When the man again appealed, 'Do pray that Allaah shower His mercy on those who shave off their hair.' After Rasulullaah shower His mercy on those who shave off their hair.' After Rasulullaah repeated this three times, the man went to have his hair shaved off. Thereafter, I only saw men with shaved heads." (1)

Allaama Ibn Jareer's Interpretation of the verse "It is not for the Mu'mineen to proceed (in Jihaad) all together"

Allaama Ibn Jareer has cited numerous interpretations of the verse:

It is not for the Mu'mineen to proceed (in Jihaad) all together (simultaneously when it is not Fardh for all to participate). Why does a small group from every large party not proceed to attain a deep understanding of Deen so that they may warn their people when they return to them so that they may beware (of sin)? (Surah Taubah, verse 122)

After citing them, he states: "With regard to the phrase "to attain a deep understanding of Deen so that they may warn their people when they return to them so that they may beware" the most correct interpretation is that of those scholars who say that the deep understanding of Deen is attained by the group proceeding out (in Jihaad) because they witness first-hand the help that Allaah renders to the people of the Deen and to the companions of Rasulullaah against the enemies and Kuffaar. It is by this first-hand observation that they can make unwary people understand the truth of Islaam and that it will prevail over all other religions. At the same time, when they return home, they may warn their own people against doing anything that will attract Allaah's punishment as they had witnessed it afflict the Mushrikeen whom they had conquered. In this way, their people will also beware (not to transgress Allaah's commands). The verse therefore tells us that when these people warn their people about what they have seen, their people would take heed and their Imaan in Allaah and His Rasool would increase out of fear that they should not be afflicted by the punishment that afflicted the people they have been informed about." He hugged me and I hugged him, after which I asked, 'A Hadith narrated by you has reached me concerning retribution. Abdullaah bin Unays 经减少 said, "I heard Rasulullaah 微笑 say, "On the Day of Qiyaamah Allaah shall resurrect people naked, uncircumcised and empty-handed.' When someone asked one of the narrators what was meant by empty-handed, he replied that people will have nothing of their worldly possessions with them. Then in a voice that those far off can hear just as well as those nearby. Allaah will make an announcement stating, 'I am the One Who pays back in full and I am the Master! It is not proper for any person destined for Jahannam to enter Jahannam while a person in Jannah owes him some right that I have not claimed for him. Similarly, it is not proper for any person destined for Jannah to enter Jannah while a person in Jahannam owes him some right that I have not claimed for him, even though it may be retribution for a single slap.' We asked, 'How will this retribution be done when people will be naked, uncircumcised and empty-handed?' Rasulullaah @ replied. 'It will be done with good and bad deeds (people will pay for their injustices by giving their good deeds to the wronged party and when their good deeds are exhausted, they will be burdened with the sins of the wronged party)."(1)

He said, 'Neither should you come down, nor shall I be coming up. I have heard that you narrate a particular Hadith from Rasulullaah about concealing the faults of a Mu'min. I have come to listen to it.' I said, 'I have heard Rasulullaah say say that the person who conceals a fault of a Mu'min is like one who has given life to a girl who has been buried alive.' I then followed him to his house, which I discovered was in a dilapidated state. I also discovered that he was very ascetic, had severed all ties with this world and was a man of habit. When I greeted him, he replied to my greeting and asked me where I came from. When I informed him that I was from Iraq, he remarked, They (Iraqis) are people who ask even more questions than I do.' This remark made me very angry and I immediately fell to my knees, raised my hands like this before my face and faced the Qibla saying, 'O Allaah! It is to You that I complain. We have spent our wealth, tired our bodies and rode our conveyances in search of knowledge. However, when we meet them, they are inhospitable and make remarks about us!' The conduct of Students are not shown as a real with the conduct of th Hadhrat Ali Said, "Amongst the rights of an Aalim is that you should not pose too many questions to him, you should not press him to give answers and should not pressurise him if he chooses to ignore something twist amongst his rights is that you should not hold his clothing (and compel him to teach) when he is tired, you should never point your finger at him, never hint at him with your eyes and never question his gatherings. You should also never wait for him to ship up and if he does, you should wait for him to correct himself and accept his excuse for the slip-up. Never tell him that someone else opposes his opinion, mever disclose his secrets never gossip to him about anyone and always maintain his honour in his presence and his absence. While you may greet people collectively, great him specially and sit in front of him-if he has any need, beat others in serving him and never tire him by sitting too long with him. He is like a date palm by which you ought to wait for some benefit to fall to you at any time. The Aalim occupies the status of a person who is fasting while fighting in Jihaad in the path of Allaah and when he passes away, a void is created in Islaam that can never be filled until the Day of Qiyaamah. For a Person to Forsake Attending a gathering of Knowledge so that a Group of People may Acquire Knowledge

The Incident of Hadhrat Uqba bin Aamir was and his Tribe when they Came to Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Uqba bin Aamir relates, "I arrived riding with twelve members of my tribe to see Rasulullaah When we had tied our camels, Mustahab companions said, "Who will tend to the camels so that the rest of us could go and receive enlightenment from Rasulullaah When we return, we will then convey to him what we heard from Rasulullaah When We resumed the responsibility for a few days until the thought occurred to me that I may be duping myself because my companions were hearing from Nabi When what I was not hearing and they were learning from him what I was not learning.

I therefore presented myself one day (leaving the others to tend to the camels). There I heard someone say that Nabi said, 'The person who performs a complete wudhu shall be free of sins as he was on the day his mother gave birth to him.' This impressed me tremendously. Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab then said, 'If you think that is impressive, you will be even more impressed if you had heard what was said before that.' 'Repeat if for me,' I pleaded, 'May I be sacrificed for you!' He said, 'Rasulullaah said that if a person dies without ascribing partners to Allaah, Allaah shall open for him all eight gates of Jannah so that he may enter from whichever gate he pleases.' Rasulullaah then came out to us and I sat in front of him. He however turned his face away from me several times. When he did it for the fourth time, I asked, 'O Nabi of Allaah had may my parents be sacrificed for you! Why do you turn your face away from me?' Rasulullaah then turned to me saying, 'Do you prefer one or twelve?' Understanding what he meant, I returned to my companions." (2)

'Then hurry,' they said, 'because we have already done all the questioning for you. There is nothing that we have not asked Rasulullaah so about.' I then went in and said, 'O Rasulullaah pray to Allaah to grant me a deep understanding of the Deen and to teach me.' What was it you said?' Rasulullaah saked. When I repeated my request, Rasulullaah remarked, 'You have asked me for something that none of your companions have asked. Go! You are now their Ameer and the Ameer of all of your trine's people who come to you." The Hadith still continues further. "That was one question (to which we have a reply)," Hadhrat Umar said, "(the second question is that) when speaking about something, a man sometimes remembers and sometimes forgets." Hadhrat Ali said responded by saying, "Rasulullaah said, Every heart has clouds passing over it just as clouds pass across the moon. While the moon is shining, a cloud passes across it, causing the light to vanish, but it again shines through once the cloud has passed. Similarly, when a man is busy speaking, one of the clouds passes across (his heart), causing him to forget. Then when it passes by, he is once again able to remember."

"That was two questions," Hadhrat Umar said, "Now what about a man who sees dreams, some of which are true and others false." Hadhrat Ali said, "I have a reply for that as well. I heard Rasulullaah said say, Whenever any male or female falls into a deep sleep, their soul rises up to the Arsh (Allaah's throne). Those that awaken after reaching the Arsh have true dreams and those that awaken before reaching the Arsh have false dreams." Hadhrat Umar semarked, "These were three answers that I had been in search of. I thank Allaah that I have found them before my death." (I)

Hadhrat Umar (Questions Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (Questions Hadhrat Differences Amongst the Ummah Hadhrat Ibraaheem Taymi narrates that Hadhrat Umar was alone one day when he started thinking to himself. He then sent for Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas will and asked him, "How will this Ummah have differences between them when their Book is one, their Nabi E is one and their Qibla is one?" "O Ameerul Mu'mineen!" Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (said, "When the Qur'aan was revealed to us, we recited it knowing exactly for what reason every verse was revealed. However, after us there shall come many nations who will recite the Our'aan without knowing why the various verses were revealed. Every nation will therefore have its own opinion about every verse. When this happens, they will naturally have differences between them and when differences crop up, they will start to fight each other." (In his grief over this) Hadhrat Umar 经联系 rebuked Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas 经联络 who then left. Hadhrat Umar (however realised the truth of what Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas wise said and again called for him. Hadhrat Umar Questions the Sahabah about a Particular verse and is Impressed by the Reply that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas gave Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (1986) narrates, "Hadhrat Umar (1986) once said, I recited a verse last night that kept me awake. (The verse is):

﴿ الْيَوَدُّ اَحَدُكُمْ اَنْ تَكُوْنَ لَهُ جَنَّهٌ مِّنْ نَّخِيْلِ وَ اَعْنَابٍ تَجْرِيْ مِنْ تَحْيَهَا الْأَنْهُولُ لَهُ فِيْهَا مِنْ كُلِّ الثَّمَرِكِ لَا وَاَصَابَهُ الْكِبَرُ وَلَهُ ذُرِيَّةٌ ضُعَفَّاءً صُ فَاصَابَهَا اِعْصَارٌ فِيْهِ نَارٌ فَاحْتَرَقَتُ حَنْلَكَ يُبَيِّنُ اللَّهُ لَكُمُ الْايْبِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَتَفَكَّرُونَ ۞ ﴾ (سورة بقوه: آبت ٢٦١)

Would any of you like to own a garden (an orchard) containing all types of fruit for himself, with palm trees, vines and rivers flowing beneath? (Later, however) He then suffers old age while he (still) has weak (young) children (who cannot assist him) and a severe wind carrying fire strikes (his orchard), burning it down (leaving him in desperate want when he most needs wealth to care for his children). In this manner does Allaah make His Aayaat clear for you so that you may ponder. (Surah Bagarah, yerse 266)

What does it refer to?' Hadhrat Umar wanted to know. When some people responded by saying, 'Allaah knows best', Hadhrat Umar said, 'I know well that Allaah knows best, but I have asked because if any of you know anything about it or have heard anything about it, he should inform me about what he has heard.' Everyone was silent. Hadhrat Umar site then noticed me whispering something and said, 'Dear son of my brother! Say your piece and do not undermine yourself.' 'It is actions that are being referred to,' I said. 'What makes you say that actions are being referred to?' I said, 'It was something that came to my heart which I stated.' Hadhrat Umar site then left me and started explaining it himself. He said, 'You are right, dear son of my brother. It is actions that are being referred to. A man is most in need of his orchard when he is old and when he has many dependents. He is also most in need of his actions on the Day of Oiyaamah, You are definitely right, dear son of my brother."(1)

Hadhrat Umar (Questions Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (Questions Some Difficulty he was Experiencing with Surah Nasr

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Sass, "Because Hadhrat Umar Sass used to allow me in with the veterans of Badr, Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf Sass objected saying, 'Why do you allow this youngster in with us when we have children his age?' Hadhrat Umar Sass replied, 'He is of a calibre that you will soon come to know.' Hadhrat Umar which therefore summoned them one day and called for me as well. I believe that he called them that day only to show me off to them. He said, 'What comments do you have about the (following) words of Allaah:

(O Rasulullaah (Will) When Allaah's help (to the Muslims) and victory come and you see people entering the Deen of Allaah in droves then glorify the praises of your Rabb (in gratitude for this great favour) and seek forgiveness from Him. Without doubt, He is the Greatest Acceptor of repentance. (Surah Nasr)

Some said, "Allaah is commanding us to praise him and seek His forgiveness when His help arrives and when he grants us victory." Others conceded that they were unable to comment and others remained silent. Hadhrat Umar then said to me, 'O son of Abbaas! Do you share that view? When I declared that I did not, he asked, 'Then what have you to say?' I replied, 'The Surah speaks of the demise of Rasulullaah that Allaah is informing him about. Allaah is saying to Rasulullaah 'Hen Allaah's help and victory, namely the Conquest of Makkah, come and you see people (entering the Deen of Allaah in droves), then this is an indication that your demise is imminent. At this stage, you should glorify the praises of your Rabb and seek forgiveness from Him. Without doubt, He is the Greatest Acceptor of repentance.' Hadhrat Umar then remarked, That is exactly what I understood."

Another narration quotes that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas said, "Because Hadhrat Umar saids used to consult with me together with the senior Sahabah saids of Rasulullaah said. Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf saids objected saying, "Why do you consult him with us ..." The rest of the narration is like the one above. (2)

Hadhrat Umar then asked Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas about Hadhrat All bin Abi Taalib saying, "I know that if that companion of yours assumes the post of Khilaafah, he will be abstinent. However, I fear that he should not be carried away by conceit." "What are you saying, O Ameerul Mu'mineen?" Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas says exclaimed, "You are well aware of (the virtues of) our companion. By Allaah! He has never changed or spoiled (after the demise of Rasulullaah ab) and has never offended Rasulullaah as long as he stayed with Rasulullaah "B". "Hadhrat Umar while Faatima was still his wife (did this not upset Rasulullaah "P"." Similarly, our companion was not determined to offend Rasulullaah . The idea was merely a thought that no person is capable of driving out of the mind. In addition to this, people with a deep understanding and profound knowledge of Allaah's Deen are also prone to err sometimes. However, they retract and repent as soon as they are alerted." Another narration adds that Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah said, "We (the poor men of Suffa) had neither plantations nor trade in the marketplaces to distract us from being with Rasulullaah said. All I did was to seek a word from Rasulullaah to teach me or a morsel to feed me (I therefore heard a lot that others did not hear)." To this, Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar saids remarked, "O Abu Hurayrah saids! You stayed more with Rasulullaah said than we did and therefore know more Ahadeeth than us." (2)

Hadhrat Umar Reproaches Sabeegh for Questioning the Mutashaabih Verses of the Qur'aan

A freed slave of Hadhral Abdullaah bin Umar (Mutashaabih) verses of the Sabeegh in the Muslim army was questioning certain (Mutashaabih) verses of the Qur'aan and continued doing so until he reached Egypt. From there, Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas (See Sent him to Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab (Charles). A messenger brought the letter to Hadhrat Umar (Page) and after he had read it, he asked, "Where is the man?" "He is still on the carriage," replied the messenger. Hadhrat Umar (Page) instructed, "Go see if he is still there because I will punish you very severely if he has escaped."

When Sabeegh came, Hadhrat Umar said to him, "What are your questions?" When he stated his case, Hadhrat Umar saked Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar said for a branch of a date palm. He then beat the man until his back was scarred. Hadhrat Umar said then left him until his wounds healed. Thereafter, he repeated the treatment and again left him to recover. When Hadhrat Umar said called him back for more of the same, Sabeegh pleaded with him saying, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! If you wish to kill me, do so in a nice manner and if you intend to cure me, then I swear by Allaah that I have already been cured."

Hadhrat Umar then permitted him to return to his land but sent a letter with him to Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari sizes stating that none of the Muslims should associate with him. When this became unbearable for him, Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari sizes wrote back to Hadhrat Umar stating that Sabeegh had truly reformed. It was only then that Hadhrat Umar spermitted the people to associate with him. (2)

Another narration from Hadhrat Sulaymaan bin Yasaar states that a man from the Banu Tameem called Sabeegh bin Isl once arrived in Madinah. He had many books and always questioned the Mutashaabih verses of the Qur'aan. When Hadhrat Umar which heard about this, he sent for Sabeegh while keeping some branches of the date palm ready for him. When he arrived, Hadhrat Umar wasked him who he was. "I am the servant of Allaah, Sabeegh," came the reply. "And I am the servant of Allaah, Umar!" Hadhrat Umar weep retorted. Hadhrat Umar with then motioned him (to come forward) and started beating him with the branches until his head was injured and blood started to drip down his face. Sabeegh then cried out, "Enough, O Ameerul Mu'mineen! By Allaah! That which was in my head has now disappeared." (1)

Another narration adds that Hadhrat Abu Uthmaan said, "Hadhrat Umar Sies then wrote to instruct us not to associate with Sabeegh. Therefore, if he ever arrived, we would all disperse, even if we were a hundred people." (2)

Yet another narration states that whereas Sabeegh was then despised amongst his people after he had once been their leader. (3)

The Incident Between Hadhrat Umar and Some People who Arrived from Egypt

Hadhrat Hasan narrates that when some people met Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar with in Egypt, they said, "We have come across some matters in the Qur'aan that we have been instructed to carry out when they cannot be carried out. We wish to meet the Ameerul Mu'mineen to ask him about this." Therefore, when Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar with a madinah, these people arrived with him. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar with them went to Hadhrat Umar saying, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! Some people met me in Egypt and said, "We have come across some matters in the Qur'aan that we have been instructed to carry out when they cannot be carried out.' They therefore wished to meet you in this regard."

Hadhrat Umar saked for them to be brought before him and when they were, he called the one closest to him. Hadhrat Umar saked him, "I ask you to tell me in the name of Allaah and by the right Islaam has upon you whether you have read the entire Qur'aan." When the man replied that he did, Hadhrat Umar saked, "Have you then gathered it all in your heart?" When he replied in the negative, Hadhrat Umar saked, "Have you then gathered it all in your sight?" When he again admitted that he did not, Hadhrat Umar saked, "Have you then memorised it all? Have you put it all into practice?" Hadhrat Umar saked, "Have you then questioned each one of them in a like manner and after he had finished with the last of them, he said, "Umar's mother should have rather lost him! Do you expect me to make every person steadfast on the Book of Allaah?! Your Rabb knows well that we slip up." He then recited the verse:

If you avoid the major sins you are forbidden from, We shall wipe out your evil actions (minor sins) and enter you into a place of honour (Jannah). {Surah Nisaa, veise 31}

Hadhrat Umar then asked them, "Do the people of Madinah know why

Dislike for Accepting Remuneration for Teaching the Qur'aan

Rasulullaah 's Advice to Hadhrat Ubaadah and Hadhrat Ubay in this Regard

Hadhrat Ubaadah bin Saamit says, "Because Rasulullaah was very occupied, he would hand over to one of us any person who migrated so that we may teach him the Qur'aan. Rasulullaah was once placed in my care a person who stayed in my house, ate meals with me and whom I taught the Qur'aan. When he returned home, he felt that he owed me something and therefore gave me a bow as a gift. I had never seen a bow made of better wood nor more flexible. I however went to Rasulullaah was and asked him his opinion. Rasulullaah was said, "It is a burning ember that you are hanging between your shoulders." (2)

Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b (See once taught a Surah to a man who gave him a garment or a shawl as a gift. When he informed Rasulullaah (See about this, Rasulullaah (See remarked, "If you wear it, you will be wearing a garment of fire." (3) Another narration states that when Hadhrat Ubay (See taught the Qur'aan to a man, he gave him a bow as a gift. (4)

Hadhrat Tufayl bin Amr says, "When Hadhrat Ubay taught me the Qur'aan, I gave him a bow as a gift. When he went to Rasulullaah the next morning with the bow hanging around his neck, Rasulullaah as asked, "Who gave you this bow, O Ubay?" Hadhrat Ubay says replied, "It was Tufayl bin Amr Dowsi to whom I had taught the Qur'aan." Rasulullaah as remarked, "You are hanging it around your neck when it is a spark from Jahannam?!" "O Rasulullaah said," Hadhrat Ubay said, "But we even eat from their food." Rasulullaah said, "There is no harm in eating the food that was prepared for others and which you at by being there. However, if the food is prepared specially for you and you eat from it, you will be eating from your share (of the Amenirah, because of which you will have less there)." (5)

Hadhrat Muthanna bin Waa'il says, "When I went to Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Busr one day, he passed his hand over my head and I held him by the forearm. Just then someone asked him about remuneration for a teacher and he replied, 'A man once came to Rasulullaah ..., carrying a bow over his shoulder. Rasulullaah ... was very impressed by the bow and remarked, 'What an excellent bow! Did you buy it?' 'No,' the man replied, 'Someone gave it to me as a gift because I had taught his child the Qur'aan.' To this, Rasulullaah ... said, 'Do you want Allaah to hang a bow of fire around your neck?' 'Not at all!' the man replied. 'Then return it,' Rasulullaah ... instructed." (2)

Hadhrat Umar Disapproves of Accepting Remuneration for Teaching the Qur'aan

Hadhrat Usayr bin Amr narrates that the news once reached Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab (Image) that Hadhrat Sa'd (Image) said, "I shall include those who teach the Qur'aan amongst the people who receive an allowance of two thousand." To this Hadhrat Umar (Image) remarked, "Oh dear! Oh dear! Are people being paid for (teaching) the Book of Allaah?!"

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Ibraaheem narrates that Hadhrat Umar wrote to one of his governors saying, "Give people an allowance for teaching the Qur'aan." The governor wrote back saying, "You have written to say that people should be given an allowance for teaching the Qur'aan, but then such people will start to teach the Qur'aan whose only inclination would be to be enlisted (and thereby receive a state allowance like the soldiers of the national army)." Hadhrat Umar then wrote back saying, "Rather give people an allowance by merit of them being family and companions of Rasulullaah Hadhrat Mujaahid narrates that Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab (addressed the people saying, "O men of knowledge and men of the Qur'aan! Do not accept remuneration for imparting your knowledge and for teaching the Qur'aan because then even adulterers will beat you to Jannah." (4)

(NOTE: Since there are also Ahadeeth permitting the acceptance of remuneration for teaching the Qur'aan, a person may do so if he has no other option. While it is best not to accept remuneration, if a person does accept remuneration, he should accept it as remuneration for his time and not for his teaching.)

Fear of Differences Arising once the Qur'aan Spread amongst Different People

The Fear that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas May had about this and the Incident with Hadhrat Umar

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Abarates, "I was sitting with Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab When aletter came to him from Kufa, informing him how much Qur'aan the people had learnt. 'Aliaahu Akbar!' Hadhrat Umar Report exclaimed (out of happiness). May Aliaah have mercy on him. 'They will soon start to have differences,' I remarked. 'What are you saying!' Hadhrat Umar Report exclaimed, 'How would you know that?' Because he got so angry, I left and went home. A while later, he sent for me, but I made an excuse. He however sent a message saying that I have no option but to come. When I got there, he said, "There was something that you had said (What was it?).' I seek Allaah's forgiveness,' I said, 'I shall never repeat what I said.' It was only when Hadhrat Umar Report of the to repeat my words that I said.' A letter came to you stating how much Qur'aan the people had learnt. To which I said that they will soon start to have differences.' 'How did you come to learn this?' he asked. I rep'ied, "I read the verse:

From mankind is he whose speech pleases you in this worldly life and (claiming to be a Muslim) he calls Allaah to be witness over that which is in his heart, yet he is the hardest of opponents (to all Muslims). When he turns away (from you) he exerts himself to cause corruption (trouble and mischief) on earth and (among other things) to destroy crops and stock (cattle and other animals). Allaah dislikes corruption. {Surah Bagarah, verses 204,205}

When this happens, men of the Qur'aan will be unable to contain themselves. I then read the verse:

(سورة بقرة: آيت ٢٠٦، ٢٠٠)

When he is told to fear Allaah (because of his behaviour), pride leads him to (commit more) sin. Jahannam will suffice for him (as punishment). It is a terrible resting place indeed. From mankind is he who would sell himself seeking Allaah's pleasure. Allaah is Most Compassionate (Kind) towards His bondsmen. (Surah Baqarah, verses 206,207)

To this, Hadhrat Umar (1) remarked, 'I swear by Allaah that you are right," (1)

Another Incident about the Fear Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas had in this Regard

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Ubayd bin Umayr reports that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Said, "I was with Hadhrat Umar Wees when he caught hold of my hand and said, 'I think that the Qur'aan has now spread amongst the masses.' I do not like that too much, O Ameerul Mu'mineen,' I remarked. Hadhrat Umar Sais pulled his hand away saying. 'And why not?' 'Because,' I started to explain, 'when they all start to learn the Qur'aan (without proper understanding), they will start to propound their own opinions. Once they do this, they will start to dispute and once the disputes start, they will start killing each other.'

Hadhrat Umar then sat aside and left me alone. Only Allaah knows the anxiety I endured during the rest of that day. It was only the following afternoon that his messenger came to inform me that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there was a side of the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there was a side of the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there, Hadhrat Umar that the Ameerul Mu'mineen was calling me. When I got there was called the Mu'mineen was calling me.

The Advice that the Sahabah (Company)

The Advice of Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab

Hadhrat Kinaanah Adawi narrates that Hadhrat Umar wrote to the commanders of his armies to send him a list of all the men who were Huffaadh of the Qur'aan so that he could dispatch them to the ends of the empire to teach the Qur'aan. Hadhrat (Abu Moosa) Ash'ari wrote back to Hadhrat Umar stating that the Huffaadh with him numbered just over three hundred. Hadhrat Umar was as follows:

"In the name of Allaah the Most Kind, the Most Merciful

From the servant of Allaah Umar to the servant of Allaah Qais and all the Huffaadh with him

Peace be upon you all

This Qur'aan is a great source of reward and honour for you and ssall be a treasure for you in the Aakhirah. You should therefore follow its dictates and never allow it to follow yours (by distorting its interpretation to suit your desires) because the person whose dictates the Qur'aan is forced to follow shall have it shoved on to his neck to throw him into Jahannam. As for the one who follows the Qur'aan, the Qur'aan shall lead him to Jannatul Firdous. So as far as you can.

let it be an intercessor for you and never let it be a complainant against you. The person for whom the Qur'aan intercedes shall enter Jannah and the one against whom the Qur'aan complains shall surely enter Jahannam. Always bear in mind that the Qur'aan is a fountainhead of guidance, a flower of knowledge and the final scripture from the Most Merciful. It is by this Qur'aan that Allaah opens blind eyes, deaf ears and locked hearts.

You must also bear in mind that when a man wakes up at night, brushes his teeth with a Miswaak, performs wudhu, says 'Allaahu Akbar' and then recites the Our'aan, an angel places his mouth on the person's mouth and says. 'Recite. recite. You are doing an excellent thing and it is most excellent for you.' If he performs wudhu without using the Miswaak, the angel protects him and does nothing else. Behold! Recitation of the Our'aan in salaah is a protected treasure and an ordained excellence. You should therefore do as much of it as you possibly can. Salaah is a celestial light, zakaah is a symbol, patience is an illumination, fasting is a shield and the Qur'aan is a proof either for you or against you. You should therefore honour the Our'aan and never cause it disgrace because Allaah will honour the one who honours the Qur'aan and will disgrace the one who brings it disgrace. You also ought to know that the person who recites the Our'aan, memorises it, practises on it and abides by its injunctions shall have his du'aas accepted by Allaah. If Allaah pleases, He may accept them in this world and if He wills, he may reserve them as a treasure for the Aakhirah. Remember that what remains with Allaah is better and more lasting for those who have Imaan and who rely on their Rabb."(1)

The Advice of Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari

Hadhrat Abu Kinaanah reports that when Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari sizes gathered together the Huffaadh (of the army he commanded), they numbered close to three hundred. Hadhrat Abu Moosa sizes lectured to them about the greatness of the Qur'aan saying, "Verily this Qur'aan shall be either a source of reward for you or a burden (in the Aakhirah). You should therefore follow the dictates of the Qur'aan and never force it to follows yours because the one who follows the Qur'aan shall be with it in the gardens of Jannah while the one who forces the Qur'aan to follow his desires shall have it shoved on his neck and it will fling him into Jahannam." (2)

Hadhrat Abul Aswad Daly reports that Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari woo once gathered all the Qurraa, emphasising that none but the Huffaadh should come to him. It was approximately three hundred men who came to him. He then addressed them saying, "You men are the Qurraa of the city and should therefore never allow the passage of time to harden your hearts as it happened to the Ahlul Kitaab. A Surah had been revealed that we thought resembled Surah Baraa'ah in length and in the stern subject matter it contained. A verse from it which I had memorised stated that if man had two valleys of gold he would seek to have a third and it would only be the sand (of his grave) that would be able to fill his belly. Thereafter, another Surah was revealed which we thought resembled the Musabbihaat because it begins with the words تُحَقِّ للهُ (Sabbaha Lillaah). The verse from it that I had memorised is:

O you who have Imaan! Why do you say that which you did not do? {Surah Saff, verse 2}

Testimony will therefore be taken for everything you do and you will be questioned about it on the Day of Qiyaamah." (1)

The Advice of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood word once addressed the people of Kufa. After greeting them with Salaam and instructing them to observe Tagwa, he said. "Never dispute about the Our'aan and never oppose each other concerning it because there are no discrepancies in the Qur'aan, it will never be (completely) forgotten and constant repetition of the Our'aan will never tire one. Do you not see that the restrictions, the Faraa'idh and Allaah's explicit commands in the Shari'ah of Islaam are one? It would be said that the Our'aan has discrepancies if a part of it commands an act which another part forbids. Every part of the Qur'aan rather complements the rest of it. I am convinced that such deep understanding and knowledge shall surface amongst you people that surpasses all other people. If a camel could take me to a person who has more knowledge of what has been revealed to Muhammad the than I have. I shall certainly go to him to increase the knowledge I have, I know well that while the entire Qur'aan would be recited to Rasulullaah & once every year, it was recited to Rasulullaah see twice during the year that he passed away (every Ramadhaan Hadhrat Jibra'eel would recite the Qur'aan to Rasulullaah and Rasulullaah We would recite to him). Whenever I recited Our'aan to Rasulullaah & he would approve of my recitation, therefore whoever recites Qur'aan in the manner that I recite, should not turn away and forsake it. In a like manner, whoever recites the Our'aan in another authentic manner should also not turn away and forsake it because whoever rejects any one of the various manners of recitation will reject them all." (2)

A student of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood with from Hamdaan narrates that before Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood with left for Madinah, he gathered all his students together and said, "By Allaah! I am convinced that such religiousness, deep understanding of Deen and knowledge of the Qur'aan shall surface amongst you people that surpasses that of all other Muslims..." The narration continues until it states that he said, "Verily there are no discrepancies in the Qur'aan, neither does the Qur'aan ever age or lose its dignity by continuous repetition." (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood when also said, "It is only befitting that a man of the Qur'aan be recognised by his nights (when he is engaged in Ibaadah) when others are asleep, by his days (spent fasting) when others are eating, by his sorrow (pondering about his plight in the Aakhirah) when others are rejoicing, by his weeping when others are laughing, by his silence when others are socialising and by his humility when others are behaving arrogantly. It is also befitting of a man of the Qur'aan to be weeping and sorrowful, wise and tolerant, knowledgeable and composed. It does not behove a man of the Qur'aan to be uncouth, negligent, boisterous, rowdy and short-tempered." Another narration states that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood was said, "Do your best to be a listener (rather than always speaking) and take careful note when you hear Allaah say, 'O you who have Imaan!' because it is only something good that you are being instructed to do or something evil that you are being prohibited from." In another narration, Hadhrat Saleem bin Aamir says, "When we would sit with Hadhrat Abu Ubaadah (2006) and he narrated to us many Ahadeeth of Rasulullaah (2006), he would say to us after he had completed, 'Have you understood? Now propagate as it has been propagated to you." (2).

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Haatib says, "I have not seen any of the Sahabah however, he was a man who was extremely reluctant to narrate Ahadeeth." (3) Hadhrat Uthmaan weed to say, "What prevents me from narrating Ahadeeth from Rasulullaah is is not the fact that I was not one of those Sahabah with the best memories. What prevents me is that I can testify that I heard Rasulullaah is say, 'Whoever attributes anything to me that I never stated should prepare for his abode in Jahannam." Another narration quotes Rasulullaah sy words as, "Whoever speaks lies about me should prepare for a house in Jahannam."

Hadhrat Ali sees said, "When narrating Ahadeeth to you, I prefer falling from the sky rather than stating something that Rasulullaah sees never said. However, when speaking to you about matters between us, then (precautions need not be so strict because) wars are won by strategy." (5)

The Difficulty Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood Experienced with Narrating Ahadeeth

Hadhrat Amr bin Maymoon reports that sometimes an entire year would pass by without Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Siess) narrating a single Hadith. When he narrated a Hadith one day, he started to shiver and perspiration beaded up on his forehead. He then said, "Rasulullaah (Siess) said something like that or stated similar words." (6)

Hadhrat Masrooq reports, "Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Sies) started to narrate a Hadith one day, but as soon as he said, 'Rasulullaah (Sies) said,' he started to shiver so much that even his clothing shook. He then added, 'Rasulullaah (Sies) said something to the effect or something similar," (7)

The Dependability of Hadhrat Imraan bin Husayn Sies Memory and Narration of Ahadeeth

Hadhrat Imraan bin Husayn said, "I have heard many Ahadeeth from Rasulullaah which I have memorised. All that prevents me from narrating them is that some of my companions may differ with me in the narration." (6) Hadhrat Mutarraf reports that Hadhrat Imraan bin Husayn said to him, "O Mutarraf! By Allaah! I am certain that if I chose to do so, I could narrate Ahadeeth from Rasulullaah for two days continuously without repeating a single Hadith. However, what makes me refuctant to do so and makes me disapprove of doing such a thing is that although I was there when many Sahabah where were there and I also heard what they heard, they confuse the sequence of the words when they narrate." Sometimes, Hadhrat Imraan bin Husayn would say, "If I were to narrate to you what Rasulullaah said, I am certain that I will be accurate." When he quoted the words of Rasulullaah hadhrat Imraan bin Husayn would do so with great certainty and say, "I heard Rasulullaah say..."(7)

Hadhrat Waathila bin Asqa William Narrates only the Intended Meaning of the Ahadeeth

Hadhrat Makhool relates, "Abul Azhar and I once went to Hadhrat Waathila bin-Asga was and said, 'O Abu Asga! Hadhrat Waathila & asked, 'Has any of you recited any part of the Our'aan last night?' 'Yes,' we replied, 'But since we are not Huffaadh, we tend to add a Waaw (s) or an Alif (n."

To this, Hadhrat Waathila woo remarked, 'And that is the Our'aan which you have still not mastered when it has been in your midst for such a long time When you feel that you are adding or omitting letters to it, what about the Ahadeeth that we had perhaps heard only once from Rasulullaah (28)? The Statements of Hadhrat Ali will in this regard

Hadhrat Ali Sissis said, "Study and you will be known for it. Practise on your knowledge and you will be amongst its worthy bearers because soon a time will come when nine-tenths of the truth will be rejected and the only person who will be saved will be one who remains anonymous and aloof from people. Such people are the beacons of guidance and the lanterns of knowledge. They are not hasty, do not promote immoral behaviour or immoral speech." (1)

Hadhrat Ali will once said, "O men of knowledge! Practise on your knowledge because only that person is an Aalim whose knowledge is followed by practise and whose practise conforms with his knowledge. There shall soon come people whose knowledge will not even transcend their collar-bones. Their private lives will contradict their public lives just as their actions will contradict their knowledge. They will sit in groups, boasting to each other and will get angry if anyone sitting in their group had to leave to sit with another group. The actions of such people will not even transcend their gatherings on its way to reach Allaah." (2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood Emphasises Combining Knowledge with Action

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (1986) said, "O people! Study, but whoever studies should practise what he learns." (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Ukaym says, "It was in this very Masjid that I heard Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood begin his speech with an oath as he said, 'Your Rabb shall be Alone with every one of you just as you see the fourteenth moon all by itself. Allaah will say, 'O son of Aadam! What deceived you about Me? O son of Aadam! How did you respond to the Ambiyaa? O son of Aadam! Did you practise on your knowledge?"

Hadhrat Adi bin Adi narrates that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood repeated the following words: "Destruction be to the person who does not acquire knowledge, Still, if Aliaah wills, Aliaah shall educate him. However, seven times destruction be to the person who has the knowledge but does not practise." (4) Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood said, "Everyone has fantastic words to say but only those will be successful whose deeds are consistent with their words. Then when I respond by saying, 'I am at Your service, O my Rabb!', Allaah shall ask, 'Did you practise on your knowledge?" (2)

Another narration quoted Hadhrat Abu Dardaa as saying, "What I fear most is that I should be asked on the Day of Qiyaamah, 'O Uwaymir! Did you acquire knowledge or remain ignorant?' If I reply that I had acquired knowledge, every verse containing a command and every verse containing an admonition shall claim their rights. The verses containing commands will ask, 'Did you carry out (what was commanded)?' and every verse containing an admonition will ask, 'Did you take heed (to the admonition)?' I seek Allaah's protection from knowledge that does not benefit, from desires that are not sated and from du'aas that are not answered." (3)

Following the Sunnah and the Ways of the Pious Predecessors and Rejecting Bid'ah

The Encouragement Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b (See Section 1988)

Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b Said, "Hold fast to the straight path and the Sunnah because Allaah shall never punish a person who is steadfast on the straight path and the Sunnah and whose tears then flow from his eyes out of fear for Allaah when he thinks of Allaah. When a person who is steadfast on the straight path and the Sunnah thinks of Allaah and his hairs stand on end out of fear for Allaah, is just like a tree with dry leaves. Just as its leaves fall off when a strong wind blows, all his sins fall off him in the same manner. Moderation when doing something for the pleasure of Allaah and according to the Sunnah is better than exerting oneself in something that is not for the pleasure of Allaah and against the Sunnah. You should therefore check well that your deeds conform with the pattern of the Ambiyaa and their Sunnah, regardless of whether the deeds be an exerted effort or something done in moderation." (2)

The Encouragement Hadhrat Umar (1996) and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (1996) Gave in this Regard

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Musayyib narrates that when Hadhrat Umar (Sa'eed back in Madinah, he addressed the people saying, "O people! When lecturing the people every Thursday, Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood would say, "There are only two matters of importance. One is a way of life and the other is speech. While the best and truest of speech is that of Allaah, the best way of life is that of Muhammad Exp. Hadhrat Ali Forbids People from Following Living People Hadhrat Ali Williams said, "Be careful not to emulate people because while a man can be doing the deeds of the people of Jannah, he can change according to the knowledge of Allaah and then start doing the actions of the people of Jahannam. When he then dies, he becomes an inmate of Jahannam. (When the person informed him afterwards,) Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood then came to this group, wearing his high hat, and sat with them. When he heard what they were saying, he, being the stern man that he was, stood up and said, "I am Abdullaah bin Mas'ood. By Allaah, besides Whom there is none worthy of worship! Verily you people have certainly perpetrated a terrible wrong by carrying out this act of Bid'ah! Have you then superseded the companions of Muhammad in knowledge?"

A person named Ma'dad said, "By Allaah! We never intended to perpetrate a wrong with this new act, nor have we superseded the companions of Muhammad in knowledge." Amr bin Utba said, "O Abu Abdur Rahmaan! We seek forgiveness from Allaah."

Thereupon Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood told them, "It is compulsory for you to follow the path (of Rasulullaah and the Sahabah (Sahabah (Sahabah)) and to strictly adhere to it. By Allaah! If you will do so, you will have advanced far ahead and If you start swerving to the left and right, you will stray far off." (1)

Another narration states: "The news reached Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood that a group of people were sitting in the Masjid between Maghrib and Isha..." The rest of the narration is like the one above. The only difference is in the following words:

"Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Sies) said to them, "You people have certainly perpetrated a terrible wrong by carrying out this act of Bid'ah, otherwise we the companions of Muhammad (Sies) must have strayed." Amr bin Utba bin Farqad said, "O Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Sies) We seek forgiveness from Allaah and we repent to Him." Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Sies) then ordered them to disperse. (2)

Abstaining from Opinions that do not Conform to the Qur'aan and Ahadeeth Statements of Hadhrat Umar (in this Regard

Hadhrat Ibn Shihaab reports that Hadhrat Umar was standing on the pulpit and addressed the people saying, "O people! Accurate opinions came only from Rasulullaah we because Allaah used to guide him. What comes from us are but assumptions and pretences." (3) Another narration states that Hadhrat Umar was then added:

...and assumptions are absolutely useless against the truth." (Surah Najm, verse 28) (4)

Hadhrat Sadaqah bin Abu Abdullaah reports that Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab used to say, "Those who wish to exercise their personal opinions are the enemies of the Sunnah. They are too lazy to learn the Sunnah and it escapes their memory even when they do learn it. When questioned, they are too shy to admit that they do not know and therefore use their intellect to challenge the Sunnah. You should beware of such people." (5)

Hadhrat Umar (1995) also said, "The Sunnah is that which Allaah and His Rasool (1995) have determined. You should never make your mistaken opinion a Sunnah." (6) Another narration from Hadhrat Amr bin Dinaar states that when someone asked Hadhrat Umar (1995) whether Allaah guided him in the judgements he passed, he replied, "Do not say that! That was a speciality of Rasulullaah (1995)."

You should also not judge one thing by another because your feet will then slip after being firm. In addition to this, whenever any of you are asked about something that he does not know, he should say, 'Allaah knows best,' because this constitutes a third of knowledge." (1)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Sies) once said, "Every year is followed by a year that is worse. While no year is essentially worse than another, no nation is essentially worse than another. However, what will happen is that when your Ulema and righteous ones leav the world, such people will come about who will analyse matters using their personal opinions, because of which they will destroy and perforate Islaam." Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Said, "The basis (of Islaam and the Shari'ah) is Allaah's Book and the Sunnah of Rasulullaah (See Whoever says anything else based on his personal opinion, I cannot say whether he will find this amongst his good deeds or his sins." (3)

None knew the Ahadeeth of Rasulullaah & and the verdicts of Hadhrat Abu Bakr (1986), Hadhrat Umar (1986) and Hadhrat Uthmaan Stress better than he. None gave opinions as deeply thought of as he and there was also none who better knew poetry and Arabic as he did. In addition to all of this, his knowledge was also most profound in the commentary of the Qur'aan, in mathematics and in the laws of inheritance. I have also not seen anyone else as knowledgeable about the past events as he was, nor anyone who gave an opinion more dependable than his when people are most in need of one. Sometimes he would sit all day discussing nothing besides Figh, while on other days, he would discuss nothing besides the commentary of the Our'aan. Then there were days when he sat and discussed only the battles of Rasulullaah while on other days, he discussed only poetry or only the history of the Arabs. When he reached the group, they made way for him and welcomed him.

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Willis however did not sit down and asked them to inform him of their lineage so that he may recognise who they were. When they did so, he addressed them saving, "Do you not know that Allaah has servants whom fear for Him has driven them to silence even though they are neither handicapped nor dumb? On the contrary, they are people who are Ulema, orators and people of high status. They are well acquainted with the way Allaah deals with sinners but whenever they think of the greatness of Allaah, they lose their minds, their hearts are torn apart and their tongues stop functioning. When they recover from this state, they hasten to perform good deeds that will purify them. While they regard themselves as people who neglect their duties to Allaah, they are really the intelligent ones with the most strength (to do good). Although they regard themselves as wrong-doers and sinners, they are really righteous and innocent. What distinguishes them is they never regard anything as being too much to do for Allaah, they are never satisfied to do only a little for Him and they are never too proud of the deeds they do for Him. Wherever you meet them, they will be filled with concern, in awe of Allaah and ever fearing (that they should not displease) Him." However, they have handed it over to men of this world only to receive a portion of the world and have therefore fallen in the eyes of these people. I have heard Rasulullaah say 'Whoever narrows all his worries to the one worry for the Aakhirah, Allaah will take care of all his other worries. On the other hand, whoever has been confounded by the worries of this world, Allaah cares not in which valley he destroys himself." (2)

Securing Protection from the Jinn The Words Rasulullaah we used on the night the Jinn connived Against him

Hadhrat Abu Tayyaah narrates that he once asked Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Khambash Taymi had he who was an old man by then - "Did you meet Rasulullaah "" When the Sahabi " confirmed that he did, Hadhrat Abu Tayyaah asked, "What did Rasulullaah do the night the Jinn connived against him?" Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan " explained, "That night many Jinn came down from their mountains and valleys to (attack) Rasulullaah ". Amongst them was a particular Shaytaan who carried a flame in his hand with the intention of burning the blessed face of Rasulullaah ". However, Hadhrat Jibra'eel " came down to Rasulullaah " saying, 'O Muhammad " Say something!" What shall I say?" Rasulullaah " saked. Hadhrat Jibra'eel " then told Rasulullaah " to recite the following words:

"اَعُوُدُ بِكُلِمَاتِ اللّٰهِ التَّامَّةِ مِنْ شَرِّمًا خَلَقَ وَذَراً وَبَرَاً وَمِنْ شَرِّمًا يَتُولُ مِنَ السَّمَاءِ وَمِنْ شَرِّمًا يَعُرُمُ فِيْهَا وَمِنْ شَرِقْتَنِ اللَّيْلِ وَالنَّهَارِ وَمِنْ شَرِّ كُلِّ طَارِقِ الْإَطَارِقَا يَظُرُقُ بِحَيْنِيَّا رَحْمَانُ"

In the complete and perfect attributes of Allaah do I ask protection from the evil of everything He has created and dispersed and from the evil of everything descending from the sky and going up into it. I also seek protection from the evil of the trials of the day and night and from every occurrence except those that bring good. O The Most Merciful (it is to You that I plead)

Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b reports that he was once with Rasulullaah when a Bedouin came and said, "O Nabi of Allaah it I have a brother who is suffering." "What is it that ails him?" Rasulullaah asked. When the man explained that his brother was affected by the Jinn, Rasulullaah is seated them to bring his brother to him. What Should be Recited when Falling Asleep or when Getting Scared at Night

The Du'aa Rasulullaah A Taught Hadhrat Khaalid bin Waleed To Recite to Dispel what he saw in his Dreams

Hadhrat Abu Umaamah (Fig.) narrates that Hadhrat Khaalid bin Waleed (Fig.) once told Rasulullaah (Fig.) about the frightening dreams that he saw, which prevented him from performing salaah at night. "O Khaalid bin Waleed (Fig.) Rasulullaah (Fig.) said, "Should I not teach you some words that if you say thrice, Allaah will dispel these dreams from you?" "May my parents be sacrificed for you, O Rasulullaah (Fig.) Hadhrat Khaalid (Fig.) exclaimed, "Do inform me because it was precisely for this reason that I told you about this." Rasulullaah (Fig.) then told him to recite the following du'aa:

"أَكُودُ بِكَلِمَاتِ اللَّهِ النَّامَّةِ مِنْ غَضَبِهِ وَعِقَابِهِ وَشَرِّعِبَادِهِ وَمِنْ هَمَزَاتِ الشَّيَاطِيْنِ وَأَنْ يخضرون"

"I seek protection in the complete and perfect attributes of Allaah from His wrath, His punishment and from the evil of His servants. I also seek His protection from the whispering of the Shayaateen and from them approaching me"

Hadhrat Aa'isha (Saisse relates further that it was not even a few nights later that Hadhrat Khaalid (Saisse came back to Rasulullaah (Saisse saying, "May my parents be sacrificed for you, O Rasulullaah (Saisse I swear by the Being Who has sent you with the truth that when I thrice completed the words you taught me, Allaah dispelled the condition I was suffering from. I now do not even fear entering a lion's den at night." (1)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Amr the above du'aa should be recited whenever a dream scares a person. He therefore used to teach the du'aa to those children of his who were of an understanding age. As for those who had not yet reached the age of understanding, he would write the du'aa down on a piece of paper and tie it around their necks. (2)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Khaalid bin Waleed (1996) often woke up frightened from his steep. When he mentioned this to Rasulullaah (1996), Rasulullaah (1996) advised him that as soon as he awoke, he should recite (Bismillaah), followed by the du'aa quoted above. (3)

Another narration states that when Hadhrat Waleed bin Waleed $355 told Rasulullaah $35 that he often felt fearful, Rasulullaah $35 advised him to recite the above du'aa when he retired to bed. (4)

Du'aas for Distress, Worries and Anxiety Rasulullaah Experiencing Difficulty

Hadhrat Ali siss says, "Rasulullaah sis instructed me to recite the following du'aa whenever I faced any difficulty:

"There is none worthy of worship but Allaah the Most Forbearing and Most Magnanimous. Glorified and Blessed is Allaah the Rabb of the Glorious throne. All praise belongs to Allaah the Rabb of the universe" (5)

The Du'aas Rasulullaah Recited when Faced with Difficulty and the Du'aa he Taught the Family of Abdul Muttalib

Hadhrat Anas (1996) reports that whenever Rasulullaah (1996) was faced with any difficulty, he used to recite:

"O The Ever Living and Controller, it is by Your mercy that I seek assistance"(1)

Hadhrat Asmaa bint Umays was narrates that whenever Rasulullaah was perturbed about something or when he was faced with some difficulty, he would recite:

"Allaah! Allaah is my Rabb and I shall not ascribe any as partner to Him"(2)

In another narration, Hadhrat Asmaa (3) says that Rasulullaah (2) taught her to the above du'aa when in difficulty, (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas reports that they were inside a room when Rasulullaah held on to the door-frame and told them, "O family of Abdul Muttalib! When you experience any difficulties or hardships, say:

"Allaah! Allaah is our Rabb and we shall not ascribe any as partner to Him"(4)
Another narration quotes the same narration with the words:

"Allaah! Allaah has no partner"(5)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (1966) narrates that Rasulullaah (1966) used to recite the following du'aa during times of difficulty:

"There is none worthy of worship but Allaah the Most Honoured and The Most Forbearing. There is none worthy of worship but Allaah the Rabb of the Glorious throne. There is none worthy of worship but Allaah the Rabb of the heavens, the Rabb of the earth and the Rabb of

The Du'aas of Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (1966) and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (1966) to be Relieved of Difficulties

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa Sississis once mentioned that whether with sincerity or not, when a person recites the following du'aa seven times, Allaah will alleviate all his worries:

"حَسْبِيَ اللَّهُ لَا إِلهَ إِلَّا هُوَ عَلَيْهِ تَوَكَّلْتُ وَهُوَ رَبُّ الْعَرْشِ الْعَظِيْمِ"

"Allaah is enough for me (to alleviate all my worries). There is none worthy of worship but He. In Him do I pin my trust and He is the Rabb of the Glorious Throne" (3)

It is reported then whenever Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (Sie ecited the following du'aa, it was accepted, whether he recited it for any anxiety or worry or for fear of any ruler:

"أَشْنَلُكَ بِلَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا أَنْتَ رَبَّ السَّمْوِاتِ السَّبْعِ وَرَبَّ الْعَرْشِ الْعَظِيْمِ وَاسْأَلُكَ بِلَا إِلهَ إِلَّا أَنْتَ رَبَّ السَّمُواتِ السَّبْعِ وَرَبَّ الْعَرْشِ الْكَرِيْمِ وَٱسْنَلُكَ بِلَا إِلهَ إِلَّا أَنْتَ رَبَّ السَّمَواتِ السَّبْعِ وَالْأَرْضِيْنُ السَّبْعِ وَمَا فِيْهِنَّ إِنَّكَ عَلَى كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيْرٌ"

"I ask You on the strength of my belief that there is none worthy of worship but You, the Rabb of the seven heavens and Rabb of the Glorious Throne. I ask You on the strength of my belief that there is none worthy of worship but You, the Rabb of the seven heavens and Rabb of the Honoured Throne. I ask You on the strength of my belief that there is none worthy of worship but You, the Rabb of the seven heavens and seven earths and everything in them. Verily You have power over all things"

It is after saying this that a person should ask Allaah for what he needs. (4)

Hadhrat Abu Raafi narrates that when Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Ja'far (under duress) married his daughter to (the notorious governor) Hajjaaj bin Yusuf, he advised her to recite the following du'aa whenever Hajjaaj came to her:

"لَاّ الِلَّهُ اللَّهُ الْحَلِيْمُ الْكَرِيْمُ شُبْحَانَ اللَّهِ رَبِّ الْعُرْشِ الْعَظِيْمِ وَالْحَمْدُ لِلَّهِ رَبِّ الْعَالَمِيْنَ"

"There is none worthy of worship but Allaah The Most Forbearing and The Most Magnanimous. Pure is Allaah The Rabb of the Majestic Throne. All praise belongs to Allaah the Rabb of the universe"

He believed that it was this du'aa that Rasulullaah (2) always recited whenever he was worried about something. As a result (of her reciting this du'aa) Haijaaj was unable to get close to her. (2)

"اَللّٰهُ اَكْبُرُ اللّٰهُ اَكْبَرُ اللّٰهُ اَعَزُ مِنْ خَلْهِم جَمِيْعًا اللّٰهُ اَعَزُّمِمًّا اَخَافُ وَاَخْذَرُ اَعُوْدُ بِاللّٰهِ الَّذِي لَآ اِللّٰهَ اِللّٰهِ هُوَ الْمُمْسِكُ السَّمُواتِ السَّبْعِ اَنْ يَقَعْنَ عَلَى الْأَرْضِ اِلَّا بِإِذْنِهِ مِنْ شَرِّعَيْدِكَ فَلَانٍ وَجُنُوْدِم وَآثَبَاعِهِ وَاَشْيَاعِهِ مِنَ الْجِنِّ وَالْإِنْسِ اللّٰهُمَّ كُنُ لِّيْ جَارًا مِنْ شَرِّهِمْ جَلَّ نَنَاوُكَ وَعَزَّ جَارُكَ وَتَبَارَكَ اسْمُكَ وَلَاللّٰهَ غَيْرُكَ"

Chapter Sixteen

The Chapter Concerning The Lectures of the Sahabah

This chapter highlights how Nabi and the Sahabah addressed the people in Jumu'ah sermons, when in congregation, on the occasions of Hajj and Umrah and on various other occasions. It discusses how they motivated the people to carry out the commands of Allaah, even though these seemed to oppose experience and what was apparent. It further discusses how they made people abstain from this world and its temporary pleasures and yearn for the Aakhirah and its eternal delights. Those firmly stationed every category of the Ummah whether rich, poor or prominent on the consciousness that they should fulfill the commands coming to them from Allaah and Rasulullaah seen if it meant spending their very lives and all their wealth. The discussion makes it clear that they did not build people's conviction on the temporary and short-lived wealth and resources of this world.

The Lectures of Rasulullaah

The First Lecture that Rasulullaah Delivered

Hadhrat Abu Salamah bin Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf William narrates that when Rasulullaah ee stood up to deliver a sermon in Madinah for the first time, he began by duly praising Allaah. Thereafter, he said, "O people! Send (good deeds) ahead for yourselves (to the Aakhirah) By Allaah! You must know that each one of you shall definitely die, leaving his flock of goats without a shepherd. There will then neither be any interpreter or negotiator to come between him and his Rabb when his Rabb will ask him, 'Have my messengers not come to you and conveyed the message to you? Have I not granted you wealth and blessed you with favours? Now (with the guidance and means at your disposal) what (good deeds) have you sent ahead?' The man will then look to his right and left, but will see nothing. He will then look in front of him but will see nothing but Jahannam. Therefore, whoever can save himself from Jahannam even by (giving) a piece of a date (as Sadagah), should do so. Whoever cannot afford even this, should at least say a good word because every good deed is rewarded ten fold up to seven hundred fold. May Allaah's peace, mercy and blessings be upon Allaah's messenger."

Rasulullaah to Whom Rasulullaah to Whom belongs all praise. We seek Allaah's protection from the evil of our souls and from our evil actions. There is none to mislead the one whom Allaah guides and there is none to guide the one whom Allaah does not guide. I testify that there is none worthy of worship but the One Allaah Who has no partner. The best of all speech is the Book of Allaah and successful is the person whose heart Allaah has decorated with it, whom Allaah guides to Islaam after kufr and who chooses it rather than all other talks. Apart from it being the most beautiful speech, it is also the most effective. Love those who love Allaah and love Allaah with all your heart. Never grow weary of Allaah's Book and His Dhikr because your hearts will then harden. From what (deeds) Allaah has chosen and selected. He has named the (recitation of the) Our'aan as the best of all good deeds, the best of all acts of worship, the most relevant of all speech and of all that explains what is lawful and unlawful. You should therefore worship Allaah without ascribing any partners to Him. Fear Him as He ought to be feared and let everything righteous that you speak with your mouths be sincerely for Allaah. Love each other for the pleasure of Allaah and always remember that Allaah hates does not like that any pledge made with Him should be broken. May Allaah's peace, mercy and blessings be upon you all." (1)

Rasulullaah sermon

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Abdur Rahmaan Jumhi narrates that from the narrations he received, the sermon that Rasulullaah & delivered in the locality of the Banu Saalim bin Auf on the occasion of the first Jumu'ah salaah in Madinah was: "All praise belongs to Allaah! I praise Him, seek His assistance, seek His forgiveness and His guidance. I believe in Him, do not reject His Divinity and accept as an enemy all those who do reject His Divinity. I testify that there is none worthy of worship but the One and Only Allaah Who has no partner. I also testify that Muhammad E is His servant and Rasul, whom Allaah has sent with guidance, light and advice at a time when there was a cessation in the chain of Ambiyaa (prophets); a time when knowledge was little, people were astray. time was coming to an end, Qiyaamah was drawing near and the world was coming to an end. Whoever obeys Allaah and His Rasool We is rightly guided and whoever disobeys them has gone astray, has been negligent and strayed far off the right path. I advise you to adopt taqwa because the best advice a Muslim can give to another Muslim is to encourage him towards the Aakhirah and to instruct him to adopt tagwa. Take heed to the warnings that Allaah has given you about Himself because there is no better advice nor any better reminder. Whoever adopts tagwa with true fear for (displeasing) his Rabb, his tagwa will be his true helping hand in everything he seeks for the Aakhirah. Whoever sets right all private and public affairs between his Rabb and himself solely to please Allaah, shall always be fondly remembered in this world and shall have a vast treasure after death at a time when a person is most in need of the deeds he did in the past. Every person who did not do this shall wish that there was a very large distance between him and his actions. Allaah warns you of Himself and Allaah is Most Gentle towards His bondsmen. Allaah is always true to His word and He fulfilis His promises without going back on them, because He says:

What I say can never be changed and I am never unjust towards My servants' (Surah Qaal, verse 29)

Fear (disobeying) Allaah in your private and public matters of this world and the Aakhirah because whoever fears Allaah, Allaah shall wipe out their sins and grant them an immense reward. Whoever fears Allaah shall succeed most remarkably. Taqwa protects against Allaah's anger, it protects against Allaah's punishment, it protects against Allaah's wrath, it illuminates faces, it pleases your Rabb and it elevates stages. Take your share (of rewards) and never be negligent in (securing) Allaah's mercy. Allaah has taught you His Book and chalked out for you a pattern (of life) to ascertain which of you are sincere and who are not. Do good (to others) just as Allaah does good to you, declare your enmity with those who are Allaah's enemies and fight them for the pleasure of Allaah as you ought to do. It is Allaah Who has chosen you and called you Muslims. (Jihaad takes place) So that those who are destroyed are destroyed after seeing proof and those who survive live on after seeing a proof. There is no power or might without Allaah, so carry out Allaah's Dhikt in abundance and know well what is to happen after today. Whoever sets right the matters between himself and Allaah, Allaah shall see to all matters between him and other people because it is Allaah Who makes decisions for people and they cannot pass decisions against Him. While Allaah prevails over people, they cannot prevail over Him. Allaah is the Greatest and there is no power without Allaah the Most Honourable." (1)

The Lectures Rasulullaah Delivered on the Occasions of Battles

A Sahabi by the name of Hadhrat Hiraar reports that they were with Rasulullaah in a battle and it was when they were about to engage the enemy in combat that Rasulullaah feet delivered a lecture. After duly praising Allaah, Rasulullaah feet said, "You are enjoying (bounties in) green, yellow and red (and every other shade) and even have this in your camps. When you meet with the enemy, you should advance step by step because whenever a person launches an attack in the path of Allaah, two damsels from the wide-eyed damsels of Jannah hurry towards him. The Sermon Rasulullaah Delivered when he Stopped at Hijr en- route to Tabook

Hadhrat Jaabir Sales narrates that when on the expedition to Tabook, Rasulullaah stopped at Hijr (the place where the nation of Hadhrat Saalih were destroyed) and addressed the Sahabah sales saying, "O people! Do not ask your Nabi for miracles because here lies the nation of Saalih who asked their Nabi to raise a (pregnant) she-camel for them (from a mountain). He complied and she would arrive by that wide road to drink water. On the day she drank, she would consume all their water and the amount of milk they would get from her on that day would be as much as on the day when she did not drink (when the other animals had their turn). She would then return by the same wide road. They however hamstrung her, because of which Allaah gave them only three days (to repent). The promise of Allaah is never untrue and a terrible scream came, which destroyed all of them except for one of them who happened to be in the Haram. It was the Haram that saved him from Allaah's punishment."

"O Rasulullaah "He was Abu Righaal." (2)

Another Sermon Rasulullaah Delivered on the expedition to Tabook

Hadhrat Hasan bin Ali see reports that during the expedition to Tabook, Rasulullaah see mounted the pulpit and after praising Allaah, he said, "O people! I instruct you to do only that which Allaah instructs me and I forbid you only from that which Allaah forbids me. You should therefore pursue the most moderate manner of seeking your livelihood because I swear by the Being Who controls the life of Abul Qaasim (myself) that your sustenance searches for each one of you just as his death searches for him. Whenever finding sustenance becomes difficult for any of you, look for it in the obedience of Allaah search."

The Sermon Rasulullaah (Delivered when Makkah was Conquered

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Amr says, "When Makkah was conquered, Rasulullaah am announced that everyone should lay down their arms except for the people of the Banu Khuzaa'ah tribe, who were allowed to use their weapons against the people of the Banu Bakr tribe (because they were at risk from them). This permission remained until Rasulullaah am had performed the Asr salaah, after which he instructed them to also lay down their arms. The following day however, a man from the Banu Khuzaa'ah tribe met someone from the Banu Bakr tribe in Muzdalifah and killed him. When the news reached Rasulullaah [256], I saw him leaning against the Kabah as he stood up and addressed the people saying, 'Verily Allaah's greatest enemy is the person who kills in the Haram, who kills someone who was no threat to his life or who kills in revenge for something done during the Period of Ignorance.'

A man then stood up and claimed that a particular child was his. Rasulullaah 's' response to this was, 'One cannot randomly lay claim to a child in Islaam because the practices of the Period of Ignorance have all come to an end. A child belong to the biological father and the one who commits adultery shall have that which is most blunt.' 'What is that which is most blunt?' the Sahabah 's' asked. Rasulullaah 's' replied, 'Stones (the person will be stoned to death).' Rasulullaah 's' then proceeded to say, 'No salaah can be performed after the Fajr salaah until sunrise and no salaah after the Asr salaah until sunset. A woman can also not be married (at the same time) to the person married to either her paternal or maternal aunt."(1)

Another Sermon Rasulullaah : Delivered when Makkah was Conquered

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar reports that Rasulullaah was standing on the steps leading to the Kabah when he praised Allaah and said, "All praise belongs to Allaah Who has fulfilled His promise, assisted His servant and defeated the hordes by Himself. Take note that a person killed with whipping or beating with a stick falls in the category of manslaughter, for which the blood money is hundred camels, forty of which must be pregnant. You should also take note that every act of pride and murder during the Period of Ignorance now lie trampled beneath my two feet. All that I shall be restoring to those who had been doing it are the services of tending to the House of Allaah and of providing water to the people performing Haji." (2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar inarrates that Rasulullaah was riding his camel Qaswaa as he performed Tawaaf of the Kabah. He was using the opposite end of his stick to touch the corners of the Kabah and wherever he tried to make the camel sit inside the Masjidul Haraam, it would be where people already had their hands (already occupied). Rasulullaah their hands (already occupied). Rasulullaah therefore left with the camel to the channel where water drained and it was there that the camel was made to sit. Sitting on his camel, Rasulullaah then started to address the people. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "O people! Allaah has eliminated the things you took pride in during the Period of Ignorance and the pride you took in your forefathers. There are now only two types of people. One is the righteous person with Taqwa who is honoured in the sight of Allaah and the other is the sinful wretch who is insignificant in Allaah's sight. Allaah says:

The Sermons Rasulullaah Delivered for the Month of Ramadhaan

The Epic Sermon Rasulullaah Delivered upon the Arrival of Ramadhaan, as Narrated by Hadhrat Salmaan

Hadhrat Salmaan Freports that on the last day of Sha'baan, Rasulullaah addressed the Sahabah saying, "O people! A great and blessed month is dawning upon you. It is a month that includes a day that is better than a thousand months. Allaah has made fasting compulsory in this month and standing in (Taraaweeh) salaah an act of tremendous merit. Whoever carries out an act of virtue (Natl) during this month will receive the reward of carrying out a Fardh during any other month and whoever carries out a Fardh act during this month will receive the reward of carrying out seventy Fardh acts during any other month. It is a month of patience and the reward for patience is Jannah. It is also a month of sympathy and a month when the sustenance of a Mu'min is increased. Whoever provides something for a fasting person to terminate his fast shall receive the reward of the fasting person without his reward being diminished in the least."

"O Rasulullaah ""!" the Sahabah "" submitted, "Notallofus can afford something to give a fasting person to terminate his fast." Rasulullaah "" consoled them saying, "Allaah shall grant this reward to any person who gives a fasting person even a single date or a sip of water or milk to drink. It is a month that has mercy at the beginning, forgiveness in the middle and emancipation from Jahannam at the end. For the person who makes work light for his slaves during this month, Allaah will forgive him and free him from Jahannam. In this month, you should endeavour to do four things in abundance. Two of these will please your Rabb while you cannot do without the other two. The two that will please your Rabb (1) Jibn Abi Haalim and Abd bin Humayd, as quoted in the Talseer of the Katheer (Vol.4 Pg.218).

are to recite the Shahaadah 'Laa Ilaaha Illallaah' and to seek Allaah's forgiveness. As for the two without which you cannot do, it is to beg Allaah for Jannah and to seek protection from Jahannam. Whoever gives the fasting person something to drink to end the fast, Allaah shall give him such a drink from my pond after which he shall never be thirsty ever again." (1)

The Lecture Rasulullaah Gave Stating that the sins of Muslims are forgiven on the First Night of Ramadhaan

Hadhrat Anas reports that when Ramadhaan drew close, Rasulullaah addressed them briefly at the time of Maghrib. Rasulullaah Essaid, Ramadhaan is arriving, so welcome it. Take note that on the first night of Ramadhaan thereisnot as oul from the people of the Oibla who is not forgiven." (2)

The Lecture Rasulullaah Gave Stating that the Shayaateen are Chained and that Du'aas are Accepted During Ramadhaan

Hadhrat Ali sees reports that on the first night of Ramadhaan, Rasulullaah stood up to address the Sahabah sees. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "Allaah has seen to your enemy from the Jinn and promised to accept your du'aas. Allaah says:

﴿ ادْعُونْنَى ٱسْتَجِبْ لَكُمرُ عَ اسورة مؤمن آيت،٢)

Supplicate (make du'aa) to Me and I shall respond.' (Surah Mu'min, verse 60) Allaah has appointed seven angels to (guard) every rebellious Shaytaan and Shaytaan is therefore unable to escape until the end of Ramadhaan. Take note also that the doors of the heavens are wide open from the first night of Ramadhaan until the end and all du'aas in this month are accepted."

Hadhrat Ali saws says further, "When the first of the last ten nights of Ramadhaan arrived, Rasulullaah would tighten his loincloth, leave his wives, sit in I'tikaaf and spend all night in Ibaadah." When someone asked Hadhrat Ali would separate from his wives during that period. (3)

The Lecture Rasulullaah Gave Stating the Importance of the Jumu'ah Salaah

Hadhrat Jaabir Sums reports that once Rasulullaah Addressed them saying, "O people! Repent to Allaah before you die and hasten to do good deeds before you become too busy to do so. Join the ties between yourselves and your Rabb by engaging in abundant Dhikr and by giving Sadaqah in abundance. You will then be given sustenance, assistance and you will be compensated for your losses. Take note that Allaah has made the Jumu'ah salaah compulsory for you in this place, on this day, in this month and in this year until the Day of Qiyaamah. Whoever regards it as trivial and rejects it and therefore neglects it during my lifetime or after my death in the presence of a just or unjust Imaam, then may Allaah not set his affairs in order and may Allaah not bless him in anything. No salaah, zakaah, Hajj, fast or good deed of his will ever be accepted until he repents and Allaah will certainly forgive anyone who repents to Him. Take note that no woman may lead a man in salaah, no Bedouin may lead a Muhaajir and no sinner may lead a righteous person unless forced to do so by a tyrannical ruler whose sword to lash is feared." (1)

Hadhrat Jaabir bin Abdullaah sales narrates that it was on a Friday that Rasulullaah stood up and addressed them saying, "When a person lives a mile away from Madinah and does not attend the Jumu'ah salaah, Allaah will seal his heart (so that no good can ever enter)." On the next Friday, Rasulullaah said, "When a person lives two miles away from Madinah and does not attend the Jumu'ah salaah, Allaah will seal his heart." On the Friday after that, Rasulullaah said, "When a person lives three miles away from Madinah and does not attend the Jumu'ah salaah, Allaah will seal his heart." (2)

The Lectures Rasulullaah Delivered on the Occasion of Hajj

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas addressed the Sahabah saying, "Shaytaan has lost hope in being worshipped in your land but he is satisfied with having you obey him in other sins that you regard as trivial. Therefore, O people, you should always be on your guard. I have left with you two things with which you will never go astray as long as you hold fast to them. They are Allaah's Book and the Sunnah of your Nabi . Every Muslim is the brother of another Muslim and all Muslims are brothers. The wealth of a Muslim is not permissible for another unless he willingly gives it to him. Never oppress others and never become Kuffaar after my death by striking the necks of each other (by killing each other)."

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas addressed them. After praising Allaah as he deserves to be praised, Rasulullaah see said, "Allaah will set right the affairs of the person whose prime concern is the Aakhirah, Allaah will also grant him self-sufficiency and the world will humble itself before him. As for the person whose prime concern is this world, Allaah will scatter his affairs, place poverty in front of him and all he will get of this world will be what has been predestined

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar ima narrates that it was in Masjidul Khayf (in Mina) that Rasulullaah ima addressed them saying, "May Allaah always keep fresh the person who after hearing my words, narrates it to his brother. There are three things that the heart of a Muslim will never betray; sincerely carrying out good deeds for Allaah, wishing well for the Muslim leadership and remaining within the ranks of the Muslim majority because their du'aas will always be there for all of them." (2)

In a lengthy Hadith describing the method in which Rasulullaah Will performed Hajj, Hadhrat Jaabir was reports that after he had passed Muzdalifah to reach Arafah, Rasulullaah F found that a tent had already been pitched for him at Namirah. It was there that Rasulullaah then camped. When the sun had crossed the meridian. Rasulullaah We had a carriage placed on Oaswaa and then went to Bat Waadi where he addressed the people saying, "Verily your blood and your wealth are scared to all of you just as this day is sacred, as this month is sacred and as this city is sacred. Take note that everything that took place during the Period of Ignorance is now trampled beneath my two feet. All blood money due during the Period of Ignorance is also waived and the first that I wish to waive is that of the son of Rabee'ah bin Haarith whom the Hudhayl tribe killed while he was still a suckling infant with the Banu Sa'd tribe. All the interest due during the Period of Ignorance is also waived and the first that I wish to waive is that which was due to Abbaas bin Abdul Muttalib. Every bit of it has now been written off. Fear Allaah with regard to your women because it is by a licence from Allaah that you have taken them (in your marriage) and it is with His words that you have made cohabitation with them lawful for yourselves. They owe it to you not to allow anyone you disapprove of to enter your home. If they do this, you should punish them in a manner that does not injure them in any way. On the other hand, you owe it to them to provide food and attire for them within reason. I am leaving with you something with which you will never go astray if you hold fast to it - the Book of Allaah. You will also be questioned about me (on the Day of Qiyaamah). What response will you offer?"

The Sahabah replied, "We shall testify that you have conveyed the message, given excellent advise and fulfilled your responsibility." Pointing his index finger towards the sky and then lowering it towards the people, Rasulullaah thrice repeated, "O Allaah! You be Witness!" (3)

Indeed the number of months (in a year) according to Allaah is twelve months (as specified) in the Book of Allaah (the Lowhul Mahfoodh), (on) the day He created the heavens and the earth. Of these, four are sacred (Dhul Qa'dah, Dhul Hijjah, Muharram and Rajab – sacred because no lighting should take place during these months). This is the straight Deen, so do not oppress yourselves in these months (by committing sins). (Surah Taubah, verse 36)

Rasulullaah (25% continued, "Listen! Never become Kuffaar after my death by striking the necks of each other. Remember that Shaytaan has given up hope of being worshipped by people performing salaah, but he does his best to cause disputes between you. You should also fear Allaah with regard to your wives because they are like captives with you with no powers of authority. You owe many rights to them just as they owe rights to you. (The rights they owe you are) That they should not allow anyone else to sleep in your bed and they should not allow into your house anyone whom you disapprove of. If you fear that they are being rebellious, you should advise them, then (if they do not respond) you should separate your beds and (if this is also fruitless) then you may punish them without causing them any injury. The rights you owe them is that you provide their food and clothing within reason. It is by a licence from Allaah that you have taken them (in your marriage) and it is with His words that you have made cohabitation with them lawful for yourselves. Also bear in mind that the person who has something kept in trust with him should return it to the one who has trusted him with it."

Rasulullaah then spread out his hands and said, "Have I conveyed (the message)? Have I conveyed (the message)? Those present here should convey the message to those who are absent because it is a fact that many recipients of a message are more fortunate (to understand the message) than the one who has heard it."

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar بالمانية reports a narration similar to the one above but with an addition at the beginning. carriage saddled to his camel Qaswaa, mounted it and then stood waiting for the people at Aqaba. When a considerable number of Muslims had gathered, Rasulullaah duly praised Allaah and then said, "O people! All blood monies due during the Period of Ignorance have been waived..." The narration then continues as above, until Rasulullaah said, "...O people! Shaytaan has given up hope of being worshipped in this region until the end of time, but he is satisfied with you committing sins that you think nothing of. You should therefore guard your Deen against such seemingly trivial sins."

The narration also adds that Rasulullaah & said, "I am leaving with you something with which you will never go astray if you hold fast to it. It is the Book of Allaah, so practise on it." The narration ends with the words, "Those present here should convey the message to those who are absent because there shall be no Nabi after me and no Ummah after you." Rasulullaah then raised his hands saying, "O Allaah! You be Witness!" (1)

Hadhrat Jaabir bin Abdullaah see narrates that it was during the days of Tashreeq that Rasulullaah seed delivered his farewell sermon to the Sahabah saying, "O people! Verily your Rabb is One and your father is one. Take note that the Arab is not superior to the non-Arab just as the non-Arab is not superior to the Arab. Whites are not superior to blacks and blacks are not superior to whites unless it (the superiority) is by virtue of Taqwa. This is because the most honoured in the sight of Allaah is the one with the most Taqwa (regardless of his nationality or colour). Have I conveyed the message?" "You have indeed, O Rasulullaah see" the Sahabah see replied. Rasulullaah then added, "Those present here should then convey the message to those who are absent." (2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood was reports that Rasulullaah was standing on (the carriage of) a camel with cut ears in Arafaat when he addressed the people saying, "Do you know in which month you are? Do you know in which day you are? Do you know in which city you are? The Sahabah was replied, "We are in a sacred day, a sacred month and a sacred city." Rasulullaah was then said, "Now remember that your blood, your wealth and your honour are as sacred to you as the sacredness of this day in this month and in this city. Remember that I shall be going ahead of you to the pond and will boast about your numbers to the other nations. Please do not blacken my face (do not embarrass me by doing evil). Listen well! While I shall be rescuing many people (from Jahannam), many of them will be taken away from me. 'O my Rabb!' I will say, 'But they are my companions (members of my Ummah).' Allaah will reply by saying, 'You do not know what innovations they had introduced (to the Deen) after your demise." (3)

The Lectures Rasulullaah Delivered About Dajjaal, Musaylama, Ya'jooj and Ma'jooj and Sinkings

Rasulullaah & 's Lecture about Dajjaal as reported by Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar Says, "We were discussing during the Farewell Hajj whether it was really to be Rasulullaah se's farewell or not. It was during this Farewell Hajj that Rasulullaah se's delivered a sermon in which he deliberated at length about Maseeh Dajjaal. He also said, 'There was not a single Nabi who did not warn his Ummah about Dajjaal. Nooh se's and all the Ambiyaa after him warned about Dajjaal but there is still something about him that you do not know, but which you ought to know. It is that (Dajjaal is one-eyed whereas) your Rabb is not one-eyed." (1)

Rasulullaah se's Lecture about Dajjaal as reported by Hadhrat Safeenah

Hadhrat Safeenah Susaa narrates that Rasulullaah & delivered a sermon to them in which he said, "There has not been a single Nabi before me who has not warned his Ummah about Dajjaal. He has no left eye and a large growth from the corner of his right eye covers its iris. The word "عاد" Kaafir will be written between his eyes and with him will be two valleys. While one valley will appear to be Jannah, the other will appear to be Jahannam whereas in reality the Jannah will be Jahannam and the Jahannam will be Jahnah. He will also have two angels with him who will resemble two of the Ambiyaa. One of them will be on his right and the other on his left. This will be a great test for the people. Dajjaal will ask them, 'Am I not your Rabb who gives life and death?' 'You are lying,' one of them will say. However, no one will be able to hear this besides the other angel, who will confirm the words of the first angel saving, 'You are right.' This statement will however be heard by all the people, who will naturally assume that the angels are confirming the words of Dajjaal, This will also be a great test. He will then travel to Madinah, but will not be allowed entry there. 'This,' he will say, 'is the city of that man (Rasulullaah (1889).' From there, he will leave for Shaam where Allaah will destroy him at a place called Afeeq." (2)

Rasulullaah "s's Third Lecture about Dajjaal

Hadhrat Junaadah bin Abu Umayyah Azdi narrates that he went with a companion to one of the Sahabah was and asked, "Tell us a Hadith that you heard from Rasulullaah about Dajjaal." The Sahabi said, "Rasulullaah once delivered a sermon saying, 'I am warning you about Dajjaal! I am warning you about Dajjaal! I am warning you about Dajjaal! There is not a Nabi who did not warn his Ummah about Dajjaal and, O Ummah, he is certainly amongst you. He has curly hair, is brown in complexion and his left eye is wiped out. He will have with him a Jannah, a Jahannam a mountain of bread and a river of water. While he will be able to make it rain, he will be unable to make a tree grow and while he will have the power to kill one soul, he will not have the power over any others. He will stay on earth for forty days, during which he will reach every place of water. He will however be unable to approach four Masaajid; the Masjidul Haraam, the Masjid of Madinah, the Masjid of Toor and Masjidul Aqsa. You should never be in doubt about Dajjaal (thinking him to be Allaah) because your Rabb (2000).

Rasulullaah ses Lengthy Lecture about Dajjaal as Narrated by Hadhrat Abu Umaamah

Hadhrat Abu Umaamah Baahili 🚟 reports that Rasulullaah 🕮 once delivered a lengthy sermon, most of which concerned Dajjaal. Rasulullaah spoke about him until the end of the sermon. Amongst the things he mentioned was, "Verily Allaah has not sent a single Nabi who did not warn his Ummah about Dajjaal, Since I am the last Nabi and you are the last Ummah, there is not doubt that he will emerge amongst you. If he emerges while I am with you, I shall be the advocate of every Muslim against him. However, if he emerges after my demise, then every person will have to be his own advocate. Still, Allaah shall be my successor over every Muslim. He will emerge from the road between Iraq and Shaam and cause widespread anarchy to his right and to his left. You need to be steadfast, O servants of Aliaah because he will begin by claiming that he is a prophet and that no prophets will come after him. He will then advance his claim by saving. 'I am your Rabb.' However, you will not be seeing your Rabb before death. The word " العالم" Kaafir will be written between his eyes, which every Mu'min will be able to read. Whoever of you meets him should spit on his face and recite the opening verses of Surah Kahaf. He will even be given the ability to kill one person and then bring him back to life. He will however be unable to do more than this or given this power over anyone else. Another test he will present will be that he will have a Jannah and a Jahannam. The Jahannam will however be Jannat while the Jahannam will actually be the Jannah. Whoever is tested with his Jahannam should close his eyes and ask for Allaah's help. It will then become cool and comfortable for him just as the fire became cool and comfortable for Ibraheem . Another of his tests will be when he will pass by a tribe that will believe him and have faith in him. He will then make du'aa for them, as a result of which rain will fall the same day, vegetation will sprout the same day and on that very day, their animals will return in the evening in larger numbers than they had been and fatter. Their bellies would be bigger and their udders will be fuller. Thereafter, he will pass by another tribe that will reject him and refuse to believe him. He will in turn curse them, because of which (all their animals will die and) not a single animal will return to them. His days on earth will be forty, the first of which will be like a year, the next like a month, another like a week another like other days and the last of his days will be like a mirage when a man will be at the gate of a city in the morning and evening will arrive before he can even reach the other gate." "O Rasulullaah (##)" the Sahabah (Saked, "How will we perform salaah during those short days?" Rasulullaah Feplied, You will have to estimate and perform salaah according to your estimation based on longer days." (1)

Rasulullaah se's Lecture Stating how Dajjaal will be Prevented from Entering Makkah and Madinah

Hadhrat Jaabir (1998) narrates that Rasulullaah (1998) stood on the pulpit one day and said, "O people! I have not gathered you for some news coming from the heavens..." The narration then proceeds to discuss the incident of the spy (for Dajjaal). Rasulullaah (2) then said, "He is Maseeh (Dajjaal) for whom the earth will be folded in forty days (and he will travel everywhere) except for Taybah, Taybah is Madinah, which will have an angel at every entrance with a drawn sword to prevent his entry. The same will be the case for Makkah." (2)

The Sermon Rasulullaah delivered Concerning the Eclipse and Dajiaal

Hadhrat Tha'laba bin Abbaad Abdi from Basrah reports that he was once present for a lecture that Hadhrat Samurah bin Jundub (Single) delivered. Hadhrat Samurah Samurated a Hadith from Rasulullaah and also narrated the Hadith of the solar eclipse. He said that it was when Rasulullaah was sitting after the second Rakaah (of the salaah for an eclipse) that the eclipse ended. Rasululiaah 224 then made Salaam (to end the salaah), praised Allaah and testified to his being Allaah's servant and messenger. Thereafter, Rasulullaah ask said. "O people! In the name of Allaah do I ask you to tell me if I have been negligent in conveying any part of the messages that my Rabb come sent me with." Several Sahabah William the stood up and said, "We testify that you have certainly conveyed the messages of your Rabb 2000, that you have been a well-wisher for your Ummah and have fulfilled your responsibility."

Rasulullaah @ then continued. He said, "Some people think that the eclipse of the sun and the moon and the changing of the rising positions of the stars occur because of the death of a great man on earth. They are wrong, These occurrences are signs that Allaah shows His servants to test which of them are the ones who will be stirred by this to repent (from kufr and sin). By Allaah! For as long as I have been standing here performing salaah, I have seen everything that is going to happen to you in this world and in the Aakhirah, By Allaah! Qiyaamah will not arrive until thirty liars emerge, the last of them being the one-eyed Dajjaal whose left eye will appear to be wiped out, like the eye of Abu Tahya." Hadhrat (1) Haakim (Vol.4 Pg.536), reporting from reliable sources as confirmed by Dhahabi.

Abu Tahya (was an old man of the Ansaar who at that time was sitting between Rasulullaah (and the room of Hadhrat Aa'isha () ().

Rasulullaah continued, "When Dajjaal emerges, he will claim to be Allaah. Whoever believes him and follows him will receive no benefit from any good deed he has ever done previously. On the other hand, whoever refuses to believe him and rejects his claim will never be punished for any sin he had done previously. He will soon make his appearance in every land except for the Haram and Baytul Maqdas. He will barricade the Mu'mineen inside Baytul Maqdas, after which a catastrophic earthquake will take place. Thereafter, Allaah will destroy him. Eventually a time will arrive (as the Muslims and Kuffaar do battle) when even the foundations of walls and the roots of trees will call to the Muslims saying, 'Here is a Jew. Kill him!' or 'Here is a Kaafir. Come and kill him!' This will however not take place until you see occurrences that will strike you with so much terror that you will ask each other, 'Has your Nabi spoken anything about this?' It will also not take place until some mountains move from their places. Thereafter, everything shall perish (when Qiyaamah arrives)."
Hadhrat Tha'laba says, 'Alterwards, I again heard Hadhrat Samurah Samurah arrate

the same Hadith in another sermon without misplacing even a single word." (1) Another narration states that Rasulullaah & said, "Whoever holds fast to Allaah and says, 'Allaah is my Rabb Who is Ever Living and will never die', he will suffer no punishment. On the other hand, the one who tells Dajjaal 'You are my Rabb' will be punished." (2)

The Lecture Rasulullaah : Delivered Concerning Musaylama Kadhaab

Hadhrat Abu Bakrah says, "People had been saying a lot about Musaylama before Rasulullaah made a statement about him. Rasulullaah respectively stood up to deliver a lecture saying, "Regarding this man that you People are speaking so much about, he is one of the thirty great liars who will appear before Qiyaamah. There shall not be a single town that will not be swept up in the awe of Maseeh (Dajjaal)." (3) Another states that Rasulullaah added, "...except for the city of Madinah that will have two angels at each of its entrances who will be repelling this awe from the city." (4)

The Lecture Rasulullaah W Delivered about the Ya'jooj and Ma'jooj and the Sinking of the earth

Hadhrat Baqeera (2005) who was the wife of Hadhrat Qa'qaa (3005) says, "I was sitting in the rows of the women when I heard Rasulullaah (3005) deliver a lecture. Pointing with his left hand, Rasulullaah (3005) said, 'O peoplet When you hear of the earth sinking in that direction (the west), then Qiyaamah has arrived." (2)

Rasulullaah sis Lecture Condemning Backbiting

Hadhrat Baraa harrates that Rasulullaah once delivered a lecture (in such a high pitch) that even the young ladies sitting in seclusion in the inner rooms of their homes could hear him. Rasulullaah said, "O assembly of those who have accepted Imaan with their tongues without it entering their hearts! Never backbite about the Muslims and never search for their faults because Allaah will search for the faults of the person who searches for the faults of his brother. Remember that when Allaah searches for the faults of a person, he will be humiliated while sitting in the inner recesses of his home."

Another narration states that Rasulullaah (2006) added, "Never harm the Mu'mineen, and never search for their faults because Allaah will expose the faults of the person who searches for the faults of his brother." (4)

The Lecture Rasulullaah Delivered about Enjoining Good and Forbidding Evil

Hadhrat Aa'isha said, "Rasulullaah see came to my room one day and I could see from his face that something had happened. He proceeded to make wudhu and without speaking to anyone, he went to the Masjid. I pressed my ear to the wall to hear what he had to say. After sitting on the pulpit and praising Allaah, Rasulullaah see said, 'O people! Allaah says, 'Enjoin good and forbid evil before the time arrives when you pray to Me and I will not respond; you will ask from Me and I will not grant you and you will ask Me for assistance and I will not assist you." Rasulullaah see then descended from the pulpit without saying anything else." (5)

It was when this greed instructed them to sever family ties that they did it, when it instructed them to be miserly, they did it and when it instructed them to commit sin, they did that as well."

A person then stood up and asked, "O Rasulullaah "I Which act of Islaam is the best?" Rasulullaah replied, "That Musilms remain safe from your tongue and your hand." The same man or another then asked, "And which Hijrah (migration) is best?" Rasulullaah replied, "To migrate from (to forsake) that which your Rabb dislikes. There are two types of Hijrah; the Hijrah of the city-dweller and the Hijrah of the country-dweller. Hijrah of the country-dweller is that (while still living in the countryside,) he should respond (to the call for Jihaad) when called and obey when he is given a command. The Hijrah of the city-dweller is a greater test and of course more rewarding (because he has to forsake his hometown)." (1) Yet another narration states that Rasulullaah added, "Avoid misappropriating trusts because it is the worst of confidantes."

Rasulullaah sis Lecture Condemning Major Sins

Hadhrat Ayman bin Khuraym specific reports that Rasulullaah specific once delivered a lecture saying, "O people! False testimony has been equated to ascribing partners to Allaah." After repeating this thrice, Rasulullaah specific recited the verse:

Hadhrat Anas bin Maalik in arrates that when delivering a sermon one day, Rasulullaah see spoke about interest and emphasising its evil, he said, "A Dirham that a person receives through interest is more sinful in Allaah's sight than committing adultery thirty-six times as a Muslim. The worst of all interest is dishonouring a Muslim." (3)

Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari Said reports that in his lecture to the Sahabah one day, Rasulullaah said, "O people! Refrain from Shirk because it is more subtle than the crawling of an ant." "O Rasulullaah sei!" someone then asked, "How can we refrain from Shirk when it is more subtle than the crawling of an ant?" Rasulullaah sei replied, "Say, 'O Allaah! I seek Your protection from knowingly committing Shirk and we seek Your forgiveness from that which we do without knowing." (4)

Rasulullaah ses Lecture Concerning Gratitude

Hadhrat Nu'maan bin Basheer said, "Whoever is ungrateful for a little will be ungrateful for a lot and whoever does not express gratitude to people will not express gratitude to Allaah. Speaking about Allaah's bounties denote gratitude while not doing so is tantamount to ingratitude. Unity is a mercy while disunity is a punishment." Hadhrat Abu Umaamah Baahili said then remarked, "Stick to the larger group (who follow the ways of Rasulullaah said and the Sahabah when someone asked him what the larger group was, he replied, "Do you not recite the verse of Surah Noor that states:

If they turn away (from obedience), then the Rasool (Fig. is responsible only for what he has been entrusted with (passing on the message) and you people are responsible for what you have been entrusted with (for accepting the message). (Surah Noor, verse 54)(1) Hadhrat Abu Dharr (reports that he heard Rasulullaah (recite the following in his sermon:

"O family of Dawood! Express your thanks (to Me for the favours I have given you). (Unfortunately,) Few of My bondsmen are thankful." (Surah Saba, verse 13)

Rasulullaah then proceeded to say, "Whoever is given three things has been given what was given to Dawood (E); the ability to fear of Allaah in private and in public, the ability to be just when angry and when not and the ability to be spend moderately when poor and when wealthy." (2)

Rasulullaah 's Lecture Concerning the Goodness of Life

Hadhrat Ali see narrates that Rasulullaah see once said in a lecture, "There is no good in life except for the one who listens and remembers and for the Aanta who speaks the truth. O people! You are going through a period of truce. However, you are moving swiftly ahead. Do you not see night and day are making every new thing old, every distant thing near and bringing along everything that has been promised? You should therefore prepare to exert yourselves for the racecourse (plains of resurrection) that is still far off."

Hadhrat Miqdaad then asked, "O Nabi of Allaah W What is this period of truce?" Rasulullaah replied, "It is a period of test and separation. However, when matters become confusing to you like the phases of a dark night (when everything seems alike), then you should hold fast to the Qur'aan because it is an intercessor whose intercession is accepted and an advocate whose word is always taken. The Qur'aan will lead to Jannah whoever places it ahead of him and it will push into Jahannam whoever puts it behind his back. The Qur'aan is a guide to the best of ways, it is decisive without being inconsequential and has both an inner dimension as well as an exterior dimension. The inner dimension is the commands (of the Shari'ah) and the exterior is the conviction. Its depth is immense, its wonders are countless and Ulema can never have enough of it. It is Allaah's strong rope, it is the straight path and the unquestionable truth about which the Jinn could not help but exclaim:

'Indeed we have heard a most astounding Qur'aan that points towards righteousness, so we believed in it' (Surah Jinn, verses 1,2)

Whoever speaks by the Qur'aan is true, whoever acts on it will be rewarded, whoever passes judgement by it is just and whoever practises its teachings will be guided to the straight path. It contains lanterns of guidance, beacons of wisdom and it guides towards the proof (for all truths)." (1)

Rasulullaah se's Lecture Concerning Abstinence from the World

Hadhrat Husayn bin Ali Ali narrates that he once saw Rasulullaah Es stand up to deliver a lecture to the Sahabah (Casalullaah (Casalullaah) said, "O people! (By the way we lead our lives) It appears as if death has been ordained only for others and that it is only the duty of others to embrace the truth. It appears as if the deceased people we see off to their graves are merely going on a little journey from which they will soon return, yet we eat up their legacy as if we will live forever after them. We have forgotten every lesson and feel safe from every calamity. Glad tidings for the person whose own faults preoccupy him from searching for the faults of others and glad tidings for the person whose earnings are pure, whose private life is a righteous one, whose public life is good and who is steadfast on the path he treads. Glad tidings also for the person who humbles himself before Allaah even though he does not suffer any deficiencies within himself, who spends from what he earns without sinning, who associates with men of understanding and wisdom and who is compassionate towards downtrodden and poor people. Glad tidings for the one who spends (in Sadaqah) his excess wealth, holds back his excess talk and is comfortable with practising the Sunnah without ever resorting to Bid'ah." Rasulullaah Wis then dismounted. (2)

Yet another narration⁽¹⁾ adds that Rasulullaah (## said, "(Glad tidings for the person) Who associates with men of understanding, avoids people with doubts and who practice Bid'ah. His public life is a righteous one and people are safe from his evil."

Hadhrat Aa'isha were sitting around him when he said, "O people! Be shy (to do wrong) in front of Allaah as you ought to be shy." "O Rasulullaah "is replied, "Whoever amongst you is shy, should not pass a single night without his death before his eyes. He should protect his abdomen and whatever it contains (heart, stomach, liver, etc) and his head and whatever organs it is host to (eyes, ears, tongue, etc). He should also remember death and decomposition and forsake the pleasures of this world." (2)

Rasulullaah ('s Lecture Concerning Resurrection

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas reports that he heard Rasulullaah deliver the following lecture from the pulpit: "You will meet your Rabb barefooted, naked, uncircumcised and on foot." Another narration states that Rasulullaah stood up amongst the Sahabah and said, "O people! You will be barefooted, naked and uncircumcised when you are resurrected before Allaah." Rasulullaah

As We originated the first creation, We shall repeat it (making all appear as they had appeared when they were first created). This is a binding promise upon Us. We are undoubtedly the Ones Who can do (Who have the power to fulfil this promise). (Surah Ambiyaa, verse 104)

Rasulullaah the then continued. He said, "Verily the first of creation to be clothed will be Ibraheem the their. Thereafter, some men from my Ummah will be caught and taken to the left. 'O my Rabb!' I will plead, 'they are my companions.' Allaah will then say, 'You have no idea what innovations they had introduced after you.' I will then say what one of Allaah's pious servants (Isa (1884)) will say:

It will then be said to me, 'Verily they had turned on their heels and become Murtad as soon as you left them (which was what happened to many Arab tribes)." Another narration adds that Rasulullaah will then say, "Take them far away! Take them far away!"

Rasulullaah s Lecture Concerning Predestination

Hadhrat Ali was reports that Rasulullaah as once mounted the pulpit and after duly praising Allaah, he said, "Allaah has written a register with the names and lineages of all the people destined for Jannah. The register has already been totalled and no person will be added or deleted from it until the Day of Qiyaamah. Allaah has also written a register with the names and lineages of all the people destined for Jahannam. The register has already been totalled and no person will be added or deleted from it until the Day of Qiyaamah. Regardless of what the person destined for Januah does, his concluding actions will be those of the people of Jannah, Similarly, regardless of what the person destined for Jahannam does, his concluding actions will be those of the people of Jahannam. A fortunate person (one destined for Jannah) can sometimes be treading the path of the unfortunate ones (destined for Jahannam) so much so that it will be said, 'He seems to be one of them (those destined for Jahannam). Nay! It seems that he actually is one of them.' However, his good fortune then finds him and rescues him (placing him on the path to Jannah). An unfortunate person (one destined for Jahannam) can also sometimes be treading the path of the fortunate ones (destined for Jannah) so much so that it will be said, 'He seems to be one of them (those destined for Jannah). Nay! It seems that he actually is one of them." However, his ill fortune then removes him (from this path and places him on the path to Jahannam). Whoever has been registered as a fortunate person in the Lowhul Mahfoodh will not be removed from this world until he carries out actions that qualify him for good fortune, even though he does such an act a split second before his death. On the other hand, whoever has been registered as an unfortunate person in the Lowhul Mahfoodh will not be removed from this world until he carries out actions that qualify him for ill fortune, even though he does such an act a split second before his death. Actions are judged according to those done at the end." (2)

Rasulullaah ('s Lecture Concerning the Benefit of being Related to him

Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri (Sais) reports he heard Rasulullaah (Sais) saying from the pulpit, "What is the matter with some people who say that being related to me will be of no benefit on the Day of Qiyaamah? By Allaah! My relatives are attached to me in this world as well as in the Aakhirah. O people! I shall go to the pond (of Kowthan) ahead of you on the Day of Qiyaamah where some people will call for me and tell me their names and father's names. I will say to them, 'Although I know your lineage (to be part of my own), but you people had introduced innovations after I left the world and turned back on your heels (from the true Deen)." (1)

Rasulullaah s Lecture Concerning Leaders and Rulers

Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri Aba narrates that Rasulullaah Aba mentioned the following in one of his lectures: "Take note that I shail soon be called (to Allaah) and will have to respond. Such leaders will then assume authority over you who will do things that you are familiar with and well acquainted with. Obeying them will be true obedience. You will live with this status quo for some time until some other leaders take control after them. These leaders will do things that you will not be familiar with. Those who will lead them (in wrong) and will be their advisors (in doing wrong) will be destroyed and will destroy others as well. While you may associate with them physically but you must disassociate from their (evil) activities. You must also testify to the good of those who do good and to the evil of the wrong-doers."

Hadhrat Abu Humayd Saa'idi (1996) narrates that Rasulullaah (1996) once appointed someone as collector (to collect zakaah) and when he returned after completing his collection, he said, "O Rasulullaah (1996) This is for you and this is what has been given to me as a gift." Rasulullaah (1996) said to him, "Why do you rather not sit in your father's or mother's home and see whether or not you are given any gifts?"

That night after salaah, Rasulullaah stood up to deliver a lecture. After reciting the Shahaadah and duly praising Allaah, he said, "What is the matter with some collectors whom we appoint and who then return to say, 'This amount is from the collection and this amount is what has been gifted to me.' Why does he rather not sit in his father's or mother's home and see whether or not he is given any gifts? I swear by the Being Who controls my life that when any of you embezzles any wealth, he will arrive carrying it on his neck on the Day of Qiyaamah. If it was a came! (that he took), he will bring it bellowing, if it was a cow, he will bring it mooing and if it were a goat, he will bring it bleating. I have now conveyed the message."

Rasulullaah sessis Lecture about the Ansaar

Hadhrat Abu Qataadah reports that he heard Rasulullaah say the following about the Ansaar from the pulpit: "Listen well! While all other people are like my outer garments, the Ansaar are like my inner garments. If everyone walked down one valley and the Ansaar walked down another, I would follow the Ansaar down their valley. Had it not been for the virtue of Hijrah, I would have wanted to be one of them. Whoever assumes authority over the Ansaar should be good towards the righteous ones amongst them and overlook the sinful ones amongst them. Whoever upsets the Ansaar will have upset that which is between these two sides." Rasulullaah see then pointed towards himself. (2)

Hadhrat Ka'b bin Maalik who was one of the three men whose repentance was accepted (3), was informed by one of the Sahabah who that Rasulullaah once came out of his room with a bandage tied around his head. He then delivered a lecture saying, "O assembly of Muhaajireen! Whereas your numbers will continue to increase (as more people make Hijrah), the population of the Ansaar will not increase any more than they are today. The Ansaar are my personal trunk with whom I have taken shelter. You should therefore honour the honourable ones amongst them and overlook the sinful ones." (4)

Miscellaneous Lectures of Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Abu Bakr (Fave yourselves from Jahannam even if it be with a piece of a date (that you give in Sadaqah) because Sadaqah straightens crookedness, repels a bad death and benefits a hungry person just as much as it does a person with a full stomach." (5)

Hadhrat Aamir bin Rabee'ah reports from his father that he heard Rasulullaah say the following in his sermon, "For as long as a person continues sending salutations to me, the angels continue making du'aa for his forgiveness." (6)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Amr in arrates that Rasulullaah in the Last Day and should deal with people in a manner that he likes them to deal with him." (7)

Another narration states that when Rasulullaah heard something about some of the Sahabah he delivered a lecture saying, "Jannah and Jahannam have been shown to me and I have never seen such bliss and such terror to this day. If you people knew what I know, you would laugh less and cry more." There was not a day more weightier on the Sahabah than that day and they all covered their heads as they burst out weeping. (1)

Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri (reports that Rasulullaah (was delivering a lecture when he recited the verse:

Rasulullaah then said, "Those who deserve to be there (forever) shall neither die in Jahannam nor shall they live (a life worth living). As for those who do not deserve to be there (forever), Jahannam will burn them for awhile, after which intercessors will intercede on their behalf. They will then be grouped and taken to (bathe in) a river called Hayaat or Hayawaan where they will flourish just as grass flourishes in the silt that floodwater carries." (2)

Hadhrat Tha'laba (Fig. 7) reports that Rasulullaah (Fig. 7) once stood up to deliver a lecture in which he instructed the payment of Sadaqatul Fitr. He detailed that it should be a Saa of dates or a Saa of barley for every person, whether a minor, an adult, a free person or a slave. (5)

The Most Comprehensive of Rasulullaah

Rasulullaah Es's Comprehensive Lecture at Tabook

Hadhrat Ugba bin Aamir Juhani woo reports that when they left with

- (1) Bukhaari and Muslim, as quoted in Targheeb wat Tarheeb (Vol.5 Pg.226).
- (2) Ibn Abi Haatim, as quoted in the Talseer of Ibn Katheer (Vol.3 Pg.159).
- (3) Ibn Abi Dunya and Ibn Najjaar, as quoted in Kanzul Ummaal (Vol.2 Pg. 143).

Rasulullaah & for Tabook, they were a day away from their destination when Rasulullaah (%) (and the Sahabah (%)) fell asleep (one night) and did not get up until the sun had already risen the length of a spear (above the horizon). "O Bilaal!" Rasulullaah said, "Did I not tell you to check for us when dawn arrives (and then awaken us for Fair)?" Hadhrat Bilaal & submitted, "O Rasulullaah (1994)! The same sleep that whisked you away whisked me away as well." Rasulullaah EE moved a little distance away and then led the (Qadhaa) salaah. Thereafter, he duly praised Allaah before saying, "Indeed the most truthful speech is Allaah's Book and the most secure handhold is the Kalimah of Tagwa. The best of creeds is the creed of Ibraheem & the best of ways is the Sunnah of Muhammad Will the most honourable dialogue is the Dhikr of Allaah and the best narrative is this Our'aan. The best of matters are the most resolute ones, while the worst of them are the fabricated ones. The best guidance is the guidance of the Ambiyaa, the best death is that of the martyrs and the blindest of blindness is to go astray after receiving guidance. The best knowledge is that which is beneficial, the best directive is that which is followed and the worst blindness is the blindness of the heart.

The upper (giving) hand is better than the lower (receiving) hand and that wealth which is sufficient though little is better than that which is plenty, but which makes the owner negligent of Allaah. The worst time to ask to be excused is at the time of death and the worst regret will be on the Day of Qiyaamah. There are some people who perform their salaahs only after its time and there are others who make Dhikr while totally detached (from the consciousness of Allaah). The worst sin is the lying tongue, the best wealth is contentment of heart and the best of provisions is Taqwa. The fountainhead of wisdom is fear for Allaah and the best thing to have its roots in the heart is conviction. Being doubtful stems from Kufr, wailing (on the occasion of death) is an act from the Period of Ignorance, stealing from the booty is from the mounds of Jahannam and hoarded wealth shall be hot branding irons. Poetry is amongst the flutes of Iblees, wine is the root of all sin, women are the traps of Shaytaan and youth is a branch of insanity.

The worst of all forms of earning are earnings from interest and the worst of things to consume is the wealth of orphans. The fortunate person is he who takes a lesson from (what happens to) others and the unfortunate person is he who was unfortunate from the time he was in the belly of his mother. Each one of you shall be ending up in a place measuring four arm's lengths, a matter is evaluated by the way it ends and actions are judged by those that take place at the end of a person's life. The worst of narrations are those that are lies and everything that is pending is really close by. Verbally abusing a Mu'min is a grave sin, killing a Mu'min is tantamount to kufr, eating his flesh (backbiting about him) is to insolently disobey Allaah and his wealth is as sacred as his blood. The person who falsely swears in Allaah's name, Allaah will make him a liar. Allaah will forgive those who forgive, will overlook the faults of those who overlook the faults of others and will reward the one who swallows his anger. Allaah will compensate the person who exercises patience when afflicted with a calamity and for the person who seeks fame (for his good deeds), Allaah will announce it to the people (on the Day of Qiyaamah, making them aware of his selfish intentions). Allaah will multiply the rewards of those who persevere in fulfilling Allaah's commands and punish those who disobey them.

O Allaah forgive me and my Ummah. O Allaah forgive me and my Ummah. O Allaah forgive me and my Ummah. I seek Allaah's pardon for myself and for all of you." (1)

Another Comprehensive Lecture from Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Ayaadh bin Himaar Mujaashi'ee marrates that Rasulullaah sas once delivered a lecture saying, "From the knowledge I have today, my Rabb has instructed me to educate you about that which you have no knowledge. Allaah says, 'All the wealth I have given My servants is lawful and I have created all my servants as people with the inherent inclination to follow the true Deen without swerving. However, the Shayaateen have approached them, deviated them from their Deen, made unlawful for them what I have made lawful and instructed them to ascribe partners to Me when I have given no justification for it."

Rasulullaah continued, "(Before I was sent as a Rasul) Allaah looked at all the people on earth and became angry with the Arabs and non-Arabs alike (because they had all resorted to Shirk), except for a few remaining members of the Ahlul Kitaab (who had remained steadfast on their Deen without altering any part of it). Allaah said (to me), 'I am sending you to test you and to test (others) by you (to see whether they will accept your message). I shall also reveal a scripture to you that water will not be able to wash off and which you will be able to recite in your sleep and when awake.' Allaah then commanded me to set the Quraysh alight (by igniting the call to Islaam amongst them). 'O my Rabb!' I said, 'They will then trample my head and make it a piece of bread (to be consumed).' Allaah however said, 'I shall remove them (from Makkah) just as they removed you. Fight them and We shall fight by your side, spend on them and We will spend on you, dispatch an army against them and We will dispatch an army (of angels) five times larger. Use those who obey you to fight those who disobey you."

Rasulullaah BB continued to say, "The people of Jannah are of three categories; (1) the just ruler whom Allaah inspires to do good and who spends in Sadaqah, (2) the soft hearted person who is compassionate towards every relative and every Muslim and (3) the chaste and poor person with a family who still donates in Sadaqah. The people of Jahannam fall into five categories; (1) the weakling who has no intelligence and who follows blindly, (2) those who (in the pursuit of illicit activities) do not ever seek a family or wealth, (3) the traitor whose greed cannot be concealed and who will endeavour to betray no matter how slight the chance, (4) the person who cannot pass a single day or night without deceiving a person with regard to his family and wealth." When describing the fifth type of person, Rasulullaah the mentioned the traits of miserliness, lying, bad character and vulgarity. (1)

⁽I) Bayhaqi in his Dalae'il and ibn Asaakir in his Taareekh, Abu Nasr Sajzi has reported a similar narration from Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (1986) in his Kilaabui ibaanah, while ibn Abi Shaybah, Abu Nu'aym in his Kilya and Qudhaal in his Shihaab have all reported the narration as the words of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Masood (1986). Askari and Daylami have reported the narration from Hadhrat Uoba (1986), as quoted in Suyuti's Jaami'us Sagheer and Manaawi's commentary on it entitled Faydhul Qadeer (Vol.2 Pg.179). Haakim has reported a similar narration, as quoted in Zaadul Ma'aad (Vol.3 Pg.7).

A Comprehensive Lecture of Rasulullaah (as as Narrated by Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri

Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri stood up to deliver a lecture. There is nothing to occur until the Day of Qiyaamah that he did not inform us about. Whoever remembered what he said remembers it and whoever forgol it, forgot it. Amongst the things he mentioned was: 'This world is lush and sweet. Allaah has appointed you as His deputies in the world and is watching how you conduct yourselves. You should be wary of the world and of women because the first trial of the Bani Israa'eel (that they failed) involved women. Remember that the children of Aadam are of different categories. There are those who are born as Mu'mineen, live as Mu'mineen and die as Mu'mineen. Then there are those who are born Kuffaar, live as Kuffaar and die as Kuffaar. There are also those who are born as Mu'mineen, live as Mu'mineen but then die as Kuffaar. Another group are those who are born as Kuffaar, live as Kuffaar but then die as Mu'mineen.

Take note! Anger is a coal that ignites in the belly of a man. Do you not see the redness in the eyes of an angry person and the swelling of his veins? When any of you experiences this, he must take to the ground. He must take to the ground (sit or lie down). Remember that the best of people is he who is slow to anger and quick to please and the worst of people is he who is quick to anger and slow to please. As for those whose temper takes time to flare but also long to abate and those whose anger flares quickly and also abates quickly, these two are alike (because each has one good and one bad quality). Remember also that the best trader is he who is considerate in settling debts as well as in claiming them while the worst of traders is he who is inconsiderate when settling and when claiming debts. As for the one who is considerate when settling but inconsiderate when claiming and the one who is considerate when claiming but inconsiderate when settling, they are both on par (with an evil quality and a good quality each). Take note that every traitor will have a flag (denoting his treachery) on the Day of Qiyaamah which will be proportionate to the degree of his treachery. Remember, that the worst of treachery is when a ruler betrays his subjects. Listen well! Fear for the people must never stop a person from speaking the truth when he knows (1) Ahmad, as quoted in the Taiseer of the Katheer (Vol.2 Pg.35).

It because the best of Jihaad is speaking the truth in front of a tyrant.

Remember also that all that is left of this world in comparison to what has already passed is like what is left of this day compared to what has already passed of it." (1)

A Comprehensive Lecture of Rasulullaah as Narrated by Hadhrat Umar

Hadhrat Saa'ib bin Mahjaan was from Shaam and had met many Sahabah He reports that when Hadhrat Umar was arrived in Shaam, he (in his address to the people) praised Allaah, advised the people, reminded them (of their responsibilities), enjoined good and forbade evil. He then said, "Rasulullaah once delivered a lecture to us just as I am doing here before you. After instructing us to adopt Tagwa, to maintain family ties and to reconcile our differences, he said, 'You must remain united by listening (to your leaders) and obeying (them) because Allaah's help is with the united mainstream. Shaytaan is with the loner and stays far from a pair. A man must never be in seclusion with a (non-Mahram) woman because Shaytaan is then the third person. A sign of a Muslim with Imaan is that he is dismayed by his sins and pleased by his good deeds while the sign of a hypocrite is that he is not dismayed by his sins and not pleased by his good deeds. When he carries out a good deed, he does not hope for reward from Allaah and when he commits a sin, he does not fear Allaah's punishment for it. Be moderate in seeking your livelihood because Allaah has assumed responsibility for your sustenance. Every person will complete every action he is destined to carry out, so seek Allaah's assistance in your actions because He removes and retains whatever (event of destiny) He pleases and the 'Mother of all Books' (the Lowhul Mahfoodh) is with Him." Hadhrat Umar 些障害 then concluded his lecture by saving, "May Allaah shower His special mercy on our Nabi Muhammad (2) and on his family. May peace and Allaah's mercy be on him. Peace be to you all." (2)

Rasulullaah "s Final Sermon

Hadhrat Mu'aawiya bin Abu Sufyaan Freports that (during his final illness,) Rasulullaah instructed the Sahabah saying, "Pour over me seven water bags of waters drawn from several wells so that I may go to the people and advise them." Consequently, with a bandage tied to his head, Rasulullaah managed to leave his room and mounted the pulpit. After duly praising Allaah, Rasulullaah se said, "A servant from amongst Allaah's servants has been asked to choose between this world and what is with Allaah and he has chosen that which is with Allaah." None of the Sahabah see besides Hadhrat Abu Bakr Sussi understood this statement. He therefore burst out crying and Rasulullaah & consoled him saying, "Take it easy. The best of all my companions and the one who assisted me the most is the son of Abu Quhaafa (Hadhrat Abu Bakr (Hadhrat Abu except for the door of Abu Bakr because I see celestial light emerging from it."(1) Hadhrat Ayyoob bin Basheer was narrates that during his illness, Rasulullaah requested for water to be poured over him. The narration then proceeds like the one above, but adds that the first thing Rasulullaah we mentioned after praising Allaah was the martyrs of the Battle of Uhud. Rasulullaah was sought Allaah's forgiveness for them and made du'aa for them. Thereafter, he said, "O assembly of Muhaajireen! Whereas your numbers will continue to increase (as more people make Hijrah), the population of the Ansaar will not increase any more than they are today. The Ansaar are my personal trunk with whom I have taken shelter. You should therefore honour the honourable ones amongst them and overlook the sinful ones. O people! A servant from amongst Allaah's servants has been asked to choose between this world and what is with Allaah and he has chosen that which is with Allaah." Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas was narrates that during the illness with which he passed away, Rasulullaah see came out of his room with his head wrapped in an oily bandage. With a shawl draped over his shoulders, Rasulullaah see sat on the pulpit. The narration then recounts the sermon quoted above together with the advice Rasulullaah see gave about the Ansaar. The narration concludes to state that this was the final sermon that Rasulullaah see ever delivered. (4)

Hadhrat Ka'b bin Maalik who was one of the three men whose repentance was accepted(1) relates that Rasulullaah (2) once came out of his room and after duly praising Allah and seeking forgiveness on behalf of the martyrs of the Battle of Uhud, he said, "O assembly of Muhaajireen! Whereas your numbers will continue to increase (as more people make Hijrah), the population of the Ansaar will not increase any more than they are today. The Ansaar are my personal trunk with whom I have taken shelter. You should therefore honour the honourable ones amongst them and overlook the sinful ones." (3) Hadhrat Abu Salmah bin Abdur Rahmaan narrates that he heard from both Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah 空間隔 and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas 空間隔 that the last sermon they heard Rasulullaah Wie deliver was when he said, 'Verily the person who guards these five Fardh salaahs in congregation will be the first to pass over the Bridge of Siraat like a flash of lightning. Allaah shall also resurrect him amongst the first group of those who followed (the Deen). In addition to this, for every day and night that he guarded his salaahs, he will have the reward of a thousand martyrs killed in the path of Allaah." (4)

Hadhrat Abu Zaid Ansaari relates, "Rasulullaah is led us in the Fajr salaah and then delivered a lecture to us until Zuhr. He then dismounted the pulpit and led the Zuhr salaah. Thereafter, he delivered a lecture until Asr, after which he again dismounted to lead the Asr salaah. He then mounted the pulpit again and delivered a lecture until Maghrib. In these lectures, Rasulullaah is related to us everything that was still to happen. Those of us who remembered the most (of these lectures) are therefore the most knowledgeable." (5)

Rasulullaah ses Condition at the Time of delivering a lecture

Hadhrat Jaabir (1986) reports that when Rasulullaah (1986) delivered a lecture, his eyes would redden, his voice would get louder and (when necessary) his anger would be intense as if he were warning an army that the enemy was attacking them that morning or evening. He would then hold up his index and middle finger and say, "My coming and Qiyaamah are like these two (as close as they are)." Rasulullaah (1986) would then also add, "The best guidance is that of Muhammad (1986), the worst of matters are those that have been fabricated and every Bid'ah is a means of misguidance. The wealth a person leaves behind after his death shall be for his family and the debts and little children he leaves behind

His Lecture when he Assumed the Office of Khilaafah

Hadhrat Urwa reports that when Hadhrat Abu Bakr sasumed the office of Khilaafah, he delivered a lecture to the people. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "O people! I have been placed in charge of your affairs whereas I am not the best amongst you. The Qur'aan has already been revealed and Nabi has already chalked out his ways. He taught us that the best of intelligence is Taqwa and that the most foolish of all foolishness is to sin. The powerful amongst you are weak in my sight until I am able to reclaim the rights he owes (to the weak ones he oppressed) and the weakest is powerful in my sight until I can restore his right (taken by the powerful ones). O people! I am a follower and not one to fabricate new practices (in Deen). Do assist me when I do right and straighten me when I stray. This much I have to say and I seek Allaah's pardon for myself and for you." (2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Ukaym in arrates that when the Muslims pledged allegiance to Hadhrat Abu Bakr is he ascended the pulpit and, sitting a step beneath the step where Rasulullaah is usually sat, he praised Allaah and said, "O people! You should know that the best of intelligence..." The Hadith continues like the one above, with the following addition at the end: "Take stock of yourselves before your reckoning takes place (on the Day of Qiyaamah). Whenever a nation forsakes Jihaad in the path of Allaah, Allaah smites them with poverty and whenever immorality prevails in a nation, Allaah afflicts them all with a common calamity. Obey me as long as I obey Allaah and as soon as I disobey Allaah and His Rasool is, you need not obey me any more. This much I have to say and I seek Allaah's pardon for myself and for you." (3)

Hadhrat Hasan narrates a narration similar to the one above, but with the addition that Hadhrat Abu Bakr said, "The most foolish of all foolishness is sin. Take note that to me truthfulness is a great trust and lying is grave treachery." After Hadhrat Abu Bakr says, "By Allaah! He was the best of them and none would have contested the fact. However, he made the statement because a true Mu'min always humbles himself." This narration also states that Hadhrat Abu Bakr sadded, "I wish that one of you would have relieved me of this responsibility." To this, Hadhrat Hasan comments, "By Allaah! He truly meant this." Hadhrat Abu Bakr said further, "If you people wish that I fill the position for which Allaah used revelation to steer His Nabi ﷺ, then you should know that I do not enjoy that privilege. I am but an ordinary human being, so please do watch over me." (1)

Hadhrat Hasan also reports that Hadhrat Abu Bakr delivered a lecture saying, "By Allaah! I am not the best of you. I have always disliked this post and have always wished that one of you would relieve me of it. Do you think that I can practice the ways of Rasulullaah by precisely as he did with you? This I am unable to do because Rasulullaah was safeguarded from doing wrong by revelation and while he had an angel with him, I have a Shaytaan who keeps coming to me. You should therefore stay away from me when I am angry so that I harm neither your hide nor your hair. Remember to keep watch over me. When I remain steadfast (on Deen), then assist me but when I stray, then correct me." Hadhrat Hasan says, "By Allaah! This was a sermon the like of which he never delivered again." (2)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Abu Bakr (Sines) also added, "I am but a human being who does right and makes mistakes as well. When I do right, I want you to praise Allaah and when I err, I want you to correct me." (3)

Hadhrat Qais bin Abu Haazim reports that he was sitting with Rasulullaah Was's Khalifah Hadhrat Abu Bakr Was a month after Rasulullaah & passed away... The narration continues until he says that the people were gathered with the call "As Salaatu Jaami'ah", after which Hadhrat Abu Bakr wonted the pulpit, which was a little platform made for him to deliver lectures on. This was the first sermon that Hadhrat Abu Bakr stand delivered in Islaam (after becoming the Khalifah). After praising Allaah, he said, "O people! I had wished that someone else could relieve me of this post. If you people want to charge me with following the Sunnah of your Nabi (to the fullest), you should know that I do not (fully) have the ability to do so because Rasulullaah was protected from Shavtaan and revelation from the heavens used to come to him."(4) Already quoted earlier(5) was the following lecture in which Hadhrat Abu Bakr said, "O people! There are people who entered into Islaam willingly and those who entered unwillingly. However, they are now all in Allaah's protection and His neighbours. Therefore, if it is possible that Allaah does not find you guilty of wronging anyone in His protection, then make sure that you do so, I also have a Shaytaan with me so when you see me angry, stay away from me so that I may not harm even your hair or your skin. O people! Keep watch over the income of your slaves because flesh nourished with Haraam cannot enter Jannah. Hear this well! Inspect me with your eyes and assist me when I do good. However should I deviate, then do correct me. Obey me as long as I obey Allaah and disobey me if I disobey Allaah.

Hadhrat Aasim bin Adi narrates that it was a day after Rasulullaah (2) had passed away that Hadhrat Abu Bakr seems sent a caller to announce that the expedition of Hadhrat Usaamah was must proceed. The announcement was, "Behold! Not a single member of Usaamah's army should remain behind in Madinah without proceeding to the military rendezvous at Juruf," Hadhrat Abu Bakr with then stood up amongst the people to deliver a lecture. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "O people! I am a human just like you. I however do not know whether you would expect me to do what only Rasulullaah 經過 could do. Allaah had selected Muhammad 25 from all in the universe and safeguarded him against all disasters. I am only a follower and not one to start anything new. Therefore, if I remain steadfast (on Deen), you should follow me and if I stray, you must correct me. Rasulullaah was taken from this world without any member of the Ummah seeking redress for a lash given unjustly or anything even less than this. Remember that I have a Shaytaan that comes to me, so when he does, you should keep away from me so that I never harm your hide or hair. You pass through every morning and evening with a lifespan that is hidden from you. Therefore, if you can, you must spend every moment of this life doing good deeds. This you can of course not do without Allaah's help. You should compete with each other in doing good while your lifespan still allows you grace and before it brings all your deeds to an end one day. You must beware not to be like some people who had forgotten their deaths and did all their actions for others. Exert yourselves! Exert yourselves! Rush! Rush! Hasten to salvation! Hasten to salvation! (Do this) Because behind you is a speedy hunter, which is very quick. Fear death and take lesson from (the deaths of) your forefathers, children and brothers. Never envy the living for anything other than that for which you would envy the dead." (1)

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Abu Maryam says that he was informed that when Hadhrat Abu Bakr www became the Khalifah, he mounted the pulpit. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "By Allaah! Had it not been for your affairs being ruined with us in your midst, I would have preferred that this responsibility be placed around the neck of the person I detest the most so that he could have no peace. Remember that the most ill-fortuned people in this world and in the Aakhirah are the kings." When the people looked up and started at him, Hadhrat Abu Bakr was said, "Take it easy! You people are too hasty. A person never becomes king of a place before Allaah knows the kingdom well and the person spends half his life. Fear and worry then take charge of him and he becomes greedy for what the people have, while ignoring what he has with him. His life then becomes straightened even though he eats the best and wears the best. Eventually when his shadow dwindles and his life is taken, he reaches Allaah's court. Allaah will then take him to task most severely and is unlikely to forgive him. Remember that it is the poor ones who will be forgiven! Remember that it is the poor ones who will be (I) Tabari in his Taareekh (Vol.2 Pg.460) forgiven! Remember that it is the poor ones who will be forgiven!" (1)

Hadhrat Abu Bakr (See Secture Concerning Tagwa and Acting for the Aakhirah

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Ukaym reports that Rasulullaah so once delivered a lecture to them saying. "I emphatically advise you to adopt Taqwa, to praise Allaah as He deserves to be praised, to combine both hope and fear (of Allaah) and that you be persistent in begging from Allaah. Allaah has praised Zakariyya and his family when He says:

'Verily, they would hasten to perform good deeds and prayed to Us in anticipation (of Our mercy) and in fear (of Our punishment). They were truly humble before Us.' (Surah Ambiyaa, verse 90).

O servants of Allaah, you must know that Allaah has taken your souls as security against the rights you owe Him. He has also taken a pledge from you (to fulfil these rights) and has bought from you this temporary little (world) for what is eternal and much more. This Book of Allaah that you have is such that its wonders will never cease and its light will never be extinguished. You must therefore believe its words, heed its advices and glean sight from it for the day of complete darkness. You have been created only for worshipping Allaah. The honourable angel scribes (Kiraaman Kaatibeen) have been appointed over you (to record your actions) and they are aware of the actions you do. O servants of Allaah! You must also know that you spend every morning and evening within a fixed lifespan that you have no knowledge of. Therefore, if you are able to be doing deeds that please Allaah when your lifespan comes to an end, you must do so. You will however be unable to do this without Allaah's help. Compete in good deeds while your lifespans allow you grace and before they eventually terminate, causing you to return to the worst of your actions. There have been people who have sacrificed their lives for others and forgotten about themselves. I want to stop you from being like them. Rush! Rush! Hasten to salvation! Hasten to salvation! (Do this) Because behind you is a speedy hunter, which is very quick."(2)

Hadhrat Abu Bakr Signs's Lecture about Taqwa and about taking Lessons from the Past

Hadhrat Amr bin Dinaar reports that Hadhrat Abu Bakr (Similar) once said the following in one of his lectures: "My advice to you in your conditions of poverty and hunger is to fear Allaah, to praise Him as He deserves to be praised and to seek His pardon because He is most Forgiving." The rest of the narration is like the one above narrated by Hadhral Abdullaah bin Ukaym. The following addition has however been reported: "You ought to remember that by being sincere (in everything you do), you will be obeying your Rabb as well as safeguarding what (reward) is yours. You must pay what is due from you during the days that you have been given to make your advance payment (i.e. in this world) and ensure that you also send Nawaafil ahead of you (to the Aakhirah) because you will then collect all the advance payments you had made at a time when you will be in dire need for it.

⁽²⁾ Abo Nu'aym in his Hilya (Vol.1 Pg.35) Ibn Abi Shaybah, Hannaad, Haakim and Bayhaqi have reported similar narrations and Ibn Abi Dunya has also reported a part of it in his Qisarul Amal, as quoted in Kanzul Ummaal (Vol.8 Pg.206).

O servants of Allaah! You should also ponder about those who lived before you. Where were they yesterday and where are they today? Where are the kings who had erected monuments on earth and had cities built? People have forgotten about them and their feats have also been forgotten. They are non-entities today and because of their injustice, their dwellings now lie in ruins (after Allaah had destroyed them) while they lie in the darkness of the grave. Do you hear any of them or even a whimper from them? Where are all the friends and brothers that you knew? They have reached the actions they sent ahead and it is either good fortune or ill fortune that has become their lot. Allaah has no family ties with any creation because of which He would give them some good or avert any evil from them. This will happen purely due to obedience to Him and by carrying out His commands. There is no good in the good that is followed by entry into Jahannam and there is no difficulty in the difficulty that is followed by entry into Jannah. This much (havetosavand) seek Allaah's pardon for myself and for all of you. "(1) Hadhrat Nu'aym bin Namha narrates that a lecture of Hadhrat Abu Bakr 2006 included the following: "Do you not know that you spend mornings and evenings within the confines of your lifespans..." The narration then continues like the narration of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Ukaym, but with the addition: "There is no good in the speech that is not said with the intention of pleasing Allaah, there is no good in the wealth that is not spent in the path of Allaah, there is no good in the person whose foolishness dominates his forbearance and there is no good in the person who fears the condemnation of a critic when carrying out a command of Allaah." The Narration of Tabari Concerning Hadhrat Abu Bakr Session's Lecture about Taqwa and about taking Lessons from the Past Hadhrat Aasim bin Adi reports a lecture that Hadhrat Abu Bakr successful delivered. While the first part is like the one already narrated, this narration states that Hadhrat Abu Bakr successful stood up again and after praising Allaah yet again, he said, "Verily Allaah accepts only those actions done solely to please Him, so ensure that your intention for all your actions is solely for Him. You must know that every act that you do sincerely for Allaah represents an act of obedience, a sin that you have been saved from, an instalment that you have paid (towards the Aakhirah) and an advance payment that you send ahead from these transitory days to others that are eternal. It will therefore be there for the time when you will be most in need of it.

O servants of Allaah! Take lessons from those who have died from amongst you and think about those who had lived before you. Where were they yesterday and where are they today? Where are all the tyrants? Where are those who were famous in battle, in conquests and whenever wars raged? Time has humbled them, their bones have decayed and people have stopped talking about them. Remember that indecent women are for indecent men and indecent men are for indecent women. Where are the kings who had erected monuments on earth and had cities built? They are far away, have been forgotten about and are non-entities today. Listen well! While their passions have long been cut off and they have passed on, their sins will still remain theirs but their worldly possessions have gone to others. We have been left as their successors and we will be saved only if we take lesson from them. However, if we allow ourselves to be deceived, we will be just like them. Where are all the handsome and attractive people who were so enamoured by their youth? They have become dust and now regret their overindulgence. Where are those who erected cities, fortified them with high walls and built spectacular wonders? They had left it all behind for their successors. So there are their dwellings standing in ruins while they are in the darkness of their graves. Do you hear any of them or even a whimper from them? Where are all the children and brothers that you knew? Their prescribed terms caught up with them so they reached the actions they sent ahead (to the Aakhirah) and have settled there. They now live after death in either a place of ill fortune or a place of good fortune. Listen well! Allaah has no family ties with any creation because of which He would give them some good or avert any evil from them. This will happen purely due to obedience to Him and by carrying out His commands. Remember that you are servants who will be rewarded and whatever is with Allaah can be attained only by being obedient to Him. There is no good in the good that is followed by entry into Jahannam and there is no difficulty in the difficulty that is followed by entry into Jannah." (1)

A Comprehensive Lecture that Hadhrat Abu Bakr Bakr Delivered

Hadhrat Moosa bin Uqba reports that when he delivered a lecture, Hadhrat Abu Bakr See would say, "All praise belongs to Allaah the Rabb of the universe. I praise Him, seek his assistance and ask Him for honour after death because my death and yours have drawn very close. I testify that there is none worthy of worship but the One and Only Allaah and I testify that Muhammad (See is the servant and Rasul of Allaah. Allaah sent him with the truth, as a giver of glad (I) Tabari (Vol.2 Pg.460).

tidings, a warner and an illuminating lantern. Allaah sent him to warn the living and so that the proof may be established against the Kuffaar. Whoever obeys Allaah and His Rasool (2008) has been rightly guided and whoever disobeys them has strayed far off the path.

I strongly advise you to adopt Taqwa and to hold fast to Allaah's commands that He has ordained for you and to which He has directed you. The most comprehensive guidance of Islaam after the Kalimah of sincerity is to listen to and obey the people whom Allaah has appointed to take charge of your affairs (your leaders). The person who obeys the leader who enjoins good and forbids evil shall be successful and has fulfilled his responsibility. I must also warn you against following your desires. Successful is the person who is saved from his whims, from greed and from anger. You must also stay away from pride, for what pride can one have when one is created from sand and shall be returning to sand where worms shall consume his body? What pride can he have when he is alive today and shall be dead tomorrow? Act from day to day and from hour to hour, save yourselves from the curse of the oppressed one and count yourselves amongst the dead.

Persevere, because all actions are achieved through perseverance and be vigilant because vigilance is truly beneficial. Continue carrying out good deeds because such deeds are accepted, beware of the punishment that Allaah has warned you about and hasten to the mercy that Allaah has promised you. Make an effort to understand and Allaah will make you understand, make an effort to stay away (from wrong) and Allaah will save you from it. Allaah has explained to you what it was that destroyed those before you and what it was that caused others to be rescued. Allaah has also detailed what is Halaal and what is Haraam and which actions He likes and which ones He does not like. Remember that I shall never compromise on what ensures your and my welfare. It is Allaah from Whom we seek assistance because there is no power or might except with Allaah.

Listen well! Whenever you do something sincerely for Allaah, you are obeying Allaah, safeguarding your share (of rewards in the Aakhirah) and becoming the envy of others. The deeds you carry out apart from the Faraa'idh, you will be sending ahead of you (to the Aakhirah) as Nawaafil and there you will receive back in full every advance payment you made and given your reward at a time when you will be most in need of it.

O servants of Allaah! You must also think about your friends and brothers who have passed on. They have reached the actions they sent ahead and there that they shall abide. After their deaths, they have now settled either in a place of good fortune or one of ill fortune. Allaah has no partner and no family ties with any creation because of which He would give them some good or avert any evil from them. This will happen purely due to obedience to Him and by carrying out His commands. There is no good in the good that is followed by entry into Jahannam and there is no difficulty in the difficulty that is followed by entry into Jannah. This much I have to say and I seek Allaah's pardon for myself and for all of you. Send salutations to your Nabi (28). May peace be on him as well as Allaah's mercy and blessings." (1)

The lecture Hadhrat Abu Bakr delivered About the condition in the Aakhirah of the person who Was Ungrateful for the Bounties of Allaah

Hadhrat Yazeed bin Haaroon reports that Hadhrat Abu Bakr www once delivered a lecture saying, "(On the Day of Qiyaamah) A person will be brought forward upon whom Allaah had showered His bounties. Allaah had given him plenty of sustenance and a healthy body, yet he was ungrateful for these bounties (and did not thank Allaah by being obedient to Allaah). He will be made to stand before Allaah and asked, "What have you done for this day? What deeds have you sent ahead for yourself?" Finding that he had not carried out any good deed, he will weep so much that all his tears would be exhausted. He will then be taunted and humiliated so much for not obeying Allaah that he will start to cry tears of blood. Thereafter, he will again be taunted and humiliated so much that he will (start biting his nails and eventually) eat his hands up to the elbows. Then too, he will be further taunted and humiliated so much for not obeying Allaah that he will scream and cry so much that his eyeballs will (pop out and) fall to his cheeks. Each eye will then be three miles long and three miles wide. Yet again he will be taunted and humiliated so much that he will cry, 'O my Rabb! Send me to Jahannam and relieve me of standing here.' It is about this that Allaah says:

"Whoever opposes Allaah and His Rasool see shall have the fire of Jahannam (as his punishment), where he shall live forever? That is the extreme humiliation." (Surah Taubah, verse 63) (2)

Various lectures that Hadhrat Abu Bakr (William) delivered

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Ibraheem bin Haarith narrates that Hadhrat Abu Bakr sonce delivered a lecture to the people saying, "I swear by the Being Who controls my life that if you have Taqwa and do good deeds, it will not be long before the time arrives when you will eat bread and butter to your fill." Hadhrat Ibn Shihaab reports that during one of his sermons, Hadhrat Abu Bakr Siddeeq Society said, "Have shame before Allaah DESUC. I swear by Allaah that out of shame before my Rabb, since the day I pledged allegiance to Rasulullaah Society. I have always had a cloth covering my head whenever I go out to relieve myself." (1)

Hadhrat Abu Bakr (1986) once stood on the pulpit and started to weep, saving. "It was during the first year that Rasulullaah & stood on the pulpit and started to weep. He then said, 'Ask Allaah for forgiveness and well-being because well-being is the best thing that a person can be granted after conviction."(2) Hadhrat Aws with narrates that Hadhrat Abu Bakr with once delivered a sermon saying, "It was during the first year that Rasulullaah as stood where I am standing and said, 'Ask Allaah for forgiveness and well-being because well-being is the best thing that a person can be granted after conviction. You must also ensure that you adhere to speaking the truth because it is coupled with righteousness and the two will lead to Jannah. You must also ensure that you refrain from lying because it is coupled with sinfulness and the two will lead to Jahannam. Never foster jealousy between you, never have hatred for each other, never sever family ties and never turn your backs to each other. O servants of Allaah! You must rather be brothers as Allaah has commanded you. In the chapter discussing Jihaad, the lectures of Hadhrat Abu Bakr William have already passed in which he encourages the Muslims to fight the Murtaddeen, to fight in Jihaad and to march against the Romans. His lecture to the Muslims before they marched to Shaam has also been reported there. His lectures have also been quoted in the chapter discussing the importance that the Sahabah gave to unity. Here, his lecture warning against conflict has been quoted, as well as his lecture confirming the demise of Rasulullaah a and concerning holding fast to Deen. Also quoted is his lecture about Khilaafah being for the Quraysh, his lecture in which he excused himself from being the Khalifah, his lecture about refusing to pledge allegiance and his lecture about the qualities of a Khalifah. The chapter discussing enjoining good and forbidding evil also quotes his lecture that explains the meaning of the verse:

He who has strayed (from the truth) cannot harm you when (as long as) you are rightly guided (obeying Allaah's commands). (Surah Maa'idah, verse 105)

The Lectures of Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab

His lecture after Burying Hadhrat Abu Bakr (1986)

Hadhrat Humayd bin Hilaal reports from someone who was present for the burial of Hadhrat Abu Bakr that after Hadhrat Umar had finished with the burial, he dusted off the sand from his hands. Standing where he was, he then delivered a lecture saying, "Allaah is testing you with me and me with you (by making me your leader) and has kept me alive after my two companions (Rasulullaah and Hadhrat Abu Bakr (Basulullaah). By Allaah! It will never be that any of your matters are presented before me (to be settled) and is then done by anyone other than myself. It will also never happen that something happens in my absence and I am then negligent in settling it with integrity. When people behave well, I shall be good to them, but when they do evil, I shall punish them."

The man reporting the narration says, "By Allaah! This was exactly what Hadhrat Umar (2) did until the day he departed from this world." (2)

His Lecture the day he became the Khalifah

Hadhrat Sha'bi narrates that when Hadhrat Umar ($1500) became the Khalifah, he ascended the pulpit and said. "Allaah should never see me considering myself worthy of sitting where Abu Bakr Sizes sat." He then climbed a step lower and after duly praising Allaah, he said, "Recite the Qur'aan and you will be noted for it. Practise its teachings and you will be amongst its bearers. Weigh yourselves before you are weighed and beautify yourselves (with good deeds) for the great presentation on the day you will be presented before Allaah and nothing of yours will be hidden from Him. Remember that no one has such a right over you that compels you to obey him while disobeying Allaah. Take note that in respect of the wealth of Allaah (public funds), I regard myself to be like the guardian of an orphan. I shall therefore stay away from it if I have sufficient means and will use it within reason if I am ever in need of it." (1)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Umar said the following in his sermon: "Take reckoning of yourselves before your reckoning is taken (on the Day of Qiyaamah), because it (the reckoning you take of yourself) is easier. Weigh yourselves before you are weighed for the great presentation on the day you will be presented before Allaah and nothing of yours will be hidden from Him." (2)

The Lecture Hadhrat Umar gave About how he Knew the Conditions of People and about other Matters

Hadhrat Abul Firaas reports that Hadhrat Umar (Singles) once delivered a lecture saying, "O people! We knew you people well when Rasulullaah we was in our midst because it was a time when revelation descended and Allaah used to inform us about your condition. Take note however that Rasulullaah Will has left and revelation has ceased. Therefore, we now get to know you only in the manner we shall be stating to you: Whoever displays good behaviour, we shall think good of him and love him for the good. On the other hand, whoever displays evil behaviour, we shall think negatively or him and dislike him for his evil ways. Your secret affairs lie between you and your Raph (and only He can judge you by them). There was a time when I was certain that whoever recited the Qur'aan did so to please Allaah and to attain what (reward) is with Him. However, I have since come to realise that lately some people recite the Qur'aan to attain that which is with the people. You must therefore aspire to please only Allaah when reciting the Our'aan and when carrying out any good deeds. Take note also that I do not dispatch my governors to you to beat you or to take away your wealth. I am sending them only to educate you in your Deen and in the Sunnah practices. Whoever receives treatment other than this, should take the matter up with me and I swear by the Being Who controls my life that reparation shall be done. You must never hit Muslims because this will humiliate them and never prevent them from returning home after their shifts in guarding the state borders because this will cast them into difficulty. You should also not deny them their rights because this would lead them to show ingratitude. Do not make them set up camp in a dense forest because this would lead to their destruction (when they fall prey to the enemy taking advantage of the ample cover)." (1)

Hadhrat Umar Delivers a Lecture Preventing people from Making Dowries Expensive and from openly stating who is a Martyr

Hadhrat Ibnul Ajfaa reports that Hadhrat Umar some once said the following in his lecture: "Take note that you should not inflate the dowries of your women because had this been an act of honour in this world and an act of Tagwa in Allaah's sight, Nabi www would have been most entitled to it. However, Rasulullaah ee never gave any of his wives a dowry of more than twelve Awgiya and did not receive more than this as dowry for any of his daughters either. What is happening is that some of you inflate the dowry so much that the husband (when unable to pay) fosters hatred for her in his heart, saying, 'It is because of you that I have been burdened with a water-bag hung around my neck.' Another aspect I wish to discuss is that when someone is killed in your battles, you say that he has been killed as a martyr or has died as a martyr. However, it is very possible that in the interests of conducting trade, he has stored away some gold or silver at the back of his animal or in his carriage. You should therefore not make such bold statements but rather say what Rasulullaah used to say; 'Whoever is killed or dies in the path of Allaah shall be in Jannah "(2)

Hadhrat Masrooq narrates that Hadhrat Umar See once mounted the pulpit and said, "O people! What is this inflation of dowries for your women when the dowries common amongst Rasulullaah see and his Sahabah were in the region of four hundred Dirhams and less. Had inflated dowries been a sign of Taqwa in Allaah's sight or a mark of honour, you people would have never beaten Rasulullaah see and his Sahabah sees to it (they would have been first to implement it)." (3)

Some versions of this lecture have already been quoted in the chapter discussing marriage.

The Lecture of Hadhrat Umar Prohibiting Discussions on Predestination

Hadhrat Umar was in Jaabiya when he delivered a lecture. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "There can be none to mislead the one whom Allaah guides and none can guide the one whom Allaah misleads." A priest who was in front of Hadhrat Umar was then said something in Persian. When Hadhrat Umar (Wie asked a translator to translate what he had said, the translator said, "He is of the opinion that Allaah does not mislead anyone." "You are wrong, O enemy of Allaah!" Hadhrat Umar (wie exclaimed, "It was Allaah Who created you, Who misled you and will enter you into Jahannam if He so pleases. Had you not entered into a treaty (with the Muslims), I would have had you executed."

Hadhrat Umar with then said, "When Allaah created Hadhrat Aadam with, He spread out his progeny. Allaah then recorded who the people of Jannah shall be and the actions they will carry out. Thereafter, Allaah also recorded who the people of Janannam shall be and the actions they will carry out and said, 'These are for this (Jannah) and those for that (Jahannam).' The people then dispersed (on earth) and now they dispute about predestination." (1)

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Abzah narrates that when someone reported to Hadhrat Umar that some people were disputing about predestination, he stood up to deliver a lecture saying, "O people! The nations before you were destroyed when they disputed about predestination. I swear by the Being Who controls Umar's life that if I have to hear about any two persons disputing about predestination, I shall have them both executed." The people then stopped disputing about predestination and no one discussed the matter until a group in Shaam started to dispute about it during the time of Hajjaai." (2)

His Lecture at Jaabiya

Hadhrat Baahili narrates that when he arrived in Shaam, Hadhrat Umar stood up to deliver a lecture in Jaabiya. He said, "Learn the Our'aan and you will be noted for it. Practise its teachings and you will be amongst its bearers. Remember that no person who has a right over you has reached such a status that compels you to obey him while disobeying Allaah. You should also take note that speaking the truth and advising a senior can never draw your death any closer nor distance any of your sustenance. Remember that there is a barrier between a servant and his sustenance. If he is patient, his sustenance will come to him but if he charges towards it (not caring whether he is earning Halaal or Haraam), he will rupture the barrier and find nothing more than his sustenance (that has been predestined for him). Train your horses, practise archery, use the Miswaak, live lives of simplicity and avoid the behaviour of the non-Arabs. Avoid the company of tyrants, never allow a cross to be raised in your midst and never sit at a table where wine is served. You must also not enter public baths without a lower garment and never permit your women to enter them because none of this is permissible.

After entering the lands of the non-Arabs and entering into a pact with them, avoid earning your living in any manner that will prevent you from returning to your land because you will soon be required to return. Avoid bringing humiliation to yourselves and ensure that you stay with Arab animals and that you take them wherever you go. Remember that wine can be made from three substances; from raisins, honey and dates. When any of these ferments (and becomes intoxicating), they are regarded as wine and are not permissible. You must also take note that there are three types of person whom Allaah shall not purify, shall not even look at (with mercy) and will not allow to be brought close to Him. They shall be inflicted with a painful punishment. (The first is) The person who pledges allegiance to his leader solely for worldly gain. He is therefore loyal to the pledge only if he receives some worldly benefit, otherwise not. (The second is) The person who leaves with his merchandise after the Asr. salaah and (falsely) swears in the name of Allaah that he purchased it at a certain price (which he did not). Because of this oath, he then manages to sell the goods. (The third is a person who owns a watering place in a parched land and refuses water to travellers(1)). Verbally abusing a Muslim is a grave sin and physically abusing him leads to kufr. It is also not permissible to sever relations with your (Muslim) brother for more than three days. Furthermore, the person who approaches a sorcerer, a fortune-teller or an astrologer and then believes what they say has disbelieved what has been revealed to Muhammad (2)

A most Comprehensive Lecture that Hadhrat Umar Billion Delivered at Jaabiya

Hadhrat Moosa bin Uqba reports that the following is the lecture that Hadhrat Umar (1986) delivered at Jaabiya:

"After praising Allaah and sending salutations to Rasulullaah "", I wish to advise you to fear that Allaah Who shall remain alive forever while everything else shall perish. It is by obedience to Him that His friends are honoured and it is by disobeying Him that His enemies wander astray. None has any excuse for carrying out a misdeed that he regards as an act of virtue just as there is no excuse for the person who does not carry out an act of virtue, thinking it to be a misdeed. The matters that most need the attention of a ruler are those duties that his subjects owe to Allaah. These are the responsibilities of Deen that Allaah has guided them to carry out. Our duty (as rulers) is only to instruct you to do those acts of obedience that Allaah has commanded you to do and to forbid you from carrying out those acts of disobedience that Allaah has forbidden you from. Furthermore, we need to establish the commands of Allaah "" amongst those of you who are nearby and those far off without a concern for those who wish to bend the truth.

I am aware of the fact that there are many people who entertain hopes in their Deen, saying that they will perform salaah with those who perform salaah, that they will strive in Jihaad with the Mujaahideen and adopt the prestige of making Hijrah. They however do this without fulfilling the rights of these acts. Remember that Imaan is not achieved by mere superficial dressing. There are times for salaah that Allaah has specified and they will not be correct at any other times.

The time for the Fajr salaah is when night draws to an end and food and drink become Haraam for the fasting person. Give this salaah its due share of the Qur'aan (recite lengthy portions of the Qur'aan during this salaah). The time for the Zuhr salaah starts when the heat is intense and the sun crosses the meridian. It then lasts until your shadow equals your height. This is usually the time when a person takes his siesta. In winter however, it should be performed when the sun shines on your right eyebrow after crossing the meridian (i.e. wait a while even after it crosses). The salaah should be performed with all the necessary conditions that Allaah has stipulated in the wudhu, the Ruku and the Sajdah. These have been ordained so that one does not sleep through the salaah (is not unaware and oblivious of what he is doing).

The time for the Asr salaah is while the sun is still bright and clear and before it starts to turn yellow. It is equal to the time in which a person rides a slow camel for two Farsakh (six miles) before the sun sets. Now the time for the Maghrib salaah starts when the sun sets and the fasting person terminates his fast and the time for the Isha salaah starts when the night becomes completely dark. This is between the time that the redness in the sky disappears and a third of the night passes. May Allaah never awaken the person who sleeps before that (without performing his salaah). These are the times of the salaahs, as Allaah says:

Indeed salaah has been made obligatory for the Mu'mineen at fixed hours (and can therefore not be postponed). (Surah Nisaa, verse 103)

There are people who claim that they have migrated when they have actually not done so because the true Muhaajir is he who migrates away from sin. Then there are those who claim that they have waged Jihaad whereas true Jihaad in the path of Allaah is fighting the enemy and refraining from Haraam. There have also been people who fight well in battle but in doing so they have no intention of attaining rewards nor do they remember (pleasing) Allaah. Being killed is merely one of the many means of death and every slain person will be judged according to the reasons for which he was killed (he will therefore be regarded as a martyr only if he was killed while attempting to uplift the Deen of Allaah). There are those who fight because they are naturally courageous and who therefore come to the rescue of those they know and those they do not know. Then there are those who are naturally so cowardly that they will surrender their own parents to the enemy whereas even a dog will bark in defence of its family.

Remember that fasting is an extremely sacred act and causing any harm to the Muslims should also be avoided while fasting just as eating, drinking and sensual pleasures are forbidden. This is a complete fast. Remember also that the zakaah that Rasuluilaah will has made Fardh (by the instruction of Allaah) should be paid with a happy heart and must never be regarded as a favour to the recipient. Understand the advices you are given because the ransacked person is one whose Deen is ransacked. The fortunate person is he who learns from the experiences of others while the unfortunate one has been decreed as such since the time he was in his mother's womb. The worst of things are those that have been fabricated. Remember that moderation in practising the Sunnah is better than exerting oneself in practising Bid'ah. Indeed, people have a natural distike for their rulers, so I seek Allaah's protection from Him finding me or you with malice ingrained within us. I also seek Allaah's protection from Him finding us following our whims and giving preference to this world (over the Aakhirah). I fear that you should incline to the ways of those who oppress themselves, so you should never content yourselves to be with those who have been granted wealth.

Hold fast to this Qur'aan because it is filled with light and healing powers, whereas everything else is filled only with misfortune. I have fulfilled my responsibilities to your affairs that Allaah (1960) has made me responsible for and I have advised you in your best interests. We have fixed your allowances (from the state treasury), prepared your armed forces, stipulated the places where you will be engaging in military operations and specified the locations of your military camps. We have even been very accommodating in the shares of the booty you receive from the battles you fight. You therefore have no objections to present before Allaah. In fact, objections can well be brought against you. I have had my say and seek Allaah's forgiveness for myself and for you all."

Another narration states that Hadhrat Umar signs appointed Hadhrat Ali as his deputy and then left Madinah by horseback so that he could travel faster. When he reached Jaabiya, he dismounted and delivered an eloquent lecture there. Amongst the things he said was the following: "O people! Ensure that your private lives are in order and your public lives will automatically follow suit. Work for your Aakhirah and your matters in this world will be seen to (by Allaah). Remember that no man has a living father between himself and Aadam who can be of assistance to him at the time of death, neither has he any pact with Allaah (that will ensure his salvation). The person who wished to have the path to Jannah made apparent to him should stick with the greater body of united Muslims because Shaytaan always preys on the Ionesome individual and stays far from two united persons. None of you should ever be alone with a (non-Mahram) woman because Shaytaan will be the third person with them (encouraging them to sin). The true Mu'min is he whose good deeds please him and whose sins bother him." The narrator states that this was Hadhrat Umar Silecture that he has condensed into a few words. (2) you here, Rasulullaah (once stood up to address us saying, 'Accept this advice to treat my Sahabah (well as well as those to come after them and then those after them. Thereafter a time will come when lying will be so widespread that a person will be prepared to offer testimony before being even asked to do so. Whoever wishes to attain to the very heart of Jannah must stick with the greater body of united Muslims because Shaytaan always preys on the lonesome individual while staying far from two united persons. None of you should ever be alone with a (non-Mahram) woman because Shaytaan will be the third person with them. The person whose good deeds please him and whose sins bother him is a true Mu'min." (1)

Hadhrat Suwayd bin Ghafala narrates that in an address to the people at Jaabiya, Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab said, "Rasulullaah forbade (men from the) wearing of silken garments unless it be (an insignificant quantity such as) the equivalent of three or four fingers." Hadhrat Umar then indicated with his hand to elucidate. (2)

Hadhrat Umar (Signer)'s Lecture at Jaabiya when he Intended to Return when the Plague Broke out

In his report detailing Hadhrat Umar was a trival (in Shaam) after the outbreak of the plague in Amwaas at the end of the year 17 A.H., Hadhrat Sayf reports that it was just before his departure back to Madinah that Hadhrat Umar addressed the people in the month of Dhul Hijjah. After duly praising Allaah, Hadhrat Umar said, "Listen well! I have been entrusted to your affairs and have fulfilled my responsibilities towards your affairs as commanded by Allaah. By the will of Allaah, we have exercised justice between you as far as your shares of the booty are concerned and as far as your military camps and sites of battle are concerned. We have conveyed to you everything you are entitled to, amassed armed forces for you, demarcated your borders, built towards for you and generously given you your shares of the booty and everything you fought for in Shaam. We have also allotted your rations, allowances and shares of the booty. If anyone knows of anything worth doing, he should inform us accordingly and we shall Inshaa Allaah comply. There is no strength (to do good) except with Allaah." (3)

Two Lectures that Hadhrat Umar Subset Delivered when he Became Khalifah and his Explanation of the Rights his Subjects have over Him

Hadhrat Urwa bin Zubayr (and others have reported after duly praising Allaah, Hadhrat Umar (the greatness of) Allaah (and about the Day of Qiyaamah. Thereafter, he said, "O people! I have been appointed over you and I would have never accepted the post had it not been for the hope that I may develop into one who is the best for you, the strongest for you and the most powerful for you when tackling matters of importance to you. Merely waiting for reckoning concerning my administration of your rights is enough to worry and depress Umar because it will be judged how I took up the matters, how I handled them and how I have been treating you. It is from my Rabb that I seek assistance because Umar has neither any strength nor strategy if the mercy, assistance and help of Allaah Table was not there for him." (1)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Umar said the following in his lecture: "Aliaah ASSIG has appointed me to be in charge of your affairs. Although I know what is most beneficial for you from all that which is before you. I still seek Allaah's help in making the decision. I beseech Allaah to watch over me when doing this just as He watches over me at other times. I also ask Him to Inspire me to exercise justice when distributing things amongst you as He has commanded me to do. I am merely an average Muslim and a weak servant unless Allaah comes to my aid. The post of Khilaafah that I have been entrusted with will not alter my character in any way, Inshaa Allaah (because I understand well that) all grandeur belongs to Allaah المنظانة and His servants have no stake to it. Hone of you should therefore say that Umar has changed since becoming the Khalifah. I know what truly lies within me and I will come forward to inform you of it (I will not defend my wrongs). Therefore, any person who has a need, who feels wronged or wants to object about any facet of my character, should come to me (to redress matters) because I am merely a normal person amongst you (and am prone to err).

You should adhere to Tagwa in your private and public lives and when dealing with affairs that are sacred and that impact upon your honour. At the same time, ensure that you fulfil the duties that are binding upon you. None of you should ever goad others into bringing their cases to me (thinking that I will certainly rule in their favour) because no pact exists between me and anyone else (forcing me to rule in his favour). I love you to be on the right and hate to rebuke you. You are a people whose majority reside in Allaah's cities and people living in cities usually have no plantations or milk-giving animals. They therefore have no access to these necessities apart from what Allaah brings to them. Allaah has promised you tremendous honour and I shall be questioned about the trust given to me and about the post I occupy, Inshaa Allaah, I shall personally tend to matters that are before me without appointing anyone else to do it. However, I cannot tend to matters that are far from me without the assistance of trustworthy persons who are well-wishers to the masses, Inshaa Allaah, I shall never entrust my duties to anyone else apart from such (trustworthy and well-wishing) men." Hadhrat Umar (Signs's Lecture Concerning Wishing well for his Subjects and the Rights they have over him

After praising Allaah and sending salutations to Rasulullaah & Hadhrat Umar sizes once said the following in his lecture, "O people! Some instances of greed lead to poverty and some instances of losing hope lead to independence. You people stockpile food that you will never eat and entertain hopes that you will never reach whereas in this place of deception you have been granted respite (to live only until the time of your death). During the time of Rasulullash (##), you were apprehended by means of revelation. Therefore whoever hid something (evil) was apprehended for what he hid and whoever made something public was apprehended for that. (However nowadays) You must make public your best behaviour because only Allaah knows what is in your heart. Whoever makes something (evil) apparent to us and then claims that what is in his heart is good, we shall not believe him. We shall therefore have a good opinion of only those people whose public behaviour is good (and not of those whose public behaviour is evil). Remember that in so many cases, the miserliness coupled with greed is a sign of hypocrisy, so make sure that you spend generously (in Sadagah). (Allaah says:)

(سورة تغاير: آيت١٦)

Spend (in charity for Allaah's pleasure) for this is best for you. Those who are protected (by Allaah) from the miserliness (and accompanying greed) of their souls are indeed the successful ones. (Surah Taghaabun, verse 16)

O people! Make your places of eternal residence good, reconcile matters between yourselves, fear Allaah your Rabb and never allow your women to wear the fine white Egyptian cloth because since it does not conceal well, it reveals the features of the body. O people! I wish that I attain salvation without any sin against me nor any rewards in my fayour. I also hope that, Inshaa Allaah, I am always able to exercise what is right, whether I live for a long while or for a short period amongst you. I also hope that every Muslim receives the wealth due to him from Allaah's riches, even though he may be sitting in his house, without him having to do anything or even tiring himself for a single day. Ensure that you set right the wealth that Allaah has blessed you with (by ensuring that you earn only what is Halaal). Remember that a little done with gentleness is better than a lot done with harshness. Being killed is a means of death that both the righteous and sinful attain while the martyr is the one who intends earning rewards (from Allaah). When any of you intends purchasing a camel, he should look for one that is tall and large and then strike it with his staff. If he then finds that it is bright, he should buy it." (1)

The Historic Lecture Hadhrat Umar Delivered concerning Allaah's Bounties on the Muslims and Encouragement to Express Gratitude for the Same

Hadhrat Urwa said, "Indeed Allaah is Pure and free from all blemishes and it is necessary for you to express gratitude to Him by praising Him. Without your asking for or aspiring for them, Allaah has shown you many proofs of the honour that He has bestowed upon you in this world as well as in the Aakhirah. When you were nothing, Allaah created you (as human beings) for Himself and for worshipping Him even though He had all the power to make you into a creation of a much inferior type. He has placed the rest of creation at your service, something that He has not done for any other creation. In addition to this (Allaah says):

Allaah has placed at your service whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth, and that He has showered His visible and hidden favours on you (favours that are perceived both by one's senses and by one's intellect). (Surah Luqmaan, verse 20)

Allaah also carries you on land and at sea and provides your sustenance so that you may be grateful. Furthermore, Allaah has blessed you with hearing and sight. Amongst the bounties that Aliaah has bestowed upon you are those that He has blessed all mankind with as well as those that He has granted only to those belonging to your Deen. All of these bounties, be they the universal ones as well as the exclusive ones, have all fallen to your lands, during your time and amongst your kind. Each of these bounties given to a single individual is such that if given to all of mankind, they would get tired showing gratitude for it and fulfilling the rights of this gratitude would be much too difficult for them unless Allaah assists them and they do so with Imaan in Allaah and in His Rasool You have been appointed as vice-gerents on earth and have authority over its people. Allaah has assisted your Deen and apart from two groups of people, there remains no other group that is opposed to your Deen. The first of the two is the group of people who have been made subservient to Islaam and the Muslims and who pay the Jizyah (they are the Dhimmi people -non-Muslims living in a Muslim country). They labour at their occupations, toil hard and spend the sweat on their brows. While they have the responsibility of doing the hard work, the benefits of their efforts come to you. The second group comprises of those people who are waiting day and night for Allaah's armies to attack them and whose hearts Allaah has filled with terror. They have no sanctuary, no place of safety and nowhere to run to from where they can be saved. Allaah's armies have started military offensives against them and set up camp in their territory.

With the permission of Allaah, you are enjoying good lives, an abundance of wealth, a steady stream of reinforcements and impregnable borders. In addition to all of this, you have the priceless bounty of collective well-being, better than which the Ummah as a whole has never had since the dawn of Islaam. Only Allaah is to be praised that at the same time, you are enjoying military victories in every country. The gratitude of the grateful ones, the Dhikr of those engaged in Dhikr and all the efforts of those exerting themselves can scarcely fulfil the rights of the gratitude owing to Allaah for these bounties that cannot be counted and which cannot be appreciated to their fullest extent. Of course, this is possible only with the assistance, mercy and grace of Allaah. We ask Allaah besides Whom there is none worthy of worship and Who has granted us all of this, that He blesses us with the ability to obey Him and to hasten to do everything that will please Him.

O servants of Allaah! Think about Allaah's bounties when alone and even in your gatherings of two persons to have Allaah's bounties completed upon you, Allaah said to Moosa &

'Remove your people (the Bani Israa'eel) from the multitude of darkness, take them into the light (Imaan) and remind them of the days (the favours) of Allaah.' (Surah Ibraheem, verse 5)

Allaah also said to Muhammad

'Remember the time when you were few and regarded as weak on earth.' (Surah Anfaal, yerse 26)

At the time when you were regarded as weak on earth and deprived of worldly wealth, you would have been in an excellent condition had you been believing in and taking solace from some truth together with the recognition of Allaah and His Deen, hoping all the time to have success after death. However at that time you led the harshest of lives and were most ignorant of Allaah. It may have been best if this (Deen) that came to your rescue had come with no worldly gains and with only a security for your Aakhirah, to which you will eventually be returning. Then in the difficult lives you were leading, you would have been more covetous over your fortune ensuring that nothing else overwhelms it. That being as it is, what has happened is that Allaah has combined for you the bounties of this world as well as the honour of the Aakhirah. Therefore, whoever wishes that these two factors be combined for him, I wish to remind him of that Allaah Who can come between a man and his own heart. He must act on every right he realises he owes to Allaah, he must defeat his soul to obey Allaah and together with being overjoyed with Allaah's bounties, he must also fear that they must never be overturned and lost. There is nothing more effective in taking bounties away than ingratitude for them. Gratitude ensures that bounties are safe from change and is a means for them to increase and to grow. It is a duty to Allaah upon me to instruct you (to do good) and to forbid you (from evil)." (1)

The Lecture Hadhrat Umar Delivered discussing the Battle of Uhud

Hadhrat Ibn Kulayb narrates that it was on a Friday that Hadhrat Umar saddressed the people. He recited a portion of Surah Aal Imraan until he reached the verse:

Those of you who fled on the day when the two armies (of the Muslim and the Mushrikeen) clashed (at Uhud) ... (Surah Aal Imraan, verse 155)

Hadhrat Umar then commented, "After we had been defeated in the Battle of Uhud, I ran up the mountain, leaping as if I were a mountain goat. When the people started saying that Muhammad had been martyred, I announced that I would kill anyone who made that statement. We then regrouped on the mountain and Allaah revealed the verse:

Those of you who fled on the day when the two armies (of the Muslim and the Mushrikeen) clashed (at Uhud) ... {Surah Aal Imraan, verse [55] ⁽²⁾

Another narration from Ibn Kulayb stales that as he recited Surah Aal Imraan on the pulpit, Hadhrat Umar said said, "This Surah discusses the Battle of Uhud. When we dispersed from around Rasulullaah for during the Battle of Uhud and I had climbed up the mountain, I heard a Jew announce that Rasulullaah had been martyred. I then declared, 'I shall personally execute any person who says that Rasulullaah has been martyred!' When I then had a proper look, I saw Rasulullaah had and saw the Muslims regrouping around him. It was then that the verse was revealed:

Muhammad see is but a Rasool (of Allaah). Indeed many Rusul have passed before him. If he passes away or is martyred, would you (Muslims) then turn back on your heels (and forsake Islaam)? He who turns back on his heels can never harm Allaah in the least (because he will be harming only himself). Allaah shall soon reward the grateful ones (so be firm and strive for His Deen). (Surah Aal Imraan, verse 144) (3)

Various Lectures that Hadhrat Umar Delivered

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Adi bin Khiyaar reports that he heard Hadhrat Umar deliver the following lecture from the pulpit: "When a servant humbles himself for the pleasure of Allaah, Allaah elevates his status saying, 'Rise (in status)! May Allaah elevate you.' While such a person sees himself as a degraded person, he is very much revered by the people. On the other hand, when a person has pride, and transgresses, Allaah breaks him and floors him, saying, 'Be disgraced! May Allaah degrade you!' While such a person sees himself as a great person, he is so humiliated in the eyes of the people that they regard him as being lower than a pig." (1)

Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri see reports that Hadhrat Umar see once delivered a lecture saying, "It may happen that I forbid you from things that are of benefit to you and instruct you to do things that hold no benefit for you. Amongst the last verses to be revealed were those forbidding interest and (because of other commitments) Rasululiaah see passed away without explaining the finer details of interest. You people should therefore forsake all transactions that give you doubts (about the involvement of interest) and rather opt for those that do not give you doubts." (2)

Hadhrat Aswad bin Yazeed narrates that Hadhrat Umar specific once delivered a lecture saying, "Whoever intends performing Hajj should enter into the state of Ihraam only from the Miqaat (the designated places for doing so and not afterwards). These various places as designated by Rasulullaah are: Dhul Hulayfah for the residents of Madinah and for its non-residents who happen to be passing by it, For the residents of Shaam and for its non-residents who happen to be passing by it, the Miqaat is Juhfah. Qarn is the Miqaat for the residents of Najd and for its non-residents who happen to be passing by it. Yalamlam is the Miqaat for the residents of Yemen, while Dhaatul Iraq is the Miqaat for the people of Iraq and others (in that direction)," (3)

Hadhrat Abduliaah bin Abbaas (stoning an adulterer) in his lecture, Hadhrat Umar (stoning an adulterer) in his lecture, Hadhrat Umar (stoning an adulterer) in his lecture, Hadhrat Umar (stoning an adulterer) in his lecture, Hadhrat Umar (stoning and "Never be deceived about it because it is definitely a penalty from amongst those that Allaah has ordained. Take note of the fact that Rasulullaah (she had people stoned and we have also done so after him. Had it not been for people remarking that Umar adds to Allaah's book things that are not part of it, I would have attached a footnote to the Qur'aan stating that Umar bin Khattaab, Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf and many others testify that Rasulullaah (she had people stoned and they have also done so after him. Remember that after you there shall come people who will refuse to believe in Rajm, in Dajjaal, in intercession (in the Aakhirah), in punishment in the grave and that people will

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Musayyib narrates that when Hadhrat Umar sales left Mina (after his stay in Makkah), he sat his camel down at Abtah, where he made a mound with the loose sand. Thereafter, he cast a portion of his garment over the mound and then leaned against it. He then raised his hands and made du'aa saying, "O Allaah! I am growing old, my strength is dwindling and my subjects have all dispersed far and wide. Do call me to You while I am not guilty of sinning nor have I been negligent in any duty."

When Hadhrat Umar reached Madinah, he addressed the people saying, "O people! The Faraa'idh have been ordained for you, the Sunan have been shown to you and you have been left on a clear path." He then hit his right hand on the left and added, "Unless you sway people to the right and left and lead them astray. Beware that you never destroy yourselves because of the verse of Rajm and never let anyone say that we do not find two penalties in Allaah's Book (we find only the one for lashing a fornicator and not the one for stoning an adulterer). I saw Rasulullaah having people stoned and we have also done so after him. Had it not been for people remarking that Umar adds new things to Allaah's book, I would have written in (a footnote of) the Qur'aan the verse that we used to recite (while the words of the verse were abrogated, the law still remained). It reads that if a married man or a married woman commits adultery, both must be stoned."

Hadhrat Sa'eed says, "The month of Dhul Hijjah had hardly passed by when Hadhrat Umar (was stabbed (and then passed away)," (2)

Hadhrat Ma'daan bin Abu Talha Ya'muri reports that it was on a Friday that Hadhrat Umar work once stood on the pulpit and praised Allaah. He then spoke of Rasulullaah and Hadhrat Abu Bakr before saying. I have seen a dream that I feel means nothing other than the approach of my death. I saw that a red rooster twice pecked at me. When I related the dream to Asmaa bint Umais work, she informed me that a non-Arab will kill me. Although people now want me to appoint a successor, you must remember that Allaah will never destroy His Deen nor the role of vicegerency (on earth) for which He sent his Nabi

If anything happens to me suddenly, the consultative assembly (to decide which of them will be the Khalifah) shall comprise of six men with whom Rasulullaah was pleased when he left this world. They are Uthmaan was, Ali was, Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf was, Ali was, Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf was, Ald bin Abl Waqqaas was. You people must listen to and obey whichever of them you pledge allegiance to. I know well that some people will criticise this matter and these are the very ones against whom I personally fought for the sake of Islaam. (In doing so) They will be joining the ranks of the enemies of Allaah and the misguided Kuffaar (because they will be assisting the cause of these Kuffaar).

I am leaving behind nothing more important in my estimation than the matter of

In swear even jabbed his finger in my chest and said, 'The verse of Surah Nisaa(1) revealed in summer is enough for you (in this regard).' If I live long enough, I shall certainly be passing a law concerning the Kalaalah that every learned and unlettered person will understand.

I also make Allaah Witness to the fact that every governor whom I have sent to the various cities has been sent expressly for the purpose of educating the people about their Deen, about the Sunnah practices of their Nabi and to bring to my attention matters that otherwise go unnoticed. I would also like to bring to your notice something about two plants that you eat from, namely garlic and onions. They are foul-smelling in my estimation and I swear that I have seen that when Rasulullaah smelled them on anyone, he would give the instruction for the person to be taken by the hand and led out of the Masjid as far as Baqee. If a person has to eat them, he must first eliminate the smell by cooking."

This lecture Hadhrat Umar delivered on a Friday and it was on a Wednesday just four days before the end of Dhul Hijjah that he was stabbed." (2) Hadhrat Yasaar bin Maroor narrates that Hadhrat Umar done addressed them saying, "O people! Rasulullaah we built this Masjid when we the Muhaajireen and Ansaar were with him. When the crowds become excessive, every one of you should make Sajdah on the back of his brother (in front of him)." When Hadhrat Umar does saw some people performing their salaah in the streets, he instructed them to perform salaah inside the Masjid. (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar addressed the people saying, "Rasulullaah permitted Mut'ah for us for three days only, after which it was declared Haraam. By Allaah! If I find out that any married man has committed Mut'ah, I shall have him stoned to death unless he brings forth four witnesses to testify that Rasulullaah permitted it after it was made Haraam. In the same manner, if I find any other (non-married) Muslim committing Mut'ah, I will have him lashed a hundred lashes unless he brings forth four witnesses to testify that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Sa'eed reports from his grandfather who heard Hadhrat Umar say from the pulpit, "O assembly of Muslims! Very Allaah has granted you so many non-Arab women and children as booty that He did not grant to either Rasulullaah for to Hadhrat Abu Bakr say." I also know that many men engage in sexual relations with these women (who are their slaves and they are therefore within their legal right to have relations with them). Therefore, if any of you have children from any of these non-Arab (slave) women, he must not sell her because if he does so, the possibility exists that without him knowing, aperson may engage in intercourse with a woman who is his Mahram. "(2) Hadhrat Ma'roor or Ibn Ma'roor Tameemi reports, "Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab was on the pulpit, sitting on a step beneath that on which Rasulullaah sat when I heard him say. I emphatically advise you to adopt Taqwa and to listen to and obey those who are entrusted to take charge of your affairs (your leaders). "(3)

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah sussession narrates that Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab sused to say the following in his lectures: "The most successful of you all is he who is safeguarded against his passions, anger and greed and who is inspired to always be truthful in his speech. It is such truthfulness that draws one towards all virtue. The person who lies will always sin and such sin will ultimately destroy him. Beware of sin! Why should one sin when he has been created from sand and who will return to sand and while he is alive today, he will be dead tomorrow? Do your deeds from day to day, avoid the curse of the oppressed and count yourself amongst the dead." (4)

Hadhrat Qabeesah narrates that he heard Hadhrat Umar (Similer) say from the pulpit, "Whoever has no mercy will not be shown any, whoever does not forgive will not be forgiven, whoever does not repent will not have his repentance accepted and whoever does not abstain (from sin) will not be saved (from punishment)." Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed narrates that Hadhrat Umar Sassi once delivered a lecture saying, "Verily Allaah had granted certain concessions to His Nabi sass as He pleased (because of which Rasulullaah sass was allowed to perform Umrah with the same thraam he originally donned only for Hajj. This is not permitted for the Ummah). Rasulullaah sass has now passed on and you people must complete your Hajj and Umrah as Allaah sassic has commanded (2) and you must ensure that you safeguard the chastity of your women." (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr says that he heard Hadhrat Umar say in his lecture that he heard Rasulullaah say, "Whoever (from amongst the males) wears silk in this world will not be given any to wear in the Aakhirah." (4) Hadhrat Abu Ubayd who was the freed slave of Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf reports that he once attended the Eid salaah led by Hadhrat Umar without any Adhaan or Iqaamah being called out, Hadhrat Umar led the salaah before delivering the lecture. He then said in his lecture, "O people! Rasulullaah says (orbade fasting on two days. The one is the day in which you break from your fasting, which is the day of Eid (Eidul Fitr). The other is the day in which you eat from your sacrificial animals (Eidul Adhaa)." (5)

Hadhrat Sulaymaan bin Yasaar reports that it was during the period of drought that Hadhrat Umar subset addressed the people saying, "O people! Fear Allaah from within yourselves and in all those personal matters that are hidden from the people. While I have been put to test with (being Khalifah over) you, you have been put to test with me. I do not know whether this (drought) is because Allaah is angry with me and not with you, and not me or whether Allaah is angry with all of us. Come! Let us pray to Allaah so that Allaah may correct our hearts, have mercy on us and remove this drought from us."

That day, Hadhrat Umar (1998) and the people were seen with their arms raised as they made du'aa to Allaah and wept for some time before he descended from the pulpit. (7)

The Lectures of Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Uthmaan bin Affaan

Hadhrat Ibraheem bin Abdur Rahmaan Makhzoomi reports that when the people had pledged allegiance to Hadhrat Uthmaan bin Affaan (he said, he stood up to deliver a lecture. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "O people! The first rung of the ladder is most difficult and there will still be many more days to come after this one. If I live longer, you shall have lectures that are properly prepared. Although we have never been speakers, Allaah shall soon teach us." (2) Hadhrat Badr bin Uthmaan reports from his uncle that when the other members of the consultative assembly pledged allegiance to Hadhrat Uthmaan (he left for the Masjid in great consternation. He then went to the pulpit of Rasulullaah (from where he addressed the people. After duly praising Allaah and sending salutations to Rasulullaah (from where you shall soon be leaving and you have but a short duration of your lives ahead. You should therefore beat your deaths by doing as much good as you possibly can because death will certainly come to you, whether by day or night. Remember that this world is deception through and through. (Allaah says:)

Let not the life of this world deceive you (into believing that Qiyaamah will never come), and do not allow the great deceiver (Shaytaan) to deceive you about Allaah, (Surah Luqmaan, verse 33)

Learn lessons from those who have passed on and then be resolute without giving way to negligence because death will never neglect you. Where are all those sons of this world and its brothers who inhabited the earth, left landmarks and who enjoyed it for an extensive period of time? Did the world not fling them aside? Throw the world aside just as Allaah has done and seek the Aakhirah, Allaah has drawn a similitude for the world and the Aakhirah, which is the better of the two. Allaah says:

that We send from the sky, with which the plants of the earth mingle (causing them to flourish). Thereafter (the time comes when) they (the once flourishing plants dry up or are destroyed in some way, only to) become debris (broken bits and pieces), to be carried (dispersed) by the winds (after which there is no sign that they ever existed). Allaah always has control over everything (He can create and destroy as and when He pleases). Wealth and sons are merely adornments of this worldy life (that will not last forever). The lasting good deeds (all good actions that one does in this world, the rewards of which are everlasting) are best in the sight of your Rabb in terms of reward and best in terms of expectations (because the expected rewards in the Aakhirah are guaranteed by Allaah). (Surah Kahaf, verses 45,46)

The people then went up to him and pledged their allegiance to him. (1)

Hadhrat Utba narrates that after he became the Khalifah, Hadhrat Uthmaan addressed the people saying, "I have been made responsible for this task and have accepted it. Take note of the fact that I am a follower (of the Deen) and not one to introduce new things. Listen well! After the Book of Allaah and the Sunnah of Rasulullaah see, you people have three rights over me: (The first is) That I follow that which you are unanimous about, that you have been practising and that has a precedent amongst those before me (during the periods of Rasulullaah see, Hadhrat Abu Bakr sees and Hadhrat Umar shall (the second is) that I follow the ways of the righteous ones in matters that you may have not been accustomed to doing; (the third is) that I restrain my hand from you except in matters that necessitate punishment. Hadhrat Mujaahid reports that Hadhrat Uthmaan bin Affaan once delivered a lecture saying, "O son of Aadam ""! You must know that the angel of death who has been appointed to take your life has always been leaving you to go to others as long as you have been in this world. It now appears that he is skipping all the others out and is now stalking you. Hadhrat Hasan narrates that in an address to the people, Hadhrat Uthmaan Started by praising Allaah and then said, "O people! Adopt Taqwa because Taqwa is a great asset. Verily the greatest of all the intelligent people is the one who controls his Nais and acts for his life after death. Glean from Allaah's light some light for the darkness of the grave and every person should fear that he be raised blind when he was sighted in this world. Concise words suffice for a wise person and it is only the deaf who have to be shouted to from a distant place. Remember that the person who has Allaah with him need not fear anything. On the other hand, what hope can there be for the person who has Allaah up against him?" (2)

Hadhrat Hasan narrates that he saw Hadhrat Uthmaan delivering the following lecture from the pulpit: "O people! Fear Allaah in your private affairs because I heard Rasulullaah see say, I swear by the Being Who controls the life of Muhammad that whenever a person does an act in private, Allaah dons him with such garments in public (such will be peoples' impression of him). Therefore, if the act is good, the garment will be good and if the act is evil, so too will the garmen, be," He then recited the verse:

...and (We have sent clothing to you) as a means of beautification, but (remember that) the clothing of Taqwa is best (because it offers you protection from all evil). {Surah Araa(, verse 26}

Hadhrat Uthmaan Six recited the word and not (as is recited in the most popular mode of recitation). (3)

Hadhrat Abbaad bin Zaahir says that he heard Hadhrat Uthmaan Wei deliver a lecture saying, "By Allaah! We were with Rasulullaah all the time, whether at home or on journey. Rasulullaah wei would visit our ill, accompany our funeral processions, fight battles with us and take care of our needs whether he had a little with him or plenty. Nowadays some people teach us certain things about Rasulullaah whereas they have perhaps never even seen him." (4) Another narration adds that a person named A'yan bin Imra'atul Farazdaq addressed Hadhrat Uthmaan ways saying, "O Na'shal⁽⁵⁾! You have changed many things (in Deen)." "Who is that man?" Hadhrat Uthmaan was asked. When the people named him as A'yan, others sprung to attack him. A man from the Banu Layth however managed to ward the people off him and took him to his house." You should also not delegate the responsibility of earning to a slave woman who does not know a craft because when you do this, she will earn by her charms (as a prostitute). You should remain chaste when Allaah has kept you chaste and eat only those foods that are good for you." (1)

Hadhrat Zaid bin Silt narrates that Hadhrat Uthmaan (Siles) was referring to backgammon when he heard him say from the pulpit, "O people! Stay away from gambling because I have been informed that this is to be found in some of your homes. Whoever has this in his house must either burn or break it."

On another occasion, Hadhrat Uthmaan Esses mentioned the following from the pulpit, "O people! I have already spoken to you about backgammon but I see that you have not removed it from your homes. I have therefore decided to have firewood collected and to then dispatch people to set fire to the houses in which these games are to be found." (2)

Hadhrat Saalim the freed slave of Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Humayd reports that Hadhrat Uthmaan bin Affaan performed salaah in full in Mina and then addressed the people saying, "O people! The true Sunnah is that of Rasulullaah affa and his two companions (Hadhrat Abu Bakr and Hadhrat Umar and isha at Mina). However, because many new people are performing Hajj this year, (I am performing four Rakaahs salaah because) I fear that they will regard it as Sunnah (to always perform two Rakaahs salaah)." (3)

Hadhrat Qutaybah bin Muslim narrates, "Hajjaaj bin Yusuf once addressed us and spoke of the grave. He then said, 'It is a place of solitude and a place of loneliness.' He repeated this so much that he then burst out crying and made everyone around him weep as well. Thereafter, he continued, 'I heard Ameerul Mu'mineen Abdul Malik bin Marwaan say that he heard Marwaan say in a lecture, 'Hadhrat Uthmaan was once addressed us saying Rasulullaah was wept whenever he saw a grave or spoke about the grave." Hadhrat Saleed bin Musayyib narrates that he heard Hadhrat Uthmaan say the following in an address from the pulpit: "I used to buy dates from a tribe of the Jews called the Banu Qaynuqaa and then sell it at a profit. When Rasulullaah say learnt that I was doing this, he said, "O Uthmaan! Weigh the dates when you purchase them and them weigh them again when you resell." (5)

Hadhrat Hasan reports that he was present when Hadhrat Uthmaan sussess instructed from the pulpit that all (dangerous) dogs should be killed and pigeons (used for sport) should be slaughtered. (6)

The Final Lecture that Hadhrat Uthmaan William Delivered

Hadhrat Badr bin Uthmaan reports from his uncle that in the final lecture that Hadhrat Uthmaan delivered in public was when he said, "Verily Allaah has granted you this world so that you may use it to acquire the Aakhirah and not for you to attach yourselves to it. Whereas this world will come to an end, the Aakhirah shall be forever, so never allow what is temporary to make you arrogant and never allow it to distract you from that which is everlasting. Give preference to that which is eternal to that which is transitory because this world will certainly come to an end while you will have to return to Allaah (in the Aakhirah). Fear Allaah deliver because Taqwa is a shield against His punishment and a means to draw close to Him. Take precautions against Allaah changing your conditions (removing your bounties), remain united with the Muslims and never break up into splinter groups. (He then recited the verse:)

Recall Allaah's favour to you when you were enemies and He (Allaah) created love between your hearts. Then you became brothers by His grace. (Surah Aal Imraan, verse 103)⁽¹⁾

A narration has already passed in the chapter discussing Jihaad in which Hadhrat Uthmaan Sixes extols the virtues of keeping guard in the path of Allaah.

The Lectures of Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Ali bin Abi Taalib

The First Lecture that he Delivered

Hadhrat Ali bin Husayn narrates that when he was appointed Khalifah, Hadhrat Ali stated his first lecture by praising Allaah. Thereafter, he said, "Verily Allaah has revealed a scripture that is a guide and which makes distinct what is good and what is not. You must therefore hold fast to what is good and abstain from what is evil. When you carry out the Faraa'idh for Allaah, Allaah will carry you into Jannah. Allaah has made many things sacred, and these are no secret. He has however made the sanctity of a Muslim more sacred than anything else and Londed the Muslims by sincerity and Towheed. The (true) Muslim is he from whose longue and hands other people are safe unless it be done rightfully (to mete punishment when Allaah's laws are broken). It is not permissible to harm any Muslim unless it becomes necessary (when he transgresses Allaah's laws). Hasten to do good deeds before the universal occurrence (Qiyaamah) and before the individual occurrence as well, which is the death of each one of you. Many people have passed ahead of you and Qiyaamah is driving you from behind.

Travel lightly (without sins) and you will meet (those who have passed away) because (deceased) people are waiting for those after them. Instil the fear of Allaah into His bondsmen with regard to (abusing) His other bondsmen and lands because you will be questioned even with regard to tracts of land and animals. Obey Allaah and never disobey Him. Seize the opportunity to do good whenever you see it, avoid evil when you see it and remember the time when you were few in number and regarded as weak in the lands." (1)

His Lecture Concerning the Value of a Person's Tribe

Hadhrat All (Sies) once delivered a lecture saying, "A man's tribe is more valuable to him than he is to his tribe. If he restrains his hand from (assisting) them, he will be restraining but one hand. However, if they restrain their hands, they will be restraining many hands together with the love, protection and assistance they have to offer him. In fact, it often happens that a person becomes angry with another only because of the tribe he belongs to. I can cite to you so many verses of the Qur'aan in this regard." He then recited the verse:

He (Hadhrat Loot (1) said, "If only I had some might against you or (if only) I could seek protection from a strong pillar." (Surah Hood, verse 80) Hadhrat Ali (The strong pillar is a tribe that Hadhrat Loot (Mills did not have (in the place he resided). I swear by the Being besides Whom there is no deity that after Hadhrat Loot (Mills Allah sent every Nabi (Mills as a member of a strong tribe." Hadhrat Ali (Mills then recited the following verse with regard to Hadhrat Shu'ayb (Mills):

(His people said, 'O Shu'ayb!) we consider you to be a weakling among us. "This they said because Hadhrat Shu'ayb (Marie was blind. However, they then added:

If it were not for your tribe (who are there to protect you), we would have certainly stoned you (to death). {Surah Hood, verse 91}

Hadhrat Ali 劉琦等 said further, "I swear by the Being besides Whom there is no deity that rather than fear the supremacy of their Rabb, these people were in awe of Hadhrat Shu'ayb 劉榮 stribe." (2)

His Lecture when Ramadhaan Arrived

Hadhrat Sha'bi reports that whenever Ramadhaan arrived, Hadhrat Ali would deliver a lecture and say, "This is that blessed month in which fasting has been made obligatory while standing (at night in salaah) has not. One must beware of saying that he will fast only if a particular person fasts and will not fast if a particular person does not. Remember well that fasting is not only abstaining from food and drink but abstaining from lies, falsehood and kufr. Bear in mind that you must never bring the month forward. Fast only when you see the new moon (of Ramadhaan) and stop fasting when you see the new moon (of Shawwaal). However, if it is overcast (and you cannot see the new moon), then complete the month (as thirty days)." Hadhrat Ali week used to say this after the Fajr and Ast salaahs. (1)

His Lecture Concerning the Grave and its Condition

After commencing with the praises of Allaah in one of his lectures, Hadhrat All Proceeded to speak about death. He said, "O servants of Allaah! By Allaah! There is no escape from death. If you stand still for it, it will seize you and if you flee from it, it will still find you. Hasten to salvation! Hasten to salvation! Be quick! Be quick! Behind you is a speedy pursuer, which is the grave. Beware of its pressure, intense darkness and loneliness. Remember well that the grave may either be a pit of Jahannam or a garden from amongst the gardens of Jannah. Bear in mind that the grave calls out three times every day saying, "I am the home of darkness! I am the home of worms! I am the home of loneliness! Do not forget also that what is to come afterwards is even worse. There is Jahannam with extremely hot fires, a tremendous depth, decorations of iron and Maailk as its custodian. In there shall be no part of Allaah's mercy. After this there is Jannah, which is as wide as the heavens and the earth and which has been prepared for those with Taqwa. May Allaah make us and all of you amongst those with Taqwa and save us and all of you from a most painful punishment."

Hadhrat Asbagh bin Nabaatah reports that Hadhrat Ali woo one day ascended the pulpit and after duly praising Allaah, he spoke about death. The rest of the narration is similar to the one above, but after the words "I am the home of worms!", it adds that Hadhrat Ali woo then said, "Remember that after this shall come a day in which even a youngster will turn white, a grown man will break down and every expectant mother will abort her child. You will see people in a state of intoxication but they will not really be intoxicated. The fact is that (they will be in this condition because) the punishment of Allaah will be extreme." Another narration states that Hadhrat Ali woo then burst out crying and the Muslims around him also wept. (3)

His Lecture concerning the World, the Grave and the Aakhirah

Hadhrat Saalih Ijli reports that Hadhrat Ali bin Abi Taalib (1988) once addressed the people. After praising Allaah and conveying salutations to Rasulullaah (1988), he said. "O servants of Allaah! Never allow this worldly life to deceive you because it is a place of light difficulties, it is famous for its transitory nature and well-recognised for its treachery. Everything in it shall come to an end and is continuously passed on from person to person. The one who goes down to tap its resources cannot remain safe from its evil and even while its people enjoy prosperity and happiness, they are still involved in its calamities and deception. Living a good life in this world is condemned and its prosperity does not last. Its people are only its practice targets that it fires at with its arrows and eventually destroys with death.

Dear servants of Allaah! You and all that is with you in this world are following the same path as those who have passed on before you. They had lives longer than yours, they were more powerful than you, they constructed more buildings than you and their landmarks had weathered the times. However, their voices have been silenced and extinguished after their long sojourn. Their bodies have decomposed, their homes lie empty and their landmarks have been wiped out. They have exchanged their fortified palaces, their luxurious beds and their scattered cushions for rocks and stones stacked in their muddy and boxed graves due in the wilderness, fortified with sand only. Although it (the graveyard) may be close to a town, its inhabitants are still estranged and even though it may be in the very midst of an inhabited place, its inhabitants are extremely lonely as the people of the town engage in their activities. They feel no affinity with other inhabitants and do not even engage in mutual neighbourly relations despite being so close to each other. How can they really have any relations when decomposition has ground them to dust and rocks and mud have consumed their bodies. After once being vibrant with life, they now lay dead and after once seeking good lives, they are now reduced to decayed bones. Their friends were pained as they took to live in the sand and undertook a journey from which there is no return. Farfetched! Farfetched indeed (is the thought of returning to this world)! Never (will they return)! The request to return is merely a statement they make (without any hope for a response) because behind them is a (impregnable) barrier until the day when they are resurrected.

You people will also be experiencing the loneliness and decay that they have experienced in the realm of the dead. You will be placed in trust in that resting place and that safety deposit box will take charge of you. What will your condition be when all matters will draw to an end, when everything contained in the graves will be raised, when everything contained in the heart will be exposed and you will be standing before your honoured king to have everything laid bare. Hearts will then flutter out of fear because of past sins. All veils and shrouds will then be torn apart and all your faults and secrets will be exposed. (He then recited the following verses:)

﴿ ٱلْيَوْمَ تُجْزِى كُلُّ نَفْسِ بِمَا كَسَبَتْ ﴾ (سورة مؤمن: آيت١٧)

On this day every soul shall be recompensed for what it earned. {Surah Mu'min, verse 17}

(£9) (سورة كهف: آيت£)

The book (every person's record of actions) shall be placed (given to them) and you will see the sinners afraid of what is contained in them (because it will condemn them to Jahannam). They will say, "We are destroyed! What is (the matter) with this book that (it is so thorough that) it does not leave anything small or large unrecorded?" They will find their actions present (written in their records) and your Rabb shall not oppress anyone. (Surah Kahaf, verse 49)

May Allaah make us and you all practise on His Book and followers of His friends until He enters us all into the home of eternal residence by His grace. Verily He is Most Worthy of Praise, Most Majestic." (1)

Another narration states at the beginning that Hadhrat Ali seek His lecture saying, "All praise belongs to Allaah. I praise Allaah, seek His assistance, believe in Him, rely on Him and I testify that there is none worthy of worship but the One Allaah Who has no partner and that Muhammad is is His servant and Rasul (messenger). Allaah sent him with guidance and the true religion to eradicate all your ailments and to awaken you from your negligence. Remember that you will certainly be dying and resurrected after death, when you will be made to stand to account for your actions and be either rewarded or punished for it. You should therefore never allow this worldly life to deceive you..." The rest of the narration is as quoted above. (2)

His Lecture Concerning Accompanying Funeral Processions

Hadhrat Ja'far bin' Muhammad reports from his grandfather that Hadhrat Ali sees once accompanied a funeral procession. When the deceased was lowered into the grave, the family started to weep loudly. "What makes you weep?" he asked. "By Allaah!" he continued, "If people could witness what the deceased has witnessed, the sight would make them forget all about the deceased. The angel of death will return to them time and time again until he leaves none of them alive."

Hadhrat Ali with then stood up and said, "O servants of Allaah! I emphatically advise you to be conscious of that Allaah Who has cited so many examples for you (to make you understand realities) and has specified the periods you are to live. He has granted you ears so that whatever enters them may be memorised and granted you eyes so that whatever is hidden can become apparent to you. Allaah has also granted you hearts to understand the mechanics of whatever misfortunes strike it and to understand that which gives life to it (Allaah's Dhikr). Allaah has neither created you in vain nor diverted the Reminder (the Qur'aan) from you. On the contrary, He has honoured you with a shower of munificent bounties and granted you the best of gifts most generously.

Allaah has full knowledge of your numbers and has prepared returns for your every condition of prosperity and adversity. O servants of Allaah! You must therefore inculcate Taqwa, earnestly apply yourselves to seeking (the pleasure of Allaah) and hasten to do good deeds before the arrival of that which destroys passions and demolishes all desires (death). This is necessary because the bounties of this world are short-lived and one is never safe from the sudden disasters of this world. In addition to this, the world is also deceptive, ever-changing, a paltry shelter and a shaky support. Things of this world quickly become old and after tiring out a person with his passions, it feeds him only the milk of deception.

Dear servants of Allaah! Take fieed from the lessons you learn and from the signs and indications you observe. Hearken to warnings and take benefit from advices, it is almost as if the talons of death have dug themselves in to you and the home of sand has enveloped you. It is almost as if the most frightening scenes have taken you by surprise when the trumpet is sounded, when graves are emptied, when people are led to the plains of resurrection and made to stand for reckoning under the complete authority of the Almighty. Every soul will then have an angel to push him along to the Plains of Resurrection and also a witness to testify against him for the actions he carried out. The earth will then be illuminated by the light of its Rabb, records of deeds will be presented (to the people), the Ambiyaa and witnesses will be brought forward and without anyone being wronged, all matters will be decided with justice.

Cities will shake on that day, a crier will make the announcement, people will meet (with Allaah), the 'shin' will be exposed⁽¹⁾ and the sun will eclipse. Wild animals will be gathered together on the plains, secrets will be exposed, the evil ones will be destroyed and hearts will tremble. Allaah shall inflict the people of Jahannam with devastating fear and a terrible punishment. Jahannam will be brought forward (for all to see) along with its hooks, yokes, frightening screams, thunderous roars, fury and threats. Its flames will be leaping, its waters will be bubbling all over and its searing winds will be raging. Those doomed there for eternity will have no respite from it and their remorse will never end. The shackles of Jahannam can never be broken and the people there will have angels with them who will give them the news that the hospitality they will be shown will only be boiling water, entry into flaming fires, deprivation from the mercy of Allaah, separation from friends and a trip to the fire of Jahannam.

O servants of Allaah! Fear Allaah as a gentle and humble person would fear, who would flee out of fear and would heed all warnings he is given. Such a person would be on the lookout, would save himself by fleeing, would carry out good deeds for the Aakhirah and take his journey's provisions alone for assistance Allaah suffices as an avenger (for the oppressed) and One who sees everything. Allaah's Book will suffice as a plaintiff and adversary (for those who acted against it) and Jannah will suffice as a reward (for the righteous) while Jahannam will suffice as retribution and punishment (for the sinful). I seek Allaah's forgiveness for myself and for all of you." (1)

His Lecture Encouraging People to Act for the Aakhirah

After duly praising Allaah in one of his lectures, Hadhrat Ali said, "Verily this world is turning its back around and bidding farewell while the Aakhirah is arriving and straining its eyes to look. Today (this world) is the time for the race while tomorrow it will be seen who has gone ahead. Behold! You are passing through days of hope which are followed by your death. Therefore, whoever is neglectful (of doing good) during the days of hope before death approaches will be at a loss. Remember that you should do deeds for Allaah in anticipation for rewards just as you would do them when fearing his punishment. I have never seen a place like fannah yet its seeker is asleep. I have also not seen a place like Jahannam, yet the one who ought to be running away from it is also asleep. Take note of the fact that whoever does not benefit from the truth will still be harmed by falsehood and the one whom guidance does not put on the straight path will certainly be led away (from the straight path) by misguidance.

Listen well! You have been instructed to travel (to the Aakhirah) and have been shown where to find the provisions for the journey. O people! Remember that this world is a ready commodity that both the righteous and the sinful eat of, whereas the Aakhirah is true promise when the All Powerful King (Allaah) shall pass judgement. While Shaytaan threatens you with poverty and instructs you to do lewd acts. Allaah promises you His forgiveness and grace. Allaah is Most Accommodating and All Knowing.

O people! Do good works during your lives and you will be protected in the end. Allaah has promised Jannah for those who obey Him and promised Jahannam for those who disobey Him. The screams of the people in the fire of Jahannam never subsides, the prisoners of Jahannam never escape and those with fractured limbs never have them heal. Its heat is intense, its depth immense and its drink is pus. What I fear most for you people is that you follow the dictates of your passions and that you entertain long hopes of the future. (2) Another narration states that

Hadhrat Ali (1) also added, "...because following one's passions prevents one from the truth and entertaining long hopes makes one forget the Aakhirah."

His Lecture after the Battle at Nahrwaan

Hadhrat Ziyaad A'raabi narrates that Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Ali bin Abi Taalib wo once ascended the pulpit in Kufa after the scourge (of the Khawaarij) and after the battle had been fought (against them) at Nahrwaan. He started by praising Allaah but he then choked on his tears and wept so much that his beard was soaked and the tears, which started running off. He then shook his beard and the droplets of tears happened to fall on some people. Hadhrat Ziyaad says that they commonly believed that Allaah forbade Jahannam from the people on whom those tears fell.

Thereafter, he said, "O people! Never be amongst those people who wish for Jannah without doing any good and who postpone repentance because of their long hopes (hopes to live long). They are people who speak like the abstinent ones yet they behave like those who hanker after the world. If they are given any portion of the world, they are not satisfied and when anything is held back from them, they are not content. They fail to express gratitude for what they are given and still seek to have more. They instruct people to do what they do not themselves do and forbid people from that which they themselves do not abstain from. They love the righteous ones but do not carry out their actions and they detest the sinful ones whereas they are amongst them. The Nafs of such a person overpowers him in matters he is uncertain about (to do worldly acts, the benefits of which are not certain) but does not overpower him in matters he is convinced about (to do acts for the Aakhirah, the benefits of which are guaranteed). When he achieves independence, he falls into sin, when he falls ill, he is grieved and when he suffers poverty, he loses hope and becomes weak-hearted. He takes benefit from both sin and Allaah's bounties without ever being grateful when he is blessed with well-being or even being patient when afflicted with hardship. He behaves as if only others have been warned of death and that only they have been cautioned and rebuked.

O targets of death! O pawns of death! O containers of disease! O spolls of time! O booty of the ages! O fruits of generations! O light of the vicissitudes of time! O muted ones at the time of litigation (on the Day of Qiyaamah)! O those drowning in tribulations that have become an obstacle to them learning lessons! It is with proof and conviction that I state that no successful person can attain success without knowing himself and every destroyed person has destroyed himself. Allaah says:

﴿ لِنَا يَتُهَا الَّذِينَ امَّنُوا قُوْا أَنْفُسَكُمْ وَأَهْلِيكُمْ نَارًا ﴾ (سورة تحريم: آيت:)

'O you who have imaan! Save yourselves and your families from the Fire (of Jahannam).' (Surah Tahreem, verse 6)

May Allaah make us and you all amongst those who listen to advice and accept it and who respond with the correct action when summoned to carry it out." (1)

His Lecture Concerning Enjoining Good and Forbidding Evil

Hadhrat Yahya bin Yamur narrates that in a lecture to the people, Hadhrat Ali bin Abi Taalib. Started by praising Allaah. Thereafter, he said, "O people! Those who came before you were destroyed only because when they started to sin openly and were not stopped by their priests and those attached to Allaah, Allaah sent His punishment to them. Behold! You must remember that enjoining good and forbidding evil neither cuts off your sustenance nor does it bring your death any closer.

Allaah's decisions descend from the heavens just as raindrops fall down. These decisions of Allaah determine whether there will be prosperity or adversity in any aspect concerning a particular person's personal self, his family or his wealth. Therefore, when any of you suffers an adversity in any aspect of his personal self. his family or his wealth and he sees that someone else enjoys quite the opposite. this must never be a cause of tribulation for him. When a Muslim has not been overpowered by a wretched disposition, he expresses humility whenever he thinks of the adversity, whereas a person with a wretched disposition laments over it, behaving like a gambler waiting for his first win (after too many losses) that will bring him plenty of wealth and allow him to settle all the penalties he has had to bear. This also bears a similarity with the Muslim who is trustworthy. Whenever he makes du'aa to Allaah, he waits for one of two good things to happen (either he gets what he prays for or he gets rewards in the Aakhirah). What is with Allaah (his rewards in the Aakhirah) is better for him, otherwise Allaah grants him some wealth, making him a person who has both family and wealth.

There are two types of harvests (the harvest of this world and that of the Aakhirah). While the harvest of this world is wealth and children, the harvest of the Aakhirah is good deeds. Allaah has however granted both to certain people." Hadhrat Sufyaan bin Uyaynah remarked, "Who else but Hadhrat Ali bin Abi Taalib (1888) is capable of speaking such wonderful words?!" (2)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Ali Sassi, "Allaah's decisions descend from the heavens..." The narration continues like the one above, but adds that he also said, "(Whenever he makes du'aa to Allaah, he waits for one of two good things to happen) He may either become a wealthy person with a large family, together with honour and Deen. Otherwise, Allaah will grant him rewards in the Aakhirah and the Aakhirah is always better and everlasting. There are two types of harvests. While the harvest of this world is wealth and Taqwa, the harvest of

The Lecture he Delivered in Kufa

Hadhrat Abu Waa'il reports that in a lecture delivered in Kufa, he heard Hadhrat Ali Six say, "O people! The person who portrays himself as a pauper will soon suffer poverty, the person who lives very long will suffer many trials and the one who does not prepare for adversities will be unable to exercise patience when afflicted. Remember also that the one who assumes a position of authority will practise favouritism and the one who does not consult with others will have regrets."

After saying this, Hadhrat Ali (1986) would say, "Soon there shall remain of Islaam naught but its name and of the Qur'aan naught but its script. Behold! No person should be too shy to learn, neither should he be too shy to admit that he does not know something when asked about something he has no knowledge about. While your Masaajid will be well attended during those times, your hearts and bodies will be bereft of guidance. The worst of you beneath the skies will be your learned ones who will be the source of trouble, which will ultimately return to them."

A man then stood up and asked, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! When will this happen?" Hadhrat Ali (When the knowledge of Deen will rest with the downtrodden ones, when the best of you will carry out indecent acts and when government will be in the hands of your youngsters. It is then that you should just wait for Qiyaamah." (2)

emely Eloquent and Comprehensive Lecture of His Hadhrat Ali street once stood up to deliver a lecture saving, "All praise belongs to Allaah Who has created creation, Who breaks the dawn, Who will resurrect the dead and raise all within the graves. I testify that there is none worthy of worship but Allaah and I testify that Muhammad Wie is the servant and Rasul (messenger) of Allaah. I emphatically advise you to adopt Taqwa. Remember that the best means of attaining proximity to Allaah is by Imaan and Jihaad in the path of Allaah. It is also most effectively attained by the Kalimah of sincerity that is most natural, by establishing salaah, which is part of the true creed, by paving zakaah, which one of the obligatory duties and by fasting during the month of Ramadhaan, which happens to be a shield against Allaah's punishment, Furthermore, it is attained by making Hajj at the Kabah, which eliminates poverty and obliterates sins. Fostering good family ties is also a means (of attaining proximity to Allaah) since it causes one's wealth to increase, one's lifespan to be extended and love within the family to grow. Sadaqah should also be given in secret because it erases sin and extinguishes the wrath of your Rabb. Good deeds need also be carried out because it thwarts a bad death and safeguards one against being floored by abject circumstances.

Engage abundantly in Allaah's Dhikr because it is the best thing to engage the tongue with. You must look forward to the promises Allaah has made to the people of Tagwa because Allaah's promises are the most truthful of all promises. Follow the guidance of your Nabi Be because it is the best of all guidance and adopt his way of life because it is the best of practices to follow. Learn the Book of Allaah because it is the best of all speeches and develop a deep understanding of Allaah's Deen because it is the spring of the heart. Treat (physical and spiritual) illnesses with its light because the Qur'aan is definitely a cure for all that hearts contain. Recite the Qur'aan beautifully because it is the most beautiful of all narratives and when it is recited to you, listen attentively and remain silent so that mercy may be showered on you. When you have been inspired to study the Our'aan practise what you have learnt so that you may receive guidance. Remember that the practising Aalim who does not practise his knowledge, he would be just like the tyrannical ignoramus who cannot be straightened because of his ignorance. In fact, I feel that the regret is more lasting and the case stronger against the Aalim who forsakes his knowledge as opposed to the ignoramus who is confused in his ignorance. Both these persons are astray and destroyed.

Never entertain doubts because it will plunge you into misgivings and it is such misgivings that will lead you to kufr. Do not also practice on concessions because you will then soon become too compromising and as soon as you compromise on the truth, you will lose plenty. Bear in mind that it is an act of intelligence that you rely on Allaah but this reliance should not be such that it leads you to deception. The person who most wishes well for himself will be the most obedient to his Rabb whereas the one who is most deceived will be most disobedient to his Rabb. The person who obeys Allaah will remain safe and happy while the one who disobeys Allaah will remain in fear and have regrets.

Furthermore, you must also pray to Allaah for conviction and always show Him your desire for well-being. In fact, conviction is the best of all things that remain entrenched within the heart. The best of all matters are those that are the most resolute while the worst of them are those that have been fabricated. Remember that every fabricated matter is a Bid'ah and every person who fabricates is engaging in Bid'ah. Such a person will be destroying (the Deen) because whenever he fabricates a Bid'ah, he is forsaking a Sunnah.

Those truly at a loss are those whose Deen is at a loss and who have put their own souls at the losing end (by disobeying Allaah). Verily ostentation is a part of Shirk, while sincerity is a part of good deeds and Imaan. Gatherings of futility make one forget the Qur'aan, are attended by Shaytaan and invite people to misguidance. Remaining in the company of (non-Mahram) women causes the heart to stray and captivates the eyes because women are indeed the traps of Shaytaan.

Be true to Allaah because Allaah is with those who are true and abstain from lying because lying is the antithesis of Imaan. Always bear in mind that the truth stands at the peak of salvation and honour while lying stands at the peak of destruction and devastation. Listen well: Always speak the truth and you will be known for it, practise it and you will be amongst its worthy bearers. Always return trusts to those who have entrusted goods with you. Join ties with those family members who have severed them and be gracious to those who deprive you. Fulfil the pledges you undertake with people, ensure that you exercise justice when passing judgement and never boast about your ancestors before each other. Never call each other names, never make fun of each other and never make each other angry. Assist the poor, the oppressed, those in debt, those striving in the path of Allaah, the beggars and slaves and always show mercy to widows and orphans. Make Salaam common amongst you and reply to the Salaam of those who greet you, using the same words or words that are better. (He then recited the verse:)

Assist each other in good works (virtue and piety) and Taqwa and do not assist each other in sin and transgression (oppression and injustice). Fear (the punishment of) Allaah! Most surely Allaah is severe in punishment. (Surah Maa'idah, verse 2)

Entertain guests, be good to your neighbour, visit the ill, accompany funeral processions and, O servants of Allaah, behave like brothers.

Furthermore, I wish to add that this world has turned its back and bid larewell, whereas the Aakhirah has arrived and is straining its eyes to look. Today (this world) is the time for the race while tomorrow it will be seen who has gone ahead. The winner will have Jannah while at the other end is Jahannam. Behold! You are passing through days of respite which are followed by your death that is approaching very fast. Therefore, whoever does good deeds sincerely for Allaah during the days of respite before his death, has really done well and will have what he hopes for. On the other hand, whoever is neglectful of doing good will be at a loss for good deeds, will have shattered hopes and will actually come to harm because of his hopes. You must do good deeds with hope of reward as well as in fear (for punishment). If you are overcome with hope, then be grateful to Allaah and couple it with hope because Allaah has announced that men shall have Jannah in return for their good deeds and will have an increase (in bountles) for their gratitude.

I have never seen a place like Jannah yet its seeker is asleep. I have also not seen a place like Jahannam, yet the one who ought to be running away from it is also asleep. I have also not seen anyone earn as much as the one who earns for the day when treasures will be accumulated, when secrets will be exposed and when all major sins are collected together. Take note of the fact that whoever does not benefit from the truth will still be harmed by falsehood and the one whom guidance does not put on the straight path will certainly be led away (from the straight path) by misguidance. The one whom conviction does not benefit will be harmed by doubt and the one who does not benefit from what is before him will be one-eyed when viewing something far off and even more helpless when it comes to things that are not present. You have been instructed to travel (to the Aakhirah) and have been shown where to find the provisions for the journey. What I fear most for you people is that you follow the dictates of your passions and that you entertain long hopes of the future. As for entertaining long hopes, it makes one forget the Aakhirah, whereas following one's passions distances one from the truth.

Listen well! While this world has already embarked on its return journey, the Aakhirah has just commenced its arrival. Both these places have their sons, so as far as possible, you should endeavour to be amongst the sons of the Aakhirah and not amongst the sons of this world. While today you have the opportunity for actions without reckoning, tomorrow you will face reckoning without the opportunity for actions." (1)

His Lecture Concerning what will Happen to the Progeny of Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Abu Khayrah reports that he accompanied Hadhrat Ali (Wife) to Kufa, where he ascended the pulpit and duly praised Allaah. Thereafter, addressed the people saying, "What will you people do when the progeny of Rasulullaah (Wife) he attacked whilstinyour midst?" The people replied by saying, "We will then display the most fearsome valour before Allaah." To this, Hadhrat Ali (Wife) remarked, "I swear by the Being Who controls my life that they will certainly be attacked whilst in your midst and you people will go out to kill them yourselves. He then recited the following couplets (which mean):

They bring him (Hadhrat Husayn (1996)) there (to Kufa) in deception and then announce

'Accept his (Yazeed's) call (to pledge allegiance at his hands), otherwise there can be no escape or excuse^{w(2)}

His Lecture In which he Quotes the Words of Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Ibraheem Taymi reports from his father⁽³⁾ that Hadhrat Ali disconnected addressed them saying, "Whoever claims that we (the family of Rasulullaah have) have with us something else to read other than the Book of Allaah and this note, then he is grossly mistaken. All that this note contains is the ages of camels (according to which zakaah is paid), some laws pertaining to (retribution

Whoever claims that another person is his father or whichever slave claims that another person is his master, then he will also have on him the curse of Allaah, of the angels and of all of mankind. His Lecture Concerning the Merits of Hadhrat Abu Bakr was and Hadhrat Umar was

Hadhrat Ibraheem Nakha'ee reports that Hadhrat Alqama bin Qais once mounted the pulpit and said, "It was on this very pulpit that Hadhrat Ali successful delivered a lecture to us. After duly praising Allaah and mentioning certain things, he said, "Verily the best of all people after Rasulullaah see were Abu Bakr successful umar successful." After them, we had initiated many new things, about which Allaah shall pass judgement." (2)

Hadhrat Abu Juhayfah also reports that Hadhrat Ali so once mounted the pulpit where he commenced by praising Allaah and sending salutations to Rasulullaah so. Thereafter, he said, "The best person of this Ummah after Rasulullaah so was Abu Bakr so and next was Umar so. Allaah places goodness wherever He pleases." (3)

Another narration is similar to the first one quoted above, but without the words "After them, we had initiated many new things...". This narration however adds that Hadhrat Ali ("We never regarded it as farfetched to think that it was an angel who would speak with the tongue of Umar ("4")

Hadhrat Alqama reports that Hadhrat Ali some once addressed them. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "The news has reached me that some people regard me to be better than Abu Bakr some and Umar some. Had I forbidden you from this before, I would have certainly punished people for saying it. However, I do not like to punish before first announcing the prohibition. Nevertheless, whoever mentions anything of the sort after this address of mine shall be regarded as a slanderer and shall therefore suffer the penalty of a slanderer (eighty lashes). Verily the best of all people after Rasulullaah saw was Abu Bakr some, followed by Umar some Allaah shall pass judgement." (5)

"I have passed by some people who were making inappropriate statements about Hadhrat Abu Bakr When and Hadhrat Umar When." Hadhrat Ali When immediately sprang up, mounted the pulpit and said, "I swear by the Being Who splits the seed and created the soul that it is a venerable Mu'min who loves the two of them (Hadhrat Abu Bakr When and Hadhrat Umar Wheneas only a wretched and irreligious person will dislike them. Loving them is a means of attaining proximity to Allaah while enmity for them will lead to irreligiousness. What is the matter with certain people that they speak ill of Rasulullaah was two brothers, his two ministers, his two companions, the two leaders of the Quraysh and two fathers of the Muslims? I absolve myself of all those who speak ill of them and I shall have them punished." (1)

A detailed lecture in this regard has already passed in the chapter discussing defending one's pious predecessors.

Hadhrat Ali bin Husayn narrates that after Hadhrat Ali had returned from the Battle of Siffeen, a youngster from the Banu Haashim family asked him, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! I heard you say in the Jumu'ah sermon. 'O Allaah! Set right our affairs as you had done for the rightly guided Khulafaa.' Who were they?" Hadhrat Ali had been so welled with tears as he said, "They were Abu Bakr had Umar had been by whom guidance of guidance, the great scholars of Islaam and the ones by whom guidance was attained after Rasulullaah whoever follows them will be guided to the straight path and whoever does what they did will have direction. Whoever holds fast to their ways will be amongst the group of Allaah and the group of Allaah are the ones who will attain true success." (2)

Various Lectures that Hadhrat Ali Delivered

A scholar from the Banu Tameem tribe reports that Hadhrat Ali (Siess) once addressed them saying, "There shall come a time when people will bite into each other and the wealthy will hold on to their wealth (refusing to spend it on others) whereas they have never been commanded to do that. In fact, Allaah says:

Do not forget kindness among yourself. (Surah Baqarah, verse 237) (During those times) The evil ones will be regarded as honourable while the good people will be looked down upon. Furthermore, people will be buying from desperate people, whereas Rasulullaah forbade buying from people who are desperate (because they are forced to sell, even if it is at a loss). Rasulullaah forbade sales that involve deception and the selling of fruit before it ripens." (3) Hadhrat Abu Ubayd who was the freed slave of Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf

Whenever Rasulullaah (b) dispatched him on an expedition, Hadhrat Jibra'eel (c) would be on his right side, Hadhrat Mikaa'eel (c) would be on his left side and he would not return until Allaah had granted him victory. All that he left in estate was seven hundred Dirhams with which he intended to purchase a slave. (3)

I belong to that household which Allaah had rid of (all spiritual) filth and had thoroughly purified. I belong to that family whom Allaah ..., has made it compulsory (for others) to love and to assist. Allaah says in the revelation He has sent to Muhammad

If this post is really the right of someone else other than me, then I have now handed it over. He then recited the verse:

I have no idea whether it (the delay in punishment) is a test for you (to see whether you repent) or an enjoyment until a stipulated time." {Surah Ambiyaa, verse [11]. (3)

There is none to prevent that which Aliaah grants, none can grant what Aliaah prevents, the wealth of the wealthy cannot assist them and when Aliaah wishes well for a person, He grants him understanding of the Deen. I have heard Rasulullaah speak these words from this very pulpit." (2)

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Abdur Rahmaan reports that he heard Hadhrat Mu'aawiya deliver a lecture saying, "I have heard Rasulullaah say, when Allaah wishes well for a person, He grants him understanding of the Deen. Hadhrat Umayr bin Haani narrates that Hadhrat Mu'aawiya bin Abu Sufyaan once addressed them saying, "I heard Rasulullaah & say, 'Until the Day of Qiyaamah, this Ummah will always remain steadfast on Allaah's Deen and will not be harmed by those who oppose them or by those who do not want to assist them." The Lectures of Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr

His Lecture On the Occasion of Haji

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Abdullaah reports, "I was present when Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr (Blasse delivered a lecture during the occasion of Hajj. We had no idea of his presence until he appeared just before the day of Tarwiya (8th of Dhul Hijjah) when people entered into the state of Ihraam. He was an extremely handsome man in his middle ages, wearing two white garments. When he arrived, the people shouted, 'Here comes the Ameerul Mu'mineen!' He ascended the pulpit and greeted the people. After they replied to his greeting, he recited the most beautiful Talbiya I had ever heard.

He then praised Allaah and said, "You people have come as delegations to Allaah from distant and different places. It is therefore necessary that Allaah should honour you. Whoever has come in search of what is with Allaah should know that the one who seeks Allaah shall never return empty-handed. You must therefore confirm your words with deeds because deeds are the masters of words and intentions are confined to the heart. Fear Allaah! Fear Allaah in these days of yours because these are days during which Allaah forgives sins. Remember that you have come here from various distant lands without the desire for trade, wealth or any other aspect of this world."

Allaah knows whatever good deed you do. Take your provisions along with you (for the journey), but (always remember that) the best of provisions is Tagwa." (Surah Bagarah, verse 197)

Allaah states further: (وَاكْرُونَ كُمُا سُلُغُونَ الله Allaah states further: (وَاكْرُونَ كُمَا سُلُغُونَ الله Memember Him as He had guided you. The next command is not general, but addressed specifically to the people of this city (Makkah) who used to depart (back to Makkah) from Muzdalifah (without going to Arafaat at all), while others departed from Arafaat. Slamming this act of theirs, Allaah revealed the verse:

'And proceed from the place where the people proceed from (when heading off to fulfil the other rights of Hajj in Mina)! (Surah Baqarah, verse 199)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr (Singles) continued further. He said, "It was the practice of the people to boast about their forefathers after completing their Hajj. It was with regard to this that Aliaah revealed the verse stating:

(Once you have completed your Hajj rites) Remember Allaah as you remember your forefathers, or (rather with) an even greater remembrance. From among man there are those (the Kaaliroon) who say, 'O our Rabb, grant us in this world.' (They are then granted their needs in this world whereas) They shall have no share (of good) in the Aakhirah. (On the other hand) From among them there are also those (the Mu'mineen) who say, 'O our Rabb, grant us (all that which is) good in this world, (all that which is) good in the Aakhirah and save us from the punishment of the fire (of Jahannam).' {Surah Baqarah, verses 200,201}

These people work in this world for the good of this world as well as for the Aakhirah." He then continued reciting until he reached the verse:

Carry out the Dhikr (remembrance) of Allaah during the limited days (10th, 11th, 12th and 13th of Dhul Hijjah). (Surah Baqarah, verse 203)

With reference to this verse, he commented, "These are the days of Tashreeq. The Dhikr of Allaah to be carried out during these days consist of (دُنْتُونَ اللهُ اللهُ) ("Subhaanallaah"), (اللهُ أَلْهُ اللهُ اللهُ) ("Allaahu Akbar") and other glorifications of Allaah."

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr then spoke of the various points from where people need to enter the state of Ihraam. He said, "The place from where the people of Madinah need to enter into Ihraam is Dhul Hulayfah, the place from where the people of Iraq need to enter into Ihraam is Aqeeq, the place from where the people of Najd and Taa'if need to enter into Ihraam is Qarn and the place from where the people of Yemen need to enter into Ihraam is Yalamlam." He then cursed the disbellevers from the Ahlul Kitaab saying, "O Allaah! Punish the disbellevers from the Ahlul Kitaab who reject Your signs, disbelieve in your Ambiyaa and who prevent others from Your path. O Allaah! Punish them and give them the hearts of immoral women." He then proceeded to make many more du'aas.

He then continued to say, "There are many men here whose hearts have been blinded just as their sight has been. Their ruling in the case of Tamattu Hajj is that if a person arrives from Khurasaan with the Ihraam for Hajj, they tell him that he may emerge from the Hajj Ihraam after performing Umrah and then enter into Ihraam again for his Hajj (whereas the person intending Hajj may emerge from his Hajj Ihraam only after performing Hajj). By Allaah! This type of Tamattu is permissible only for the person in straitened circumstances."

He then recited the Talbiya and the people recited it as well. The narrator says that he had not seen so many people weeping as he did on that day. (1)

A single salaah in the Masjidul Haraam is a hundred times superior (than a salaah in my Masjid)."

Hadhrat Ataa says further, "That makes it (the rewards) a hundred thousand (more than in any other Masjid in the world). I therefore asked, 'O Abu Muhammad! You must therefore take along with you the best that you have with you because we have been informed that a stone thrown from the edge of Jahannam will continue falling for seventy years without reaching the bottom. He said, "All praise belongs to Allaah Whom I praise, from Whom I seek help, Who I believe in and in Whom do I rely. I testify that there is none worthy of worship but Allaah and I testify that Muhammad is is the servant and Rasul of Allaah. O people! Verily this world has already..." The rest of the narration is like both narrations quoted above. (3)

The Lectures of Hadhrat Hudhayfah bin Yamaan 🕬

Hadhrat Abu Abdur Rahmaan Sulami reports, "I once accompanied my father for the Jumu'ah salaah in Madaa'in. We lived a Farsakh away from the Masjid and it was during the time when Hadhrat Hudhayfah bin Yamaan was the governor of Madaa'in. He ascended the pulpit and after praising Allaah, he recited the verse:

Qiyaamah has drawn close and the moon has been split. (Surah Qamar, verse I) He then continued, 'Listen well! The moon has already been split. Listen well! This world has already announced her departure. Listen well! Today (this world) is the time for the race while tomorrow it will be seen who has gone ahead.' I then asked my father, 'What does he mean by the race?' My father informed me that he was referring to the race to Jannah." (4)

Another similar narration states that Hadhrat Hudhayfah (1986) said, "Allaah says:

Qiyaamah has drawn close and the moon has been split. (Surah Qamar, verse 1) Listen well! The moon has already been split ..." This narration concludes with Hadhrat Abu Abdur Rahmaan Sulami saying, "I then asked my father, 'Will people be running a race tomorrow?' 'Dear son!' my father remarked, 'You do not

When we attended the following jumu'ah salaah, Hadhrat Hudhayfah said in his lecture, "Behold! Verily Allaah said: says:

Qiyaamah has drawn close and the moon has been split. {Surah Qamar, verse 1} 'Listen well! This world has already announced her departure. Listen well! Today (this world) is the time for the race while tomorrow it will be seen who has gone ahead. Take note that at the end is the fire of Jahannam while the race is on for those heading for Jannah." (1)

Hadhrat Kurdoos narrates that in a lecture in Madaa'in, Hadhrat Hudhayfah said, "O people! Closely monitor what your slaves earn. If it is Halaal, you may utilise it, otherwise, discard it because I have heard Rasulullaah say that no flesh nourished with Haraam can ever enter Jannah." (2)

Another narration states that in a lecture he delivered in Madaa'in, Hadhrat Hudhayfah said, "O people! Be vigilant over your slaves and ensure that you know their sources of income because the flesh nourished by Haraam can never enter Jannah. Remember also that the seller, the buyer and the maker of wine are just like the one who consumes it." (3)

A Lecture of Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari

Hadhrat Qasaama bin Zuhayr narrates that Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari sussissionce addressed the people of Basrah saying, "O people! Do weep (over your sins and for fear of Jahannam) and if you are unable to weep, then at least pretend to do so because the people of Jahannam will weep until their tears will come to an end. When their tears are eventually finished, they will cry blood so much that even ships will be able sail on it." (4)

A lecture of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas

Hadhrat Shaqeeq says, "When Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas 5000 was the Ameer of Hajj, he delivered a lecture. He started reciting Surah Baqarah and he commented on each verse as he recited. (This was so impressive that) I said, 'I have never seen or heard anyone speak like this. If the Romans and Persians have to hear this, they will surely accept Islaam." (5)

Lectures of Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah

Hadhrat Abu Yazeed Madeeni reports that Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah Source ascended Rasulullaah (Sees pulpit and stood on a step lower than that on which Rasulullaah (Sees stood. He then said, "All praise belongs to Allaah Who has guided Abu Hurayrah to Islaam. All praise belongs to Allaah Who has taught Abu Hurayrah the Qur'aan. All praise belongs to Allaah Who has blessed Abu Hurayrah with Muhammad & All praise belongs to Allaah Who has fed me leavened bread and given me fine garments to wear. All praise belongs to Allaah Who has given me the hand of Ghazwaan's daughter in marriage after I had been her servant to earn food to fill my belly and now I am able to annoy her just as she used to annoy me, Destruction will come to the Arabs because of the evil that has already arrived. Destruction will come to them because they will be led by mere children who will rule according to their passion and will kill in anger. Glad tidings to you, O non-Arabs! I swear by the Being Who controls my life that even if Deen is suspended on the Pleiades constellation, a group from you will certainly reach it." (1)

Hadhrat Abu Habeebah narrates that he entered the house of Hadhrat Uthmaan during the period when he was besieged in it. It was then he heard Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah seek permission to address Hadhrat Uthmaan When permission was granted, Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah stood up, duly praised Allaah and then said, "I have heard Rasulullaah say, 'You will surely encounter plenty of tribulation and disputes after me.' 'O Rasulullaah strength someone asked, What do you advise us to do?' Rasulullaah strength 'Attach yourselves with the Ameer and those with him." Saying this, Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah strength someone towards Hadhrat Uthmaan strength.

A Lecture of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam 🕮 🍪

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Yusuf bin Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam reports that he once sought permission to see Hajjaaj bin Yusuf and when permission was granted, he entered and greeted with Salaam. Hajjaaj instructed two men sitting close to his chair to make way and when they did, Hadhrat Muhammad bin Yusuf sat down. Hajjaaj then said to him, "May Allaah grant abundant good to your father. Do you know the narration that your father reported to Abdul Malik bin Marwaan, which he heard from your grandfather Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam "May Allaah have mercy on you," Hadhrat Muhammad bin Yusuf remarked, "there are so many narrations. Which one is it?" Hajjaaj replied, "The narration of the Egyptians when they blockaded the house of Hadhrat Uthmaan Hadhrat Muhammad bin Yusuf then said, "I know that narration, When Hadhrat Uthmaan was besieged in his house, Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam was arrived and entered the house. The people gave him way until he came to Hadhrat Uthmaan was and said, 'Peace be on you, O Ameerul Mu'mineen!' 'Peace be on you too,' Hadhrat Uthmaan was replied, 'What brings you here, O Abdullaah bin Salaam?' Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam was replied, 'I have come to remain by your side (and to fight these people) until I am either martyred or until Allaah grants you victory because I estimate that these people will definitely come out to fight you. If they ever succeed in martyring you, it will be good for you but terrible for them.' To this Hadhrat Uthmaan Saids said, 'I ask you by the rights I have over you that you must go out to them (and explain to them the error of their ways).' (Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam Saids complied and) When the rebels saw him approach them, they gathered around, hoping to hear some news that would please them.

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam then stood before them to deliver a lecture. After duly praising Allaah, he said, 'Verily Allaah had sent Muhammad as a giver of glad tidings and a warner. He gave the glad tidings of Jannah to those who obeyed him and warned those who disobeyed him about the fire of Jahannam. Allaah then made those who followed Rasulullaah prevail over the adherents to every other faith even though the Mushrikeen detested this. From all the other chosen places of residence, Allaah chose Madinah as the residence of Rasulullaah as and made it the place of Hijrah and the place of Imaan. By Allaah! Angels have been surrounding Madinah ever since Rasulullaah as entered it and remain doing so to this day. Allaah's sword has also remained sheathed against you (because of which Muslims have not been fighting each other) and remains so until this day."

'Allaah had sent Muhammad with the truth and whoever takes guidance (from him) has been guided by the guidance of Allaah and whoever strays has done so after matters have been made plain to him and proven beyond doubt. It is a fact that whenever a Nabi with has been martyred in the past, seventy thousand warriors had lost their lives, each one being killed in retribution for the killing of the Nabi with. Similarly, whenever a Khalifah has been martyred, thirty five thousand warriors had lost their lives, each one being killed in retribution for the killing of the Khalifah. You people should therefore never be rushed into assassinating this elderly man because I swear by Allaah that the person who kills him will appear before Allaah on the Day of Qiyaamah with an amputated and paralysed hand. Remember well that this elderly man has as many rights over you as a father has over his son.'

The rebels however stood up and shouted, "The Jew is lying! The Jew is lying! Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salaam Salaam retorted by saying, 'I swear by Allaah that it is you who are the liars and the ones at fault. I am not a Jew but one of the Muslims, Allaah, Rasulullaah and all the Mu'mineen know this fact well. It is with reference to me that Allaah revealed the verse:

(الْكُوْلُ كُفُى بِاللَّهِ شَهِيدًا بَيْنَىٰ وَ بَيْنَكُوْ لا وَمَنْ عِنْدُهُ عِلْمُ الْكِتْبِ (الْكَوْبُ (وَمِدَ الْبِعَاءِ)) (O Rasululaah (عَلَى) Say (to the Mushrikeen), 'Allaah is sufficient as witness between us (to attest that I am truly His messenger), and so are those who possess the knowledge of the Book (such as Hadhrai Abdullaah bin Salaam (الْكَافِيةُ) (Surah Raid, verse 43)

Allaah has also revealed another verse, which is:

مِثْلِهِ فَاهَنَ وَاسْتَكْبُرْ تُمْ عَلَى (سورة احفاف آيت١١)

(O Rasulullaah (1) Say (to the Mushrikeen), 'Tell me, What if this Qur'aan is really from Allaah and you people deny it (without good reason) and are too proud (to accept it) although a witness from the Bani Israa'eel (those learned in the original teachings of the Torah and Injeel, such as Abdullaah bin Salaam (1) testifies to a similar (divine) book and believes in it (believes that the Qur'aan is from Allaah?" (Surah Ahgaaf, verse 10)

The narration then proceeds to recount the martyrdom of Hadhrat Othmaan $\mathfrak{S}(\mathfrak{S})$

The lectures of Hadhrat Husayn bin Ali

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Hasan narrates that when Umar bin Sa'd arrived (with his army) to confront Hadhrat Husayn Stood up to address his companions. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "Matters have reached a head as you can see. Life in this world has changed and become detestable. The good of this life has turned away and passed on. All that is left of the good is the equivalent of what remains at the bottom of a utensil (after the contents have been poured out). What is left of life is the worst of it like a diseased pasture (that makes every grazing animal ill). Do you not see that the truth is no longer practised on and that people do not refrain from falsehood? Every Mu'min should look forward to meeting Allaah. I regard death as something most fortunate and life amongst oppressors as a source of great anguish." (2)

Hadhrat Ugba bin Abul Ayraaz narrates that it was at a place called Bayda that Hadhrat Husayn with the army of Hurr bin Yazeed (whose army had arrived to fight Hadhrat Husayn 劉國語). After praising Allaah, he said, "O people! Verily Rasulullaah as said, When a person sees a tyrannical ruler who permits what Allaah has made Haraam, who reneges his pledge with Allaah, who contradicts the Sunnah of Allaah's Rasool and and who sins and transgresses against Allaah's servants and he neither acts or speaks out against such a ruler (despite having the ability to do so), Allaah takes it upon Himself to enter such a person into the same place He will be entering the tyrant (i.e. into Jahannam).' Take note of the fact that these people (the present ruling party) have taken it upon themselves to obey Shaytaan, to forsake obedience to Allaah, to spread corruption, to renounce the restrictions Allaah has set, to show favouritism when distributing booty, to make legal what Allaah has forbidden and to forbid what Allaah has made lawful. I am most obliged to change all of this. (O people of Kufa!) Your letters had come to me and many of your messengers had also come to me with the assurance that you will never desert me or leave me in the lurch. If you fulfil this pledge of allegiance to me, you will have been rightly guided because I am Husayn the son of Ali and the son of Faatima who was the daughter of Rasulullaah . My life is with yours and my family is with yours, so you should follow the example in me (by pledging your lives and families for mine as well). If you do not do this and choose to renege on your promise and to absolve yourselves of your pledge to loyalty, I swear by my life that I do not at all find this strange because you have already done the same to my father, my brother and my cousin (Muslim bin Aqeel). A truly deceived person is one who is deceived by you. You people have forsaken your share to good fortune and whoever breaks his promise does so to his own detriment. Allaah will soon make me completely independent of you. Was Salaamu Alaykum wa Rahmatullaahi wa Barakaatuh."

The Lectures of Hadhrat Yazeed bin Shajarah

Hadhrat Mujaahid says, "Hadhrat Yazeed bin Shajarah was one of those people whose words always materialised into action. He once addressed us saving. 'O people! Remember Allaah's favours on you because Allaah's favours on you are tremendous indeed. They are found in all colours and in the things we have in our homes.' He would often say, 'When people form their rows for salaah and to do battle, the doors of the skies, the doors of Jannah and the doors of Jahannam open. The wide-eyed damsels of Jannah beautify themselves and watch closely. When the person steps forward, they pray, 'O Allaah! Assist him' but if he turns his back, they conceal themselves from him saying, 'O Allaah! Forgive him.' May my parents be sacrificed for you! Engage the enemy in full combat and do not disappoint the damsels. The first drop of blood that spills (of a martyr) erases every sin he has committed and it is then that two of his wives from Jannah descend to wipe his face saving, 'The time has come for you.' He will respond by saying, 'The time has come for you.' He will then be clothed in a hundred garments which will not be woven like the garments of man, but will be the products of Jannah. (They are so fine that) If they (all hundred of them) are placed between two fingers, they will fit comfortably. He also used to say, 'We have been informed that swords are really the keys to Jannah."(2)

Hadhrat Mujaahid reports, "Hadhrat Yazeed bin Shajarah Rahaawi was one of the governors of Shaam whom Hadhrat Mu'aawiya was one of the governors of Shaam whom Hadhrat Mu'aawiya was had placed in command of the armed forces. He once addressed us saying, 'O people! Remember Allaah's favours on you. If only you could see the many shades of them as I do, in addition to the many things we have in our homes. When people stand up for salaah, the doors of the skies, the doors of Jahannam open. The wide-eyed damsels of Jannah beautify themselves and watch closely. Then when a person steps forward to do battle, they pray, 'O Allaah! Keep him steadfast! O Allaah! Assist him! However, if he turns his back, they conceal themselves from him saying, 'O Allaah! Forgive him! O Allaah! Have mercy on him.' May my parents be sacrificed for you! Engage the enemy in full combat because when a person steps forward (and is martyred) the first drop of his blood that causes his sins to fall off just as the leaves of a tree fall off. Two damsels from the wide-eyed damsels of Jannah then descend to wipe the dust off his face. 'I am yours,' he says. 'No,' they reply, 'We are yours.' He will then be clothed in a hundred garments (so fine that) if they (all hundred of them) are placed between these two fingers (the index and middle fingers), they will fit comfortably. They are not woven like the garments of man, but are the clothes of Jannah.

Your names are recorded by Allaah together with details of your character traits, your qualities, the secret discussions you engage in and the gatherings you attend. Then on the Day of Qiyaamah, it will be said to some people, 'O person! Here is your light (by which you will be led to Jannah).' It will also be said to others, 'O person! There is no light for you.' Jahannam has a shore just as the ocean has a shore. This shore is however infested with insects, snakes as long as palm trees and scorpions as large as mules. When the people of Jahannam will plead for the runishment to be lightened, they will be told to go to the shore. When they go there, the insects will start biting their lips, faces and other parts of the body, because of which they will then plead to be delivered from there back to the fire of Jahannam. They will also be made to suffer from an itch so sever that they will scratch at it so much that their bones will eventually become exposed. 'O person!' it will be said to one of them, 'Does this cause you pain?' When he replies that it certainly does, he will be told, 'This is because of the pain that you caused to the Mu'mineen."

The Lecture of Hadhrat Umayr bin Sa'd

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Suwayd reports that a Sahabi by the name of Hadhrat Umayr bin Sa'd seed was the governor of Hims and would say from the pulpit, "Listen well! Islaam has a fortified wall and a reinforced door. The wall of Islaam is justice and its door is the truth. (The adherents to) Islaam will be vanquished only when this wall is demolished and when the door is torn apart. Islaam will remain strong as long as the (Muslim) rulers remain firm. The firmness of the rulers is not in their killing by the sword nor by their striking with the whip, but by passing judgement according to the truth and by adhering to justice." (2)

The Lecture of Hadhrat Sa'd bin Ubayd Qaari the father of Hadhrat Umayr

A Lecture of Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal

Hadhrat Salamah bin Sabarah reports that it was in Shaam that Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal diese addressed them saying, "You are the Mu'mineen and the people of Jannah. By Allaah! I truly feel that Allaah will admit into Jannah every person you take prisoner from Rome and Persia. This is because whenever they do any service for you, you say, 'You have done well! May Allaah have mercy on you!' or 'You have done well! May Allaah bless you!" He then recited the verse:

﴿ وَيَسْتَجِينُ الَّذِينَ امْنُوا وَعَمِلُوا الصَّلِحِتِ وَيَزِيدُهُمْ مِنْ فَصْلِم *) (سورة شورئ آيت٢١)

Hadhrat Howshab Fazaari reports that he heard Hadhrat Abu Dardaa deliver a lecture from the pulpit saying, "I fear the day when my Rabb deliver will summon me saying, 'O Uwaymir!' When I respond by saying, 'I am at Your service, O my Rabb!', Allaah shall ask, 'How did you practise on your knowledge?' Then every verse in Allaah's Book containing a command and every verse containing an admonition shall claim their rights. The verses containing commands testify that I did not carry out the command and every verse containing an admonition will testify that I did not take heed to the admonition it contained. How will I then be left alone?" (2)

Chapter Seventeen

The Chapter Concerning The Advices of the Sahabah

This chapter discusses how Nabi and the Sahabah advised people and accepted the advice given to them, regardless of whether they were at home or on journey. It also highlights how they turned their attention away from the material things of this world and its pleasures to focus on the bounties of the Aakhirah. They so vehemently cautioned people to beware of disobeying Allaah that tears flowed and hearts became overawed. It appeared as if the Aakhirah and the conditions on the Plain of Resurrection were plain before their eyes. This chapter illustrates how they led the Ummah of Muhammad by by the hand through their advices and turned their attention towards the Creator of the heavens and the earth, thereby severing the arteries of every open and discreet form of Shirk.

Rasulullaah & 's Advices

Rasulullaah ﷺ profound Advice to Hadhrat Abu Dharr Ghifaari

Hadhrat Abu Dharr Freports that he once asked Rasululiaah was what the scriptures revealed to Hadhrat Ibraheem (contained, Rasulullaah) replied. "They were full of expressions such as 'O conquering, troubled and deceived king! I have not sent you to gather the things of this world and to heap piles upon another. I have sent you to prevent the plea of the oppressed from reaching Me because I never reject such a plea even though it may come from a Kaafir.' As long as a thinking man does not lose his senses, he should distribute his time in a few activities. He should devote some time in secret conversation with his Rabb, some time engaging in introspection, some time contemplating over the creations of his Rabb dead and some time expressly for his needs of food and drink. The thinking man must not undertake a journey unless it be for one of three reasons; to earn provisions for the Aakhirah, to set right an affair pertaining to his livelihood or to gain some pleasure that is not forbidden. It is also necessary for the thinking man to have a deep insight into his times and to be prepared for its conditions. He must also guard his tongue. Whoever judges his words by his actions will have few words to speak unless it concerns matters of importance."

"O Rasulullaah "I" Hadhrat Abu Dharr Sasked further, "What did the scriptures of Hadhrat Moosa Contain?" Rasulullaah "Fe replied. "It was replete with lessons (such as) I am astonished at the person who is convinced about death, yet enjoys himself. I am astonished at the person who is convinced about the fire of Jahannam, yet he continues to laugh. I am astonished at the person who is convinced about predestination, yet he still exert himself unnecessarily. I am astonished at the person who sees this world and how it keeps passing from person to person, yet he places his trust in her. I am astonished at the person who is convinced about reckoning tomorrow, yet he does not work for it."

"O Rasulullaah "F" Hadhrat Abu Dharr See then asked, "Do advise me."
Rasulullaah "Complied by saying, "I advise you to adopt Taqwa because it is the fountainhead of all affairs." "Do advise me further, O Rasulullaah "Hadhrat Abu Dharr See asked. Rasulullaah "Es said, "Ensure that you recite the Qur'aan and engage in Allaah's Dhikr because this is a light for you in this world and a treasure in the Aakhirah." "O Rasulullaah "Hadhrat Abu Dharr entreated, "Give me some more advice." Rasulullaah "E continued, "Abstain from excessive laughter because it kills the heart and removes the light from one's face."

"Do advise me further, O Rasulullaah & Hadhrat Abu Dharr Bless pleaded. Rasulullaah advised him further saying, "Ensure that you participate in lihaad because it is the monasticism of my Ummah." When Hadhrat Abu Dharr 學學多 asked for more advice, Rasulullaah 操譯 further stated, "Ensure that you remain silent for extended periods because this will repel Shaytaan and assist you in matters of Deen." Upon Hadhrat Abu Dharr Susses further insistence, Rasulullaah WE continued his advice saying, "Love the poor and keep their company." "O Rasulullaah (Hadhrat Abu Dharr (implored, "Please give me more advice." Rasulullaah Es said, "Look at those who are inferior to you and do not look at those who are superior to you because this is more conducive to you not looking down on Allaah's favours upon you." Again Hadhrat Abu Dharr 歌歌 asked, "O Rasulullaah 學學! Advise me further." To this, Rasulullaah 學學 stated, "Speak the truth regardless of how bitter it may be." Upon yet another request from Hadhrat Abu Dharr (Rasulullaah (F)'s advice was, "Knowing your own faults should prevent you from finding faults in others and never be angry with others for the faults you have yourself. You will be guilty enough for finding such faults in people that you do not know exist within yourself and for becoming angry with others for the things you yourself do." Rasulullaah 優麗 then placed his hand on Hadhrat Abu Dharr 經過多 chest and said, "O Abu Dharr! There is no intelligence like astute planning, no piety like abstinence and no family pride as excellent as good character. (1)

"Do you know the Example of each one of you and his family, wealth and Deeds?"

Hadhrat Aa'isha @ narrates that Rasulullaah @ once said to the Sahabah "Do you know the example of each one of you and his family, wealth and actions?" "Allaah and His Rasool Keek know best," the Sahabah Keek submitted. Rasulullaah & then explained, "The example of each one of you and his family. wealth and deeds is like a person with three brothers. When lying on his deathbed, the man summons one of his brothers and asks, 'You can see the plight I am now facing. What are you able to do for me?' This brother replies by saying, 'What I have to offer you is that I shall nurse you tirelessly and tend to all your affairs. When you pass away, I shall bathe you, shroud you and carry you along with the others. I shall be carrying you awhile and sometimes also be removing anything harmful from your path. Thereafter, when I return (after the burial), I shall sing your praises whenever someone asks about you.' This brother represents his family. What do you think of him?" "O Rasulullaah (29)!" the Sahabah @ replied, "We do not see too much in what he has to offer." Rasulullaah then continued, "The man then summons the second brother and asks, You can see the plight I am now facing. What are you able to do for me?' This brother replies by saying, 'I have nothing to offer you unless you are alive. As soon as you die, I shall go my way and you will go yours.' This brother represents his wealth. What do you think of him?" The Sahabah (replied, "O Rasulullaah (We do not see too much in what he has to offer either."

Rasulullaah further stated, "The man then summons the third brother and asks, 'You can see the plight I am now facing. What are you able to do for me?" This brother replies by saying, 'I shall be your companion in your grave and your friend in your loneliness. On the day when actions will be weighed, I shall sit in your scale and lend my weight to it.' This brother represents his good deeds. What do you think of him?" The Sahabah replied, "O Rasulullaah Fe remarked, "is the best brother and the best companion." "That," Rasulullaah Fe remarked, "is exactly the way matters are."

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Kurz sies then stood up and said, "O Rasulullaah sies Do you permit me to string a few couplets concerning this?" When Rasulullaah sies granted him permission, it was a mere day afterwards that he returned to Rasulullaah sies and others gathered around him, as he recited the following couplets (which mean):

"Indeed I, my family and the deeds I have sent ahead are like the one who called his friends and said in an address to his brothers who were three 'Do offer assistance in this matter that has befallen me A lengthy separation the outcome of which is uncertain What have you to offer in what appears to be most devastating' One of them says, 'I am the one who will obey you in all matters before you leave

however, when the separation occurs

I will be unable to maintain our bond of kinship

Take what you please from me now because I will soon be taken on another precarious road

If you wish to keep me, you will be unable to do so

However, you may hastily spend me before a sudden death to make some amends'

The other then speaks whom I loved most dearly

Whom I had always favoured over others with my affections

The help I can offer is to do my best and to wish well for you at the time when you have the most difficulty. I can however not fight your death

Nonetheless, I shall weep and wail for you and sing your praises to all who ask about you

I shall follow those accompanying your funeral procession and gently assist all those who carry you to your destination, where you will be entered

I shall then return to continue with my occupations

as if there had never been any friendship between us nor any love that we shared between ourselves'

This is the family of the person and the help they can offer

As much as they would like, they can do no more

The other then speaks and says, 'I am that brother the like of whom you have never seen another at this time of difficulty and trepidation

You will find me sitting there by your grave arguing in your defence and responding to every interrogation

On the day deeds are weighed, I shall be sitting in the scale that you have always endeavoured to weigh down

Never forget me and recognise my status because I am most compassionate and helpful to you and will never desert you'

Such are the good deeds you carry out Had you done well, you shall meet them on the day of the meeting"

Rasulullaah and all the Sahabah sassistarted weeping at these words and whenever Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Kurz sassis passed by any group of Muslims, they called him to recite the poem to them. They would then burst out in tears when he did so. (1)

The Advices of Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab

The Advice he gave to Someone

Hadhrat Umar (Signature) once advised a man saying, "Never allow people to distract

⁽¹⁾ Raamhurmuzi in his Amthaal, as quoted in Kanzul Unimaal (Vol.8 Pg.124). The narration has also been reported by Ja'far Piryaabi in his Kitaabul Kuna, by Ibn Abi Aasim in his Wahdaan, by Ibn Shaaheen, by Ibn Mandah in his Sahabah, by Ibn Abi Duriya in his Kifaalah, as quoted in Isaabah (Vol.2 Pg.362).

you from yourself because you are ultimately responsible for yourself and not for them. Never spend your days wandering about because everything you do is recorded. Always carry out a good deed whenever you sin because I have never seen anything catch up with another as fast as a newly done good deed catches up with an old sin." (1)

Hadhral Umar (Sies) also said, "Stay away from that which causes you harm, ensure that you have righteous friends even though such people are scarce and consult those who fear Allaah about all your matters." (2)

Eighteen Wise Advices from the Lips of Hadhrat

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Musayyib reports that there were eighteen guidelines that Hadhrat Umar (Simons) formulated for the people, every one of which is replete with wisdom. He said,

- "(1) When someone disobeys Allaah in matter that impacts on you, you can give him no punishment worse than obeying Allaah in matters that impact on him.
- (2) Always assume the best about your brother unless you learn something about him that you absolutely cannot reconcile.
- (3) Never assume the worst about any statement that a Muslim makes as long as you are able to make a favourable interpretation.
- (4) The person who exposes himself to slander must never rebuke anyone who holds a bad opinion of him.
- (5) Whoever guards his secrets will retain the choice in his hands.
- (6) Ensure that you keep true friends to stay under their wings because they are a source of beauty during times of prosperity and a means of protection during times of hardship.
- (7) Always speak the truth even though it leads to your death.
- (8) Never delve into matters that do not concern you.
- (9) Do not ask about matters that have not occurred because that which has already taken place is enough to preoccupy you from that which has not.
- (10) Never seek your needs from one who does not want to see your success.
- (11) Never treat false oaths lightly because Allaah will then destroy you.
- (12) Never keep the company of the sinners to learn from their sinful ways.
- (13) Keep away from your enemy.
- (14) Beware even of your friends, except for the trustworthy one and none can be trustworthy unless he fears Allaah.
- (15) Be humble when in the graveyard,
- (16) submit to Allaah's obedience and
- (17) seek Allaah's protection at the time of disobeying His commands, (18) Consult with those who fear Allaah because Allaah says:

From Allaah's bondsmen, it is only those with knowledge (those who recognise Him) who fear Him. (Surah Faatir, verse 28)⁽¹⁾

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Shihaab reports that Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab said, "Never delve into matters that do not concern you, keep your distance from your enemy and be cautious even of your friends unless he is a trustworthy person because nothing can compare with a trustworthy person. Never keep the company of a sinner because he will teach you his sinful ways and never disclose your secrets to him. Always consult with those who fear Allaah [160]: "(2)

"Men are of three Categories and Women are of three Categories"

Hadhrat Samurah bin Jundub reports that Hadhrat Umar wood once said, "Men are of three categories and women are also of three categories. As for women, there is the woman who is chaste, is a Muslim, is gentle, loving and has many children. She assists her family against the (fashions and influences of the) times and does good to assist in the times against her family, It is however rare to find such a woman. The second is the woman makes many demands and does nothing more than bear children. The third is a parasitic yoke that Allaah places around the neck of whoever He pleases and removes from the neck of whoever He pleases.

As for the three categories of men, one is the man who is chaste, easy-going, gentle, holding intelligent opinions and always offering the best counsel. Whenever any matter arises, he consults with others and matters are always settled with his opinion. The other is the man who has no sound opinions but when any matter arises, he consults men of good judgement and does what they advise. The third man is the bewildered person who cannot distinguish right from wrong. He neither consults with others nor takes the opinion of someone offering guidance." (3)

His Advice to Hadhrat Ahnaf bin Qais

Hadhrat Ahnaf bin Qais narrates that Hadhrat Umar (mais once said to him, "O Ahnaft The person who laughs too much loses respect and the one who jokes too much is not taken seriously. The one who talks too much, makes too many mistakes, the one who makes too many mistakes loses modesty, the one who loses modesty loses piety and the heart of the one who loses piety eventually dies." (4)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Umar Sizes said, "The person who laughs too much loses respect, the one who jokes too much is not taken seriously and the one who indulges too much in something is known for it. The one who talks too much, makes too many mistakes..." The rest of the narration is like the one

"There are some servants of Allaah who annihilate falsehood by staying away from it and revive the truth by speaking of it"

Hadhrat Umar Said, "There are some servants of Allaah who annihilate falsehood by staying away from it and revive the truth by speaking of it. When given encouragement (to do good), they are encouraged and when warned against something, they take heed. When fearing something, they are never off guard. With the power of conviction, they are able to see things they have never seen, blending these into those memories that never leave. Their fear for Allaah has purified their souls and they forsake that which will leave them (the pleasures of this world) for that which will always remain theirs (the bounties of the Aakhirah). Life is a bounty for them and death is a source of honour because they will marry the wide-eyed damsels of Jannah and be waited upon by servants of eternal youth." (2)

Miscellaneous Advices that he Gave

Hadhrat Umar (Similar) once said, "Become coffers of the Qur'aan, fountains of knowledge and ask Allaah for your sustenance on a day-to-day basis." Another narration states that he also added, "Remain in the company of those who repent excessively because such people have the softest hearts," (3)

Hadhrat Umar (1986) also said, "The person who fears Allaah will never vent his anger and will never do as he pleases. Had it not been for the Day of Qiyaamah, matters would have been very much different to what you see." (4)

It was Hadhrat Umar who said, "The person who is just to people despite the hardship he has to endure, will be granted success in all his endeavours. Humbling oneself in obedience to Allaah is closer to righteousness than to desiring honour." (5)

Hadhrat Maalik reports that the report reached him that Hadhrat Umar said, "A man's respect lies in his Taqwa, his honour in his Deen and his manhood in his character. Courage is the antithesis of cowardice because while a courageous man will fight to defend those he knows as well those he does not know, the coward will flee from defending even his own parents. While people see respect in wealth, true honour really lies in Taqwa. I am not better than a Persian, a non-Arab or a common farmer except by virtue of Taqwa (the best will be the one with the most Taqwa)." (6)

Hadhrat Sufyaan Thowri reports that Hadhrat Umar work once wrote to Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari saying, "Wisdom is not something that comes with age but it is a gift that Allaah grants to whoever He pleases. Ensure that you always stay away from shameful acts and evil character." (1) Hadhrat Umar work once wrote to his son Hadhrat Abdullaah work saying, "I advise you to always adopt Taqwa because Allaah will always protect the one who has Taqwa. Allaah suffices for the one who trusts in Him, He rewards the one who gives Him a loan and increases His bounties on the one who is grateful. Taqwa should always be your prime objective, the foundation of all your actions and the polish of your heart. Remember that there is no deed for the one who makes no intention, there is no reward for the one who does not intend it, there is no benefit in the wealth of the one who has no compassion and there can be nothing new for the one who has nothing old." (2)

Hadhrat Ja'far bin Zabrqaan reports that in a letter to one of his governors, Hadhrat Umar Sees concluded with the words, "Take stock of yourself during times of prosperity before difficulties take stock of you because the one who takes stock of himself during times of prosperity will ultimately by happy and the envy of others. As for the one who has been distracted by the world and who has made sin his occupation, he will ultimately have only regret and grief. Take heed of the advice given to you so that you may refrain from that which you are being prevented from doing." (3)

In a letter to Hadhrat Mu'aawiya bin Abu Sufyaan (Hadhrat Umar Stated, "Hold fast to the truth and it will reveal to you the status of the people of the truth. Ensure also that you always pass judgement by the truth. Was Salaam" (4)

The Advices of Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Ali bin Abi Taalib

His Advice to Hadhrat Umar

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Free narrates that when Hadhrat Umar sonce asked Hadhrat Ali for advice, Hadhrat Ali for advice, Hadhrat Ali for said, "Never allow your conviction to become doubtful, your knowledge to regress to ignorance or your suspicions to transform into conviction. You must also remember that nothing of this world is really yours besides what you have received and then passed on, what you have distributed, thereby levelling the equation and the clothes you have already worn out." "O Abul Hasan!" Hadhrat Umar Fremarked, "What you have stated is indeed very true." (5)

Hadhrat A. Silves once said to Hadhrat Umar Willes. "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! If

His Advice about what Goodness Really is

Hadhrat Ali some said, "Goodness is not when your wealth or your children increase, but when your knowledge increases, when your tolerance grows and when you excel people in worshipping your Rabb. When you do well, praise Aliaah and when you do wrong, seek Aliaah's forgiveness. There is no good in this world except for one of two persons; the person who commits a sin and then compensates for it by repenting and the person who hastens to do good deeds. A deed carried out with Taqwa can never be underestimated because how can a deed that Allaah accepts ever be underestimated?" (2)

His Advices to his son Hasan (when he was Stabbed and some other Advices he gave him

Hadhrat Uqba bin Abu Sahbaa narrates that after Hadhrat Ali was stabbed by Ibn Muljim, (his son) Hadhrat Hasan came to him weeping. "What makes you weep, dear son?" Hadhrat Ali was asked. Hadhrat Hasan replied, "Why should I not weep when you are passing the first day of the Aakhirah and the last day of this world?" "Dear son!" Hadhrat Ali was advised, "Remember four things plus another four and whatever else you do with these will never harm you." "What are they, beloved father?" Hadhrat Hasan ween enquired. Hadhrat Ali wee explained, "The greatest wealth is intelligence while the worst poverty is foolishness. Conceit is the most estranging of all things and the greatest source of respect is good character."

"Dear father!" Hadhrat Hasan ("Stay away from the company of the foolish because he will cause you harm even when he intends doing you good. Also stay away from the company of those who lie excessively because this will draw closer to you those who are far (giving them the opportunity to harm you) and will drive away those who are close to you. Do not also keep the company of a miser because he will distance himself from you at a time when you need him the most. Ensure that you do not also keep company with a sinner because he will sell you for something most insignificant." (3)

Hadhrat Ali (1986) once said, "Inspiration (from Allaah) is the best guide, good character is the best companion, intelligence is the best friend, sound (Deeni) education is the best legacy and there is no (source of) loneliness more detrimental than conceit." (4)

It was Hadhrat Ali William who said, "Do not look at who is saying something, but look at what is being said." He also said, "All forms of friendship will come to an end besides the friendship that is not built on greed." (1)

The Advices of Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah

His Advice to his Troops

Hadhrat Nimraan bin Makhmar narrates that Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah was walking amongst his troops as he said to them, "Listen well! There are many who keep their clothes white while soiling their Deen. Listen well! There are many who appear to be honouring themselves but are actually disgracing themselves. Repel old sins by fresh good deeds because even if any of you commits as many sins as can fill the space between the heavens and the earth, a single good deed done afterwards will rise above them all and overpower them "(2)

His Advice after being Afflicted by the Plague and his Statement about the Heart of a Mu'min

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Abu Sa'eed Maqbari narrates that Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah was struck by the plague in Jordan and this is where his grave is situated. When this happened, he called all the Muslims present there and said, "I wish to give you such advice that if you take heed to it, you will always remain in good stead. Establish salaah, pay zakaah, fast during Ramadhaan, give charity, perform Haji, perform Umrah, encourage each other (to do good), wish well for your leaders and never betray them. Never allow the world to make you negligent because even if a man is granted the life of a thousand years, he will have to encounter this juncture that you see me lying in. Allaah has ordained death for mankind and they therefore have to die. The most intelligent of them is he who is most obedient to his Rabb and carries out the most good deeds for the day he returns to Allaah. Was Salaam Alaykum wa Rahmatullaah. O Mu'aadh bin Jabal! Lead the people in salaah." Thereafter, Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah spassed away.

Hadhraf Mu'aadh bin Jabal (Simon then addressed the people saying, "O people! Repent sincerely to Allaah for your sins because when a servant meets Allaah after having repented for his sins, Allaah makes it compulsory for Himself to forgive all his sins. It is only his debts that are not forgiven because a person is held in custody for his debts. Whoever has severed ties with his brother should meet him and shake hands with him because it does not befit a Muslim to sever ties with his brother for more than three days. Whoever does sever ties for more than three days will be guilty of a major sin." (3)

Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah (1) once said, "The heart of a Mu'min is like that of a sparrow, which changes so many times every day (because of which a person needs to consult with others)."

The Advices of Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Seereen reports that Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal was once with his companions, who were greeting him and seeing him off. When a man then approached him (and asked for some advice), Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal wie said to him, "I will give you two advices, which if you take heed to, you will be taken care of. Remember that while you cannot do without your share (of sustenance) in this world, you are even more in need of your share in the Aakhirah. You should therefore give preference to your share in the Aakhirah over your share in this world and make such thorough arrangements for it that it remains with you wherever you go." (2)

Hadhrat Amr bin Maymoon Awdi says, "Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal woo once stood up amongst us and said, 'O Banu Awd! I am the messenger of Allaah's messenger wow. Remember well that all will have to return to Allaah. Thereafter (after reckoning), people will head either towards Jannah or Jahannam, where they will live forever and from where they will not be going anywhere else. There they will live until eternity in bodies that will never die." (3)

Hadhrat Mu'aawiya bin Qurra narrates that Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal scoope said to his son, "Dear son! Whenever you perform salaah, perform the salaah of a person who is bidding farewell and never think that you will ever be returning to this world. Dear son! Remember that when a Mu'min dies, he lies between two excellent things; the good that he has sent ahead and the good that he leaves behind (Sadaqah Jaariya)." (4)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Salamah narrates that when someone once asked Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal (1996) to teach him, Hadhrat Mu'aadh (1996) asked him, "Will you then obey me?" "I am most eager to obey you," the man replied. Hadhrat Mu'aadh (1996) then advised him saying, "Fast at times and do not fast at times (do not fast perpetually), perform salaah at night and sleep as well, earn without sinning, die only as a Muslim and beware of the curse of the oppressed person." (5)

Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin Jabal (once said, "The person who does three things exposes himself to resentment. (The three things are:) Laughing without being amused, sleeping (throughout the night) without waking (for salaah) and eating without being hungry." (6)

The Advices of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin

Mas'ood المناسخة

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood some said, "It angers me to see a man idle without doing anything for this world or for the Aakhirah." (2) Another narration states that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood soid, "Let me not find any of you lying like a corpse at night (without waking for salaah) and behaving like the Qutrub insect all day." Hadhrat (bn Uyaynah states that the Qutrub insect is one that is sitting in one place at times and then somewhere else (moving about all day long without taking a break. Like this, the man is constantly on the move in pursuit of worldly gain). (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Singles) also said, "The cream of this world has passed on, leaving only waste behind. Death today is therefore a gift for every Muslim." (4) Another narration states that he said, "This world is like a lake at the top of a mountain, the best waters of which have departed, leaving behind only muddy remains." (5)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Fig. 8) stated, "How wonderful are two things that people dislike; death and poverty! By Allaah! One is affected by either one of two conditions, prosperity or poverty and I care not which of the two I am afflicted with. If it is prosperity, I can use it to sympathise (with the poor by helping them). If it is poverty, I can use it to exercise patience (and be rewarded abundantly)." (6)

It was also Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood who said, "A person cannot reach the reality of Imaan until he reaches its apex and he will be unable to reach the apex until he loves poverty more than prosperity, until he loves submission more than honour and until the one who praises him and the one who insults him are the same to him." The students of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood then explained this statement saying, "Until he prefers earning Halaal and remaining in poverty to earning Haraam and living in affluence; until he prefers submitting to Allaah's commands to the (worldly) honour derived from sinning and until the person praising him in truth and the person insulting him are equal in his sight." Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (also said, "I swear by the Being besides Whom there is none worthy of worship that when a person passes his mornings and evenings as a Muslim, the adversities that afflict him in this world will not harm him." (1)

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Hujayrah reports from his father that when he took a seat. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Speed) would say. "Days and nights are passing you people by, as your lives are growing shorter, your actions are being recorded and death is waiting to strike you so very suddenly. The person who sows good (deeds) will soon harvest that which he will be pleased to have. However, the one who sows evil will harvest only regrets. Every farmer will reap only that which he plants. While the sustenance of a slow person will never bypass him, the greedy person cannot get more than what has been destined for him. The person who has anything good has been given the same by Allaah and the person saved from any evil has been saved by Allaah. Those with Tagwa are simple, those with deep understanding of Deen are to be followed and being in their company will only grant one more." (2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood 過過多 once stated, "Each one of you is a guest and his wealth is borrowed. While the guest has to leave sometime, a borrowed item has to be returned to the owner." (3)

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan the son of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood Treports that a man once approached his father saying, "O Abu Abdur Rahmaan! Teach me some words that are both concise and beneficial." Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood said, "Worship Allaah without ascribing any partners to Him and go wherever the Qur'aan takes you. When someone brings you the truth, accept it from him even though he may be someone distant or someone you dislike and when someone comes to you with falsehood, reject it even though he may be someone close and beloved to you." (4)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood stated, "The truth is heavy and bitter while falsehood is light and pleasant. So many pleasures there are that give rise to nothing but tremendous sorrow." (5)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (is reported to have said, "While the heart may have incredible enthusiasm and zeal (to do good), it can also be greatly indifferent and lethargic. You must therefore exploit its enthusiasm and ignore its indifference," (6)

Hadhrat Mundhir reports that when some non-Arab chiefs came to see Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood & the people were impressed by their muscular necks and glowing health. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood with then said to the people, "You may see that a Kaafir is physically most healthy while his heart

If your hearts are ill and only your bodies are healthy, you will be lower than a dung-beetle in Allaah's sight."(1) Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (1) once said, "A Mu'min cannot have any comfort without meeting Allaah and whoever finds comfort only in meeting Allaah has actually met Allaah." (2)

It was also Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood who said, "None of you should ever place his Deen around the neck of another person in a manner that he believes only when the other person believes and he rejects what the other person rejects (he must follow the teachings of the Qur'aan and Sunnah instead). However, if he absolutely has to follow someone, he must follow someone who has passed away (as a practising Muslim) because the living are never immune from corruption."

Another narration states that he said, "None of you should ever be an Imma'ah."
"What is an Imma'ah, O Abu Abdur Rahmaan?" the people asked. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood seplained, "When a person says, 'I am with the people. If they are rightly guided, so shall I be and if they go astray, I shall stray as well.' Listen well! Each of you must fortify his heart so much that he will not resort to kufr even if all of mankind does." (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood said, "I can make three statements on oath and there is a fourth thing that if I say it on oath as well, I would definitely not be wrong. (The first is that) Allaah will never make a person who has a share of Islaam like the one who has no share of Islaam. (The second is that) When Allaah is a person's friend in this world, He will never hand him over to someone else on the Day of Qiyaamah. (The third is that) When someone loves a nation, he will certainly arrive with them (on the Day of Qiyaamah). Then the fourth thing about which I would definitely not be wrong if I say it on oath is that if Allaah conceals the faults of a person in this world, he will definitely do so in the Aakhirah." (4)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood sisses also said, "Whoever desires this world will do harm to his Aakhirah and whoever desires the Aakhirah will do harm to his world. O people! Rather let harm come to that which is temporary instead of harm coming to that which is everlasting," (5)

It is also reported that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood said, "Verily the most truthful of all speech is the Book of Allaah (1997), the strongest handhold is the Kalimah of Taqwa, the best of creeds is the creed of Hadhrat Ibraheem (1998), the best of all ways is the Sunnah of Rasulullaah (1998) and the best guidance is the guidance of the Ambiyaa. those with the best results and the worst of them all are those that are fabricated. That which may be little but suffices is better than that which is plenty but which distracts one (from Allaah and the Aakhirah). Coming to the rescue of a single soul is better than a kingdom in which justice cannot be upheld. The worst reproach will be when death appears, the worst regret will be on the Day of Qiyaamah and the worst misguidance is to stray after once being rightly guided. The best of wealth is the wealth of the heart, the best of provisions is Taqwa, the best of things to be placed in the heart is conviction, doubts stem from kufr and the worst of blindness is the blindness of the heart. Intoxicants are the root of all sin, women are the traps of Shaytaan, youth is a branch of insanity and wailing is amongst the acts of the Period of Ignorance.

There are people who are the last to attend the Jumu'ah salaah and who make the Dhikr of Allaah only verbally (without concentration). The worst of all sins is lying, verbally abusing a Mu'min is an act of irreligiousness, physically abusing him leads to kufr and his wealth is as sacred as his life. Allaah will forgive the one who forgives (others). Allaah will reward the one who swallows his angerwill pardon the one who pardons and will generously recompense the one who patiently endures difficulties. The worst of all earnings are earnings from interest and the worst thing to consume is the wealth of orphans. The fortunate person is he who takes advice from others while the unfortunate one is he who has been decreed such ever since he was in the belly of his mother. So much is enough for a person that affords him contentment and every person is travelling towards a place measuring only four arm's lengths. The matter of greatest concern is the Aakhirah and the master of all deeds are the very last of them. The worst of all dreams are those that one lies about and the noblest of deaths is martyrdom. He who recognises a test will be patient, he who does not will find it perplexing and Allaah will destroy the one who is haughty. The one who espouses this world will be unable to gain mastery over it, the one who obeys Shaytaan will disobey Allaah and he who disobeys Allaah will be punished by Allaah." (1)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood words once said, "When a person does things for show in this world, Allaah will show his faults to people on the Day of Qiyaamah and when one does things for people to hear about him in this world, Allaah will make them hear all about his faults on the Day of Qiyaamah. The person who acts proudly to gain status, Allaah will humiliate him whereas Allaah will elevate the person who is humble." (2)

The Advices of Hadhrat Salmaan Faarsi

Hadhrat Ja'far bin Burqaan reports that the report reached him that Hadhrat Salmaan Faarsi was used to say. "Three persons make me laugh and three things make me cry. I laugh at the person who entertains lengthy hopes in this world yet death is constantly searching for him. The other is the person who is negligent of death yet death is never negligent of him and (the third is) the person who laughs most heartily whereas he knows not whether his Rabb is angry with him or pleased. The three things that make me weep are separation from Muhammad and his party, the frightening scene when the pangs of death arrive and standing before the Rabb of the universe when I know not whether I shall be heading for the fire of Jahannam or for Jannah."

Hadhrat Salmaan also said, "When Allaah intends destruction to come to a person, Allaah strips him of modesty and you find that he becomes a person who hates people and they hate him. When this occurs, Allaah takes His mercy away from him and you find that he becomes vulgar and hard-hearted. When this happens, Allaah removes trustworthiness from him and you then find him to become treacherous and being treated treacherously by others. When this happens, the brace of Islaam is then eventually snatched off his neck and he becomes one who is cursed by Allaah and by all of creation." (2)

Hadhrat Salmaan is also reported to have said, "The example of a Mu'min in this world is like a sick person who has with him his physician who knows every illness and every cure. When the person desires something that is harmful for him, the physician prevents him from taking it saying, 'Do not go near that because you will be destroying yourself if you do.' He then continues preventing him from things in this manner until the person is completely cured of his disease. In a like manner, a Mu'min desires a great number of things of comfort that others have been given and which he has not. However, Allaah prevents him from it and shields it from him until he dies, after which Allaah admits him into Jannah." (3)

Hadhrat Yahya bin Sa'eed reports that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (of Hadhrat Salmaan), inviting him to come and stay in the blessed land (of Shaam). Hadhrat Salmaan however wrote back saying, "It is not any piece of land that makes a person blessed, but it is knowledge that does. The news has reached me that you have been made a physician (a judge). Congratulations to you if you are able to cure people (settle their cases justly), but if you are a quack, then beware that you do not kill a person (have a person wrongly executed), because of which you will have to enter Jahannam." As a result, whenever Hadhrat Abu Dardaa had passed judgement between two persons and they were leaving his court, he would say, "By Allaah! Have i been a quack? Come back and plead your cases to me all over again." (4)

The Advices of Hadhrat Abu Dardaa

Hadhrat Hassaan bin Atiyya reports that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa Siles used to say, "You people will always remain in good stead as long as you love the righteous ones amongst you and as long as you recognise the truth when it is spoken amongst you because the one who recognises the truth is like the one who

practises it." (1)

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa said, "Never compel people to do what they have not been compelled to do (by Allaah) and never take them to task for what their Rabb would not. O son of Aadam said! Worry about yourselves because the person who constantly pursues the wrong he sees in others will always be plagued by prolonged grief and frustration that never abates." (2)

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (also said, "Worship Allaah as if you can see Him and count yourselves amongst the dead. Remember that a little that is sufficient for you is better than plenty that makes you negligent and remember also that good deeds never age and sins are never forgotten." (3)

It is reported that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (1996) once said, "Goodness is not when your wealth or your children increase, but when your knowledge increases, when your tolerance grows and when you excel people in worshipping your Rabb. When you do well, praise Allaah (1990) and when you do wrong, seek forgiveness from Allaah (1990)."

Hadhrat Saalim bin Abul Ja'd narrates that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa ("One should beware that he is not hated in the hearts of the Mu'mineen without him knowing it. Do you know why this happens?" When Hadhrat Saalim replied that he did not, Hadhrat Abu Dardaa ("When a person secretly disobeys Allaah, Allaah casts resentment for him in the hearts of the Mu'mineen and he does not even know about it." (5)

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa sais also said, "The apex of Imaan is to steadfastly fulfil the orders of Allaah, to be satisfied with what Allaah decrees, to be sincere in pinning one's trust in Allaah and to surrender oneself completely to one's Rabb." (6)

It is reported that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (Singles) also said, "Destruction be for the one who is concerned only with amassing wealth. Like a madman, his mouth is always agape looking at what others have rather than what he has. If he could help it, he would even join the day with the night (to have more time to earn money). His destruction will be in the severe reckoning and intense punishment that he will be receiving." (7)

It was also Hadhrat Abu Dardaa who said, "O people of Damascus! Do you have no shame? You store that which you will be unable to eat, you build that which you cannot live in and you have hopes that you cannot reach. There have been civilisations before you who amassed and hoarded their wealth, entertained lengthy hopes and constructed fortified buildings. However, their amassed treasures were destroyed, their hopes turned out to be deceptive

Illusions and their buildings became their graves. They were the nation of Aad who once filled the territory between Aden and Amman with wealth and offspring. Now who would want to buy their legacy for even two Dirhams?" (1) Another narration states that when Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (2) noticed how much the Muslims were absorbing themselves in building and planting trees, he stood up in their Masjid and addressed them saying, "Gather around me, O people of Damascus!" When the people had gathered, he duly praised Allaah and said, "Do you have no shame..." The rest of the narration is like the one above. (2) Hadhrat Safwaan bin Amr narrates that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (2) used to say, "O assembly of the wealthy! Cool off your skins (save it from Jahannam) with your wealth (by spending it in Sadaqah) before you and us become equals in it (when your death arrives). You will then only be able to look at it and we will join

He also said, "What I fear for you is a subtle desire for a bounty that will involve you in futility. This will happen when you fill yourselves with food and starve yourselves of knowledge."

Another narration states that he said, "The best of you is he who says to his companion, 'Let us fast before we die' and the worst of you is he who says to his companion, 'Let us eat, drink and pass time before we die'."

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa was once passing by some people who were building. He said to them, "You people are renovating this world when Allaah desires that it is reduced to ruins. Allaah shall however prevail in whatever He intends."

Hadhrat Makhool reports that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa sies used to search for ruins and when he found any, he would address it saying, "O ruins of the ruined ones! Where are those who had been inhabiting you initially?" (3)

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa Sissis said, "There are three things that I love and which people generally hate; poverty, illness and death." (4)

He also said, "I love death because of my longing to meet my Rabb. I love poverty because I can then truly humble myself before my Rabb and I love illness because it obliterates my sins." (5)

Hadhrat Shurahbeel narrates that whenever Hadhrat Abu Dardaa saw a funeral, he would say, "You are leaving in the morning and we shall be leaving in the evening. You are leaving in the evening and we shall be leaving in the morning. Death is a powerful advice, yet people are so quick to forget. One needs no advice other than death. While people leave one after another, it is only those without sense that remain behind (without taking heed)." (6)

Hadhrat Aun bin Abdullaah reports that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa 墨瑙多 said, "The person who searches very hard (for the faults of others) will lose sight of himself

If you give and take loans from people, they will do the same with you and if you leave them, they will not leave you." "Then what would you advise me to do?" Hadhrat Aun asked. Hadhrat Abu Dardaa 劉德德 replied, "Lend the one-who will pay you back on the day you will be most in need (the Day of Oiyaamah)," (1)

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (The person who often thinks of death will show off less and will also be less jealous." (2)

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (sustenance) is also reported to have said, "Why is it that I see you greedy for that (sustenance) for which Allaah has already assumed responsibility on your behalf while you ruin that (duties) which you have been entrusted with? I know the wicked ones amongst you better than a horse specialist knows his horses. They are the ones who perform their salaah after its time, who listen to the Qur'aan indifferently and whose slaves are not free from them even after they have been set free." (3)

It was also Hadhrat Abu Dardaa ("Look for good throughout your lives and ensure that you present yourself for all Allaah's breaths of mercy because there are many such breaths of Allaah's mercy, which Allaah allows to strike those of His servants whom He pleases. Also ask Allaah to conceal your faults and to calm your fears." (4)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Jubayr bin Nufayr reports that a man once said to Hadhrat Abu Dardaa him, "Teach me something by which Allaah will may grant me benefit." Hadhrat Abu Dardaa sawa advised him saying, "There are two, three, four or rather five things that if a person practises upon, Allaah will undertake to reward him with the highest stages. (They are that) You should never eat anything other than that which is pure (Halaal), you should never earn anything other than that which is pure and you should never admit into your home anything other than that which is pure. Ask Allaah for your sustenance day by day and when you count yourself amongst the dead each morning, it will be as if you have already met up with them. Hand your honour over to Allaah so that you leave Allaah so to deal with anyone who swears you, abuses you or fights with you. Then when you commit any sin, seek forgiveness from Allaah

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (1986) also said, "A person remains youthful in his love for this world even though his collar bones may be meeting because of old age. This applies to everyone except those whose hearts Allaah has tested for Taqwa, and they are few indeed." (6)

It is reported that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa siles once said, "It is with three factors that man can take charge of all his affairs; never complain of your calamities, never speak about your illness and never claim that you are spiritually pure." (1) Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (1) Said, "Beware of the curse of the oppressed and the curse of the orphan because both travel (to Allaah) at night when people are fast asleep." He also said, "The person whom I hate most to oppress is the one who has none other than Allaah (1) to ask help of." (2)

Hadhrat Ma'mar reports from a companion that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa word once wrote to Hadhrat Salmaan saying, "Dear brother! Make the most of your health and free time before that calamity strikes which all of mankind cannot repel (death). Also make the most of the du'aa of the afflicted person. Dear brother! Let the Masjid be your home because I have heard Rasulullaah say, "The Masjid is home to every person with Taqwa." For those whose homes are the Masaajid, Allaah was has also guaranteed happiness, contentment and a safe passage across the bridge of Siraat en route to the pleasure of his Rabb

Dear brother! Have mercy on the orphan, keep him close to you and feed him from the food that you eat. When a person once came to Rasulullaah from complaining of a hard heart, I heard Rasulullaah from ask him, 'Do you want your heart to soften?' When the man replied in the affirmative, Rasulullaah advised him saying, 'Keep an orphan close to you, pass your hand over his head and feed him from your own food. This will soften your heart and settle your needs.'

Dear brother! Never collect that for which you will be unable to express gratitude because I have heard Rasulullaah sees say, 'On the Day of Qiyaamah, that wealthy person who obeyed Allaah with regards to his wealth will be brought forward. He will be in front of his wealth and it will be placed behind him. Every time, he stumbles on the bridge of Siraat, his wealth will say to him, 'Go on! You have fulfilled the rights due from you,' Thereafter, the wealthy person who did not obey Allaah with regards to his wealth will be brought forward with his wealth on his shoulders. His wealth will cause him to stumble saying, 'May you be destroyed! Why did you not obey Allaah when it concerned me?' This will continue until the person will himself call for his destruction.'

Dear brother! I have been informed that you have purchased a slave. I have heard Rasulullaah say, 'A person remains connected to Allaah and Allaah to him as long as another is not in his service because as soon as another person is in his service, reckoning becomes incumbent for him.' In fact (my wife) Ummu Dardaa requested me for a servant at a time when I was well off but I disapproved of the idea because of this reckoning that I heard about. Dear brother! Who is there to assure us that we will meet on the Day of Qiyaamah without fear of reckoning? Dear brother! Never fall into deception about being a companion of Rasulullaah because we have lived long after him and Allaah Alone knows what we have done in this time." (3)

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Muhammad Muhaaribi reports that Hadhrat Abu Dardaa Succession of his saving, "Everything you have in this world belonged to someone else previously and will soon be going off to someone else after you. Nothing of it belongs to you apart from what you have sent ahead (to the Aakhirah) for yourself (by spending in the right causes). You should therefore give preference to yourself over even your righteous children because you are proceeding towards a Being Who will not accept excuses (for your failure to spend correctly) and your amassing of wealth will be only for those who will not even thank you for it. Your amassing of wealth is only for one of two persons. It may be for a person who uses it in the obedience of Allaah, because of which he will have the good fortune that you had been deprived of. On the other hand it may for someone who uses it in the disobedience of Allaah, in which case you will be ill-fortuned because it was you who saved it for him. By Allaah! Neither of these two deserves to have their burdens lightened by you having to carry it on your back. You Muslims therefore should not give preference to anyone else over yourself. Hope for Allaah's mercy to descend on those of them who have passed on and trust that Allaah will provide for those of them who are still left alive. Was Salaam," (1) Hadhrat Abu Dardaa Sasso once wrote to Hadhrat Maslamah bin Mukhallad saving, "When a person's actions conform with Allaah's commands, Allaah loves the person and when Allaah loves him, Allaah makes all of His creation love the person as well. On the contrary, when a person's actions do not conform with Allaah's commands, Allaah dislikes the person and when Allaah dislikes him. Allaah makes all of His creation dislike the person as well. (2)

Hadhrat Abu Dardaa (Fig. also said, "There is no Islaam without obedience to Allaah and no good without affiliating with the broader Muslim community and without wishing well for (the Deen of) Allaah, for His Khalifah and for the Mu'mineen in general." (3)

The Advices of Hadhrat Abu Dharr

Hadhrat Sufyaan Thowri narrates that Hadhrat Abu Dharr Ghifaari come to this well-wishing and caring brother." When the people had gathered all around him, he said, "Tell me. If any of you wishes to undertake a journey, Will he not prepare sufficient provisions to see him through comfortably until he reaches his destination?" When the people confirmed this, he continued, "Well, then the journey to Qiyaamah is the furthest that you will ever undertake, so do take enough provisions to see you through comfortably." The people then asked, "And what is enough to see us through comfortably?" Hadhrat Abu Dharr see explained, "Perform a Hajj to take care of important matters, fast on an extremely hot day to take care of the very long Day of Resurrection, perform two Rakaahs salaah in the darkness of the night to take care of the loneliness of the grave and either say a good word or refrain from saying a bad word to take care of standing before Allaah on that crucial day (of Qiyaamah). Spend your wealth in Sadaqah and you will be saved from the difficulties of the Day of Qiyaamah. In this world you should attend only two types of gatherings; gatherings to acquire the Aakhirah and gatherings to seek Halaal sustenance. You would not want a third type of gathering because apart from not doing you any good, it will cause you harm. You should also spend your Dirhams in two places; one should be spent on lawful expenses for your family and the other you should send ahead for your Aakhirah. You would not want a third type of Dirham because apart from not doing you any good, it will cause you harm." Hadhrat Abu Dharr the called out at the top of his voice, "O people! Greed has killed you and you will never be able to get all that you are greedy for." (1)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Muhammad reports that he heard a reliable scholar say, "The news has reached me that Hadhrat Abu Dharr once said, 'O people! I am a well-wisher to you and have tremendous compassion for you. Perform salaah in the darkness of the night to take care of the loneliness of the grave, fast in this world to take care of the extremely hot Day of Resurrection and spend in Sadaqah and you will be saved from the difficulties of the Day of Qiyaamah. O people! I am a well-wisher to you and have tremendous compassion for you."(2) Hadhrat Abu Dharr also said, "People are born to die and buildings are built to fall into ruins. That which shall come to an end is sought with greed while that which is everlasting is being ignored. Oh how wonderful are the two things that people dislike; death and poverty." (3)

Hadhrat Hibbaan bin Abi Jabalah reports that both Hadhrat Abu Dharr and Hadhrat Abu Dardaa said, "You are born to die, you build buildings to fall into ruins, you greedily hanker after that which shall come to an end while ignoring that which is everlasting. Ah! How wonderful are three things that people dislike; death, illness and poverty." (4)

The Advices of Hadhrat Hudhayfah bin Yamaan

The Living Dead

Hadhrat Abu Tufayl narrates that he heard Hadhrat Hudhayfah say, "O people! Do you have no questions to ask me? While others used to ask Rasulullaah say about the good things to happen, I used to ask him about the evil. Will you not ask me about the living dead? Allaah sent Muhammad who called people away from misguidance towards guidance and away from kuft towards Imaan. When those who responded to his call he said, the dead were given life because of the truth (that they accepted) while those who were alive (physically), actually died (spiritually) because they adhered to falsehood. Thereafter, when Nubuwwah had left (with the demise of Rasulullaah (1996), there came Khilaafah on the pattern of Nubuwwah, which will be followed by despotic kingship. Those who will oppose this (despotism) with their hearts, hands and tongues will be practising on the complete truth. As for those who oppose it with their hearts and tongues but who restrain their hands will be leaving a branch of the truth. There will be those also who will oppose it within their hearts only while restraining their hands and tongues. Such people will be omitting two branches of the truth. Then there will be those will neither oppose it with their hearts northeirtongues (letalone their hands). Such people are the living dead."(1)

Hearts are of Four Types

Hadhrat Hudhayfah Guess once said, "Hearts are of four types; (1) the veiled heart, which is the heart of the Kaañr, (2) the two-faced heart, which is the heart of the hypocrite, (3) the clear heart containing a shining lantern, which is the heart of a Mu'min and (4) the heart that contains both hypocrisy and Imaan. The example of Imaan is like a tree that grows bigger with pure water while the example of hypocrisy is like a blister that grows bigger with blood and pus. Therefore, the heart will be overpowered by whichever of the two (Imaan and hypocrisy) is overwhelming." (2)

His Advice Concerning Enticement and other Matters

Hadhrat Hudhayfah (is also reported to have said. "The trial of temptation (to do evil) presents itself to the hearts of people. When the heart accepts it, a black spot appears on the heart and if the heart rejects it, a white spot appears. Whoever wishes to know whether such enticement has afflicted him or not, should assess himself. He should know that it has afflicted him when he starts regarding as Haraam something that he always regarded as Halaal or when he starts regarding as Halaal something that he always regarded as Haraam." (3) Hadhrat Hudhayfah (Beware of the trials of temptation which none can stand up to by himself because I swear by Allaah that whenever someone tries to stand up to them by himself, it sweeps him away just as a flood sweeps dirt away. When they arrive, these trials appear to be right and the ignorant ones will even claim that they appear to be right. However, it is only when they are leaving that it becomes manifest that they were really not. When you see such trials approach, remain squatting in your homes, break your swords and cut your bowstrings." (4) Hadhrat Hudhayfah ("Verily, the trials of life have periods of repose and periods of upheaval. If you ever have the option to die when it is in repose, ensure that you do so." By the periods of repose, Hadhrat Hudhayfah ("Wes") was referring to the periods when swords are sheathed (when there is no in-fighting between the Muslims). (1)

Hadhrat Hudhayfah was also said, "Verily, corruption stems from three persons; from the powerful and proficient scholar who uses the sword to annihilate everything that is presented to him, from the orator who calls people towards such corruption and from the ruler. As for the (first) two, such corruption will floor them flat on their faces. As for the ruler, it will keep clawing at him until it affects all those with him as well." (2)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Hudhayfah (once said, "Even pure wine is not more effective than the trial of life in eliminating (causing to faulter) the senses of a person." (3)

Yet another narration quotes Hadhrat Hudhayfah 墨崎砂 as saying, "There shall come a time when none shall have safety besides the person who makes a du'aa like a drowning person does." (4)

Hadhrat A'mash reports that the news reached him that Hadhrat Hudhayfah said, "The best of you is not the one who forsakes this world for the Aakhirah, nor the person who forsakes the Aakhirah for this world. Rather, he is the one who takes from both worlds." (5)

The Advices of Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b

Hadhrat Abul Aaliya reports that when a man once asked Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b for some advice, Hadhrat Ubay was said, "Make the Our'aan your guide and be satisfied to have it as your judge and arbiter because it has succeeded your Rasool @ amongst you. It is an intercessor (on the Day of Oiyaamah) whose intercession will be accepted and a witness whose testimony cannot be faulted. It speaks of you and of those before you, it judges the matters between you and together with news about you, it also contains news of those to come after you." (6)

Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b (Said, "Whenever a servant forsakes anything for the pleasure of Allaah, Allaah replaces it with something better from sources he never expected. On the other hand, when a servant looks down on something and takes it wrongly, Allaah brings forth something much more serious from sources he never expects." (7)

Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b 劉國國 also said, "A Mu'min is in one of four conditions; when afflicted with difficulties, he exercises patience, when given something, he is grateful, when speaking, he is truthful and when passing judgement, he is just. He also journeys in five instances of Noor (celestial light), regarding which Allaah says, " "Noor upon Noor" (8). His speech is Noor, his knowledge is

Noor, the places he enters are filled with Noor, the places he exits from are filled with Noor and the place he will go to on the Day of Qiyaamah will be one of Noor. On the other hand, the Kaafir journeys through five instances of darkness. His speech is darkness, his knowledge is darkness, the places he enters are filled with darkness, the places he exits from are filled with darkness and the place he will go to on the Day of Oiyaamah will be one of darkness." (1) Hadhrat Abu Basrah reports that a companion of his named Jabar or Juwaybir once said, "When I went to request a slave-girl from Hadhrat Umar with during his Khilaafah, I reached Madinah at night. Since I have been blessed with a keen mind and an eloquent tongue, when I went to Hadhrat Umar (1) I started ridiculing and demeaning this world, ending off on a note that left the world totally without value. When I had finished, a man who was sitting next to Hadhrat Umar said, Everything you sald was in order, apart from the manner in which you ridiculed this world. Do you know what this world really is? This world is our means of reaching the Aakhirah. It contains our provisions for the Aakhirah and all your deeds for which you will be rewarded in the Aakhirah." His subsequent speech about the world happened to be one of a person who obviously knew much more about this world than I did. 'O Ameerul Mu'mineen!' I asked. Who is this man next to you? Hadhrat Umar was replied. 'He is the leader of the Muslims Ubay bin Ka'b (12)

Addressing Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b (1986), someone once asked, "O Abul Mundhir! Please give me some advice." Hadhrat Ubay with then advised him saying, "Never delve into matters that do not concern you, stay away from your enemy and exercise caution even when it comes to your friends. Envy a living person only for that which you would envy a dead person for and never ask a need from a person who has no concern for fulfilling it for you." (3)

The Advices of Hadhrat Zaid bin Thaabit 经通過

Hadhrat Dinaar Bahraani narrates that Hadhrat Zaid bin Thaabit William once wrote to Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b wis saying, "Verily Allaah has made the tongue an interpreter for the heart and has made the heart a treasure chest and a shepherd. The tongue therefore follows the instructions of the heart and as long as the heart remains in charge of the tongue, the speech emerging from the tongue will be pleasant and correct. The tongue will then make no slip-ups and blunders. There is however no tolerating person whose heart does not lead his tongue. When a person leaves his tongue to do the talking without conforming with the dictates of the heart, he cuts off his nose (embarrasses himself). However, when he weighs his words with his actions, his words will always be true. People often say, 'Every miser you see is generous with words but stingy with actions,' This happens when the tongue precedes the heart. People also say, 'Can a person have any honour or manliness when he does not practise what he

One must never look at the faults of others because the person who looks at the faults of others while not taking his own faults seriously is like a person who unnecessarily burdens himself with doing that which he has not been instructed to do. The Advices of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas (1995) once said. "O sinner! Never feel that you are safe from an evil end. There are several things that are worse than the sin that you actually commit. Your failure to be embarrassed for those on your right and left when committing the sin is worse than the sin itself. Your laughing (after the sin) when you have no idea what Allaah intends doing with you is worse than the sin itself. Your pleasure after you have successfully completed the sin is worse than the sin itself. Your anguish when unable to commit the sin is worse than successfully completing the sin itself. When committing the sin, you fear more that the wind should not blow the curtain of your door rather than fearing that Allaah is watching you. This is worse than committing the sin itself. Alas! Do you know what was the slip Hadhrat Ayyoob committed, because of which Allaah afflicted him with illness and the loss of his wealth? The slip he made was that when a poor person sought his aid to avenge a wrong done to him, he neither assisted him nor did he enjoin good or forbid the oppressor from wronging him. It was for this reason that Allaah afflicted Hadhrat Ayyoob with the trial," (2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas was said, "Ensure that you fulfil the Faraa'idh. Fulfil the rights owing to Him that Allaah has prescribed and seek His assistance in doing so. Whenever Allaah knows that a servant has a sincere intention and is aspiring for the rewards that are with Allaah, Allaah wards off from him all that he dislikes. Allaah is the Absolute Sovereign Who does as He pleases." (3) Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas with is also reported to have said, "Whether a person is a true Mu'min or a sinner, Allaah has already decreed his Halaal sustenance. If he is patient until it comes his way, Allaah gives it to him. However, if he is impatient and takes from something Haraam, Allaah deducts that much from his Halaal sustenance." (4)

The Advices of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar (1996)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar (Wies said, "Whenever a servant receives anything of this world, it reduces his status in Allaah's sight even though the person may be enjoying an honourable status with Allaah." (5)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar wies said, "What has happened to your inhabitants?" "O ruins!" Hadhrat Mujaahid repeated, "What has happened to your inhabitants?" Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar wies then replied, "They have left and all that has remained behind are their actions." (2)

The Advices of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr

Hadhrat Wahab bin Kaysaan narrates that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr some wrote to advise him saying, "The people of Taqwa have certain traits by which they are recognised and which they recognise within themselves. These include patience during times of adversity, happiness with Allaah's decree, gratitude for bounties and submission to the commands of the Qur'aan. A ruler is just like the marketplace. Only that commodity is brought to the marketplace which is popular. Therefore, if the truth is popular with a ruler, it will be brought to him and people of the truth will come to him. On the other hand, if falsehood is popular with a ruler, the people of falsehood will come to him and it is falsehood that will prevail with him." (3)

The Advices of Hadhrat Hasan bin Ali

Hadhrat Hasan bin Ali (Makes him subservient to it), whereas the person who exercises abstinence cares not who eats from it. The person who aspires for this world becomes the slave of those who possess the world. Whereas even the least of it is sufficient for the person who does not aspire for it, having all of it will not benefit the one who hankers after it. The person whose days are the same (without any spiritual progress) is in great deception while the person who is better off today than he will be tomorrow (whose spiritual condition worsens from day to day) is at a loss. As for the person who does not monitor the damages done to himself (to his spirituality) is truly at a loss and death is really better for such a person." (4)

Hadhrat Hasan bin Ali sales also said, "You should know that tolerance is a source of beauty (in character) and fulfilling ones promises is a sign of manliness. Haste is sign of foolishness, excessive travelling weakens a person, keeping company with wicked people is a blemish (to one's character) and keeping company with sinful people is a source of doubts (entering one's heart)."(5)

Hadhrat Hasan bin Ali states is also reported to have said, "People are of four

The Advices of Hadhrat Shaddaad bin Aws

Hadhrat Ziyaad bin Maahak narrates that Hadhrat Shaddaad bin Aws will used to say, "Verily you people have seen no good apart from its causes and seen no evil apart from its causes because all of true goodness lies in Jannah and all of true evil lies in Jahannam. Verily this world is a ready commodity from which the righteous and the sinner eat equally. The Aakhirah on the other hand is a place where the All Powerful Sovereign shall pass judgement. The Advices of Hadhrat Jundub Bajali Hadhrat Jundub Bajali (Fear Allaah and recite the Qur'aan because it is light for a dark night and adornment for the day despite difficulties and poverty. When affliction strikes, let it be in your wealth rather than in your health, otherwise in your health rather than in your Deen. Remember that the true loser is he who suffers a loss in his Deen and the truly destroyed one is he whose Deen has been destroyed. Behold! There is no poverty after Jannah and no wealth after Jahannam because the prisoner of Jahannam will never be released, the injured there shall never be healed and the fire there shall never be extinguished. Remember that even a handful of blood that a Muslim drew from his brother will become an obstacle for him entering into Jannah. Whenever he tries to enter any of its gates, he will find it there to push him away. Remember to (decompose and) emit an odour. You should therefore not add an additional stench (of Haraam food) to the odour. Fear Allaah when it concerns your wealth and avoid spilling blood." (3)

The Advices of Hadhrat Abu Umaamah

His Advice on the Occasion of a Funeral

Umaamah Baahili when they once left the gates of Damascus to accompany a funeral procession. After performing the Janaazah salaah and when burying the person, Hadhrat Abu Umaamah said, "O people! You are spending your mornings and evenings in a place (this world) where your good deeds and sins are being distributed." Pointing towards the grave, he then said, "You will soon be leaving for another place, which is this house of loneliness, this house of darkness, this house of worms and this house of narrowness for all apart from the one for whom Allaah widens the grave. After this you will be proceeding to the various stages of the Day of Qiyaamah and you will be experiencing them when such a command will come from Allaah that will cause some faces to brighten and others to darken. As you people then proceed to another stage, people will be enveloped in extreme darkness, after which light will be handed out and every Mu'min will receive some light. The Kaafir and the Munaafiq will however be left alone and not given any light. It is this example that Allaah cites in His Book when He says:

Or (another striking example is that of the condition of a Kaafir which is) like a multitude of darkness beneath a deep ocean (which itself is dark because of the depth). (To add to the darkness,) There covers him a wave, above which is another wave, above which there is a cloud (which prevents even the vaguest forms of outside light from reaching him). Darkness upon darkness. (The darkness is so intense that) He is unable to see his own hand when he extends it before himself. There can be no light for the one for whom Allaah has not ordained any light. (Surah Noor, verse 40)

Just as a blind person cannot take sight from a seeing person, the Kaafir and the Munaafiq will be unable to take light from the Mu'min. The Munaafiq men and women will then say to those who had Imaan:

(المَّرُونَا نَقُبَيسُ مِنْ تُوْرِكُمْ وَيُلَ ارْجِعُوا وَرَاءَ كُمْ فَالْتَمِسُوا نُورًا اللهِ (سورة حديد: آيت الاله Walt for us so that we may have some of your light! It will be said, 'Return from where you came (where the light was distributed) and search for light there!' (Surah Hadeed, verse 13)

Such will be the manner in which Allaah will deceive the Munaafiqeen, as Allaah says:

Indeed the hypocrites (try to) deceive Allaah (by pretending to be Muslims) whereas He deceives them." (Surah Nisaa, verse 142) When they then return to the place where the light was distributed, they find nothing and then return to where they had been. However, by then a wall with a door will have already been placed between them (separating them from the Mu'mineen). Allaah says about it:

Allaah's mercy will be on the inside (of the wall where the Mu'mineen are) while there will be punishment on the outside (where the hypocrites have been left)." (Surah Hadeed, verse 13)

Hadhrat Sulaym bin Aamir says, "The Munaafiqeen will then remain in deception until the light is distributed and the Munaafiq is finally separated from the Mu'min." (1)

His Advice to a Group that Came to See him

Hadhrat Sulaymaan bin Habeeb says, "I was with a group of people that went to see Hadhrat Abu Umaamah (I found him to be a frail and old man whose wit and speech belied his physical appearance. He said at the very beginning of the conversation, 'Verily this gathering of yours is Allaah's message to you and His proof against you because Allaah's Rasool (Found the message he was sent with and his Sahabah (Found the conveyed what they heard (From Rasulullaah). You people should therefore also convey what you hear.

There are three persons for whom Allaah stands guarantee to either enter them into Jannah or return them home with their share of rewards and booty. The (first is the) person who departs in the path of Allaah. Allaah stands guarantee to either enter him into Jannah or return him home with his share of rewards and booty. The (second is the) person who makes wudhu and then proceeds to the Masjid. Allaah stands guarantee to either enter him into Jannah or return him home with his share of rewards and booty. The (third is the) person who enters his house with Salaam."

He then continued, "There is a bridge in Jahannam with seven smaller bridges, the central one of which will be for determining the settlement of debts. A person will be brought forward and when he reaches this central bridge, he will be asked, "What debts do you have outstanding?" He will then be taken into custody." Hadhrat Abu Umaamah

They will not be able to hide anything from Allaah. {Surah Nisaa, verse 42} The person will then admit all the debts he had and will be instructed to settle them. He will plead, 'I have nothing. I do not know with what I can settle them!' The angels will then be instructed to take his good deeds (to be paid to the creditors) and this will be done continuously until he is left with no good deeds at all. When his deeds are finished, the angels will be instructed to take from the sins of his creditors and stack them on him. The report has reached me that although some people will appear (in the Day of Qiyaamah) with mountain

 Ibn Abi Hoatim, as quoted in the Talseer of ibn Katheer (Vol.4 Pg.308). Bayhaqi has reported a similar narration in his Asmaa was Sifaat (Pg.240). loads of good deeds, these deeds will continuously be taken for those with claims against him until he is left with no good deeds at all. He will then be burdened with the sins of those with claims against him until the sins reach the enormity of mountains.

Refrain from lying because lying leads to sin and sin leads to Jahannam. Ensure that you are always truthful because truthfulness leads to righteousness and righteousness leads to Jannah. O people! You have become more astray than the people during the Period of Ignorance. While Allaah has decreed that a Dinaar spent in the path of Allaah equals seven hundred Dinaars and that a Dirham spent equals seven hundred Dirhams, you people still hoard them in your purses. Listen well! I swear by Allaah that victories have been achieved not by swords decorated with gold and silver, but by swords that had only (animal) tendons, lead and iron to decorate them." (1)

The Advices of Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Busr

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Busr (See Sonce said, "People with Taqwa are simple, Ulema are leaders and being in their company is not only an act of Ibaadah, but something more. The passage of night and day only reduce your life spans while the records of your actions are well preserved. It also highlights how the Sahabah spiritual imbucd within themselves the same character traits and noble qualities of Rasulullaah

Assistance by the Angels

Angels Assist the Sahabah @ during the Battle of Badr

Hadhrat Sahl bin Sa'd (Fig. 7) reports that after he had lost his eyesight, Hadhrat Abu Usayd (Fig. 7) Son of my brother! By Allaah! If you and I were at Badr and Allaah restored my eyesight, I would show you the valley from where the angels came to (assist) us. Rest assured that I have absolutely no doubts or uncertainties about this."

Hadhrat Abbaad bin Abdullaah bin Zubayr reports that because Hadhrat Zubayr was wearing a yellow turban with a part of it hanging over his face, the angels also descended with yellow turbans on their heads." (3) Hadhral Abdullaah bin Abbaas ($150) says, "The striking feature of (many of) the angels during the Battle of Badr was their white turbans (while others wore yellow turbans), the ends of which they let hang behind their backs. During the Battle of Hunayn, they wore green turbans. The angels however never actually fought during any of the battles apart from the Battle of Badr. What they would do was increase the numbers of the Muslims and assist them without actually killing the enemy." (1)

Hadhrat Ikrama reports that Rasulullaah sees freed slave Hadhrat Abu Raafi 器域器 said. "I was the slave of Abbaas bin Abdul Muttalib when Islaam entered our household. Abbaas (his wife) Ummu Fadhl (all accepted) Islaam but because Abbaas was afraid to oppose his tribe and because he was a wealthy man with a lot of his wealth invested with many people of his tribe, he concealed his Islaam from them. Abu Lahab did not participate in the Battle of Badr and sent Aas bin Hishaam bin Mughiera in his place. Many other people did the same and there was none who stayed behind without sending a representative. We felt tremendous strength and honour when we heard what had happened to the Quraysh at Badr. May Allaah humiliate and disgrace them!" Hadhrat Abu Raafi William narrates further. He says, "I was a weak man who used to carve arrows in the Zamzam tent. By Allaah! I was sitting and carving my arrows there one day and Ummu Fadhl was also there with me. We were rejoicing about the news that reached us when Abu Lahab arrived, dragging his feet along with great difficulty. He sat on the tent's rope with his back towards mine. It was while he was sitting there that someone announced. 'Here comes Abu Sufyaan bin Haarith bin Abdul Muttalib who has just arrived (from the Battle of Badr).' This Abu Sufyaan's name was actually Mughiera. 'Come here!' Abu Lahab called out to him, 'I swear by my life that you should be having some news.' Mughiera sat by him as the people stood by.

'Dear nephew!' Abu Lahab said to him, 'Tell me what happened to the people (how were they defeated?).' Mughiera said, 'By Allaah! As soon as we engaged them in combat, they started killing us as they pleased and took us prisoner as they pleased! By Allaah! The blame cannot be placed on our men because the men we fought were extremely fair in complexion and they rode spotted horses that glided between the ground and the sky. By Allaah! They left nothing and nothing could stand before them."

Hadhrat Abu Raafi Sases says, "I then grabbed hold of the tent's rope and exclaimed, 'By Allaah! Those were angels!' Abu Lahab then raised his hand and struck me hard on my face. As I stood up to him, he attacked me and struck me to the ground. He then sat on my chest and started hitting me because I was a weak man. Ummu Fadhil then stood up, took up one of the tent's supports and struck Abu Lahab so hard over the head that he sustained a horrible wound. She then said, 'Are you taking advantage of him because his master is not around?' Abu Lahab then went away feeling most humiliated. By Allaah! Abu Lahab did not live even seven days more when Allaah afflicted him with a form of smallpox that led to his death."

In another narration, Hadhrat Abu Raafi (Mass adds, "Abu Lahab's sons left his body for three days after his death until it began to exude a foul odour. This was because the Quraysh feared this form of smallpox as much as they feared a (1) Abu Nu'aym in his Dalaa'il (Pg.170) plague. Eventually, someone from the Quraysh rebuked them saying, 'Shame on you two! Have you no shame?! Your father's body is rotting in the house and you are not burying him?' They excused themselves saying, 'We fear that those sores are contagious.' 'Come along,' the man offered, 'I shall assist you with it.' By Allaah! They bathed the body by throwing containers of water over it from a distance without going anywhere near it. They then carried it to the upper reaches of Makkah where they placed the body against a wall and threw stones over it."(1)

Hadhrat Auf bin Abdur Rahmaan the freed slave of Ummu Burthun reports that a Sahabi who participated in the Battle of Hunayn on the side of the Kuffaar said, "When we clashed with Rasulullaah (at one stage on the battlefield), the Muslims were unable to stand before us for even as long as it takes to milk a goat. Swinging our swords about, we finally came in front of Rasulullaah and were about to attack him when some strikingly handsome men appeared suddenly and said, 'May your faces be disfigured! Go back!' It was the effect of those words that we were ultimately defeated." (2)

Hadhrat Auf A'raabi reports from Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan the freed slave of Abu Burthun that a Sahabi who participated in the Battle of Hunayn said, "When we clashed with the Sahabah word of Rasulullaah (at one stage) on the battlefield of Hunayn, they were unable to stand before us for even as long as it takes to milk a goat. When we had dispersed them, we started chasing after them until we reached a person riding a white mule. The person turned out to be Rasulullaah who said, 'May your faces be disfigured! Go back!' It was the effect of those words that we were ultimately defeated and the Muslims were able to get on top of us." (3)

Hadhrat Jubayr bin Mut'im Sass, "We were with Rasulullaah & during the Battle of Hunayn as the battle was raging. I then happened to look up and saw something like a black blanket descending from the sky. It landed between the enemy and ourselves and I noticed that it was a mass of ants that scattered about, filling the entire valley. This spelt the defeat of the enemy and we not once doubted the fact that these were angels." (4)

Towards the end of the day, Rasulullaah will addressed him saying, "Go ahead, O Mus'ab." The angel then turned to Rasulullaah and said, "I am not Mus'ab." Rasulullaah will then realised that he was an angel sent to assist him. (1)

Hadhrat Anas (Sizes) says, "It is as if I am actually looking at the dust rising from the Banu Ghanam street as Hadhrat Jibra'eel (Sizes) rode by at the time when Rasulullaah (Sizes) was marching against the Banu Ouraizah tribe." (2)

Another narration recounts this incident of the battle against the Banu Quraizah tribe in detail. It states that after Rasulullaah had downed his weapons (after finishing the Battle of Khandaq), Hadhrat Jibra'eel came to him. Hadhrat Jibra'eel was resting against his horse's chest when Rasulullaah came out to him. With dust still covering his eyebrows, Hadhrat Jibra'eel said, "We have not yet downed our weapons after the battle. March on now against the Banu Qurayzah tribe." "My companions have been through a lot of exertion. Why not give them a few days respite?" Hadhrat Jibra'eel caid, "You must march against them. I shall lead this horse of mine into their fortress and raze it to the ground" Hadhrat Jibra'eel and the angels with him then turned and left and their dust clouds could be seen rising in the streets of the Ansaar Banu Ghanam tribe. During the Battle of Badr

Hadhrat Suhayl bin Amr sizes says, "Without doubt, it was during the Battle of Badr that I saw brilliant men riding spotted horses that glided between the ground and the sky. They were very conspicuous and were killing the Mushrikeen and also taking them prisoner." (4)

Hadhrat Baraa (Sub) and several other Sahabah (Sub) report that when an Ansaari Sahabi (Sub) brought Hadhrat Abbaas (Sub) as a prisoner (during the Battle of Badr), Hadhrat Abbaas (Sub) said, "O Rasululiaah (Sub)! It was not this man who took me prisoner." He then went on to describe the person who captured him, stating also that the person was someone whose head was bald in the front. Addressing the Ansaari (Sub). Rasulullaah (Sub) said, "Allaah sent a noble angel to assist you." (5)

A similar narration from Hadhrat Ali (1996) states that when an Ansaari Sahabi (1996) brought Hadhrat Abbaas (1996) as a prisoner, Hadhrat Abbaas bin Abdul (1997) said, "O Rasulullaah (1997) By Allaah! It was not this man who

"O Rasulullaah with the Ansaari said, "It was I who took him prisoner." Rasulullaah bade the Ansaari not to insist saying, "Allaah had sent a noble angel to assist you." (1)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas Freports that the person who took Hadhrat Abbaas prisoner was Hadhrat Abu Yasr Ka'b bin Amr, who belonged to the Banu Salimah tribe. While he was a short man. Hadhrat Abbaas was a towering man, "O Abu Yasar," Rasulullaah & asked him, "How did you manage to take Abbaas prisoner?" He replied, "O Rasulullaah (A man whom I have never seen before nor afterwards assisted me in capturing him." When he then proceeded to describe the person, Rasulullaah : remarked, "It was indeed one of the noble angels who came to your assistance." (2) Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas was narrates that as a Muslim was pursuing a Mushrik soldier (during the Battle of Badr), he heard a whiplash from above and the voice of a horseman saying (to his horse), "Forward, O Hayzoom!" When the Muslim looked ahead, he saw the Mushrik falling flat on his back. Upon closer inspection, he found that the Mushrik's nose was severed and his face had been deeply gashed as a result of a forceful whiplash. In fact, his entire face had already turned blue. When this Ansaari reported the matter to Rasulullaah 25%, Rasulullaah confirmed what he said and remarked, "That was an angel from the reinforcements of the third heaven." On that day, seventy Mushrikeen were killed and seventy were taken prisoner. (3)

A Sahabi belonging to the Banu Ghifaar tribe says, "We were still Mushrikeen when my cousin and I climbed on a mountain overlooking Badr to view the battle. We wished to see who will be defeated so we could join the victors to loot the others. As we sat on the mountain, we saw a cloud draw near to us and we heard the neighing of horses and a voice saying, 'Forward, O Hayzoom!' This caused my cousin's heart to rupture and he died immediately. I was almost killed myself and just managed to control myself." (4)

Hadhrat Abu Talha sizes relates, "We were with Rasulullaah sizes in a battle and when we engaged the enemy in battle, I heard Rasulullaah sizes say, 'O Master of the Day of Retribution, only You do we worship and only from You do we seek help.' I then saw many men (from the army of Mushrikeen) fall down as the angels struck at them from the front and from the back." (5)

Hadhrat Abu Waaqid Laythi (1996) says, "I would be following a man from the Mushrikeen to strike him a blow with my sword, only to find his head rolling even before my sword could reach him. I then realised that it was someone else (an angel) who had killed him." (2)

The same words have been narrated from Hadhrat Abu Dawood Maazini who had participated in the Battle of Badr. (3)

Hadhrat Sahl bin Abu Hathma in arrates that when Hadhrat Abu Barzah brought three heads of the Mushrikeen to Rasulullaah during the Battle of Badr. Rasulullaah remarked, "You have done extremely well!" "O Rasulullaah in Hadhrat Abu Barzah said, "I killed two of them myself. As for the third, I saw an extremely handsome man with a fair complexion decapitate him." Rasulullaah then named the angel whom Hadhrat Abu Barzah said described. (4)

Hadhrat Haarith bin Simma says, "Rasulullaah was in a gorge when he asked me whether I had seen Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf was." 'Yes, O Rasulullaah will I replied, 'I saw him at the foot of a hill as a regiment of the Mushrikeen army were about to attack him. It was for that reason that I descended from the hill (to assist him), but I then came to you when I saw you.' Rasulullaah remarked, 'Behold! The angels are fighting by his side.' I then went to Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf and found him with the fallen bodies of seven Mushrikeen. 'You have done extremely well!' I exclaimed, 'Did you kill all of them by yourself?' He replied, 'As for this person (pointing to Artaat bin Abd Shurahbeel) and this other one, I did kill them myself. As for the others, they were killed by a man I have never seen.' I then said, 'Allaah and His Rasool we have spoken the truth." (5) sores that emitted such a foul odour that people were unable to even go close to them. It was then that Allaah revealed the verse:

We are enough for you against those who ridicule. (Surah Hijr, verse 95)⁽¹⁾
Concerning to the verse "We are enough for you against those who ridicule"⁽²⁾, Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas states that the persons referred to are Waleed bin Mughiera, Aswad bin Abd Ya'ooth, Aswad bin Muttalib Abu Zam'ah from the Asad bin Abd Uzzah tribe, Haarith bin Aytal Sahmi and Aas bin Waa'il Sahmi. When Hadhrat Jibra'eel to kim (and Hadhrat Jibra'eel sked Rasulullaah to point them out to him). When Rasulullaah pointed Waleed bin Mughiera out to him, Hadhrat Jibra'eel pointed towards his radial artery. "Are you not going to do anything?" Rasulullaah asked. "I have already taken care of him for you," Hadhrat Jibra'eel

Thereafter when Rasulullaah pointed Haarith bin Aytal out to him, Hadhrat Jibra'eel pointed towards his belly. "Are you not going to do anything?" Rasulullaah see asked. "I have already taken care of him for you," Hadhrat Jibra'eel replied. Rasulullaah then pointed Aas bin Waa'il out and Hadhrat Jibra'eel pointed towards the sole of his foot. Rasulullaah again asked, "Are you not going to do anything?" Yet again Hadhrat Jibra'eel replied, "I have already taken care of him for you."

It then transpired that when Waleed bin Mughiera was passing by a man from the Khuzaa'ah tribe who was busy sharpening an arrow, the arrow happened to cut Waleed's radial artery. As for Aswad bin Muttalib, he became blind. While some say that he just became blind, others say that he was once lying beneath a tree when he suddenly started calling for his sons saying, "Will you not come to my rescue because I have been destroyed. A thorn has been pierced in my eye." They however said, "We can see nothing (in your eye)." It was not long after this that he became completely blind.

As for Aswad bin Abd Ya'ooth, he was once on a journey when blisters erupted on his head, causing him to die. Haarith bin Aytal was afflicted with an over secretion of yellow bile in his stomach which caused his excreta to emerge from his mouth. This led to his death. As for Aas bin Waa'il, he was walking somewhere when a thorn of the Shibriqa tree pierced the sole of his foot, causing it to swell and eventually leading to his death. (3)

"Put down your goods," the robber demanded, "because I am going to kill you." "You may have all the goods," Hadhrat Abu Mu'liq with told him. "It is your life that I want," the robber barked. "Then permit me to perform salaah," Hadhrat Abu Mu'liq with requested. The robber laughed, "You may perform as much salaah as you please."

Hadhrat Abu Mu'liq salaah. One of the du'aas he made was:

"يًا وَدُوْدُ يَا ذَالْعَوْشِ الْمَجِيْدِ يَا فَعَّالًا لِمَا يُوِيدُ اَسْأَلُكَ بِعِزَّتِكَ الَّتِيْ لَاتُوَامُ وَمُلْكِكَ الَّذِيْ لَا يُعْمَامُ وَبَنُوْدِكَ الَّذِيْ مَلَّا اَرْكَانَ عَرْضِكَ أَنْ تَكْفِيْنِيْ شَرَّهَذَا اللِّصِّ يَا مُعِيْثُ ٱغِنْنِيْ

"O The Most Loving! O Master of the Glorious Throne! O the One Who does as He pleases! By Your Honour that none can hope to have, by Your kingdom that none can harm and by Your light that fills the foundations of Your throne do I implore You to protect me from the evil of this robber. O Helper, do help me."

When he had made this du'aa thrice, a rider suddenly appeared with a spear held high above his head. The rider thrust the spear at the robber and killed him. He then went up to the trader and asked, "Who are you?" Hadhrat Abu Mu'liq (Siese) replied, "I am the one whom Allaah has rescued through you." The rider then explained, "I am an angel of the fourth heaven. When you first made the du'aa, I heard the doors of the heavens rattle. When you made the du'aa the second time, I heard the inhabitants of the heavens cry out. When you again made the du'aa for the third time and it was announced that this was the du'aa of a person in distress, I sought permission from Allaah to grant me the ability to kill the robber. You ought to know the good news that whoever makes wudhu, performs four Rakaahs salaah and then makes that du'aa, his du'aa will be answered whether he is in distress or not." (1)

An Angel Comes to the Aid of Hadhrat Zaid bin Haaritha

Hadhrat Layth bin Sa'd reports that Hadhrat Zaid bin Haaritha with once rented a mule from a man from Taa'if. The man however made a condition with him that Hadhrat Zaid with should first take him where he wished to alight. The man then led Hadhrat Zaid with to some ruins where he told him to get off. When Hadhrat Zaid with got off, he saw many dead bodies lying there. When the man then made a move to kill Hadhrat Zaid with Fadhrat Zaid with requested to be allowed to perform two Rakaahs salaah. The man sneered, "You may perform your salaah because all these people also performed salaah but their salaah did them no good."

Hadhrat Zaid Sillis narrated, "As I performed salaah, he came up to kill me.

However, when I exclaimed, ' ' اَرْحَمْ الْرَاحِمْنَ ' Yaa Arhamar Raahimeen - O the Most merciful of those who show mercy!)!' he heard a voice calling out, 'Do not kill him!' This startled him and he went to look from where the voice was coming, but he found nothing. When he approached me again, I again called out, 'Yaa Arhamar Raahimeen' After this had happened three times, I saw a horseman come riding. He held in his hand a steel spear that had a spark of flame rising from its head. He thrust the spear so forcefully at the man that it pierced through his body and emerged from his back. As the man fell dead, the horseman turned to me and said, 'When you called out 'Yaa Arhamar Raahimeen' the first time, I was in the seventh heaven. When you called out 'Yaa Arhamar Raahimeen' the second time, I was in the heaven just above this world and by the time you called out 'Yaa Arhamar Raahimeen' the third time, I came to you."(1)

As far as I could see, the man was Dihya Kalbi was, wearing his turban with its ends hanging between his shoulders. When Rasulullaah came back to my room, I asked, 'I saw you jump up very fast but when I went out to have a look, I saw that it was only Dihya Kalbi.' 'Did you see him?' In a more detailed account of the battle against the Banu Qurayzah, a narration of Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Musayyib adds that when Rasulullaah passed by several gatherings of Sahabah on his way to the Banu Qurayzah, he asked them whether anyone had passed by them. "Yes," they replied, "Dihya Kalbi just passed by us riding a white mule and sitting on a velvet cloth." Rasulullaah then informed them, "That was not Dihya but Jibra'eel the has been sent to shake the fortress of the Banu Qurayzah and to instil fear into their hearts." (3)

The Angels Greet and Shake Hands with the Sahabah

Hadhrat Mutarrif bin Abdullaah reports that Hadhrat Imraan bin Husayn some said to him, "Listen, O Mutarrif! (During the course of my illness) The angels used to come to the headside of my bed to greet me, they would greet in my house and even at the entrance of the Hateem. However, this stopped after I had myself branded (for medical reasons)." When his wound (received from the branding) had healed, Hadhrat Mutarrif again spoke to him, this time, Hadhrat Imraan said said, "Listen, O Mutarrif! That which I had been missing has come back to me. O Mutarrif! Do keep this a secret until after I die." (2)

Hadhrat Mutarrif reports, "Hadhrat Imraan bin Husayn (Do you know that I used to be greeted (by the angels during my illness), but this stopped when I had myself branded.' I asked, Were the greeting coming from your headside or from the side of your feet?' "No, not from the side of the feet, but from the headside," he confirmed. To this, I remarked, 'I think that these greetings will certainly return before you pass away.' Some time later, Hadhrat Imraan (Do you know that the greetings have returned?' Angels Speaking on the Tongues of the Sahabah

Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri (Sub) reports that Rasulullaah (Sub) once said, "Whoever dislikes Umar dislikes me and whoever loves Umar loves me. Verily, Allaah boasts about mankind in general on the eve of the Day of Arafah, but boasts specifically about Umar. There has been a Muhaddath in the Ummah of every Nabi that Allaah has sent and if there is one amongst my Ummah, he must be Umar." Angels Speaking on the Tongue of Hadhrat Abu Mufazzir William during the Siege of Bahurseer Hadhrat Anas bin Hulays reports, "After defeating the Persians (in battle), we had laid siege to their fortress of Buharseer when one of their emissaries approached us saying, 'Our emperor asks whether any of you would be interested in an accord that would secure for us the land from our side of the Tigris River up to our mountain and secure for you the land from your side of the Tigris River up to your mountain? Are your bellies still not full? May Allaah never fill your bellies!' Hadhrat Abu Mufazzir Aswad bin Qutba (Allaah placed on his tongue words that neither he nor us knew anything about. The emissary then returned and we saw the people (from the city) leaving for Madaa'in. 'O Abu Mufazzir (Was) we asked him, 'What did you say to him?' His reply was, 'I swear by the Being Who sent Muhammad (Was) with the truth that I have no idea what I said. All I know is that a special tranquillity descended upon me. I am however sure that whatever was placed on my tongue was good.'

People then questioned him in turns (with the same response) until Hadhrat Sa'd (bin Abi Waqqaas) heard about the incident. Hadhrat Sa'd then came to our camp and asked, 'O Abu Mufazzir! What did you say to them? By Allash! They are all fleeing.' Hadhrat Abu Mufazzir however gave him the same reply he had given us.' Hadhrat Sa'd then announced that an attack be launched and the soldiers stood in battle formation as our catapults flung rocks at the enemy. However, neither could anyone be seen in the town, nor did anyone emerge. Only one man came out, seeking amnesty. When we granted him amnesty, he said, 'There is no one left here. What is keeping you back?' Some men then scaled the walls (to unlock the gates) and when we entered as victors, we found nothing and no one. All we could do was to capture some people who were still leaving the town.

When we asked them and the man (who asked for amnesty) what it was that made them flee, they explained that when the emperor sent his emissary to request for a treaty, your reply was: 'There shall never be any treaty between us until we eat the honey of Afreezeen with the citron of Kootha.' To this, the king exclaimed, 'Oh dear! The angels are speaking on their tongues. It is a reply of the angels spoken on the tongues of Arabs. By Allaah! Even if it were not so, these are words (that Allaah) placed on the tongue of that man to deter us (from fighting them). You should all retreat to the city of Quswa." (1)

It then flew up into the sky until I was unable to see it."

He went to Rasulullaah see early next morning and reported the matter saying, "O Rasulullaah see! I wasrecitingthe Quraanlatelastnight in my silo when my horse started to skip about." Another narration states that Hadhrat Usayd said, "When I turned, I saw something like lanterns suspended between the sky and the ground. I said, 'O Rasulullaah si (After seeing that) I was unable to recite any further.' Rasulullaah explained, "Those were angels who had descended to listen to you recite the Qur'aan. Had you continued, you would have seen some amazing things." (2) Yet another narration states that Rasulullaah si said, "Those were angels who had come close when they heard your voice. Although there was none in the room besides the covered body of Hadhrat Sa'd says, I saw Rasulullaah walk as if he was climbing over people's shoulders. Seeing this, I stopped in my tracks and Rasulullaah says also motioned me to stop. I then stopped those behind me as well (from entering the room). After sitting awhile, Rasulullaah says came out again. I then asked, 'O Rasulullaah says! I saw you walk as if you were climbing over people's shoulders even though there was no one in the room.' Rasulullaah says replied, '(The room was so full of angels that) I was unable to sit down until one of the angels folded in one of his wings. It was only then that I managed to sit down.' (Addressing the body of Hadhrat Sa'd says) Rasulullaah then said, 'Congratulations to you, O Abu Amr! Congratulations (I) bin sa'd (Vol.3 Pe.423).

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar harrates that Rasulullaah see said, "For (the funeral of) Sa'd bin Mu'aadh see, seventy thousand angels came down who had never tread upon earth before." When Hadhrat Sa'd see was buried, Rasulullaah see remarked, "Subhaanallaah! If anyone could be saved from the squeezing of the grave, it would be Sa'd." (2)

Hadhrat Sa'd bin Ibraheem narrates that when the funeral bier of Hadhrat Sa'd Siles was being carried, some of the Munaafiqeen mocked, "How light is this bier of Sa'd!" Rasulullaah Se then said, "To be present for the funeral of Sa'd Siles, seventy thousand angels came down who had never before set foot upon the earth." (3)

Hadhrat Hasan reports that Hadhrat Sa'd bin Mu'aadh was a large and well-built man. Therefore, when he passed away, the Munaafiqeen walking behind his funeral bier scoffed, "To this day we have never seen a bier as light as this! Do you know why this is so? It is because of his ruling concerning the Banu Qurayzah tribe." When this was reported to Rasulullaah . Ras Hadhrat Mu'aawiya bin Hayda Qashayri reports that he went to see Rasulullaah and when he was brought into Rasulullaah so presence, Rasulullaah so said, "Listen well! I had prayed to Allaah to assist me by either afflicting you people with a drought that would uproot you or by placing fear in your hearts." Hadhrat Mu'aawiya then showed all his fingers to Rasulullaah so saying, "As for me, I have sworn this many times on oath that I shall never believe in you nor follow you. However, the drought kept uprooting me and fear for you was placed so deep in my heart that I am now standing before you (to accept Islaam)." (5)

Hadhrat Zaid bin Aslam and others reports that Hadhrat Suraaqa bin Maalik (who was then not a Muslim) thrice cast arrows to decide whether or not to pursue Rasulullaah . He then rode off in search of them and eventually caught up with them. Rasulullaah the then made du'aa that the legs of Hadhrat Suraaqa (he horse should sink into the ground, and they did. Hadhrat Suraaqa pleaded to Rasulullaah saying, "Make du'aa that Allaah releases my horse and I will thwart anyone coming your way." Rasulullaah finade du'aa saying, "O Allaah! Release his horse if he is truthful." His horse's legs then came out of the sand. (2)

A narration from Hadhrat Umayr bin Is'haag states that Hadhrat Suraaga pleaded, "O you two men! If you pray to Allaah on my behalf, I shall give you an undertaking never to pursue you again. Rasulullaah 😂 and Hadhrat Abu Bakr made du'aa but (as soon as he was freed,) he did the same. When his horse again sank into the ground, he again pleaded, "If you pray to Allaah on my behalf, I shall give you an undertaking never to pursue you again." This time he even offered them his provisions and horse. Rasulullaah 🕮 and Hadhrat Abu Bakr to however said to him, "All we need is for you to relieve us of yourself (by abandoning your pursuit)." Hadhrat Suraaqa (agreed to do this. (3) In a lengthy narration discussing the Hijrah, Hadhrat Abu Ma'bad Khuzaa'ee 图题的 states that Hadhrat Suraaga 图题的 pleaded, "O Muhammad! Pray to Allaah to release my horse and I will not only leave you alone, but will also send back anyone else I find behind me." Rasulullaah W did as he requested and he was released to leave. When he then found some people searching for Rasulullaah : he said to them, "Go back. I have already scoured this entire area and you know well how good I am at tracking." The others then all returned. You may instruct me to do as you please." Rasulullaah & said, "Stay where you are (without coming forward) and (when you return), do not allow anyone to catch up with us."

The Destruction of Arbad bin Qais and Aamir bin Tufayl

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas arrates that Arbad bin Qais and Aamir bin Tufayl once arrived in Madinah and came to Rasulullaah . Rasulullaah was seated at the time, so they sat in front of him. Aamir bin Tufayl said, "O Muhammad! What will you give me if I accept Islaam?" Rasulullaah replied, "You will have that which every Muslim has and will also share the same responsibilities." Aamir then asked, "Will you appoint me as your successor if I accept Islaam?" Rasulullaah replied, "That post is neither for you nor for your tribe, You may however assume command of a cavalry detachment." "I am already the commander of the cavalry of Najd." Aamir said, "Give me command over the rural areas while you retain command over the urban areas." Rasulullaah however refused this. When the two men were then leaving, Aamir said, "Behold! I swear by Allaah that I shall fill this city with cavalry and infantry, all fighting against you." Rasulullaah said calmly, "Allaah will prevent you."

When Arbad and Aamir had left, Aamir said to him, "O Arbadt While I distract Muhammad with some talk, you must strike him with your sword. If you kill him, the people will want nothing more than blood money because they would detest going to war. We will then easily be able to pay them the blood money." When Arbad agreed, the two returned to Rasulullaah "O Muhammad!" Aamir said, "Come with me because I need to discuss something with you." Rasulullaah went with them and when they sat against a wall, Rasulullaah sat with them. Rasulullaah then remained there to talk to Aamir.

As Arbad placed his hand on his sword to unsheathe it, his hand stuck fast to the handle and he was unable to remove it. He therefore delayed Aamir by not striking. In the meantime, Rasuluilaah the turned around and when he saw what Arbad was doing, he left the two of them. Arbad and Aamir then hastily left and when they camped at Harra Waaqim, Hadhrat Sa'd bin Mu'aadh the saw and Hadhrat Usayd bin Hudhayr the came to them and demanded, "Get out of here, O enemies of Allaah! May Allaah curse you both." "O Sa'dt" Aamir asked, "Who is this man (with you)?" Hadhrat Sa'd the replied, "He is Usayd bin Hudhayr, the scribe."

The two left and it was when they reached a place called Raqam that Allaah sent a bolt of lightning to kill Arbad. Aamir continued further and he was at Khuraym when he developed a gland. Night found him at the house of a woman from the

Because he disliked dying in her house, he mounted his horse and rode off, He later died as he went back on the same horse, it was with reference to the two of them that Allaah revealed the verses:

Allaah knows what every female bears and the shortages and excesses in the womb. Everything is perfectly stipulated with Him. He is the Knower of the unseen and the seen. He is the Great, The Lofty. Whoever whispers, speaks loudly, is hidden in the night, or is walking about during the day, they are all alike. For everyone there are followers (guardian angels) in front of him and following behind him, protecting him (from harm) by Allaah's order. Undoubtedly Allaah does not change the condition of a nation (the difficulties they face) until they change the condition within themselves (by behaving like proper Mu'mineen). When Allaah intends evil (misfortune) to befall a nation, there is none to turn it away. They (on whom the evil befalls) will have no helper besides Allaah. (Surah Ra'd, verses 8-11)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas 劉隆德 says that it was the guardian angels acting by Allaah's order who protected Rasulullaah 劉德. Referring to the death of Arbad by the bolt of lightning, Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas 劉隆德 quoted the verse:

Allaah sends the bolts of lightning to strike whoever He wills while they are disputing about Allaah. Allaah is flercely Powerful. {Surah Ra'd, verse 13}^{{1}}

We were then defeated and Allaah revealed the verse:

The Enemy Appearing Few in Number to the Muslims

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (Siese) says, "The enemy appeared so few in our eyes during the Battle of Badr that my companion standing beside me said, 'Do you think that they number seventy?' I said, 'I would estimate that they are only a hundred.' It was only when we captured one of them and questioned him that we discovered that they were a thousand strong." (2)

Assistance by the Winds

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Jubayr reports that on the occasion of the Battle of Khandaq, those who marched to Madinah were Abu Sufyaan bin Harb and the Quraysh and Kinaanah whom he led, Uyaynah bin Hisn and the Banu Ghitfaan tribe whom he led, Tulayha and the Banu Asad tribe whom he led and Abu A'war and the Sulaym tribe whom he led. Also assisting the Mushrikeen was the (Jewish) Banu Qurayzah tribe, who actually contravened the pact they had made with the Muslims. It was with reference to this that Allaah revealed the verse:

He (Allaah) made those people of the Book (the Jewish Banu Qurayzah tribe) who assisted them (the combined Mushrikeen armies) descend from their fortresses (and surrender to the Muslims). (Surah Ahzaab, verse 26)

Hadhrat Jibra'eel then appeared with the winds; which he unleashed against the Mushrikeen. When Rasulullaah see saw Hadhrat Jibra'eel saw Farrive, he thrice said (to the Sahabah sees), "Behold! It is time to rejoice!" The wind tore open their tents, overturned their large pots, buried their carriages, severed the tent ropes and caused them to run about in such confusion that not one even turned to look at another. It was with reference to this that Allaah revealed the verse:

(O you who have Imaan! Remember Allaah's favour to you) When the (combined Jewish and Mushrikeen) armies approached you, against which We sent (in your defence) a (fierce) wind and troops (of angels) that you could not see (thus causing fear in the hearts of the enemy). (Surah Ahzaab, yerse 9)

The narration then continues to recount the battle against the Banu Qurayzah. (1)

The northerly wind however said, "An honourable lady doesn't travel by night." It was therefore with the easterly wind that Rasulullaah (1966) was assisted.

All this was still taking place when the valley of Aqeeq flooded more heavily than ever before. The flood uncovered the boundary that Arwa and Hadhrat Sa'eed were disputing, making it clear that Hadhrat Sa'eed was justified. Merely a month later, Arwa became blind and she was walking about on the very same property when she stumbled into her well.

Hadhrat Abu Bakr bin Muhammad says, "When we were little boys, we would hear a person say to another, 'May Allaah make you blind as he made Arwa blind.' We used to think that the Arwa they were referring to was the mountain goat in the wild (because this is the literal translation of Arwa). However, we discovered that this expression referred to the curse of Hadhrat Sa'eed that afficted Arwa. The people used the expression with reference to this curse of Hadhrat Sa'eed that Allaah accepted. (1)

The Eyesight of a Group of Quraysh is restored by the Du'aa of Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas an arrates that Rasulullaah we used to recite the Qur'aan in the Masjidul Haraam. One day, he was reciting Qur'aan loudly, which irritated some members of the Quraysh so much that they got up to apprehend him. However, their hands suddenly got stuck on their necks and they became blind. They then approached Rasulullaah and pleaded to him in the name of Allaah and in the name of the family ties that existed between them and him. Rasulullaah was related to every branch of the Quraysh, so he prayed to Allaah and their eyesight was restored to them. It was then that Allaah revealed the verses:

Hadhrat Qataadah bin Nu'maan says, "Rasulullaah received a bow as a gift, which he gave to me during the Battle of Uhud. I then continued firing arrows standing in front of Rasulullaah until one end of the bow broke. I however continued standing where I was in front of Rasulullaah face, deflecting the arrows from him with my face. Whenever an arrow came towards Rasulullaah face, I turned my own face and head to protect Rasulullaah face. All this I was doing when I was unable to fire any arrows. The last of the arrows dislodged my eyeball, causing it to fall on to my cheek. When the enemy had dispersed, I held my eyeball in my hand and rushed with it to Rasulullaah face. Seeing it, Rasulullaah for eyeball with his face, so make this eye the better of the two and the one with sharper vision." (Rasulullaah face) then inserted the eye back in its socket and) That eye did turn out to be the better of the two and the one with sharper vision.

Hadhrat Mahmood bin Labeed reports from Hadhrat Qataadah (that when his eye was struck (by an arrow) during the Battle of Uhud, it fell out on to his cheek. Rasulullaah (then replaced it in its socket and it became the better of his two eyes. (3) Another narration adds that that eye turned out to be the better of the two and the one with sharper vision. Hadhrat Aasim bin Umar bin Qataadah reports that when Hadhrat Qataadah bin Nu'maan sies's eye was struck during the Battle of Uhud and it fell on to his cheek, the other Sahabah was wanted to cut it off. Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Ibraheem narrates that Hadhrat Zinneera was a Roman lady who accepted Islaam. When she became blind, the Mushrikeen told her that it was (their idols) Laat and Uzza who made her blind. When she vehemently told them that she refused to believe in Laat and Uzza, Allaah restored her vision. (4)

The Palace of Heraclius of Rome was Shaken

Hadhrat Hishaam bin Aas Umawi Babi reports, "Another person and I were sent (by the Khalifah Hadhrat Abu Bakr Babi to invite Heraclius the Emperor of Rome to Islaam. We left and when we reached the Ghowla district of Damascus, we went to see Jabalah bin Ayham Ghassaani (who ruled the area). He was sitting on his throne and sent his messenger to speak to us. We however said, 'By Allaah! We will never speak to a messenger because we were sent to speak directly to the ruler. If he permits, we will speak to him, but never to a messenger. When the messenger reported this to him, he allowed us in and asked us to speak.

I then addressed him and invited him to accept Islaam. When I asked him what were the black garments he was wearing, he replied, 'When wearing them, I vowed never to remove them until I dispelled you people from Shaam.' I responded by saying, 'In this very gathering of yours do I swear by Allaah that we shall definitely be taking control of Shaam from you. In fact, we shall also be taking over all the lands of your Emperor, Inshaa Allaah. Our Nabi Muhammad informed us of this.' To this, he said, 'You are not the ones who will be doing this because they will be people who fast during the day and stand in prayer during the nights. How do you people fast?' When we informed him about it, his face darkened and he bade us to leave. He then sent a messenger with us to the Emperor (Heraclius).

We then left and when we drew near to the city, the person accompanying us said, 'These animals of yours cannot enter the Emperor's city. If you wish, we can give you Turkish horses or mules to ride.' 'By Allaah!' we said, 'We shall enter with nothing other than these animals.' The people then sent a message to the Emperor, informing him of our refusal. He communicated back to them the instruction to allow us in on our animals. With our swords hanging around our necks, we then entered the city and reached the Emperor's palace. As he watched us from above, we seated our animals beneath and called out, (In Indiana Illallaah, Allaahu Akbar')! Allaah knows that his palace then shook so much that it appeared to be a branch fluttering in the wind. He sent a message informing us that we were not to shout out any declarations of our faith and that we could now enter the palace. Upon entering, we found him sitting on his rug with the leading military commanders of Rome. Everything in gathering was red, everything around him was red and even his clothing was red.

when we went up to him, he laughed and said, 'What would it cost you if you were to greet me with the words you greet each other with?' With him was a man (his interpreter) who spoke Arabic fluently and who spoke a lot. We replied by saying, 'It is neither permissible for us to greet you with the greeting we use amongst ourselves, nor it is permissible for us to greet you with the greeting you use amongst yourselves.' 'And what is the greeting you use amongst yourselves?' he enquired. When we informed him that it was 'المُسْتُونُ '(As Salaamu Alayk), he asked, 'How do you greet your ruler?' 'With the same words,' we replied. 'And how does he reply?' he wanted to know. 'With these very words,' was our response.

Heraclius then asked, "What are your greatest words?" We replied by saying (that they are), ("בَשְׁ اللّٰهُ اللّٰهُ اللّٰهُ اللهُ (Laa Ilaaha Illallaah, Allaahu Akbar)! Allaah knows well that as soon as we said these words, the palace shook so much that the Emperor actually looked up. He then asked, 'These words that you have said now when the palace shook, do your buildings shake with them as well?' No,' we replied, 'we have never seen them produce this effect except here with you.' He then remarked, 'Even at the cost of half my kingdom, I wish that each time you say these words, they would cause everything around you to collapse on top of you.' "Why is that?" we enquired. 'Because,' he explained, 'it would be easier and rather than denoting a sign of prophethood, it would then denote only a manmade conspiracy.' He then asked us many questions, to which we furnished details. He also asked about how we performed salaah and fasted. After explaining these to him, he bade us to leave and had us shown to exquisite quarters that contained an abundance of amenities.

We stayed there for three days and then went to see him when he sent for us one night. Upon arrival, he requested us to repeat what we had said previously and when we did, he sent for something that appeared to be a large gold-plated chest. It had many little compartments, each with its own door. He removed a piece of black silk. He opened it to reveal a red picture of a man with large eyes and a sizeable pelvic area. I have never seen anyone with a neck as long as his. He had no beard, wore two locks of hair and was one of the most good-looking people Allaah had created. 'Do you know who this is?' Heraclius asked us. When we admitted that we did not, he said, 'This is Aadam ***

We then also realised that he had more hair than the average person.

Heraclius then opened another compartment and removed a black piece of silk that contained a white picture. The person depicted had curly hair, reddish eyes, a large forehead and a striking beard. 'Do you know who this is?' he asked. When we again pleaded ignorance, he informed us that the man was Nooh (W).

Opening yet another compartment, he removed another black piece of silk with a picture of a man who was extremely fair in complexion. The man had beautiful eyes, a conspicuous forehead, long cheeks and a white beard. The man appeared to be smiling. 'Do you know who this is?' Heraclius asked us. When we admitted that we did not, he said, 'This is Ibraheem ***

Thereafter, he opened another compartment from which he took out a white picture. By Allaah! It was a picture of Rasulullaah . 'Do you know who this is?' he asked us. 'Of course!' we replied, 'This is Rasulullaah .'We.' We then started to weep and Allaah knows that Heraclius stood up for a while and then sat down. 'Do you swear by Allaah that It is he?' he asked. We said, 'It is he without doubt. It is as if you are seeing him in person.' Doing nothing for awhile as he looked at us, Heraclius then said, 'This was the last of the compartments. I opened it sooner than I should just to see what your reaction would be.'

Heraclius then opened another compartment and removed another piece of black silk. The person depicted was very tanned and dark in complexion. His hair was very curly, his eyes deep and penetrating. He was frowning, his teeth were clenched and his lips drawn tightly together, appearing to be very angry. 'Do you know who this is?' he asked. When we conceded that we did not, he said, 'This is Moosa .' Next to this picture was one of a person resembling Moosa .' except that this person's hair was oiled, his forchead was wide and his eyes were slightly squint. 'Do you know who this is?' Heraclius asked. 'No,' we replied. 'This,' he said, 'is Haaroon bin Imraan ***.

From the next compartment, Heraclius removed a piece of white silk that bore the picture of a tanned man with straight hair, who was of average height. He also appeared to be angry. 'Do you know who this is?' Heraclius asked. Again, we could not tell him. He informed us that the person depicted was Loot

When he opened another of the compartments and removed another piece of white silk, we saw a picture of a very fair man with a reddish complexion. He had a high-bridged nose, thin cheeks and a handsome face. 'Do you know who this is?' Heraclius asked. 'No.' we replied. 'This,' he said. 'is Is'haag *****.'

Heraclius then opened another compartment and removed another white piece of silk that contained a picture of a person who looked very much like Is'haaq will, except that he had a mole on his lip, 'Do you know who this is?' Heraclius asked. When we admitted that we did not, he said, 'This is Ya'qoob will.'

He then opened another compartment and removed a black piece of silk bearing the picture of a fair-skinned person. The man depicted had a high-bridged nose, a handsome face and a perfect build. His face shone with radiance, humility could be seen on his face, which had a tinge of reddishness. 'Do you know who this is?' Heraclius asked. When we again conceded that we did not know, he said, 'This is Ismaa'eel  the grandfather of your Nabi ****.

Opening yet another compartment, he removed white piece of silk with a picture of a man who resembled Aadam who has and whose face appeared to be the sun itself. 'Do you know who this is?' he asked. 'No,' we replied. He then informed us that the man was Yusuf while.

Heraclius then opened another compartment and removed a piece of white silk that contained a picture of a man with a reddish complexion. The man had thin calves, small eyes, a large belly and was of average height. He also wore a sword around his neck. When Heraclius again asked us if we knew who the man was and we replied that we did not, he told us that this was Dawood (Dish, and the contained that we did not, he told us that this was Dawood (Dish, and the contained that we did not, he told us that this was Dawood ().

From the next door that Heraclius opened, he took out a piece of white silk that bore the picture of a man with a large pelvic area and long legs. This man was riding a horse. 'Do you know who this is?' he asked. When we told him that we did not, he said, 'This is Sulaymaan bin Dawood ().'

Heraclius then opened another compartment and removed a black piece of silk that contained a white picture. The person depicted was youthful, sported a pitch black beard, had a lot of hair, striking eyes and a handsome face. 'Do you know who this is?' Heraclius asked. 'No,' we replied. 'This,' he said, 'Is Isaa bin Maryam seats.'

We then said to him, 'Where did you get these pictures from? We know that they depict exactly what these Ambiyaa looked like because we have seen the picture of our Nabi see exactly as he was. Heraclius explained, 'These pictures were given to Aadam when he asked his Rabb to show him the Ambiyaa from his progeny. They lay in the treasures of Aadam set at the place where the sun sets. Dhul Qarnayn removed it from there and gave it to Daaniyaal set. Listen well! I swear by Allaah that I prefer to forsake my kingdom to become a slave for the worst master amongst you and to die like that (rather than accept Islaam and be disgraced before my subjects). He then gave us the most superb gifts and bid us farewell

We returned to Hadhrat Abu Bakr and reported to him everything we had seen and everything that Heraclius had told us. Hadhrat Abu Bakr started to weep as he said, 'Poor man! Had Allaah willed good for him, he would have (accepted Islaam). Rasulullaah informed us that they (the Christians like Heraclius) as well as the Jews have the description of Muhammad with them."

Hadhrat Jubayr bin Mut'im says, "(When I was taken by some Christians to a church) they (pointed to some pictures and) asked, 'Do you see him?' When I looked, I saw the features of Rasulullaah and his picture. I then also saw the features and picture of Abu Bakr says, who was following in the footsteps of Rasulullaah says.' Do you see his features?' they asked. 'I certainly do,' I replied. Pointing to the picture of Rasulullaah says, they asked, 'Is this him?' I said, 'O Allaah! That is he. I can testify that it certainly is him.' They further asked, 'And do you recognise the one who is following in his footsteps?' When I replied that I did, they said, 'We can testify that he is your present leader and the Khalifah after him."(2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar reports that when Hadhrat Umar once dispatched an army, he appointed someone by the name of Hadhrat Saariyah as its commander. Hadhrat Umar was was one day delivering a lecture when he suddenly called out, "The mountain, O Saariyah, the mountain!" This he called out three times. When a messenger from the same later arrived (in Madinah), Hadhrat Umar was asked him for a report. He said, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! We were being defeated when we suddenly heard a voice thrice calling out, "The mountain, O Saariyah, the mountain!" We then put our backs towards the mountain, as a result of which Allaah defeated the enemy." Someone then said to Hadhrat Umar was, "It was you who shouted out that command "(2)

In another narration, Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar Freports that while Hadhrat Umar was was delivering a sermon, he suddenly called out, "The mountain, O Saariyah, the mountain! The one who makes a wolf the shepherd of a flock has truly committed a grave injustice." The people looked at each other in surprise, but Hadhrat Ali sassured them that Hadhrat Umar will surely have an explanation for what he had said. When they questioned Hadhrat Umar said after he had completed, he explained, "The vision flashed through my mind that the Mushrikeen would defeat our brothers who were then passing by a mountain. If they turned towards the mountain (placing it at their backs), they would have to fight from one direction only (allowing them to win a victory). However, if they passed by the mountain, they would be destroyed (because they would have to fight the enemy from the direction of the mountain as well). What you claim to have heard me say is my response to that situation."

A month later, someone (from the Muslim army) came with the good news that they had heard Hadhrat Umar (Siese's voice that day, because of which they turned towards the mountain and were granted a victory by Allaah. (3)

Another narration states that the people asked Hadhrat Ali , "Did you hear Umar , O Saariyah!" while he was delivering the lecture on the pulpit?" "Shame on you people!" Hadhrat Ali , "Leave Umar alone because he always has a valid explanation for anything he does." (4)

Yet another narration states that Hadhrat Umar ("The thought came to my heart that they (our Muslim army) should use the mountain to defend themselves from the enemy. I therefore made the statement hoping that one of Allaah's servants would convey it on my behalf."

Hadhrat Amr bin Haarith reports that because Hadhrat Umar was comfortable with Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf who approached Hadhrat Umar saying, "The worst reprimand I can give the people in your defence is that you give them reason to attack you. You were delivering a lecture when you suddenly shouted, 'The mountain, O Saariyah, the mountain!' What was this all about?" Hadhrat Umar sexplained, "I swear by Allaah that I could not help it. I saw our army fighting near a mountain as they were being attacked from the front and from the back. I could not help shouting 'The mountain, O Saariyah, the mountain!' so that they retreat towards the mountain."

All the people needed to do was to await a letter from Hadhrat Saariyah (which read, "We met the enemy on a Friday and continued fighting from the time we performed the Fajr salaah until the time for the Jumu'ah salaah arrived and the sun was starting to decline. It was then that we twice heard someone calling, "The mountain, O Saariyah, the mountain!" We then retreated towards the mountain and continued gaining the upper hand until Allaah finally defeated them." Thereafter, the people who had been criticising Hadhrat Umar (Hadhrat Umar (Hadh

When a person keeps himself thirsty on a hot summer's day (by fasting), then Allaah takes it upon Himself to give him a drink on the Day of the Great Thirst (the Day of Oiyaamah)." (2)

Hadhrat Abu Burda reports that Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari said, "We were once out on a naval expedition when the wind was pleasant and the sails were filled. We then suddenly heard a voice calling, 'O people aboard this vessel! Stop so that I may inform you of something.' When the voice called this out seven times, I stood at the bow of the vessel and asked, 'Who are you and where do you come from? Can you not see where we are? Can we even stop?' The voice then responded by saying, 'Shall I not Inform you of a decision that Allaah has taken upon Himself?' 'Why not?' I replied, 'Please do inform us.' It then said, 'When a person keeps himself thirsty on a hot day (by fasting) solely for Allaah's pleasure, then Allaah takes it upon Himself to give him a drink on the Day of Qiyaamah." It was therefore the habit of Hadhrat Abu Moosa Ash'ari sees to search for days that were so scorching hot that a person's skin could almost roast. He would then fast during such days. (3)

When Hadhrat Umar Fire asked to be informed, Hadhrat Khuraym Fire explained, "I was on the track of a carnel of mine that I had been searching for when night enshrouded me at a place called Abraqul Charraaf. Suddenly, a voice called out the following couplets (which mean):

'Shame on you! Seek refuge from Allaah the Possessor of Honour

The Possessor of Esteem, Benevolence and Munificence

Recite the verses of Surah Anfaal, attest to the Oneness of Allaah and then have no more worries'

This made me extremely frightened and when I regained control over myself, I said the following couplets (which mean):

What are you saying, O caller?

Have you guidance with you or misguidance?

If you have been guided, do explain to us what the situation is'

The caller then recited the following couplets (which mean):

Verily the Rasool of Allaah & bearing all that is good

It was on a Friday that I entered Madinah. Hadhrat Abu Bakr Siddeeq came to me saying, 'May Allaah have mercy on you. Do enter because the news of you accepting Islaam has already reached us.' When I informed him that I did not now how to purify myself properly, he taught me how. (After purifying myself) I then entered the Masjid, where I saw Rasulullaah delivering a sermon on the pulpit, appearing to be the fourteenth full moon (in beauty and radiance). He happened to be saying, 'When a Muslim performs wudhu properly and then performs salaah carefully and with concentration, Allaah will surely admit him into Jannah.'

Umar with then said to me, 'You will have to present a witness to that Hadith, otherwise I shall have to punish you.' It was the prominent man from the Quraysh Uthmaan bin Affaan with, who testified on my behalf and Umar accepted his testimony." (1)

A Jinn brought the News of Rasulullaah ﷺ's Prophethood to Hadhrat Sawaad bin Qaarib

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar Sasys, "Whenever I heard Hadhrat Umar Sasys," I think that this is like this, It would always be exactly as he thought. However, we were once sitting together when a handsome man passed by and Hadhrat Umar Sasid, 'Either my assumption has been wrong or this man is still on his religion of ignorance or he had been a fortune-teller. Bring that man to me.' When the man was brought, Hadhrat Umar Sasid told him what he had just mentioned. The man remarked, 'To this day have I never seen any Muslim man being confronted in this manner.' Hadhrat Umar Sasid to him, 'I command you to inform me (about yourself).'

The man said, 'I had been a fortune-teller during the Period of Ignorance.' 'What was the strangest incident that you experienced with your Jinn?' The man related, 'I was in the marketplace one day when he came to me and I could see that he was extremely scared. He recited the following couplets (which mean):

'Have you not seen the Jinn and their bewilderment?

Have you not seen their despondence after their retreat?

And that they have now joined the ranks of young camels and their saddle blankets?⁽¹⁾

'He is speaking the truth,' Hadhrat Umar said said, 'I was also sleeping near the idols of the Mushrikeen when someone brought a calf and slaughtered it. Just then, someone screamed so loudly that I had never before heard such a loud scream. The voice said, 'O Jaleeh! The matter is one of salvation and the man is an eloquent man saying, 'Laa Ilaaha Illallaah" The people there sprang up in surprise, but I told them to remain where they were until I found out who was behind it. The voice then called out again, 'O Jaleeh! The matter is one of salvation and the man is an eloquent man saying, 'Laa Ilaaha Illallaah" I then left and we did not have to wait long afterwards when it was said that this referred to Rasulullaah

The man mentioned in the narration above was Hadhrat Sawaad bin Qaarib

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Ka'b Qurazi reports that Hadhrat Umar was sitting somewhere one day when a man passed by. Someone asked, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! Do you know who that passer-by is?" When Hadhrat Umar wasked who he was, the people replied, "He is Sawaad bin Qaarib, the man who was informed about the coming of Rasulullaah by by the Jinn in his service." Hadhrat Umar was sent for the man and (when he arrived) asked, "Are you Sawaad bin Qaarib?" When he replied in the affirmative, Hadhrat Umar wasked, "Are you still practising fortune-telling?" Hadhrat Sawaad was became angry and said, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! No one has ever confronted me in this

⁽¹⁾ These words explain how the Jinn who had been frequenting the heavens to hear the discussions of the angels were subsequently stopped when revelation started coming to Rasulullaah (1) They were now forced to remain on earth just like camels and other creatures.
(2) Bukhaari.

Hadhrat Sawaad ("O course, Ameerul Mu'mineen. I was half asleep and half awake one night when my Jinn came and nudged me with his foot. 'Get up, O Sawaad bin Qaarib,' he said, 'Hear what I have to say and make sense of it if you can. Verily, a Nabi has been sent from amongst the progeny of Luway bin Ghaalib. He invites people towards Allaah and towards worshipping Allaah.' He then recited the following couplets (which mean):

'I am surprised at the Jinn and their search and their travelling on white camels with their carriages

They descend on Makkah in search of guidance

because a truthful Jinn cannot be compared to one who is a liar

You must therefore go to the chosen one from the Banu Haashim

Because the one in the lead cannot be compared to the one who lags behind'

I however said to him, 'Leave me to sleep because I have been very sleepy all evening.' He then returned the following night and nudged me with his foot, saying, 'Get up, O Sawaad bin Qaarib,' he said, 'Hear what I have to say and make sense of it if you can. Verily, a Nabi has been sent from amongst the progeny of Luway bin Ghaalib. He invites people towards Allaah and towards worshipping Allaah.' He then recited the following couplets (which mean):

I am surprised at the Jinn and their bewilderment

and their travelling on white camels with their carriages

They descend on Makkah in search of guidance

because a Mu'min Jinn cannot be compared to one who is a Kaafir

You must therefore go to the chosen one from the Banu Haashim

Who resides amongst the hills and rocks of Makkah!

Again I said to him, 'Leave me to sleep because I have been very sleepy all evening.' He returned again on the third night and nudged me with his foot, saying, 'Get up, O Sawaad bin Qaarib,' he said, 'Hear what I have to say and make sense of it if you can. Verily, a Nabi has been sent from amongst the progeny of Luway bin Ghaalib. He invites people towards Allaah and towards worshipping Allaah.' He then recited the following couplets (which mean):

I am surprised at the linn and their searching and their travelling on white camels with their saddle blankets

They descend on Makkah in search of guidance

because a pure Jinn cannot be compared to one who is impure

You must therefore go to the chosen one from the Banu Haashim

And look up at Makkah's high peaks'

I then got up and said, 'Allaah has certainly put my heart to test.' I then mounted the carriage on my camel and went to the great city of Makkah. There I found Rasulullaah www with his companions and said to him, 'Would you hear what I have to say?' Rasulullaah www bade me to come forward and speak. I then recited the following couplets (which mean):

'My confidante came to me after a part of the night had passed and I had some sleep

Never has he lied to me in all my experiences with him

For three nights he came, each night he said:

'A Nabi has come to you from Luway bin Ghaalib'

I then rolled up the hem of my loincloth and my speedy full-cheeked camel carried me through dusty, level and distant plains

I testify that there is none worthy of worship but Allaah and that you are perfectly trustworthy to convey all unseen revelation

Of all the Ambivaa, you are the closest link to Allaah

O son of honourable and pure people!

O the best of all who walk! Command us with all that is revealed to you

Even though some of it may whiten our forelocks

Be an intercessor on my behalf on the day when no intercessor

Apart from you will be of any help to Sawaad bin Qaarin'

Rasulullaah (###) and his companions became so happy with my words that the joy was evident on their faces."

Hadhrat Umar Jumped up and hugged Hadhrat Sawaad Jumped, saying, "I had always wished to hear the story from you. Does your Jinn still come to you?" Hadhrat Sawaad Jumped replied, "He does not come ever since I have been reciting the Qur'aan, but the Qur'aan is a most excellent replacement for him." Hadhrat Umar Jumped then himself recounted an incident, saying, "We were once with a family of the Quraysh called the family Dharee, who had just slaughtered a calf. The butcher was still preparing the meat when we heard a voice from the calf's belly calling, 'O family of Dharee! The matter is one of salvation. A man is calling out in an eloquent tongue, testifying that there is none worthy of worship but Allaah."

A narration from Hadhrat Baraa size states that Hadhrat Sawaad size was staying in India when the Jinn came to him that night, The rest of the narration is like the one above, but adds that after Hadhrat Sawaad size recited the above couplets to Rasulullaah size, Rasulullaah size smiled so widely that his blessed teeth showed. Rasulullaah size then said, "You are successful, O Sawaad!" (2)

Yet another narration from Hadhrat Muhammad bin Ka'b Qurazi similar to the one he narrated above states that (after the Jinn advised him) Hadhrat Sawaad similar said, "The love of Islaam then penetrated my heart and I was drawn to it. The next morning, I fastened the carriage to my camel and left for Makkah. I was still on the road when I received the news that Rasulullaah significant said the said of the news that Rasulullaah significant said the said that th had already migrated to Madinah. I therefore arrived in Madinah and when I asked for Rasulullaah Will I was informed that he was in the Masjid. I then went to the Masjid and, after tving my camel up, I entered. There I found Rasulullaah sitting with many people around him. 'Would you hear what I have to say, O Rasulullaah 經過? I asked Hadhrat Abu Bakr 學過過 then bade me to come closer and I kept going closer until I was right in front of Rasulullaah 'Come.' Rasulullaah said, 'and inform me about how the Jinn in your control came to you."(1)

A Jinn bring the News of Rasulullaah & 's Nabuwwaat to Hadhrat Abbaas bin Mirdaas

Hadhrat Abbaas bin Mirdaas Sulami was relates, "My becoming a Muslim began when my father was on his deathbed and he made a bequest that I take care of his idol called Dimaad. I therefore kept it in my house and would go to it once every day. It was at the time when Nabi & announced his Nabuwwaat that I was startled by a voice I heard in the middle of the night. I rushed to Dimaad for assistance, but I discovered that the voice was coming from within it. It was reciting the following couplets (which mean):

'Say to all the members of the Banu Sulaym tribe that idols and their worshippers will be destroyed and only the people of the Masiid will live on

Dimaad is destroyed though he was being worshipped for some time before the Book that has come to Muhammad

Verily the one from the Quraysh who inherited Nabuwwaat and guidance after the son of Maryam is truly the rightly guided one'

However, I did not disclose this to the people. It was after the people had returned from the Battle of Ahzaab that I was sleeping one day amongst my camels on one side of Ageeg in the Dhaatul Irg area. I heard a voice and suddenly saw a man appear on the feather of an ostrich. He said, "Follow the light that settled on Wednesday upon the one riding the camel Adbaa when he was in the locality of the people of the Banu Unagaa (in Madinah)." Another voice from the north replied to this one, saying the following couplets (which mean):

Inform the Jinn that the reason for their bewilderment is that the camels have laid down their carriages and the sentinels of the heavens have begun their vigil'

I jumped up in fear, knowing that Muhammad & had already been sent (on his duty). I then mounted my horse and sped off to Rasulullaah : After pledging my allegiance to him, I returned to Dimaad and set him alight. Thereafter, I returned once more to Rasulullaah and recited to him the following couplets (which mean):

The narration is also reported by Hasan bin Sufyaan, Bayhaqi, Bukhaari in his Taareekh, Baghawi, Tabraani, Bayhaqi, Ibn Abi Khaythama, Rooyaani and Ibn Shaaheen, as stated in Isaabah (Vol.2 Pg.96).

'By your life! There was a day when I was foolish enough to equate Dimaad a partner to the Rabb of the universe I had forsaken Rasulullaah We while the Aws tribe were around him They were his helpers, and what fine helpers they were! I was like one who forsook soft and fertile land

In search of a path of difficulties to tread upon

I believe in Alfaah Whom I worship to oppose those who opt for destruction

I have turned my face towards Makkah to search for the blessed Nabi of all honourable people

A Nabi who came to us after Isa

Speaking the truth that differentiates between the truth and falsehood

A trustworthy bearer of the Our'aan and the first intercessor

The first to be resurrected in response to the call of the angels

He rejoined the bonds of Islaam after they had broken

Then made them secure until its injunctions were established

I am referring to you, O the best of all creation

You have the most noble of lineages and are truly the possessor of great honour

You were the purest of the Quraysh when they rose in esteem despite their hunger, and may you be blessed as long as the centuries pass

When the Ka'b and Maalik tribes name their lineages

We will still regard you as most pure in descent(1)

Another narration states that after the first three couplets were told to Hadhrat Abbaas bin Mirdaas (he was filled with fear and went to his tribesmen. After narrating the incident to them, he left for Madinah with three hundred of his people from the Banu Haaritha tribe to see Rasulullaah . Upon seeing them enter the Masjid, Rasulullaah asked, "O Abbaas! How did you come to was impressed and Hadhrat Abbaas was together with his entire tribe accepted Islaam. (2)

A Jinn brought the News of Rasulullaah & 's Nabuwwaat to a Woman in Madinah

Hadhrat Jaabir bin Abdullaah signi reports that the first news of Rasulullaah S Nabuwwaat reached Madinah because of a Jinn that a particular woman from Madinah had under her control. When it arrived in the form of a white bird and perched upon a wall, she said to it, "Will you not come down so that we may converse with each other and exchange stories?" It then said to her, "A Nabi has been sent in Makkah who forbids adultery and has deprived us of rest (because

Hadhrat Ali bin Husayn reports that the first news of Rasulullaah (2) is Nabuwwaat reached Madinah because of a Jinn that a particular woman from Madinah called Faatima had under her control. When it came to her one day and stood on a wall, she said to it, "Will you not come down?" It then said to her, "No. A Nabi has been sent who forbids adultery." (2)

A Jinn brought the News of Rasulullaah & 's Nabuwwaat to a Fortune-Teller in the Vicinity of Shaam

Hadhrat Uthmaan bin Affaan Feports, "We once left with a caravan to Shaam before Rasulullaah Fe announced his Nabuwwaat. We had just entered the borders of Shaam when a fortune-teller who lived there approached us and said, 'My companion (a Jinn) came to me and stood at my door.' When I asked him why he would not enter, he replied, 'I cannot, Ahmed (Rasulullaah has made his appearance and such a matter has come that is beyond our capacity." Hadhrat Uthmaan Fe continues. He says, "I then left and when I returned to Makkah, I found that Rasulullaah had already announced his Nabuwwaat and was calling people towards Allaah

Another Incident in this Regard

Hadhrat Mujaahid reports, "It was during the Battle of Rhodes when an old man called ibn Isa who had lived during the Period of Ignorance related to me, "I was busy pulling a cow belonging to our family when I heard a voice from its belly saying, 'O family of Dharee! The statement is an eloquent one. A well-wishing man is calling out that there is none worthy of worship but Allaah."(4)

A Shaytaan Instigates the Quraysh against Rasulullaah and the Sahabah

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas sizes narrates that a caller from the Jinn once announced from the Abu Qubays mountain in Makkah (the following couplets which mean):

"May Allaah efface the judgment of the Ka'b bin Fihr (Quraysh) tribe (referring to the Muslims)

How weak has their intelligence become?!

Their religion they turn against

As have the men of the place of hills and date palms (Madinah)

Is there any honourable man amongst you with a free spirit and who has reverence for his parents and uncles?

Who would strike a blow (at the Muslims) that would teach them a lesson and free you from anxiety and grief

You shall soon see horses racing with each other to fight the (Muslim) people in the land of Tihaamah"

When the news of this spread in Makkah, the Mushrikeen started reciting poetry to each other, renewing their resolve to harm the Muslims. Rasulullaah remarked, "That was a Shaytaan named Mis'ar who was addressing the people through the idols. May Allaah disgrace him!" it was barely three days later that another voice announced form the mountain (the following couplets which mean):

"We have killed Mis'ar

when he rebelled and was haughty

when he undermined the truth and spread evil

I decapitated him with a sword that tears and devastates

All because he blasphemed against our pure Nabi"

Some Men from the Khath'am Tribe Hear A Caller from the Jinn Informing them about Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mahmood reports that several men from the Khath'am tribe said, "We were idol worshippers and amongst the factors that called us towards Islaam was that when we were once with an idol of ours, a group of people came to it, hoping that it would be able to settle a matter that they were disputing. Just then, a caller called out to them saying (the following couplets which mean):

'O people with bodies
who vary in age from old men to young boys!
Have you no intelligence that you refer your decisions to the idols?
Are you all asleep in your confusion or do you not see that which is in front of me?

Hadhrat Tameem Daari hears a Caller from the Jinn

Hadhrat Tameem Daari says, "I was in Shaam at the time when Rasulullaah started to announce his Nabuwwaat. I was out to do some work once when night caught up with me (somewhere on the way). (As was the custom during those times) I said, 'Tonight I am in the protection of the (Jinn) master of this valley.' When I then lay down to rest, I heard someone whom I could not see. He was calling out, 'Seek protection from Allaah because the Jinn cannot protect anyone against Allaah.' 'By Allaah!' I exclaimed, 'What are you saying?' he explained, 'The Nabi of the unlettered people has made his appearance. He is the Rasool of Allaah at and undertook to follow him. The ploys of the Jinn (to eavesdrop on the conversations of the angels and convey the news of future events to fortune-tellers) is over and they are now being pelted by flaming stars (whenever they attempt to eavesdrop). You had-better go to Muhammad who is the Nabi of the Rabb of the universe."

Hadhrat Tameem Einst relates further. He says, "I then went to the town of Dayr Ayyoob, where I consulted a monk and related the incident to him. His response was, "They (the Jinn) have told you the truth. He (Muhammad Einst) will make his appearance in the Haram and the place to which he will migrate will also be a Haram. He is the best of all the Ambiyaa and do not allow anyone to beat you to him." I then mustered up all the courage I had, went to Rasulullaah Einst Ambiyaa and accepted Islaam." (2) group of riders from his tribe. Night enveloped them when they were in a frightening valley, because of which they were terrified. "O Abu Kilaab!" Hadhrat Hajjaaj (Sies)'s companions said to him, "Get up and secure safety for yourself and for your companions. Hadhrat Hajjaaj (Sies) therefore stood up and recited the following couplets (which mean):

"I seek protection for myself and for these companions of mine from every Jinn in this valley so that my companions and I may return home in safety"

They then heard someone recite the verse:

O assembly of Jinn and man! If you are able to transcend the limits of the heavens and the earth (in an effort to escape My punishment), then do so, (However,) You will be unable to transcend without the power (which you can get only from Allaah). (Surah Rahmaan, verse 33)

When the party arrived in Makkah and related what had happened, the people of the Quraysh exclaimed, "By Allaah! O Abu Kilaab, you have forsaken your religion! Those words are from that which Muhammad claims has been revealed to him." "By Allaah!" Hadhrat Hajjaaj was exclaimed, "Those are the words I heard and so did all those with me."

While this discussion was taking place, Aas bin Waa'il arrived. Addressing him, the people said, "O Abu Haashim! Have you heard what Abu Kilaab has to say?" When Aasi bin Waa'il asked what it was, he was informed about the incident. "What is so surprising about that?" Aasi remarked, "The one whom he heard there (the Jinn) is the same one who tells it to Muhammad." Hadhrat Hajjaaj @15566 says, "This statement of his put my people off what I felt (that we should accept Islaam). This however increased my insight into the matter. (We then returned home and it was after a while that) I then enquired about Rasulullaah was and was informed that he had left Makkah for Madinah. I then mounted my animal and left. When I reached Rasulullaah was and informed him about what I had heard, he remarked, 'By Allaah! What you heard was the truth. That was definitely from the speech of my Rabb 2000 that He revealed to me. O Abu Kilaab! You had certainly heard the absolute truth.' 'O Rasulullaah (2011)! I said, 'Teach me Islaam.' Rasulullaah see then made me testify my belief in the Kalimah of Sincerity and then said, 'Go and call your people towards that which I have called you towards because it is the truth."(1)

A Group of Muslims are Saved by the Kind Act of a Jinn

Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b (Six reports that a group of people once left for Makkah but got lost on the way. When they were close to death, they donned (1) Ibn Abi Dunya in his Hawaatiful Jinn and Ibn Asaakir, as quoted in Muntakhab Kanzul Ununaal (Vol.5 Pg.163).

their burial shrouds and lay down to die. It was then that a Jinn came to them from between the trees. He said to them, "I am amongst those left who actually listened to Rasulullaah . I heard him say, 'A Mu'min is the brother of a Mu'min. He is his eyes and his guide and never leaves him in the lurch.' Here is water and this is the road." He then showed them where to find water and guided them to the road. (1)

The Jinn Assist the Muslims in the Battle of Khaybar

Hadhrat Sa'eed bin Shuyaym who belonged to the Banu Saham bin Murrah tribe reports that his father was with the army of Uyaynah bin Hisn when they arrived to assist the Jews of Khaybar (against the Muslims). His father relates further, "(During the battle) We heard a voice announce in Uyaynah's army, 'O people! Your families are under attack!' Everyone then returned without even waiting for each other. We however did not see anyone make the announcement and feel that it could have come from nowhere other than from the heavens" (2)

Subjugating the Jinn and Shayaateen

Rasulullaah E Captures a Jinn

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah reports that Rasulullaah see said, "I was asleep one night when a Shaytaan came to interfere with me. I grabbed him by the throat and could actually feel the coldness of his tongue on my thumb. May Allaah have mercy on Sulaymaan see." Had it not been for his prayer (to have a kingdom that no other can compare with), the Shaytaan would have been tied up this morning for you all to see."

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah sussi narrates that Rasulullaah sussi said, "A rebellious Jinn escaped last night and came to disrupt my salaah. Allaah however granted me the ability to overpower him and I grabbed hold of him, this I did with the intention of tying him up to one of the pillars of the Masjid so that you people could all see him in the morning. However, I then recalled the du'aa of my brother Sulaymaan sussi who said:

'O my Rabb! Forgive me and grant me a kingdom that cannot be had by any other after me.' {Surah Saad, verse 35}

I therefore let him off with him feeling most humiliated." Another narration from Hadhrat Abu Dardaa Sissis states that Rasulullaah Sissis said, "Had it not been for the du'aa of our brother Sulaymaan Sissis, the Jinn would have been tied up this morning and even the children of Madinah would have been able to play with him." Hadhrat Buraydah (See reports that when he heard that Hadhrat Mu'aadh bin labal was had captured a Shaytaan during the time of Rasulullaah as, he approached him and asked, "I heard that you had captured a Shaytaan during the time of Rasulullaah (Wis." Hadhrat Mu'aadh (Wise) explained, "Yes, I did. When Rasulullaah & handed over the Sadagah dates to me, I stored them all in an upper story room of mine. When I started noticing them get less every day, I reported the matter to Rasulullaah 25, who said, 'That is the work of a Shaytaan. You must trap him.' I therefore lay in wait for him one night. When a short portion of the night had passed, the Shaytaan arrived in the form of an elephant. As he reached the door, he stopped and then entered through the cracks of the door in another form. Drawing close to the dates, he started making morsels out of them. It was then that I gathered my garments tightly around me and caught him red-handed, I said, 'I testify that there is none worthy of worship but Allaah and I testify that Muhammad (is the servant and Rasul of Allaah! O enemy of Allaah! You have leapt at and taken Allaah's dates whereas they are the right of the poor! I shall be taking you before Rasulullaah & and he will disgrace you. He however promised me that he will never repeat what he did (and I released him).

When I went to Rasulullaah early next morning, Rasulullaah asked, 'What happened to your prisoner?' 'He promised that he would not return,' I replied. 'He will be returning,' Rasulullaah assured me, 'so wait up for him.' I therefore lay in ambush for him the second night as well. He then did as he had done and I also did as I had done. This time again I released him when he promised never to return. When I went early next morning to report to Rasulullaah I. I heard someone announce, 'Where is Mu'aadh?' 'What happened to your prisoner?' Rasulullaah asked. 'He again promised that he would not return,' I replied. 'He will be returning,' Rasulullaah assured me yet again, 'so wait up for him.' I then lay in ambush for him for the third night and he returned to do as he had done previously. I also did as I had done before and said to him, 'O enemy of Allaah! You had promised on two occasions that you would never return. This time I shall definitely be taking you before Rasulullaah and he will disgrace you.'

He however pleaded to me saying. I am a Shaytaan who has a family to support. I have come all the way from Naseebeen⁽¹⁾ and would not have come had I found anything closer. We had been residing in this city of yours until your master (Rasulullaah (Rasulullaah)) was sent as a Nabi. We however had to flee from here when two portions of the Qur'aan were revealed. It was from then that we started living in Naseebeen. Whenever these two portions are recited in a house, a Shaytaan will be unable to enter it for three days. I am prepared to teach you these two

Again I let him off and when I went early next morning to report to Rasulullaah III was surprised to again hear someone announce, 'Where is Mu'aadh bin Jabal?' 'What happened to your prisoner?' Rasulullaah III asked. I then informed Rasulullaah III that the Shaytaan promised not to return and also informed him of the rest of the incident. Rasulullaah III remarked, 'The wretch spoke the truth even though he is usually a great liar.' Thereafter, I always recited these two portions of the Qur'aan over the dates and never found them to decrease ever again." (1)

The next morning, Rasulullaah saked, 'O Abu Hurayrah! What happened to your prisoner last night? 'O Rasulullaah !" I explained, "I took pity on him and let him go when he complained of his dire need and family." Rasulullaah however said, "He lied to you and will be back soon."

Because Rasulullaah see said he would be back, I was convinced that he would. I therefore waited up for him. He then returned and again started to help himself. I caught him again and when I again threatened to take him to Rasulullaah see, he pleaded to me to let him go and again complained of his poverty and family. I said, 'He said that when one lies down to sleep, if one recites Aayatul Kursi from seginning to end, one will then have a protecting angel from Allaah all the time. No Shaytaan will then be able to even come close to one until the morning."

A narrator adds that the Sahabah (Sie were always the most desirous of all people to learn things of virtue (which was why Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah (Sie released the Shaytaan on this occasion). Rasulullaah (Sie then said to Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah (Although he is a great liar, he has told you the truth this time. Do you know with whom you have been conversing these past three nights? It was a Shaytaan." (1)

Hadhrat Abu Ayyoob Ansaari reports that he had a niche in his house in which he stored dates. When a type of Jinn started coming to steal from it, he reported the matter to Rasulullaah Rasulullaah advised him saying, "Go back and when you see her again, say, 'Bismillaah! Go and report to Rasulullaah "Hadhrat Abu Ayyoob then caught her, but she promised never to return. The rest of the narration is similar to the one narrated above. (2)

A similar narration has already been quoted about Hadhrat Ubay bin Ka'b SIESS in the chapter concerning Dhikr.

Hadhrat Umar Floors a Jinn and the Shayaateen were Chained up During the Khilaafah of Hadhrat Umar

Hadhrat Abu Waa'il reports that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood so once said, "When a Shaytaan once met a Sahabi so and wrestled him, the Sahabi floored him and even bit his thumb. The Shaytaan then pleaded, 'Leave me and I will teach you a verse that causes any of us to run away as soon as we hear it.' When the Sahabi so released him, the Shaytaan refused to teach it to him. The Sahabi so then again wrestled him and floored him yet again and again bit his finger. (Again the Shaytaan begged to be released, promising to teach the Sahabi so the verse) However, when the Sahabi so told the Shaytaan to inform him of the verse, he still refused. It was after the third wrestling bout that the Shaytaan said, 'It is the verse in Surah Baqarah from '' up to the end of the verse."

"O Abu Abdur Rahmaan!" someone asked Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (William) was the Sahabi (William) Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood (William) replied, "Who else but Hadhrat Umar (William)."

In another narration, Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood said, "When a man from the companions of Rasulullaah met a man from the Jinn and they wrestled, the human floored the Jinn. The Jinn asked for another wrestling bout and this time the human floored him yet again. The human then asked, You appear to be extremely feeble and pale and your forearms resemble those of a dog. Are all of you Jinn like this?' 'No, By Allaah!' the Jinn replied, 'Some of us are very powerfully built. Nevertheless, wrestle me for the third time and if you manage to floor me again, I shall teach you something that will be of great benefit to you.' The human fought him again and after flooring him, said, 'Come tell me what it is.' 'Do you recite Aayatul Kursi?' the Jinn enquired. When the human told him that he did, the Jinn said, 'Whenever you recite it in your house, every Shaytaan vacates the house, braying like a donkey and will not enter again until the morning."

"O Abu Abdur Rahmaan!" someone asked Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood who was that companion of Rasulullaah & Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood frowned, turned to the person and replied, "Who else could he be but Hadhrat Umar (2)"

Hadhrat Mujaahid says, "We were always told that the Shayaateen were chained up during the Khilaafah of Hadhrat Umar (3). It was only after his martyrdom that they were released." (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr Rebukes a Jinn

Hadhrat Aamir bin Abdullaah bin Zubayr reports that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr was returning from Umrah with a group of people belonging to the Quraysh. They were at Yanaasib when they noticed a man sitting beneath a tree. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr went up to him and greeted him with Salaam. The man paid no heed to him and gave only a feeble reply. When Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr was alighted from his animal, the man did not move and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr had to ask him to move from the shade. The man reluctantly complied.

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr with himself says, "I then sat down and, holding him by the arm, I asked who he was. 'I am a man from the Jinn,' came the reply. He had hardly spoken the words when every hair on my body stood on end. I then pulled at him saying, 'You are a man from the Jinn and have the audacity to appear before me like this?!' I noticed that he had the legs of an animal and when I rebuked him, he started to become meek. I further said, 'You behave so

As he turned around (after alighting), he saw an old man with white hair and a white beard sitting on his animal. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr went langed at the man and he moved off the animal. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Zubayr then mounted the camel and rode off. The man then called out, "O Ibn Zubayr! By Allaah! When I mentioned Hadhrat Uthmaan to to him, he said, 'Never say anything about Uthmaan to unless it be good because of something about him that I saw with Rasulullaah . I used to search for the moments when Rasulullaah was alone so that I could learn from him. When I went to Rasulullaah for one day, I found that he had already left home, so I followed him. Thereafter, Rasulullaah put them in Uthmaan (1) shand and again they engaged in Tasbech so audibly that we could hear them sounding like the humming of bees. When Uthmaan (1) put them down, they stopped humming.

Another narration adds that Hadhrat Abu Dharr said, "Rasulullaah then put them in Umar susses's hand and again they engaged in Tasbeeh so audibly that I could hear them sounding like the humming of bees. Umar susses then put them down and they stopped humming." The end of this narration adds that Rasulullaah remarked, "This denotes the successors of Nubuwwah." (2) Another narration adds that Rasulullaah also gave the pebbles to Hadhrat Ali susses and (after engaging in Tasbeeh) they stopped only after he had put them down. (3)

Yet another narration adds that Hadhrat Abu Dharr Sizes said, "Every person sitting in the gathering heard the Tasbeeh from each of them (from the four Khulafaa)...Thereafter, Rasulullaah ges gave the pebbles in our hands (those of us apart from the four) and they did not engage in Tasbeeh in any of our hands." The Sahabah hear the Sobbing of a Tree Trunk Hadhrat Jaabir bin Abdullaah reports that Rasulullaah see used to lean on a date palm when standing (to deliver the sermon) on Fridays. Someone from the Ansaar made a suggestion saying, "O Rasulullaah see! Should we not make a pulpit for you?" "If you wish to," Rasulullaah see replied. They then built a pulpit and when Friday arrived, Rasulullaah see went towards the pulpit. The palm (against which Rasulullaah see used to lean) then screamed like a little child. Rasulullaah see descended from the pulpit and embraced the palm, which continued sobbing like a little child being pacified.

Hadhrat Jaabir says that the palm wept because of the Dhikr that it used to hear (when Rasulullaah see leaned against, which it could no longer hear). (1)
Another narration states that when the pulpit was built and Rasulullaah see was standing upon it, the Sahabah sees heard the trunk of the palm make a sound like that of a camel. It was only when Rasulullaah sees went up to it and placed his hand on it that it stopped. (2)

Yet another narration states that after the pulpit was made and Rasulullaah was standing upright upon it, the trunk started to shake and sob like a camel. Everyone in the Masjid could hear it and it was only when Rasulullaah descended thepulpitandembraced it that it calmed down and remained silent. (3) A different narration states that Rasulullaah said, "Had I not taken it into my arms, it would have wept until the Day of Oiyaamah." (4)

In his account of the construction of the pulpit, Hadhrat Anas says, "When Rasulullaah we went towards the pulpit instead of the tree trunk, I heard it start to sob like someone longing for another. It then continued to sob until Rasulullaah descended from the pulpit, walked over to it and embraced it. Then only was it pacified." (5)

Another narration from Hadhrat Anas (1996) adds that whenever Hadhrat Hasan narrated this Hadith, he would weep and say, "O servants of Allaah! When a piece of wood can sob out of its longing for Rasulullaah (1996) because of his esteemed status in Allaah's sight, you people ought to long to meet him even more." (6)

An extended narration adds that Rasulullaah see said, "I swear by the Being Who controls the life of Muhammad! Had I not embraced it, it would have remained like this until the Day of Qiyaamah out of its longing for Allaah's Rasool see "Rasulullaah see then had it buried. (7)

Look at something that neither you not your father have ever seen!" Hadhrat Salmaan was remarked, "Had you remained silent, you would have heard something from the great signs of Allaah." (1)

(سورة اعراف: آیت۲۰۱)

Indeed when the temptation (to do evil) from Shaytaan reaches those who fear Allaah, they remember (Allaah and engage in Dhikr, thinking about His punishment and recalling the rewards for abstaining from sin) and their eyes instantly open (they realise Shaytaan's plot and ignore the temptation). (Surah Araaf, verse 201)

The youngster immediately fell unconscious. The woman then called for her maidservant and with her help, the two of them carried him to his door. He was made to sit and his father's door was knocked. When his father came out to look for him, he found him unconscious in the doorway. He summoned for some of his family members and they together carried him inside the house.

When the youngster regained consciousness after a considerable part of the night had passed, his father asked, "Dear son! How are you?" "I am well," came the reply. When his father then asked him in the name of Allaah what had happened, he informed his father about the incident. "Dear son," the father asked, "What was the verse you recited?" When the youngster recited the verse he had recited at the time, he again fell unconscious. Although the people tried to revive him, this time he had passed away. It was still night when they bathed him, shrouded him and buried him.

It was only the following morning that the people informed Hadhrat Umar about It, Hadhrat Umar immediately went to console the father. "Why did you not inform me (of the funeral)?" Hadhrat Umar immediately went to console the father. "O Ameerul Mu'mineen!" the father replied, "It happened during the night (and we did not wish to disturb you)." Hadhrat Umar internity them to the grave and when they arrived there, Hadhrat Umar addressed the youngster by his name and recited the verse:

The youngster responded twice from within the grave saying, "O Umar! My Rabb has already given me both these gardens in Jannah." $^{(1)}$ have passed and the other two to come will come with trials. The strong will then devour the weak and Qiyaamah will take place. There shall soon come some startling news about your armies. And the well of Arees! What about the well of Arees?" Hadhrat Sa'eed reports further that a man belonging to the Banu Khatmah tribe then passed away and after he was wrapped in his shroud, some movement was also heard from his chest. He then spoke and said, "Verily the man from the Banu Haarith bin Khazraj tribe spoke the truth. He spoke the truth." (1)

Hadhrat Nu'maan bin Basheer marrates that Hadhrat Zaid bin Khaarija was walking in one of the alleyways of Madinah some time between the Zuhr and Asr salaahs when he suddenly dropped down dead. He was taken to his family and shrouded with two sheets and a blanket. It was between the Maghrib and Isha salaahs that the women of the Ansaar gathered around his body and started to cry loudly. They then heard a voice say from beneath the blanket, "Be silent. O people!" When this was heard for a second time, the blanket was removed from his face and chest. He then said, "Muhammad is to the prophet of Allaah, the unlettered Nabi and the seal of all Ambiyaa. Such is it written in the Lowhul Mahfoodh."

A while later, he again spoke and said, "He spoke the truth. Abu Bakr Siddeeq spoke the truth. He was the strong and trustworthy. Though he was a frail man, he was strong when it concerned Allaah's commands. Such is it written in the Lowhul Mahloodh."

A while later he again spoke. This time he thrice said, "He spoke the truth. The one in the middle spoke the truth. He is the servant of Allaah and the Ameerul Mu'mineen who never feared the reproach of those who reproach when acting for the pleasure of Allaah. It was he who prevented the strong from devouring the weak, Such is it written in the Lowhul Mahfoodh."

A little later, he said, "Uthmaan is the Ameerul Mu'mineen. He is compassionate towards the Mu'mineen and while two years (of peace) have already passed, another four still remain. People will then start to dispute, no unity will be left and even the trees will weep (meaning that the sanctity of things will be violated). Qiyaamah will draw close and people will devour (the property and rights of) each other." (2)

Another narration, Hadhrat Nu'maan bin Basheer says, "When Zaid bin Khaarija saws passed away, I was waiting for Uthmaan saws to come, thinking that he would perform two Rakaahs salaah. Just then, Zaid saws moved the shroud from his face and said, "As Salaamu Alaykum!" As Salaamu Alaykum!" Because the people of the house were busy talking and I was performing salaah, I exclaimed, "Subhaanallaah!" Zaid saws then said to the people, "Be silent!" He spoke the truth. He spoke the truth. Such is it written in the Lowhul Mahfoodh." Thereafter, he said further, "Uthmaan is the Ameerul Mu'mineen. He forgives a great deal of the sins people commit, While two years (of peace) have already passed, another four still remain. People will then start to dispute and people will devour (the property and rights of) each other. No unity will be left and even brave heroes will weep. The Mu'mineen will then start to retrogress. Such has it been decreed and recorded in Alfaah's Book. O people! Turn towards your Ameer, listen to him and obey him because the blood of the person who becomes a ruler shall not be safe. Allaah's decree has been ordained and finalised. Allaahu Akbar! Here is Jannah and here is Jahannam and all the Ambivaa and the Siddeegeen convey their Salaams to you. O Abdullaah bin Rawaaha (Six) Have you seen my father Khaarija and Sa'd, both of whom were martyred in the Battle of Uhud?" Finally, before his voice fell silent, he recited the (Surah Ma'aari), yerses 15-18)

Another narration adds that Hadhrat Zaid 劉德島 also said, "And this is Ahmad Rasulullaah 經歷. May Allaah's peace, mercy and blessings be showered on you, O Rasulullaah 經歷."(1)

Hadhrat Nu'maan bin Basheer says, "When a man from amongst us (Ansaar) called Zaid bin Khaarija says, "Bassed away, we shrouded him and I stood up to perform salaah. Ibn Rawaaha (Addressing Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Rawaaha (Hawa), he then asked) What has become of (my father) Khaarija bin Zaid?" Thereafter, before hisvoicefell silent, he added, "The well of Arees has been seized unjustly."

Bringing the Dead back to Life

The Incident of a Woman from the Muhaajireen and her Son

Hadhrat Anas bin Maalik Saws, "When we once went to visit an ailing youngster of the Ansaar, he happened to pass away very quickly. We closed his eyes and drew a sheet over his face. One of us said to his mother, 'Look forward to the rewards from Allaah (for exercising patience upon the death of your son).' 'Has he passed away?' she asked. When we confirmed that he had, she raised her hands to the heavens and made du'aa saying, 'O Allaah! I have believed in You and migrated to Your Rasool . Whenever I have been afflicted with any calamity, I have made du'aa to You and You have always removed it. O Allaah! I am now begging You not to burden me with this calamity.' The youngster then (came back to life,) removed the sheet from his face and when we sat down to eat, he ate with us." (2) Another narration states that the lady was Hadhrat Ummu Saa'ib and that she was extremely old and blind. (3)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Aun narrates that Hadhrat Anas (I) once said, "I have witnessed three occurrences in this Ummah that would have been unmatched by any other nation had they occurred amongst the Bani Israa'eel." "O Abu Hamzah!" the people around Hadhrat Anas (I) said, "What are these occurrences?" Hadhrat Anas (I) related, "We were on the Sulla with Rasulullaah (II) when a lady who had just made Hijrah arrived with her son who had already come of age. Rasulullaah (II) attached the lady to the other ladies and the boy to us.

It was not long thereafter that the boy was affected by the disease that afflicted the people of Madinah. After an illness of a few days, the boy passed away. Rasulullaah closed the boy's eyes and instructed that burial arrangements be made. We were just about to bathe him when Rasulullaah instructed me saying, 'O Anas! Go and inform his mother.' When I informed her, she came and sat by the boy's feet. Holding his two feet, she made du'aa to Allaah saying, 'O Allaah! I happily submitted to You and vehemently opposed the idols. I then migrated out of my yearning for You. O Allaah! Do not let the idol-worshippers rejoice at my expense and do not burden me with a calamity that I am unable to bear."

Hadhrat Anas saw says further, "By Allaah! She had hardly ended her du'aa when the boy's feet started to move and he threw the sheet off his face. He then lived on until Rasulullaah say passed away and until his mother also passed

Signs of Life in their Martyrs

The Incident of the Martyrs of the Battle of Uhud

Hadhrat Abu Nadhrah reports that Hadhrat Jaabir bin Abdullaah Sees said, "The night before the Battle of Uhud was fought, my father called for me and said, 'I feel that I will certainly be amongst the very first companions of Rasulullaah sees to be killed. By Allaah! Of all the people I am leaving behind, there is none after Rasulullaah sees whom I love more than you. However, I have several debts, so do settle them for me. I would also like to advise you to treat your sisters well.'

The next morning, my father was the first to be martyred and I buried him with another person in the same grave. However, it did not appeal to me later on to leave him in a grave with someone else. I therefore exhumed his body six months later and found to my surprise that everything apart from his ears were exactly as they were on the day I laid him to rest." (2)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Jaabir (Special) said, "After six months had passed, I could not allow myself to rest until I buried my father in a grave of his own. I therefore exhumed the body from the grave and found to my surprise that apart from a tiny portion of his earlobe, the ground had not eaten any part of his body." (3)

Yet another narration states that Hadhrat Jaabir (anothing different about him apart from a few strands of hair from his beard that had been touching the ground." (4)

Hadhrat Abu Zubayr reports that Hadhrat Jaabir said, "When Mu'aawiya intended digging a canal, we were told to move the bodies of our martyrs who had been martyred at Uhud. Although this was forty years afterwards (after their deaths), their bodies werestill supple and their limbs could still be bent." (5) Another narration states that Hadhrat Jaabir said, "When their bodies were exhumed after forty years, they were still fresh and their limbs were still pliable." (6) Some scholars from the Ansaar say, "When Hadhrat Mu'aawiya saidinging the canal that passed by the martyrs of Uhud, it happened to burst its banks. We hurried there and exhumed the bodies of Amr (bin Jamooh said) and Abdullaah said. They both wore two sheets of cloth that covered their faces, while their feet were covered with some plants. As we removed the bodies from the graves, they were so supple and pliable that it appeared as if they had been burled only yesterday." (7)

In a lengthy narration, Hadhrat Jaabir says, "it was during the Khilaafah of Mu'aawiya bin Abu Sufyaan sims that a man came to me saying, 'O Jaabir bin Abdullaah! BY Allaah! Some of Mu'aawiya's labourers have dug into your father's grave, causing some of his body to become exposed. When I went there, I discovered that his body was exactly as it was when I buried him. The only parts that were not unscathed were of course those that were wounded in the battle. I then buried him again." (1)

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Abdullaah bin Abdur Rahmaan bin Sa'sa'a reports that Hadhrat Amr bin Jamooh Sulami and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Amr Sulami were both martyred during the Battle of Uhud and shared one grave. Because floodwaters passed by their grave, it eventually eroded their grave and the grave was subsequently dug up so that their bodies could be moved from there. Their bodies were however found to be unchanged, appearing as if they had been buried just the day before. When one of them was wounded (in the battle), he placed his hand on the wound and was buried in this posture. When his hand was then moved off the wound (as the grave was changed) and placed by his side, it returned to its former position. There was a time lapse of forty six years between the Battle of Uhud and the day their grave was dug up, (2)

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Amr Was was of reddish complexion, bald and not very tall whereas Hadhrat Amr bin Jamooh was was a tall man. They were both recognised by these features and buried in one grave. Floodwaters however ran by their grave and eventually started to enter it. The bodies were therefore exhumed, still shrouded in a black and white striped sheet. Hadhrat Abdullaah was wounded on the face and his hand was covering the wound. When his hand was moved off the wound, blood poured out of it but as soon as the hand was replaced, the blood stopped. Hadhrat Jaabir was says, "When I saw my father in his grave, he appeared to be sleeping because his appearance had not changed in the least bit." "And did you see his shroud?" someone asked. Hadhrat Jaabir replied, "He was buried in a black and white striped sheet which covered his face, while his feet were covered with the rue plant. We found the sheet to be exactly as it had been and the rue plant also exactly as it had been, even though there had been a time lapse of forty six years." (3)

Hadhrat Jaabir (Wiese) says, "When Mu'aawiya (Wiese) started to dig the canal near the martyrs of Uhud forty years after the battie, we were summoned to (move) them (from their graves). We went there and while we were busy exhuming the bodies, a spade accidentally hit the foot of Hamzah (Wiese). Blood then actually started to pour out of the wound." (4) Another narration states that when a spade hit the foot of Hadhrat Hamzah (Wiese), it started to bleed even though it was after forty years (of being buried). (5)

In his Walaa'ul Walaa (1), Sheikh Samhodi states that this incident occurred three times (2); once after six months, again after forty years when the canal was dug and once again after forty six years when floodwaters started to enter the grave. This conclusion is based on the many narrations supporting each of the three occasions. He states (3) that this is a clear miracle of the Sahabah (2) and has therefore been repeated.

The Fragrance of Musk Wafts from the Graves of the Sahabah

The Fragrance of Musk Wafts from the Grave of Hadhrat Sa'd bin Mu'aadh

Hadhrat Muhammad bin Shurahbeel narrates that one of the Sahabah took a handful of sand from the grave of Hadhrat Sa'd bin Mu'aadh took and when he opened his fist, they saw to their surprise that it was musk. To this Rasulullaah exclaimed, "Subhaanallaah! Subhaanallaah!" and the joy was clearly visible on his face. (4)

Another narration states, "Someone took a handful of sand from the grave of Hadhrat Sa'd bin Mu'aadh (Signes) and then left. When he looked at it afterwards, he discovered that it was actually musk. (5)

Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri Sass, "I was amongst those who dug the grave of Sa'd bin Mu'aadh Sass. Each time we shovelled out some sand, the fragrance of musk wafted on to us. This continued until we we reached to the bottom of the grave." (6)

Hadhrat Aamir bin Fuhayrah (is Lifted to the Sky

Hadhrat Urwa sheef reports that after many Sahabah were martyred at Bir Ma'oonah and Hadhrat Amr bin Umayyah sheef was taken prisoner, Aamir bin Tufayl pointed to one of the martyrs and asked, "Who is that?" When Hadhrat Amr sheef informed him that the man was Hadhrat Aamir bin Fuhayrah sheef, Aamir bin Tufayl remarked, "After he was killed, I actually saw him being lifted so high into the skies that I eventually saw the sky between him and the ground. Thereafter, he was brought back down again."

he informed the Sahabah 2000 about the deaths of the martyrs, saving, "Verily your companions have been martyred. They have however made a request to their Rabb saying, 'O our Rabb! Inform our brother on our behalf that we are pleased with You and that You are pleased with us."

Amongst those who were martyred on that day were Hadhrat Urwa bin Asmaa bin Silt 等端端 and Hadhrat Mundhir bin Amr 等端端。after whom Hadhrat Urwa (bin Zubayr 墨瑙汤) and Hadhrat Mundhir (bin Zubayr 墨瑙汤) were named. (1)

Another narration states that the person who killed Hadhrat Aamir bin Fuhayrah was a man named Jabbaar bin Sulma Kalbi. When he stabbed Hadhrat Aamir with his spear, Hadhrat Aamir wis shouted, "I swear by the Rabb of the Kabah that I am successful!" Some time after the incident took place, Jabbaar asked some of the Sahabah (2006) what success Hadhrat Aamir was referring to. When they explained that he was referring to the success of Jannah, he exclaimed, "By Allaah! He must be right," Jabbaar then also accepted Islaam, May Allaah be pleased with him. (2)

Hadhrat Urwa reports that because the body of Hadhrat Aamir bin Fuhayrah 医腹侧 could not be found afterwards, the Sahabah 医皮肤 were convinced that the angels had buried him. (3) Another narration states that Rasulullaah said. "The angels buried him and his soul was taken to the Illivveen (the place where the souls of the righteous are taken)." (4)

It is also reported that speaking about one of the Sahabah (martyred in the battle) Aamir bin Tufayl used to say, "When he was killed, he was lifted so high between the earth and the sky that I could see the sky beneath him." He was then informed that the person was Hadhrat Aamir bin Fuhayrah (5)

When the two reached Tan'eem, they found forty drunk around the pole. They then took the body down and when Hadhrat Zubayr loaded it on his horse, it was still fresh and had not started to decompose in the least. The Mushrikeen were warned however and Hadhrat Zubayr was forced to offload the body when the Mushrikeen gained on them. The ground then immediately took his body in. It is because of this that Hadhrat Khubayb was called 'Balee'ul Ardh' ('Ine one whom the ground took in). (1)

We said, 'it is certainly not fitting reward for our companion to expose him to wild animals that will devour his body.' We then undertook to exhume the body, but when we reached the bottom of the grave, we found that he was not there. The Body of Hadhrat Aasim bin Thaabit

The incident of Hadhrat Khubayb bin Adi has been quoted in detail(1). The narration from Hadhrat Abu Hurayra states that Rasulullaah for once sent an expedition under the command of Hadhrat Aasim bin Thaabil bin Aflah has for myself, I shall never surrender into the custody of a Kaafir." He had in fact taken a pledge with Allaah that neither would he touch any Mushrik nor will any of them ever touch him. Further on the narration states that because Hadhrat Aasim had killed one of the leaders of the Quraysh during the Battle of Badr, the Quraysh sent some people to bring a portion of his body to them which they may recognise as his. However, Allaah sent a swarm of wasps to his body and they protected him from these people. It was because of this that he was called "Hamee'ud Dabr" ("The one who was protected by a swarm of wasps"). (2)

Another narration from Hadhrat Urwa (Size) states that when the Mushrikeen were about to cut off his head to send to the other Mushrikeen in Makkah, Allaah sent a swarm of wasps flying into their faces, which stung them and thus prevented them from severing his head. (3)

Wild Animals are Made Subservient to the Sahabah and Talk to them

Rasulullaah speaks to Wolves and they Submit to him

Hadhrat Hamzah bin Abu Usayd reports that Rasulullaah once went to the graveyard of Baqee for the funeral of an Ansaari. There however lay in the path, a wolf with its forelegs stretched out across the path. Rasulullaah said, "This wolf has come in search of its share, so give it to him." "What is your advice, O Rasulullaah reports that Rasulullaah said, "One goat should be given from each year from every grazing flock (of forty or more goats)." "That still leaves plenty behind," the Sahabah remarked. Rasulullaah then made a gesture to the wolf to leave them, and it left. (4) Hadhrat Mutallib bin Abdullaah bin Hantab reports that Rasulullaah was in Madinah one day when a wolf arrived and stood before him. Rasulullaah said. "This is the delegate of the wild animals to you. (He comes with the proposition that) If you wish to fix a portion (of your flocks) to give to them, they will take no more than that. However, if you wish, you could leave them to be as

Rasulullaah them made a gesture with his three fingers to the wolf, telling it to leave them and it left with a howl. (1)

A man from the Juhaynah tribe narrates that a delegation from the wolves numbering almost a hundred once arrived at a time when Rasulullaah was performing salaah and sat down (waiting for him). Rasulullaah was then said to the Sahabah was, "This is a delegation from the wolves who have come with the proposition that you fix a share of your flocks for them, in which case the rest of your flocks will be safe from them." When the Sahabah was raised the issue of their poverty (that they would be unable to afford the proposition), Rasulullaah told them to then send the wolves back. The wolves all left howling. (2)

A Lion is Submissive to Rasulullaah se's Freed Slave Hadhrat Safeenah

Rasulullaah sis freed slave Hadhrat Safeenah sis says, "I was once on board a ship when it shipwrecked. I managed to cling on to one of its planks, which carried me to a dense forest. A lion lived in the forest and (when it saw me) it started coming towards me to attack me. I however addressed it saying, "O Abu Haarith! I am the freed slave of Rasulullaah sis "It immediately lowered its head as it came closer and continued nudging me with its shoulder until I was clear of the forest and on a main road. It then purred, a gesture I interpreted as a word of farewell. That was the last I saw of it. (3)

In another narration, Hadhrat Safeenah says, "We were once at sea when we were shipwrecked. (When we managed to make our way to land) We were lost and did not know the road when we suddenly beheld a lion that came before us. As my companions retreated, I went towards it and said, 'I am Safeenah, a companion of Rasulullaah and we have lost our way.' The lion then walked ahead of me until we reached the main road. Thereafter, it nudged me as if to point the road to me, but I sensed that it meant to bid us farewell." (4)

Hadhrat Ibn Munkadir reports that Rasulullaah ""'s freed slave Hadhrat Safeenah "was once in Roman territory when he either became separated from the rest of the army or was taken prisoner. As he was searching for the army, he was suddenly confronted by a lion. He then addressed the lion saying, "O Abu Haarith! I am Rasulullaah ""'s freed slave." He then explained his situation and the lion came closer, with its tail wagging until it stood beside him.

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar was enquired. "There is a lion on the road frightening them," came the reply. Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Umar was got off his animal, walked up to the lion and held its ears. He then twisted its ears, slapped its nape and moved it off the road. Thereafter, he said (to himself), "Rasulullaah was did not lie to you. The wolf then sat down on its tail and said, "Do you not fear Allaah? You snatch away from me the sustenance that Allaah has brought to me!" "How astonishing!" the shepherd exclaimed, "A wolf speaking like a human!" "Should I tell you of something even more astonishing?" the wolf asked, "Muhammad sis is in Yathrib informing people of events that have occurred in the past." The shepherd then led his goats into Madinah, where he gathered them all in a corner of the town. He then went to Rasulullaah sis and related the incident to him.

The Waters Are Made Subservient to the Sahabah

The River Nile of Egypt is Made Subservient to Hadhrat Umar

Hadhrat Qais bin Hajjaaj reports from his teacher that after Egypt was conquered (by the Muslims), the people approached the governor Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas when the month of Bu'na (3) started, "O governort," they said, "There is a ritual (we carry out) for our Nile without which it will not flow," "What is the ritual?" "This cannot happen in Islaam," Hadhrat Amr would them, "Islaam wipes out all (rituals) that takes place before it."

It so happened that the Nile did not flow and although the people stayed in Egypt all through the months of Bu'na, Abeeb and Masra, they eventually decided to leave Egypt. letter that you should throw into the Nile as soon as the letter reaches you."

When the letter reached Hadhrat Amr (Simon), he opened the note and found that the following was written on it:

"From Allaah's servant Umar the Ameerul Mu'mineen
To the Nile of the Egyptian people

If you flow by your own accord, then you need not flow. However, if it is the One and All Powerful that makes you flow, then we ask the One and All Powerful to make you flow."

Hadhrat Amr (Singles) threw the note into the Nile a day before the day of Saleeb. In the meantime, the Egyptians were already preparing to leave the country because it was only with the Nile that their affairs could run properly. On the morning of the day of Saleeb, the people found that the Nile was already flowing sixteen arm's length high. In this manner, Allaah cut out this evil ritual of the Egyptian people. (1)

The Ocean is Made to Submit to Hadhrat Abu Rayhaana

Hadhrat Urwa A'ma who was a freed slave of the Banu Sa'd tribe reports that Hadhrat Abu Rayhaana was once travelling by sea. He was busy mending a few notebooks of his when his needle fell into the ocean. He said, "O Rabb! I beg You in all earnestness to return my needle to me." His needle surfaces immediately and he was able to pick it up. (2)

The Ocean is Made to Submit to Hadhrat Alaa bin Hadhrami

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah (Fig. 1) reports, "I followed Alaa bin Hadhrami (Fig. 2) when Rasulullaah (Fig. 3) dispatched him to Bahrain. I witnessed three incidents with him and I cannot tell which of them was most astonishing. When we stood by the shore on one occasion, he said, 'Recite Bismillaah and lunge into the ocean.' We recited Bismillaah, lunged in and crossed the sea without even the hooves of our animals getting wet. On the return journey, we had to pass through an arid plain and had no water with us. When we brought this to his attention, he performed two Rakaahs salaah and then made du'aa. There suddenly appeared a cloud the size of a shield, which rained down so heavily on us that we had enough water to drink and to give to our animals. When he passed away, we buried him in some soft sand, but after travelling a short distance, it occurred to us that wild animals would (be able to easily dig up the grave and) eat up the body. We therefore returned, but did not find his body in the grave." (3)

Ibn Abdul Hakam in his Futuh Misr, Abu Sheikh in his Adhmah and Ibn Asaakir, as quoted in Muntakhab Kanzul Ummaal (Vol.4 Pg.380). Laalkaa'ee has reported a similar narration, as quoted in the Tafseer of Ibn Katheer (Vol.3 Pg.464).

Another narration states that Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah ("When Ibn Muka'bir the Persian governor saw us, he exclaimed, "Never! By Allaah! We can never fight such people!" He then boarded one of his ships and returned to Persia." (1)

Hadhrat Anas would have been unmatched by any other nation had they occurred amongst the Bani Israa'eel..." The narration then continues to the point where Hadhrat Anas was, "Umar with then prepared an army and appointed Alaa bin Hadhrami was as its commander. I was also one of the soldiers of this army and when we reached the place where we were to fight, we discovered that the enemy had been forewarned about our arrival. They (fled the area and also) obliterated every sign of water, because of which we and our animals experienced tremendous difficulty.

It was an extremely hot Friday and as soon as the sun had crossed its meridian, Alaa (as led us in two Rakaahs of salaah. Thereafter, he stretched his arms out to make du'aa (for rain). We could see nothing in the sky but he had hardly lowered his hands when Allaah sent a wind and formed a cloud. The cloud rained so much that even the ponds and valleys were filled with water. We were able to drink water and give our animals to drink as well.

When we caught up with the enemy, they had already crossed the gulf and reached an island. Standing on the shore of the gulf, Alaa Salas said:

Thereafter, he instructed us saying, 'Cross over with the name of Allaah!' We then crossed over without even the hooves of our animals getting wet. It was only a short while later that we managed to attack the enemy on the island. We killed many of them, took many prisoners and many slaves as well. We then returned to the shore of the gulf, Alaa willies said the same words and again we crossed over without even the hooves of our animals getting wet..." The narration still continues further. (2)

Another narration quotes the du'aa of Hadhrat Alaa (1986) in the following words:

'O The All Knowing! O Most Forbearing! O The Most Exalted! O The Most High! We are Your servants. We are out in Your path, fighting Your enemy. Shower rains on us so that we may drink from it and make wudhu with it. And when we leave, do not grant anyone else a share from it. (3)

Abu Nu'aym in his Hilya (Vol.1 Pg.8). Tabraani has reported a similar narration in all his three works, but Haythami (Vol.9 Pg.376) has commented on the chain of narrators.

Yet another narration states that he added:

'Forge for us a path to get to your enemy.'(1)

It is also reported that when the Sahabah (Companies entered the water, it barely reached their saddle blankets. (2)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Abu Bakr (Signature) dispatched Hadhrat Alaa bin Hadhrami (Signature) to fight the Murtaddeen in Bahrain. The narration also describes how the camels carrying the army's provisions, their tents and drink ran away and then returned with everything they were carrying. The narration also mentions how Allaah created a large pond of clear water right beside the Muslims and how they actually engaged the Murtaddeen in battle. (3)

There is also a narration which states that Hadhrat Alaa states said to the Muslims, "Come with us to Daareen to fight the enemy there. The Muslims were quick to respond to his call and he led them to the shore of the sea, thinking that they would board some ships. However, when Hadhrat Alaa stress realised that the distance was too great and that the enemy would be long gone by the time they reached there with ships, he plunged into the water with his horse as he recited:

He then instructed the others to recite the same words and to plunge into the water. They did as he bade them and, by the permission of Allaah, they all crossed the gulf, walking as if there was only a shallow film of water over soft sand, which did not even submerge the hooves of their camels or reach the knees of their horses. The distance they covered would have taken an entire day and night by ship. When they reached the opposite shore, they fought the enemy, overpowered them and collected plenty of booty. They then returned and again crossed the gulf to where they had been. All this transpired within the space of a single day. (4)

Hadhrat Ibn Rufayl reports that the town of Bahurseer was on the nearer bank of the Tigris River. When Hadhrat S'ad Sign set up camp there, he searched for boats to take the Muslim army across the river to the town on the opposite bank. He was however unable to find any and discovered that the Persians had assembled all the boats together and taken them away. He therefore stayed on in Bahurseer for several days of the month of Safar. Although the Muslims expressed their willingness to cross the river (without boats), he refused to allow it, fearing for their safety. In fact, even when some Kuffaar pointed out to him a crossing point in the river that would take them to the centre of the valley, Hadhrat S'ad Sibilia was doubtful and refused to act.

In the meantime, the water level was rising. Hadhrat S'ad stress then saw a dream that the horses of the Muslims dived into the water and crossed over the river even though the water level had risen extremely high. The interpretation of this dream made him resolve to cross the river. He therefore gathered the Muslims together and after duly praising Allaah, he said. "Your enemy has been saved from you because of this river that prevents you from reaching them. They however are at liberty to get to you whenever they wish by boarding their boats and attacking you. You have of course the advantage of not having to worry about an attack from behind. I have therefore resolved to cross the river to get to them." The Muslims said in one voice, "May Allaah grant you and us the resolve to do what is right. Let us do it."

Hadhrat S'ad then prepared the army for the crossing. He first made an announcement saying, "Who will spearhead the crossing for us and secure the gorge for us so that the others may join them there and so that the enemy cannot prevent them from reaching the opposite bank?" Hadhrat Aasim bin Amr wolunteered for the task and he was followed by another six hundred brave men. Hadhrat S'ad the bank appointed Hadhrat Aasim was as their commander and he led them to the bank of the Tigris. Standing at the bank, Hadhrat Aasim word said, "Who will volunteer with me to secure the gorge from the enemy?" Sixty of them volunteered and Hadhrat Aasim will divided them into two groups; one group on mares and the other on stallions so that the swimming would be easier for the horses. They then plunged into the Tigris.

When Hadhrat S'ad Sies saw Hadhrat Aasim Sies at the gorge, ready to give them cover, he permitted the rest of the army to dive into the water. He instructed them to recite:

"We seek help from Allaah and rely only on Him. Allaah is Sufficient for us and is the best of Defenders. There is no power or might except with Allaah The Elevated, the Most High"

The bulk of the army waded behind each other over the deep waters, even as the Tigris was frothing with foam and was black in colour (because of its depth and swift currents). The Muslims were even busy talking to each other as they crossed in pairs, just as people would talk to each other while walking over dry land. They caught the Persians totally by surprise by doing what they did not expect at all. The Persians were therefore forced to abandon the place in a hurry and did not even have time to take their belonging with them. It was in the month of Safar during the year 16 A.H. that the Muslims entered the town and took possession of all of the three billion left behind in the rooms of the Emperor and all that the Emperor Sheerway and those after him had amassed, (1)

Hadhrat Abu Bakr bin Hafs bin Umar reports that the person travelling with Hadhrat Sa'd wover the water was Hadhrat Salmaan Faarsi www. As their horses swam across, Hadhrat Sa'd was saying, "Allaah is sufficient for us and He is the best of Defenders. By Allaah! Allaah will definitely assist His friends, make His Deen vanquish all others and defeat His enemies if the wrongs and sins of the army does not exceed their good deeds." Hadhrat Salmaan when then remarked, "By Allaah! Although Islaam is new, the waters have been made subservient to the Muslims just as the land has been made such. I swear by the Being Who controls the life of Salmaan that the Muslims shall leave the waters in large droves just as they have entered."

The Muslims then skimmed across the water, as if only the banks and no water was visible. In fact, the Muslims were speaking more than if they were walking on land. Just as Hadhrat Salmaan without said, they all emerged safely without anyone drowning and without even losing anything. (2)

Hadhrat Abu Uthmaan Nahdi says, "Everyone of the Muslims crossed over safely, except for a man from Baariq who was called Gharqadah. He happened to slip off his brown horse and it is as if I can still picture his horse shake off her sweat from her mane as the man floated on the water. Qa'qaa bin Amr the then turned his horse towards the man, caught hold of his arm and pulled him across. No belongings of the Muslims were also lost apart from a cup that was tied with an old rope. When the rope snapped, the waters carried the cup away. Teasing the owner of the cup, another Muslim swimming with him said, 'Fate had to have your cup.' The owner however replied by saying, 'By Allaah! I am convinced that Allaah would not take away only my cup from all of the army.' It then happened that one of the soldiers guarding the gorge happened to see the cup as the winds and waves carried it to the shore. Using his spear, he managed to retrieve it and then took it to the army as they came across. He then announced for the owner, who was there to receive it." (3)

Hadhrat Umayr Saa'idi reports that when Hadhrat Sa'd (Since) led the army into the Tigris, they went in as pairs. Hadhrat Salmaan (Since) was Hadhrat Sa'd (Since)'s companion, travelling by his side through the water. Hadhrat Sa'd (Since) recited the verse:

This is the arrangement of the Mighty, the All Knowing. (Surah Yaaseen, verse 38) The water was turbulent and while the horses were able to stand up straight, whenever they became tired, a mound would appear for them to rest upon, as if they were on dry land. There was never an incident more astonishing than this in the history of Madaa'in. It was a day when the water was abundant and it was therefore referred to as 'The Day of Mounds'. (1) Another narration clarifies this point when it states that because a mound would appear for them to rest every time any of them grew weary, the day was referred to as 'The Day of Mounds'. (2) Hadhrat Qais bin Abu Haazim was says, 'When we entered the Tigris, it was filled to the brim. However (by Allaah's doing), when a horseman stood at the point where the water was at its deepest, it reached only up to his reins." (3) Hadhrat Habeeb bin Suhbaan reports that one of the Muslims by the name of Hadhrat Hujr bin Adi said to the others. "What prevents you from crossing over to the enemy? Is it this little droplet?" Here he was referring to the Tigris. He then recited the verse:

A person shall die only by the command of Allaah; (at a time that is) recorded (in the Lowhul Mahfoodh), fixed (and therefore can neither be postponed nor delayed). (Surah Aal Imraan, verse 145)

He then plunged into the Tigris with his horse and, seeing him, the others followed suit. When the enemy saw them, they exclaimed, "Madmen!" and ran away. (4)

Hadhrat Habeeb bin Suhbaan Abu Maalik narrates that when the Persians saw the Muslims crossing the Tigris the day they conquered Madaa'in, they called out in Persian, "Mad devils are coming!" They then said to each other, "By Allaah! It is not humans that you are fighting against, but Jinn!" In this way, they were defeated. (5)

Hadhrat A'mash reports from a companion of his that when they reached the Tigris River, the water level was very high and the Kuffaar had already crossed over. One of the Muslims said, "Bismillaahi" and then plunged into the water with his horse. The horse rode over the water. The other Muslims then all said "Bismillaah" and plunged into the water. Their horses also rode above the water. Seeing them, the Kuffaar exclaimed, "Madmen! Madmen!" They then all fled. (6)

I then went to stay with Hadhrat Tameem Daari says. We were busy talking one day when a fire emerged from Harra. Hadhrat Umar saying came to Hadhrat Tameem saying, 'Go, O Tameem!' Humbling himself, Hadhrat Tameem said, 'Who am I? Are you not afraid that my inner self may become exposed?' He then got up and pushed the fire back through the door it came out from. He even went through the door behind it and later came out without the fire harming him in the least. (2)

When I then left the Masjid, the branch lit up brilliantly like a candle and I used its light to reach my home. My family were all asleep and when I looked in a corner, I saw a hedgehog. I then continued hitting it until it left the house." (3)

In that narration, Hadhrat Tufayl (Single says that he then went to his people and was at a valley from which he could see the people present there when a light radiated from between his eyes like a lantern. He then prayed, "O Allaah! Not on my face because my people will think that this is a form of punishment affecting my face because I had left my religion." He narrates further, "The light then moved to the top of my whip. I then never disclosed this to anyone until after he had passed away." (3)

Rain Falls by the Du'aas of Rasulullaah and the Sahabah

Rain Falls by the Du'aa of Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Anas reports that Rasulullaah was delivering a sermon from the pulpit on a Friday when a man entered the Masjid from a door that was directly in front of Rasulullaah "O Rasulullaah the man said, "Our animals have been destroyed and all our avenues (to earning a living) have been cut off (because of the drought). Do pray to Allaah to send us rains." Rasulullaah raised his hands and made du'aa saying, "O Allaah! Give us rain. O Allaah! Give us rain. O Allaah! Give us rain."

Hadhrat Anas says, "By Allaah! We could not see any cloud, any semblance of a cloud or anything else in the sky. There were no houses or buildings between us and the Sila mountain (to obstruct our view) and we clearly saw a cloud the size of a shield rise from behind the mountain. When it reached the centre of the sky, it spread out and started to rain. By Allaahi We did not even see the sun for the next six days."

The following Friday, Rasulullaah was again standing and delivering the sermon when the man came in front of Rasulullaah see saying, 'O Rasulullaah see saying, 'O Rasulullaah see out off (because of the floods). Do pray to Allaah to stop the rains.' Rasulullaah see then raised his hands and prayed, 'O Allaah! Send the rains around us and not upon us. O Allaah! Send them on the higher grounds, on the mountains and in the areas where trees and vegetation grow.' The rain stopped immediately and we were walking in the sun when we left the Masjid."

In another narration, Hadhrat Anas (assays, "I then saw the clouds scatter to the right and the left, and it continued raining everywhere else except on Madinah itself."

In another narration, he says, "When Rasulullaah are raised his hands, we could not see a trace of cloud in the sky. I swear by the Being Who controls my life that Rasulullaah are had barely dropped his hands when clouds the size of mountains had gathered. By the time Rasulullaah are descended from the pulpit, I could see water dripping from his beard." (1)

Hadhrat Abu Lubaabah bin Abdul Mundhir Freeports that Rasulullaah was delivering a sermon from the pulpit one Friday when he made du'aa saying, "O Allaah! Send us rain." Hadhrat Abu Lubaabah Freeports then said, "O Rasulullaah in the granaries." To this, Rasulullaah added, "O Allaah! Give us rain until Abu Lubaabah has to remove his clothes and plug the gutter of his granary with his loincloth." Although there were no clouds in the sky, a torrential rain started to fall and the Ansaar went to Hadhrat Abu Lubaabah saying, "O Abu Lubaabah! The sky will never hold up until you do as Rasulullaah in mentioned." Hadhrat Abu Lubaabah in the removed his clothes and plugged the gutter of his granary with his loincloth." It was only then that the rain stopped. (2)

In the chapter discussing the hardships that Rasulullaah was and the Sahabah hore⁽³⁾, the narration has already been quoted stating that Rasulullaah then raised his hands to the heavens (to make du'aa) and had not yet lowered his hands when clouds started gathering in the sky. First a drizzle fell and then the rains came pouring down. The Sahabah filled whatever containers they had and when we left the place, we discovered that the rain had not fallen further than the area where the army was camped." (4)

Rains fall by the Du'aa of Hadhrat Umar

Hadhrat Khawwaat bin Jubayr narrates that when a severe drought afflicted the people during the time of Hadhrat Umar (a), he took them out of the town and led them in two Rakaahs salaah. Thereafter, he overturned his shawl, bringing the right side on the left and vice versa. He then stretched out his arms and made du'as saying, "O Allaah! We beg Your forgiveness and ask You to send us rain." Hadhrat Umar (b) had not yet moved from his place when rain started to fall. Some days later, some Bedouins arrived (in Madinah). They went to Hadhrat Umar (c) and explained that they were in their valley on a certain day and at a certain time when some clouds covered them and they heard a voice from the cloud say to them, "O Abu Hass (Hadhrat Umar (c))! Help has come to you. O Abu Hass Help has come to you."

Hadhrat Maalik Daar narrates that when a drought afflicted the people during the time of Hadhrat Umar (See), someone went to Rasulullaah (See)'s grave and said, "O Rasulullaah (See) Beseech Allaah to send rain to your Ummah because they are being devastated. The man then saw Rasulullaah (See) in a dream in which Rasulullaah (See) said to him, "Go to Umar and convey my Salaams to him. Inform him that rain will soon come and that he should continue applying his intelligence." When the man conveyed the message to Hadhrat Umar (See), the Ameerul Mu'mineen started to weep as he said, "O my Rabb! I am applying all I have, but some matters are beyond me."

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Ka'b bin Maalik reports that the Year of Ashes (of drought) brought starvation to the people of Madinah and its surroundings, causing much devastation. It was so severe that wild animals started coming into towns (in search of food) and people would actually not slaughter their goats seeing the poor condition of the animals even though they were so much in need of eating them. While all this was happening, Hadhrat Umar did did not think of seeking food aid from the other territories (such as Egypt, Iraq and Shaam) until Hadhrat Bilaal bin Haarith Muzani arrived one day and sought permission to see Hadhrat Umar says. "I am Rasulullaah "s's messenger to you," he said, "Rasulullaah says to you, 'I have always known you to be an intelligent person and you have always remained such. What has happened to you now?" "When did you see this (dream of Rasulullaah "s')?" Hadhrat Umar asked. "Last night," came the reply.

Hadhrat Umar left and then had the announcement "As Salaatu Jaami'ahi" made. (When the people had gathered) He then led them in two Rakaahs salaah, after which he addressed them saying, "O people! I ask you in the name of Allaah to tell me whether you think I would do something that is not the best for you." "Never," they all replied in one voice. He then related to them what Hadhrat Bilaal bin Itaarith said said to him, to which the people's response was: "Bilaal is right. You should seek aid from Allaah and from people as well." This was the solution that Hadhrat Umar was was up to this point unable to fathom. He therefore started sending messengers to the various territories. "Allaahu Akbari" Hadhrat Umar exclaimed, "The calamity is drawing to an end and will soon be alleviated. Calamities are removed from people when they are inspired to ask from Allaah." His message to the governors of the other Muslim territories was, "Assist the people of Madinah because they have reached the peak of suffering."

Hadhrat Umar Sizes also took the people out to perform Salaatul Istisqaa (a special salaah to pray for rain). Hadhrat Abbaas Sizes walked with him and after delivering a brief lecture, he led the people in salaah. Hadhrat Umar Sizes then knelt down and made du'aa saying, "O Allaah! Only You do we worship and only from You do we seek assistance. O Allaah! Forgive us, have mercy on us and be pleased with us." He then left. It then rained so much that as the people were returning home, they had to wade through pools of water.

Another narration adds that when a family of Bedouins from the Muzaynah tribe requested their father to slaughter a goat for them to eat, he told them that the goats were not worth eating. They however insisted and when he eventually slaughtered it and removed the skin, all he saw inside were red bones (and no meat). To this he exclaimed, "O Muhammad (pray for your Ummah)." In a dreamlike state, he then saw Rasulullaah (come to him and say, "Rejoice with the news of rain. Go to Umar, convey my Salaams to him and say, "Your pledge with me is still strong and you have always been one who fulfils his pledges. O Umar! Apply your intelligence. Apply your intelligence." He then went to Hadhrat Umar (Seek entry for the messenger of Rasulullaah (Come The narration is then similar to the one above. (1)

Rain Falls by the Du'aa of Hadhrat Mu'aawiya and Hadhrat Yazeed bin Aswad Jurashi

Hadhrat Sulaymaan bin Aamir Khabaa'iri narrated that when a drought struck, Hadhrat Mu'aawiya bin Abu Sufyaan went out of the town with the people of Damascus to make du'aa for rain. When Hadhrat Mu'aawiya sat on the pulpit, he asked, "Where is Yazeed bin Aswad Jurashi sates?" The people called for Hadhrat Yazeed sies and he came forward, climbing over people's shoulders. By Hadhrat Mu'aawiya sies's commend, he also mounted the pulpit and sat a step below Hadhrat Mu'aawiya sies.

Hadhrat Mu'aawiya then made du'aa saying, "O Allaah! Today we are making the best and most virtuous amongst us an intercessor before You. O Allaah! We are making Yazeed bin Aswad Jurashi our intercessor before You. O Yazeed! Raise your hands before Allaah. Hadhrat Yazeed them raised his hands and so did all the people present. It was almost immediately that a cloud wafted into the sky from the west, a wind blew and so much rain fell that the people were almost unable to reach home. (1)

Rain Falls by the Du'aa of Hadhrat Anas

Hadhrat Thumaamah bin Abdullaah reports that the keeper of one of Hadhrat Anas Sies's orchards once came to him during the summer months, complaining of a scarcity of water. Hadhrat Anas Sies's sent for some water, made wudhu and performed salaah. "Do you see anything (any clouds)?" Hadhrat Anas Sies's asked him. "I see nothing," the man replied. Hadhrat Anas Sies's then returned to his room and performed salaah again. This happened three or four times, after which the man informed Hadhrat Anas Sies's that he could see a cloud the size of a bird's wing. Hadhrat Anas Sies's then continued performing salaah, and making du'aa until the keeper eventually came to him saying, "The sky became overcast and rain has fallen." Hadhrat Anas Sies's then said to him, "Take the horse that Bishr bin Shaghaaf sent and see up to which point the rain fell." The man did as told and saw to his surprise that the rain did not fall further than the areas of Musayyireen and Ghadbaan (where Hadhrat Anas Sies's properties were located). Another narration clearly states that the rain did not fall any further than Hadhrat Anas Sies's land. (2)

Rain Falls by the Du'aa of Hadhrat Hujr bin Adi

(While being held captive by Hadhrat Mu'aawiya spess forces) Hadhrat Hujr bin Adi spess one day needed to have a bath. He therefore said to the guard, "Give me the water I am to drink so that I may purify myself and you need not give me my share tomorrow." The guard refused saying, "I fear that you may then die of thirst and Mu'aawiya spess would kill me for it." Hadhrat Hujr spess then made du'aa to Allaah and a cloud rained down on him, allowing him to have as much water as he required. (Seeing this) His companions requested him to make du'aa for their freedom. He however made du'aa saying, "O Allaah! Choose for us what is best (between freedom and martytdom)." As a result, Hadhrat Hujr spessand all his companions were martyred. (3)

Rain Falls On the Graves of a Tribe of the Ansaar because of a Prior Du'aa that Rasulullaah had made for them

Hadhrat Hasan reports that a particular tribe of the Ansaar were blessed with a du'aa that Rasulullaah Will had made for them, as a result a cloud would rain upon the grave of any of them who passed away. When one of their freed slaves passed away, they said, "Today we shall see the truth of Rasulullaah 经等's statement that the freed slave of a tribe is one of them." Consequently, after they had buried the man, a cloud appeared and rained on his grave as well. (1)

Receiving Drink from a Bucket Suspended from the Sky

Hadhrat Uthmaan bin Qaasim narrates that when Hadhrat Ummu Ayman migrated to Madinah, she reached a place called Munsarif by the evening, which was just before Rowhaa. She had been fasting that day and was extremely thirsty, but had no water. When the thirst became unbearable, a bucket of water suspended from a white rope was lowered down to her from the sky. She took hold of it and drank to her fill. Thereafter, she would always say. "I never felt thirsty after that incident, In fact, I would even go out during midday on extremely hot days while fasting, but would not get thirsty after that drink. Fasting during very hot days therefore never made me thirsty." (2)

The Blessings in Water in Which Rasulullaah placed his Hand and Saliva

When some water was brought for Rasulullaah we to make wudhu, he placed his hand in the utensil and instructed the people to make wudhu from it. I then actually saw water gushing forth from beneath Rasulullaah @ s fingers and every single person was able to make wudhu from that water." (3)

Rasulullaah sight then sat on the rim of the well, made du'aa for water, gargled his mouth and then spat the water out into the well. A short while later, we were able to draw so much water that we were satisfied and even our animals were satisfied." (3)

The detailed incident of the Treaty of Hudaybiyyah has already been quoted before (4)

Hadhrat Jaabir bin Abdullaah Freports that the Sahabah Freports a shortage of water during their stay at Hudaybiyyah and only Rasulullaah Hadhad a leather bag of water with him from which he made wudhu. The Sahabah Were close to tears when they came to Rasulullaah Hadhad because of which he asked, "What is the matter?" They replied, "We have no water with which to make wudhu or to drink. All the water there is is that which is before you." Rasulullaah Hadhad hadhad hadhad hadhad hadhad enough to make wudhu and to drink. When someone asked Hadhrat Baraa how many they were, he replied, "It would have been enough even if we were a hundred thousand. We were lifteen hundred however." (5)

Blessings in the Water that Was Poured in Rasulullaah  Sutensil

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood says, "We were with Rasulullaah so on a journey when he asked whether we had any water with us. 'Yes,' I replied, 'I have some water in the container I use for wudhu.' Rasulullaah saked me to bring it and I did. Rasulullaah sake then told us to have small sips from it, after which he made wudhu with it. When there was only a drop of water inside, Rasulullaah sake said, 'O Abu Qataadah! Look after this because it will soon be big news.'

When the afternoon grewunbearably hot and Rasulullaah checked on the Sahabah they said, 'O Rasulullaah come to you,' Rasulullaah assured them. Rasulullaah then called for me to bring the container and when I did, Rasulullaah said to me, 'Now open my container.' I opened Rasulullaah so container, gave it to him and he poured the water into it. He then started to give the people to drink, but when they began to crowd around him, he said, 'O people! Be considerate (do not push). All of you will have to his heart's content.' Everyone had their fill to drink and eventually it was only Rasulullaah and myself left. Rasulullaah poured some water out for me saying, 'You drink, O Abu Qataadah.' 'You drink first, O Rasulullaah for however said, 'The one serving drinks to people is the last to drink.' Blessings in the Water with Which Rasulullaah Washed His Face and Hands

Whoever arrives there (early) should not touch the water until I arrive.' By the time we reached the spring, two men had already beat us to it. The spring flowed verily thinly, actually resembling the strap of a shoe. Rasulullaah then then asked the two men, 'Did you have any of the water?' When they replied that they did, Rasulullaah rebuked them very sternly. Thereafter, (by Rasulullaah is instruction) some people scooped water up little by little in their hands until they had collected a bit. Rasulullaah washed his hands and face with the water and then returned it to the spring. Water then immediately started to gush forth from the spring and everyone was able to satisfy themselves. It was then that Rasulullaah said to me. 'O Mu'aadh! Should you live long enough, you will

Blessings in Water when Rasulullaah A Touched its Container

Hadhrat Imraan bin Husayn reports, "We were on a journey with Rasulullaah "..." The narration continues to the point where he says, "It then reached a stage when we became extremely thirsty. During the course of our journey, we came across a woman (sitting on her camel) with her legs hanging down between two large waterbags. 'Where is the water?' we asked. 'There is no water,' she replied. We then asked further, 'How far must your family travel to fetch water?' 'A day and a night,' came the reply. When we then told her that she would have to come before Rasulullaah "she asked, 'What is Rasulullaah

We did not allow her to do or say anything more until we had presented her before Rasulullaah . She however told him only as much as she told us, apart from telling him that her child was an orphan. Rasulullaah . then sent for her two waterbags and passed his hand over them. Although we were forty thirsty men, we all drank to our fill from them and we also filled every waterbag and utensil we had until they were on bursting point. Rasulullaah . then instructed us to bring whatever we had and we complied by gathering together all the bread and dates we had (which we handed over to the woman).

When she got to her tribe, she said to them, 'I have just met with someone who is either the greatest of magicians or truly a Nabi as his companions claim. By virtue of this woman, Allaah then guided all the people on the hillside and together with her, they all became Muslims." Another narration states that Rasulullaah then said to her, "Take this with you to your family and remember that we have not diminished your water in the least, but it was Allaah Who gave us water to drink." Blessings in Water when some Stones were thrown into it that had been in the Hands of Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Ziyaad bin Haarith Sudaa'ee relates, "I was with Rasulullaah on a journey when he asked me whether I had any water with me. 'I do have a little,' I replied, 'but it will not be enough for you.' 'Pour it into a utensil and then bring it to me,' Rasulullaah said. When I did so, Rasulullaah placed his hand into the water and I saw a fountain gush forth from between each of his fingers. Rasulullaah then said, 'Had I not been too shy (to ask more) of my Rabb, we could have been drinking water like this all the time. Go and announce to my companions that whoever wishes to have water should come and fetch as much as he pleases."

Hadhrat Ziyaad reports further that when a delegation from his tribe came to Rasulullaah for to announce that they had accepted Islaam and were prepared to follow him, they also said, "O Rasulullaah !! We have a well provides adequately for us during winter and we then settle around it. However, when summer arrives, the water is not sufficient for us and we disperse in the vicinity to other watering places. We are unfortunately unable to do this any longer because everyone around us have become our enemies (because we are now Muslims). Do pray to Allaah to make our water sufficient for us."

Rasulullaah see sent for seven stones and when these were brought, he scattered them in his hands and made a du'aa. Thereafter, Rasulullaah see said, "When you reach your well, take the name of Allaah and throw these stones in one by one." After they did what Rasulullaah see told them, (the water became so abundant that) they were unable to ever see the depth of the well. (1)

Blessings in the Water that Hadhrat Husayn bin Ali Drank

Hadhrat Abu Awn reports that when Hadhrat Husayn bin Ali week went from Madinah to Makkah, he passed by Ibn Mutee who was digging a well... The narration later mentions that Ibn Mutee said to Hadhrat Husayn (In have drained this well (to fix it) but there are still times when the buckets come out empty. Would you please make du'aa that Allaah blesses it." Hadhrat Husayn saked for some of its water and when it was brought in a bucket, he took some in his mouth, gargled his mouth and then returned it to the well. After this, the water of the well not only increased, but also became sweeter. (2)

Blessings in Food During Battles

Blessings in the food of the Mujaahideen by the Du'aa of Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Abu Amrah Ansaari reports that they were with Rasulullaah on a military expedition when they started to feel extreme hunger. The Sahabah then sought permission from Rasulullaah to slaughter some of their camels, saying, "Allaah will then grant us the strength to reach our destination." However, when Hadhrat Umar was noticed that Rasulullaah was about to grant permission to slaughter the animals, he intervened by saying, "O Rasulullaah will happen to us if we have to meet the enemy tomorrow while we are both hungry and (without transport) on foot? If you agree, O Rasulullaah say, you could rather ask everyone to bring whatever remaining provisions they have and after collecting all together, you could pray to Allaah to bless it. strength to reach our destination."

Rasulullaah then called for all the remaining provisions. While some people brought only a handful of food, others managed to bring a little more. The most that anyone brought was a Saa of dates. After he had collected all the food together, Rasulullaah stood up and made du'aa for some time. Thereafter, he summoned the army to come with their utensils and instructed them to take from the food in handfuls. After everyone had filled their utensils, the food was still as much as it had been. This made Rasulullaah smile so widely that his teeth actually showed. He then said, "I testify that there is none worthy of worship but Allaah and I testify that I am the Rasul of Allaah. When a person meets Allaah after believing in this, he will be screened against the fire of Jahannam on the Day of Qiyaamah." (1)

In another narration, Hadhrat Abu Khunays Ghifaari reports that they were with Rasulullaah on an expedition to Tihaamah and it was at a place called Usfaan that the Sahabah proached Rasulullaah ... The narration continues like the one above without the part stating that Rasulullaah smiled. Thereafter, it states that after Rasulullaah gave the command to leave, it started raining and Rasulullaah states together with the Sahabah dismounted and drank from the water of the skies. (2)

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah was and Hadhrat Abu Sa'eed Khudri was both report that when the Sahabah suffered extreme hunger during the expedition to Tabook, they approached Rasulullaah see saying, "O Rasulullaah of Do permit us to slaughter the camels we use for drawing water so that we can have some food and oil." "You may do so," Rasulullaah see permitted. It was then that Hadhrat Umar since intervened..." The rest of the narration is like the one above narrated by Hadhrat Abu Amrah sizes (3)

Hadhrat Salamah (February), "We were with Rasulullaah (February) in the Battle of Khaybar when he instructed us to gather all our provisions of dates together. Rasulullaah (February) is then spread out a leather tablecloth, on which we spread the provisions out. I then calculated and studied the pile, finally estimating it to be the size of a sitting goat. We numbered fourteen hundred on that day and after we had all eaten, I again calculated and studied the pile and again estimated it to be the size of a sitting goat." The narration then continues to mention an incident of blessing in their water. (4) In another narration, Hadhrat Salamah (February) says, "We then ate to our fill and also filled our satchels. (5)

Blessings in Food after Rasulullaah E Places his Hand over it While the trench was being Dug Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Abbaas reports that when Rasulullaah was busy with the digging of the trench, the Sahabah (as well as Rasulullaah) had rocks tied to their bellies because of the extreme hunger they were suffering. Seeing this situation, Rasulullaah asked, "Do you know of someone who can feed us a single meal?" When someone replied that they knew of such a person, Rasulullaah said, "Since there is no alternative, come and lead us to him." When they went to the Sahabi said's house, he happened to be out digging his portion of the trench. His wife sent a message to him saying, "Come quickly because Rasulullaah said has come to see us."

The Sahabi Trushed back, saying, "May my parents be sacrificed for you (O Rasulullaah The Sahabi The Sahabah The Sahabah The Sahabah The Sahabah The Sahabah The Sahabah

Rasulullaah placed his finger into the food and said, "Bismillaah. O Allaah! Bless this food." He then bade the Sahabah to eat and although they are to their fill, they could eat only a third of the food, leaving the other two-thirds behind. Rasulullaah then sent the ten Sahabah with him away with the instruction to send another ten. They therefore left and when the next ten Sahabah arrived they also ate to their fill. Rasulullaah then got up and made du'aa for the man of the house, praying for him and his family to be blessed.

Rasulullaah then left for the trench, saying to the Sahabah is "Let us go to Salmaan." Hadhrat Salmaan had encountered a large boulder, which he had not the strength to shift. Rasulullaah is instruction was, "Leave me to be the first to strike at it." Rasulullaah is then recited "Bismillaah" and struck the boulder, causing a third of it to break off. To this, Rasulullaah is exclaimed, "Allaah Akbar! By the Rabb of the Kabah! The palaces of Shaam!" Thereafter, Rasulullaah is struck the boulder a second time, causing another third of it to break off. To this, Rasulullaah is exclaimed, "Allaah Akbar! By the Rabb of the Kabah! The palaces of Persia!" It was then that the Munaafiqeen scoffed, "We are busy digging a trench to safeguard ourselves, yet he is promising us the palaces of Persia and Rome!" (1)

In the chapter discussing spending in the path of Allaah, the narration of Hadhrat Jaabir (1996) has already passed in which it is stated that Rasulullaah (1996) fed all the Sahabah (1996) digging the trench from a Saa of barley flour and a little goat. Someone then asked Hadhrat Samurah replied, "Was more food being served all the time?" Hadhrat Samurah replied, "Not from the earth, but definitely from the heavens." Another narration states that when someone asked whether more food was served, Hadhrat Samurah replied, "What then would be the extraordinary part? The only place from where more food was served was from there." He then pointed to the skies. (1)

Blessings in the Food that Rasulullaah Prepared for the Men of Suffa

Hadhrat Waathila bin Asqa says, "I was one of the men of Suffa when Rasulullaah so once sent for some bread, which he broke into a dish. He then added some boiling water and fat to it. Thereafter, he started to stir the mixture and then mixed it vigorously before bringing the sides together to make it into a little heap. When this was done, he said, 'Go and bring me ten people, the tenth one being yourself.' When I had brought them, Rasulullaah said, 'Eat, but ensure that you eat from beneath because blessings descend from the top.' They all then ate until they were full." (2)

Hadhrat Waathila bin Asqa says, "I was one of the men of Suffa and when my other companions once complained to me about their severe hunger, they requested, 'O Waathila! Go to Rasulullaah and ask him to please give us some food to eat.' I then approached Rasulullaah saying, 'O Rasulullaah say! My companions are complaining of extreme hunger.' Rasulullaah saked Hadhrat Aa'isha saying whether she had any food with her. 'O Rasulullaah say! she submitted, 'All I have are a few pieces of bread.' Rasulullaah saked her to bring it and when she brought them along in a leather bag, Rasulullaah sent for a plate. After emptying the bread in the plate, Rasulullaah started making Thareed with his own hands. As he made it, the food started to increase until the entire plate was full.

Rasulullaah (### then said, 'O Waathila! Go and bring me ten people, the tenth one being yourself.' I then went out and brought nine of them, the tenth one being myself. Rasulullaah see said, 'Sit down and eat with the name of Allaah. However, ensure that you eat from the sides and not from the top because blessings descend from the top.' They all then are until they were full. They then got up and left, with the plate as full as it had been.

Rasulullaah then started mixing the Thareed by hand and again it increased until the plate was even more full. 'O Waathila!' Rasulullaah said, 'Go and bring me another ten of your companions.' When I brought them, Rasulullaah bade them to sit and they also ate to their fill. They then got up and left and Rasulullaah said instructed me to bring another ten. When I brought them, the same transpired. Rasulullaah then asked, 'Are there any more people left?' When I informed Rasulullaah that there were still ten people left, he asked me to bring them as well. When I brought them, Rasulullaah to bade them to sit and they also ate to their fill. They then got up and left, with the plate still as full as it had been. Thereafter, Rasulullaah said, 'O Waathila! Now take this to Aa'isha."

Blessings in the Food that Hadhrat Faatima

However, when Rasulullaah shad left, a neighbour of Hadhrat Faatima sheets sent her two pieces of bread and a piece of meat. After receiving it from the neighbour, she placed the food in one of her platters, saying, "By Allaah! I shall give this to Rasulullaah she rather keeping it for myself and my family." This she said despite the fact that she and her family themselves were desperately in need of food.

She then sent Hadhrat Hasan and Hadhrat Husayn and Hadhrat Husayn and When Rasulullaah are returned, she said, "May my parents be sacrificed for you! Allaah has sent something that I have reserved for you." "Bring it then, dear daughter," Rasulullaah said. Hadhrat Faatima herself narrates further. She says, "When I then brought the platter and uncovered it, I found that it was filled with bread and meat. I was stunned to see this and immediately realised that this was blessings from Allaah. I then praised Allaah and sent salutations to His Rasool I then placed it before Rasulullaah and when he saw it, he praised Allaah and asked, "Where did you get this from, dear daughter?" 'Dear father.' I replied, 'It is from Allaah because Allaah provides for whomsoever He wills without counting.' Rasulullaah

All praise belongs to Allaah Who had made you like the leader of all the women of the Bani Israa'eel (Hadhrat Maryam (Hadhrat Maryam) because whenever she was questioned about the sustenance Allaah provided for her, she would respond by saving, 'It is from Allaah because Allaah provides for whomsoever He wills without counting. This was done for three consecutive days, after which Rasulullaah & invited them to believe in Allaah."

In the chapter discussing the hardships that the Sahabah will endured, such several incidents of the men of Suffa have been recounted, as reported by Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah 555 and others. In the chapters discussing hosting guests and spending in the path of Allaah, other incidents have been related, depicting the blessings in the food that people like Hadhrat Abu Talha Simus and Hadhrat Abu Bakr (Speed) served to their guests. The incident of the marriage of Hadhrat Zaynab (also showed great blessings in food.

The bag then continued giving butter until Hadhrat Ummu Shareck footscontained (mistakenly) tied the mouth one day (because of which the butter also finished). When (after a long time) the people weighed the barley, the discovered that it still weighed thirty Saa, meaning that it had not depleted in the least (despite being used for many years).

Hadhrat Yahya bin Sa'eed reports that when Hadhrat Ummu Shareek Dowsiyyah migrated, she met up with a Jew (and his wife) on the road. She had been fasting but the Jew warned his wife that if she gave Hadhrat Ummu Shareek anything to drink, he would chastise her most severely. Hadhrat Ummu Shareek therefore spent the night thirsty. It was towards the end of the night that she found a bucket (of water) and a bag upon her chest, from which she drank. When she then awakened the Jewish couple to continue the journey by night, the Jew noted, "I hear the voice of a woman who had had something to drink." "By Allaah!" Hadhrat Ummu Shareek remarked, "It was not your wife who gave me a drink." Hadhrat Ummu Shareek had with her a little container of butter... The narration then continues to describe the blessings in the butter. (2)

The Blessings in Some Barley left in Hadhrat Aa'isha 'S's Shelf after the Demise of Rasulullaah

Hadhrat Aa'isha (25%) says, "When Rasulullaah (25%) passed away, I had nothing to eat apart from some barley stored on a shelf of mine. I continued eating from it for a very long time until I weighed it one day. It was only then that it came to an end." (2)

Rasulullaah caccompanied him and) walked around one of the heaps of dates and made du'aa. He then walked around another heap and made du'aa. Rasulullaah sies then told the creditors to take what was due to them and he paid them all off in full. Despite giving them, there was still as much left over as had been given to them all. (3)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Jaabir (Rasulullaah) sat on the heap and told me to call the creditors. Rasulullaah (Rasulullaah) sat then continued weighing (and giving the creditors) until Allaah (Rasulullaah) settled my father's debts. By Allaah! I was prepared to have all my father's debts settled even if it meant that I would not have a single date to take back to my sisters. However, Allaah kept the entire heap of dates so intact that when I looked at the heap Rasulullaah (Rasulullaah) was sitting on, it seemed as if not even a single date had been reduced from it." (4)

These are some dates that my mother has sent as lunch for my father Basheer bin Sa'd and my uncle Abdullaah bin Rawaaha.'

Rasulullaah then asked me for them and when I poured them out into his hands, they barely filled them. Rasulullaah then asked for a cloth, spread it out and then threw the dates on it, causing them to scatter about. He then said to someone who was with him, 'Announce to all the people digging the trench that they should come for lunch.' When everyone had gathered by Rasulullaah and started eating from the dates, they started to multiply so much that when everyone had left, the dates were still falling off the sides of the cloth." As we ate, I counted each one I ate and kept the stone in my other hand. In this manner, I counted a total of fifty four dates. My two companions did as I did, eating fifty dates each. When we had stopped eating, all seven dates were still there. Rasulullaah then told Bilaal

The following day, Rasulullaah again placed the dates in a plate and said, 'Eat with the name of Allaah.' This time we were ten people and again we all ate to our fill. When we had finished, the same seven dates still remained as they had been. 'Bring them here,' Rasulullaah said. When I removed the dates from the bag and gave them to him, Rasulullaah touched them and made du'aa. He then instructed me to call ten people and when I did, they all ate (from the dates) until they were full. Thereafter, another ten came and ate to their fill. In this manner, the entire army ate and the same number of dates remained in my bag.

Rasulullaah then said, 'O Abu Hurayrah! Whenever you want to take any dates from the bag, put your hand in and take some but never overturn it.' I then continued eating from the bag throughout the lifetime of Rasulullaah the lifetime of Abu Bakr the lifetime of Umar the lifetime of Uthmaan the

She then went to Rasulullaah (and reported the incident, after which) he asked. "Did you squeeze it?" Blessings in the Butter of Hadhrat Ummu Sulaym Hadhrat Anas sees reports that his mother (Hadhrat Ummu Sulaym had a goat (which she milked) and she collected all the butter from the goat's milk in a little bag. When the bag was full, she sent it with a girl in her care to Rasulullaah sees, saying, "Dear daughter! Take this bag to Rasulullaah sees, so that he may use it to make his gravy." The girl took it to Rasulullaah and said, "O Rasulullaah sees! Here is some butter that Ummu Sulaym has sent for you." Rasulullaah sees gave the Sahabah sees the instruction to empty the bag out (into one of his containers) and when this was done, the bag was returned to the girl.

Hadhrat Ummu Sulaym was inside her room when the girl returned and hung the bag onto a nail. When Hadhrat Ummu Sulaym was came out, she saw the bag so full of butter that it was actually dripping out. "Dear daughter!" Hadhrat Ummu Sulaym was called out, "Did I not tell you to take this to Rasulullaah was The girl replied by saying, "But I have done so. You may go and ask Rasulullaah if you do not believe me."

Hadhrat Ummu Sulaym (I) then went with the girl to Rasulullaah (III) and asked, "O Rasulullaah (III) I had sent her with a bag full of butter for you." "She did come with it," Rasulullaah (III) replied. Hadhrat Ummu Sulaym (III) then exclaimed, "I swear by the Being Who sent you with the truth and with the true religion that the bag is still so full of butter that it is actually dripping!" To this, Rasulullaah (III) remarked, "O Ummu Sulaym! Are you surprised that Allaah could feed you as you had fed His Nabi? Eat from it and feed others as well."

Hadhrat Ummu Sulaym says, "I then returned home and distributed the butter in a large jug and in several other containers, leaving some in the bag. This was sufficient for us to make gravy for a month or two." (2) children asked her for some butter and she had none, she went to the bag to have a look and was surprised to see that butter was flowing from it. She poured out some for them and the family then ate from it for a long while afterwards. It was only when she one day went to see how much remained and poured all out that it finished. When she reported this to Rasulullaah ..., he remarked, "Did you turn it upside down? Had you not done this, it would have lasted you a very long time." (1)

Another narration from Hadhrat Yahya bin Sa'eed states that Hadhrat Ummu Shareek wise used to lend her little bag to whoever came to her. When a man once approached here to sell it to him, she told him that there was now nothing left in it. She then blew into it and left it in the sun (so that all the remnants could melt and be extracted) when she was astonished to see that it was again full of butter. People therefore referred to Hadhrat Ummu Shareek wise 's bag of butter as one of the signs of Allaah. (2)

Blessings in the Butter of Hadhrat Hamzah bin Amr Aslami

When my turn came one night, I prepared the food but neglected to close the mouth of the bag that contained the butter. As I was about to take the food to Rasulullaah Felates, the bag fell and all the butter spilled out. Did Rasulullaah Felates food have to spill by my hands? I lamented. (When I took the food) Rasulullaah Felates called me to also partake, but I refused saying, "I really wouldn't manage to eat, O Rasulullaah Felates (because the food was too little). When I returned home, I was shocked to hear the bag making the sound of droplets filling. 'Stop!' I said, 'Whatever was left over has already spilled out.' However, when I went over to have a look, I discovered that the bag was filled to its chest. I then took it to Rasulullaah Felates and informed him about it, to which he remarked, 'Had you left it as is, it would have filled to its mouth, after which you could have closed it." (3) grabbed the bag by its head. (Seeing me) Rasulullaah ﷺ remarked, "Had you left it, the entire valley would have been flowing with butter." (1)

Hadhrat Khabbaab bin Arat size's daughter reports, "When my father left on an expedition, he left us nothing apart from a goat. His instruction was that whenever we needed to have it milked, we should take it to the men of Suffa. When we then took it to them, we found Rasulullaah sitting there. Rasulullaah took the goat, fastened her and then started to milk her. 'Bring me the largest utensil you have,' Rasulullaah site asked, I went home and the largest I could find was the utensil in which we kneaded dough. When I brought it to Rasulullaah site, he milked the goat until he had filled the utensil. He then said to us, 'Take this milk, drink from it and give it to your neighbours to drink as well. Bring her to me whenever you wish to milk her."

We then continued taking the goat to Rasulullaah and until my father returned, we had plenty of milk. When my father returned and tied her up to milk her, she gave only that amount of milk as she had been giving previously. You have ruined our goat! my mother remarked. 'What do you mean?' my father asked. My mother explained, 'We used to fill this utensil with milk.' 'Who was doing the milking?' my father enquired. When my mother informed him that Rasulullaah did the milking, my father remarked, 'Are you equating me with Rasulullaah Psy By Allaah! His hands are much more blessed than mine." The narration of Hadhrat Ali shore in the chapter of Da'wah also discusses the same.

Blessings in Meat

Blessings in the Meat of Hadhrat Mas'ood bin Khaalid

Hadhrat Mas'ood bin Khaalid says, "I once sent a goat to Rasulullaah and then had to leave to do something. Rasulullaah see sent a portion of the meat back to my family and when I returned to (my wife) Ummu Khunaas says, I found some meat with them. 'O Ummu Khunaas!' I asked, 'What meat is this?' She replied by saying, 'Your friend Rasulullaah see has sent back a piece of the meat from the goat you sent to him.' 'Then why do you not feed it to your family?' I asked. 'I have already fed them,' she replied, 'This is what was left over.' This surprised me because sometimes even one or two goats are not sufficient for them." (3)

Sustenance from Unexpected Sources

Rasulullaah Receives Food from the Heavens

Hadhrat Salamah bin Nufayl reports that he once asked Rasulullaah we whether he received food from the heavens. When Rasulullaah replied that he did, Hadhrat Salamah saked, "Does anything stay over from it?" "Yes," Rasulullaah we replied. "Then what happens to it?" I asked further. "It is then lifted back to the heavens," came the reply. (2)

Hadhrat Salamah bin Nufayl Sakooni reports that one day while they, the Sahabah were sitting with Rasulullaah a, a man arrived and asked, "O Nabi of Allaah sit is food brought to you from the heavens" Rasulullaah replied, "Food is brought to me in a steaming pot." "Is any food left over afterwards?" the man questioned further. When Rasulullaah replied in the affirmative, the man asked, "Then what happens to it?". "It is then lifted back to the heavens," Rasulullaah replied. Rasulullaah then continued to say, "It has been revealed to me that I shall be remaining with you for only a short while and that after me, you people will also remain alive for a short while. However, you will live until a time arrives when (because of the strife to be witnessed) you will ask, 'How much longer (are we to live)?' You will then fragment into many groups and start destroying each other. There will be plenty of deaths before Qiyaamah, after which will follow several years of earthquakes." (3)

Another narration states that someone asked Rasulullaah : whether he received food from Jannah. (4)

The Sahabah (See Sustained by a Gigantic Sea Creature after Suffering Extreme Hunger

In a lengthy narration reported by Hadhrat Jaabir bin Abdullaah (he says, "When the men complained of their extreme hunger to Rasulullaah (he said, 'Allaah shall certainly provide some food for you.' When we reached the sea shore, a massive wave threw a large creature out. We made a fire beside it, cooked some of it and roasted part of it. We then ate until we could eat no more."

Hadhrat Jaabir then named five other Sahabah and stated that the five of them together with himself went into the eye socket of the creature and none was even able to see them until they emerged. They then took a rib of the creature and stood it up like a bow. Thereafter, they selected the tallest person sitting upon the largest camel and the biggest carriage and the man was able to pass beneath the rib without even lowering his head. (1)

Hadhrat Jaabir was also reports, "Rasulullaah es once dispatched a regiment of three hundred men under the command of Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah 學問題。I was amongst the men and we were sent to a coastal area. We were still travelling when our provisions came to an end. Abu Ubaydah William instructed us to gather together all that was left of the provisions and when it was done, it amounted to only two satchels of dates. He rationed it to us little by little until it was almost finished and we then received only a single date each (for the day)." "Of what use was a single date," one of the narrators asked Hadhrat Jaabir Hadhrat Jaabir was replied. "When the rations were finished, we missed even that single date." Hadhrat Jaabir (1986) then continued the story saying, "We then reached the sea shore, where we were surprised to see a fish (lying on the ground which was) the size of a hill. The army then ate from this fish for eighteen days. Abu Ubaydah with then had two of the ribs placed upright, had a carriage strapped to a camel and then passed the camel and carriage beneath the ribs. The camel passed through without touching the ribs."(2)

In another narration, Hadhrat Jaabir Sisses, "Rasulullaah Ref dispatched three hundred of us under the command of Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah Sisses to ambush one of the Quraysh's caravans. (When our provisions ran out) We started to suffer such extreme hunger that we resorted to eating leaves. It was for this reason that this army was known as the Army of Leaves. Someone then slaughtered three camels (to feed the army), after which he slaughtered another three and then another three until Abu Ubaydah Sisses stopped him (because it was depriving them of transport). It was then that the sea threw out a fish called Ambar, from which we ate for half a month and from which we even derived oil. This eventually restored our strength..." The narration then goes on to mention the incident of the fish's ribs. (3)

In yet another narration, Hadhrat Jaabir says, "Rasulullaah si dispatched us under the command of Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah sto intercept a caravan belonging to the Quraysh. Rasulullaah si gave us a bag of dates as the journey's provisions because he had nothing else to give us. Abu Ubaydah swould therefore give us a daily ration of one date each." suck on it like a child does and then drink water. It would then suffice for us throughout the day and night. We then also used our staffs to knock leaves off trees, which we would then wet and eat.

When we arrived on the sea shore, we saw something resembling a gigantic dune. When we observed closely, we realised that it was actually a fish called Anbar. Abu Ubaydah Seess initial reaction was to say that it was carrion, but he then changed his mind and said, 'No! We are the envoys of Rasulullaah sees, we are out in the path of Allaah and have reached the point of desperation. You may therefore eat.'

Although we numbered three hundred, we lived off the fish for a month until we even started to put on weight. We used large containers to scoop up oil from its eye sockets and would cut off from it pieces of meat as large as bulls. Abu Ubaydah was once took thirteen men and seated them in the eye socket. He also took one of its ribs, stood it erect and then passed beneath it the tallest man, seated on a carriage on the largest camel. We took large chunks of meat with us as provisions for our journey and when we arrived in Madinah, we reported the incident to Rasulullaah . Rasulullaah fremarked, 'It was your sustenance that Allaah had taken out for you (from the ocean). Do you have any of it with you to give us to eat?' We then sent some for Rasulullaah . and he ate it."

A Sahabi (Source they Never Expected

Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah (States) reports that a Sahabi (States) once came home but when he saw the great hunger his family was experiencing, he (was unable to bear it and) left and went outdoors. Seeing this, is wife went to the grindstone and set it up and then went to the oven and lit it. She then made du'aa saying, "O Allaah! Provide for us." When she then looked, she saw that the mixing bowl was full of dough and when she had a look at the oven, she saw that it was full of bread. Her husband returned and asked, "Did you receive anything after 1 had left?" "Yes," she replied, "from our Rabb." He then went to the grindstone and lifted it (because of which it stopped grinding and producing flour). When the incident was reported to Rasulullaah (SS), he remarked, "Had he not lifted it, it would have continued grinding until the Day of Qiyaamah." (2)

Another narration states that his wife's du'aa was: "O Allaah! Provide for us what we can grind, knead and make into bread. The bowl then suddenly filled with bread, the grindstone started to grind and the oven was full of roasted grains. Her husband returned and asked, "Do you have anything (to eat)?" "Allaah has provided sustenance for us," she replied. He then lifted the grindstone and swept

She then lit the oven and stood by the grindstone and started to grind. When her husband returned and heard the grindstone grinding, he asked, "What are you grinding?" She then stood up to open the door for him and informed him about what she had been doing. However, when the two entered the room, they found the grindstone turning and flour pouring from it. Every utensil in their house was filled with flour. She then went to the oven, with her husband in trail and found it full of bread.

When the incident was reported to Rasulullaah A, he asked, "What then happened to the grindstone?" The husband replied, "I lifted it up and shook it out." Rasulullaah A then remarked, "Had you left it, it would have continued grinding throughout my life." It is also reported that Rasulullaah A said, "It would have continued grinding throughout your lives." (2)

'O servant of Allaah!' she said, "I am a lone woman with none living with me. You two had rather go to the chief of the tribe if you wish to be hosted.' Rasulullaah however gave her no reply.

It was already evening and just then her son arrived with her goats (from grazing). 'Dear son!' she said, 'Take this goat and a knife to those two men and tell them that your mother wants them to slaughter the goat, eat from it and send some for us to eat.' When the boy came to Rasulullaah . he said, 'Take this knife back and fetch me a bowl.' The boy said, 'This goat stays away from the grazing ground and therefore has no milk.' 'Go on (and fetch the bowl),' Rasulullaah be bade the boy. When the boy brought the bowl, Rasulullaah placed his hand on the goat's teats and milked her until the bowl was full. When I happened to pass by them, the son recognised me and said, 'Dear mother! There is the man who was with Mubaarak.' She got up before me and said, 'O servant of Allaah! Rasulullaah asked, 'Are there any she-goats that have not mated yet?' I then brought such a goat and when Rasulullaah passed his hand over her teats, milk started to descend and he milked her. He then drank from the container of milk and gave Hadhrat Abu Bakr some to drink as well. Rasulullaah then addressed the teat saying, 'Now contract' and it contracted.

Thereafter, I approached Rasulullaah with the request, 'O Rasulullaah reach me something of this speech.' Rasulullaah then passed his hand over my head saying, 'Dear lad! May Allaah shower mercy on you because you shall be a learned and well taught person." Another narration states that Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Mas'ood brought Rasulullaah a goat that was under a year old. Rasulullaah tied her legs and made du'aa as he passed his hand over her teats. The Jinn Wail and Lament the Death of the Sahabah Hadhrat Maalik bin Dinaar reports that when Hadhrat Umar (was martyred, a voice (of a Jinn) was heard coming from the Tabaalah mountains (in Yemen). It recited the following couplets (which mean):

"I stand at the service of whoever wished to weep over (the adherents to) Islaam because their destruction is imminent even though much time has not yet elapsed

Whoever walks or rides to achieve the accomplishments you have attained to catch up with what you have accomplished in the past, he will surely be beaten. The martyrdom of such a personality in Madinah has caused darkness to loom over the earth.

After this, can the acacia tree ever allow its branches to sway in the breeze? (1) In another narration, Hadhrat Aa'isha (2006) quotes the above four couplets in a different sequence, but then adds another couplet (which means):

"(O Ameerul Mu'mineen) May my Rabb meet you with salutations in Jannah and with the garments of Firdous that never tear" (2)

As the others went out in search of him, I also got my clothing, dressed and went out to search with them. Although I was the first to catch up with him, I swear by Allaah that I found him only after I had thoroughly exhausted myself. 'O Ameerul Mu'mineen!' I said, 'You have really made it difficult for the people (to keep up with you). By Allaah! One can only catch up with you after I horoughly exhausting themselves. In fact, it was only after I had thoroughly exhausted myself that I managed to catch up with you.' To this, he said, 'But I do not think that I had been going fast at all.'

Chapter Nineteen

The Chapter Concerning the Reasons behind the Unseen Assistance that the Sahabah

This chapter discusses the reasons why Nabi see and the Sahabah received unseen assistance, how they adhered to these and turned their gazes away from the material means and the temporary commodities of this world.

Enduring Difficulties and Hardships

The Narration of Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf about how the Sahabah found Good in Difficulties and Hardships

Hadhrat Abdur Rahmaan bin Auf 医硬部 says, "Islaam came with many hardships and difficulties, but we always found the best of the good in things that seem unpleasant. When we left Makkah with Rasulullaah 疑惑, we found status and victory. Then we marched to Badr. Allaah describes it in the words:

...while there was certainly a group of the Mu'mineen who were unhappy. They (some Sahabah (Massa)) differed with you (O Rasulullaah (Massa)) regarding the truth (the necessity to fight) after it was made clear to them (that they had to face the enemy in battle), as if they were being driven towards death while they looked on (as if they were looking at their deaths approaching). (Remember the time) When Allaah promised you (Muslims) that one of the two groups (either the caravan or the Mushrikeen army) will certainly be yours and you wished that the one without strength (the Quraysh caravan) be yours (rather than fighting a heavily armed army). (Surah An(aa), verses 5-7)

The party without strength refers to (the caravan of) the Quraysh. Allaah then gave us status and victory in this. We therefore found the best of the good in such things that seemed most unpleasant." (1)

The Letter Hadhrat Abu Bakr Woote to Hadhrat Khaalid bin Waleed In this Regard

In his narration discussing the time when Hadhrat Khaalid bin Waleed was finished with the Battle of Yamaamah, Hadhrat Muhammad bin Is'haaq bin Yasaar continues to narrate that Hadhrat Khaalid bin Waleed was still camped at Yamaamah when Hadhrat Abu Bakr wrote a letter to him saying:

"From the servant of Allaah Abu Bakr

To Khaalid bin Waleed, the Muhaajireen and Ansaar with him and all those who follow them with devotion

Salaamun Alaykum

Before you do I praise that Allaah besides Whom there is none worthy of worship

All praise belongs to Allaah Who has fulfilled His promise, assisted his servant, honoured His friend, humiliated His enemy and defeated the opposing armies by Himself.

That Allaah besides Whom there is none worthy of worship declares:

﴿ وَعَدَ اللَّهُ الَّذِيْنَ امْنُوا مِنْكُمْ وَ عَمِلُوا الصَّلِختِ لَيَسْتَخْلِفَنَّهُمْ فِي الْأَرْضِ كَمَا اسْتَخْلَفَ الَّذِيْنَ مِنْ قَبْلِهِمْ صَ وَلَيْمَكِنَنَّ لَهُمْ دِيْنَهُمُ الَّذِيْ اوْنَصْى لَهُمْ وَلَيُبَدِّلَنَّهُمْ مِّنْ بَعْدِ حَوْقِهِمُ امْنَا مُ يَعْبُدُونَنِيْ لَا يُشْوِكُونَ بِيْ شَيْنًا مُ وَمَنْ كَفَرَ بَعْدَ ذَلِكَ فَأُولَلَّكَ هُمُ الْفَسْفُونَ ۞ (سورة بور: آب،ه)

Allaah has promised those of you who have Imaan and who do good actions that He will definitely make them successors (of the rulers) on earth just as He had made those before them successors. And He will certainly grant (great) strength to the Deen that He has chosen for them and will certainly replace their fear with peace (on condition that) they worship Me and do not ascribe any as partner to Myself. Those who are ungrateful after this are sinful indeed. (Surah Noor, verse 55)

This is a promise from Allaah, which will never be broken and a statement in which there can be no doubt. Allaah has made Jihaad compulsory on the Mu'mineen. He says:

Jihaad (for the pleasure of Allaah against the enemies of Islaam) has been made obligatory for you (when necessary) though you may dislike it (because of the hardship involved). {Surah Baqara, verse 216}

You must therefore seek to have Allaah's promise to you fulfilled (by fulfilling the necessary requirements). Obey Him in all that He has made compulsory for you even though you my have to undergo difficulty, tolerate calamities, undertake arduous journeys or even suffer losses to your wealth and health. These are all insignificant in comparison to the tremendous rewards from Allaah. May Allaah shower His mercy on you all! Fight in the path of Allaah whether you are enjoying prosperity or poverty and strive with your wealth and lives. (Hadhrat Abu Bakr then included relevant verses of the Qur'aan).

I have given Khaalid bin Waleed (Single) the command to march to traq and to remain there until he receives my next command. You should all march with him and not cling heavily to the ground because this is a path in which Allaah grants immense rewards for those whose intentions are good and who aspire for good. When you arrive in Iraq, remain there until further instructions from me.

May Allaah take care of all our and your concerns for this world and the Aakhirah. Was Salaamu Alaykum wa Rahmatullaahi wa Barakaatuh." (1)

Narrations concerning the difficulties and hardships that the Sahabah bore have already been quoted in the chapter discussing enduring difficulties and hardships, the chapter discussing Hijrah, the chapter discussing Nusrah, the chapter discussing Jihaad and several others, which provide much detail.

Carrying out Orders even though they Appeared to Contradict what was Apparent

Hadhrat Utba bin Abd Sulami 医蹄을 reports that when Rasulullaah 疑疑 instructed the Sahabah 經濟 to stand up and fight in battle, they responded by saying, "Certainly, O Rasulullaah 疑疑! We will not tell you what the Bani Israa'eel told Hadhrat Moosa 疑疑 when they said:

So you and your Rabb both go ahead and fight. We shall remain sitting here. (Surah Maa'dah, verse 24)

You and your Rabb go ahead, O Muhammad (36%, and we will be there to fight right beside you." (2)

A similar statement of Hadhrat Miqdaad (Similar has passed in the chapter of Jihaad, as reported by Ibn Abi Haatim, Ibn Mardway and others. Also quoted earlier (3) is the statement of Hadhrat Sa'd bin Ubaadah (Similar who said, "I swear by the Being Who controls my life! If you command us to ride our animals into the sea, we shall readily do so and if you command us to travel to (the distant city of) Barkul Ghimaad (in Yemen), we shall certainly do so."

(سورة انفال: آيتد)

Just as your Rabb took you (O Muhammad (26)) from your home (Madinah) with the truth (with good cause to fight the battle) while there was certainly a group of the Mu'mineen who were unhappy (to fight the Kuffaar because they were not prepared for battle). {Surah Anfaal, verse 5}

Another narration states that Hadhrat Sa'd sussess also said to Rasulullaah sussess. "Take as much of our wealth as you please and leave as much as you please but what you take from us is more beloved to us than what you leave. Our wills are subservient to the commands you give us."

Trusting in Allaah and Disbelieving what the People of Falsehood Propagate

The Incident of Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Ali

Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Auf bin Ahmar reports that when Hadhrat Ali was leaving Ambaar to go to Nahrwaan, Musaafir bin Auf bin Ahmar said to him, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! Do not leave right now, but leave after three portions of the day have passed." "Why is that?" Hadhrat Ali was enquired. Musaafir replied, "If you leave right now, you and your companions will come to harm. However, if you leave in the time I have suggested to you, you will be successful, victorious, earn plenty of booty and achieve your objectives."

Hadhrat Ali speed remarked, "Neither did Muhammad have a fortune teller, nor do we need any after him. Do you know what is in the belly of this horse of mine?" "I will be able to know by my calculations," came the reply. Hadhrat Ali speed then asserted, "Whoever believes you disbelieves in the Qur'aan because

Allaah says:

"Whoever believes you seems to have no need for Allaah to avert harm from his way. Furthermore, the one who does not travel because of your instruction has handed over his affairs to you rather than to his Rabb. This is because you claim that you are able to show him that hour in which no harm will come to the person who travels in it. I fear that the person who believes in your word is just like the one who ascribes a counterpart and partner to Allaah. O Allaah! There is no evil foreboding except that which You decree, there is no good except that which You ordain and there is none worthy of worship but You. (O Musaafirt) We do not believe in what you say. In fact, we shall oppose you and travel in the very hour that you are stopping us from."

Hadhrat Ali then addressed the people saying, "O people! Be warned against studying the stars unless it be for the purpose of navigating in the darkness of land and sea. The astrologer(1) is like a Kaafir and the Kaafir shall end up in Jahannam. (He then addressed Musaafir saying,) By Allaah! If the news ever reaches me that you are still practising and implementing your findings in astrology, I shall have you imprisoned for as long I live and as long as you live. I shall also deprive you of all state allowances for as long as 1 am in authority."

Hadhrat Ali then marched in the very hour that Musaafir was stopping him from and then marched to Nahrwaan, where he defeated the enemy. Thereafter, he said, "Had we set out during the time that he advised us to and attained victory, people would have said, 'Ameerul Mu'mineen left at the time that the fortune teller advised (because of which he was victorious)."

Neither did Muhammad have a fortune teller, nor do we need any after him. Despite this, Allaah has given us victory over the emperors of Rome and Persia and various other lands. O people! Trust in Allaah and rely only on Him because with Him you will need no other." (2)

Seeking Honour Where Allaah has Placed Honour

Incidents of Ameerul Mu'mineen Hadhrat Umar bin Khattaab Www in this Regard

Hadhrat Taariq bin Ziyaad reports that when Hadhrat Umar was travelling to Shaam, Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah was accompanying him. When they arrived at a point where they had to wade across, Hadhrat Umar was alighted from his camel, removed his leather socks and threw them over his shoulders. He then took hold of the reins of the camel and waded through.

"O Ameerul Mu'mineen!" Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah said, "Are you doing that?! Do you also remove your leather socks, throw them over your shoulders, take hold of the reins of the camel and then wade through?! I would not like the people of that city (where we are headed) to see you like this."

"O, Oh!" Hadhrat Umar sees exclaimed, "Had anyone other than Abu Ubaydah made such a statement, I would have made him a lesson for the Ummah of Muhammad sees. We were once amongst the lowest of people, but Allaah gave us honour because of Islaam. As soon as we start to seek honour in avenues other than that in which Allaah has granted us honour, Allaah will then humiliate us." (1)

Another narration states that when Hadhrat Umar was arrived in Shaam and was to be received by the army, he was wearing his loincloth, leather socks and a turban. He was holding the head of his camel and wading across some water. Someone then said, "O Ameerul Mu'mineen! The army and the general of Shaam's army are here to meet you and you are in this condition?" Hadhrat Umar was remarked, "We are a nation whom Allaah has given honour through Islaam, so we shall not seek honour in other avenues." (2)

Yet another narration states that Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah bin Jarraah (To Hadhrat Umar (To Ameerul Mu'mineen) You have done something that the people of these parts regard as a something degrading. You have removed your socks, led your camel while on foot and waded through water on foot." Hadhrat Umar (To deart If only someone other than you had made that statement, O Abu Ubaydah! You people (Arabs) were the smallest in number and the most degraded of people before Allaah gave you honour through Islaam. When you start to seek honour in anything else other than Islaam, Allaah will certainly degrade you." (3)

Hadhrat Qais narrates that when Hadhrat Umar was arrived in Shaam and was received bythepeople, hewasridingacamel. "O Ameerul Mu'mineen!" someone said, "If only you would ride a Turkish horse because the leaders and prominent people of the city would be meeting you." To this, Hadhrat Umar was remarked, "I do not see your honour lying here (in the things of this world), but (pointing to the sky) everything comes from there. Let my camel go." (4) shone in the sun because he wore neither a hat nor a turban. Since there were no stirrups, his legs dangled loosely on either side of the carriage. His saddle blanket when he rode was a woollen blanket made in Ambijaan, which doubled as a bedding when he camped. His satchel was striped cloth filled with the bark of a date palm, which doubled as his pillow when he was not riding. He wore a thick white cotton Qamees which was patched and torn on the side.

"Send the leader of these people to me," Hadhrat Umar commanded. When the people sent for the head priest, Hadhrat Umar said said to him, "Please wash my Qamees, mend it and borrow me a Qamees or some clothing. A Qamees made from Kattaan (a very fine and expensive cloth) was then brought to Hadhrat Umar said. "What is this?" Hadhrat Umar said enquired. When the people told him that it was Kattaan, he asked, "And what is Kattaan?" After they explained to him what it was, he removed his Qamees and it was washed and patched. When it was returned to him, he took off the Kattaan one and wore his own.

The head priest then said to him, "Because you are the king of the Arabs, It is not belitting that you ride a camel in these parts. If you ride a Turkish horse and wear some other clothing, it would command more respect in the eyes of the Romans. Hadhrat Umar however said, "We are people who have been given respect because of Islaam and therefore do not wish any substitute."

A Turkish horse was then brought and rather than a saddle or carriage, a mere saddle blanket was thrown over it. Hadhrat Umar (when it started to strut) he called out, "Stop it! I have never seen people riding a Shaytaan before this (because riding it brings pride in the rider)." Hadhrat Umar (when it started to strut) had because riding it brings pride in the rider).

Giving Consideration to the Dhimmi Community when in a position of Honour

Hadhrat Abu Nuhayk and Hadhrat Abdullaah bin Handhala report, "We were with Hadhrat Salmaan in an army when someone recited Surah Maryam. Another man (probably a Jew) then started to vilify Hadhrat Maryam was and her son (Hadhrat Isa will). We then assaulted the man and hit him until he was bleeding. Since every person who was wronged in any way complained to Hadhrat Salmaan was therefore approached us and never done so before. Hadhrat Salmaan was therefore approached us and asked why we had assaulted the man. 'We were reciting Surah Maryam,' we explained, 'when he started to vilify Hadhrat Maryam was and her son (Hadhrat Isa will).' Hadhrat Salmaan we rebuked us saying, 'Then why did you make him listen to it? Did you not hear what Allaah will says? (Allaah says:)

Do not insult (abuse, swear) those whom they (the non-Muslims) worship instead of Allaah, for then they shall insult (speak ill of) Allaah out of enmity and without knowledge (without realising the consequences of their actions). (Surah An'aam, verse 108)

O assembly of Arabs! Did you not have the worst of religions, the most inhospitable of lands and the worst lives? Did Allaah not then grant you honour and give you in abundance? Do you now wish to pick on people because Allaah had given you honour? By Allaah! You must stop this, otherwise Allaah shall take away everything in your hands and give it to someone else.'

Hadhrat Salmaan then started to teach us. He said, "Perform (Nafl) salaah between the Maghrib and Isha salaahs because (by reciting extra Qur'aan during these Rakaahs) this will lighten the fixed daily recitations (of the Qur'aan) that he recites. It will also safeguard against wasting time during the beginning of the night because this time-wasting destroys one's Aakhirah." (1)

Taking a Lesson from those who have Forsaken Allaah's Commands

Hadhrat Jubayr bin Nufayr says, "When Cyprus was conquered, its inhabitants were separated from each other, because of which they cried for each other. The Incident of Hadhrat Aamir bin Abd Qais in this Regard Hadhrat Abu Abdah Ambari reports that when the Muslims arrived (as conquerors) in Madaa'in and were gathering the booty together, a man arrived with a dish (full of precious gems) and handed it over to the person in charge of the distribution of the booty. Those with him exclaimed, "We have never seen anything like this! Let alone equalling the value of everything else we have gathered, all of it does not even come close to the value of this!" They then asked the man, "Have you taken anything from this?" "Listen well!" he said to them, "By Allaah! Had it not been for the fear of Allaah, I would not have brought this to you in the first place."

When they realised that this was a very special person, they asked who he was. "By Allaah!" he responded, "I shall not inform you for you to praise me, nor shall I inform anyone else for them to praise me falsely. I prefer to rather praise Allaah and be content with His rewards." One of the people however followed the man to his companions and asked them who he was. He turned out to be none other than Aamir bin Abd e Qays. (2)

Hadhrat Sa'd saw and Hadhrat Jaabir saw Attest to the Integrity of the Army at Qaadisiyyah

Hadhrat Muhammad, Hadhrat Talha, Hadhrat Muhallab and several others reports that Hadhrat Sa'd bin Abi Waqqaas Said (on the occasion of the Battle of Qaadisiyyah), "By Allaah! This army is a truly trustworthy one. Had it not been for the excellence that the veterans of Badr have already been noted for, I would swear by Allaah that the men in this army also have the same excellence. After closely examining many groups of people, I found that they were deficient in distributing booty. I have however neither seen nor heard of such deficiencies in this army." (3)

Hadhrat Jaabir bin Abdullaah ("I swear in the name of Allaah besides Whom there is none worthy of worship that we found no one amongst the army fighting at Qaadisiyyah who desired the world together with the Aakhirah. Seeking Allaah's Assistance through the Glorious Qur'aan and Adhkaar

The Letter Hadhrat Umar Wood Wrote to Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas Concerning Seeking Assistance from Allaah

Hadhrat Zaid bin Aslam (Sie) reports that when Hadhrat Umar (Sie) felt that Egypt was taking too long to conquer, he wrote the following letter to Hadhrat Amr bin Al Ass (Who led the military operations in Egypt):

"It surprises me to see how long it is taking you to conquer Egypt. You are already fighting there for several years now. The only reason for this is because you people have started to do things differently and have developed love for this world just as your enemy has. Allaah assists people only when their intentions are sincere.

I am sending four persons to you and am informing you that as far as I know, each of them is worth a thousand others, unless they are also affected by that which affects others. When this letter reaches you, I want you to address the people, to encourage them to fight the enemy, to be steadfast and to correct their intentions. Keep these four ahead of all the others and command the army to attack the enemy all at once like a single person. The attack should take place just after midday on Friday because this is the time when Allaah's mercy descends and du'aas are accepted. Everyone should cry before Allaah and beg His assistance against the enemy."

When the letter reached Hadhrat Amr (Sie), he gathered the army, read the letter out to them and then sent for the four men. He placed them in front of the others, commanded everyone to make wudhu, to perform two Rakaahs salaah, to turn to Allaah and to beg Him for assistance. When this was done, Allaah granted them victory.

Another narration states that when Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas (Sings) felt that it was taking too long for him to conquer Egypt, he wrote to Hadhrat Umar (Sings) to ask for reinforcements. Hadhrat Umar (Sings) sent four thousand troops, with a commander appointed over every thousand troops. Hadhrat Umar (Sings) also wrote to Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas (Sings) saying:

"I have sent you four thousand troops as reinforcements and appointed a commander for every thousand troops. The commander of every thousand troops is a man who is himself equivalent to a thousand troops; (they are) Zubayr bin Awaam Sass, Miqdaad bin Aswad bin Amr Sass, Ubaadah bin Saamit Sass, and Maslamah bin Mukhallad Sass. Remember that you have twelve thousand troops with you and an army of twelve thousand can never be defeated for want of numbers."

The Letter Hadhrat Umar Wood Wrote to the Commanders in Shaam in this Regard

Hadhrat Iyaadh Ash'ari reports that he was present during the Battle of Yarmook where there were five commanders over the Muslim army (because the five armies had merged there to fight together); (the five were) Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah (the five were) Hadhrat Yazeed bin Abu Sufyaan (the five were) Hadhrat Shurahbeel bin Hasanah (the one reporting this narration). Hadhrat Umar (the one reporting this narration). Hadhrat Umar (the one that Hadhrat Abu Ubaydah (the one should be the commander-in-chief if a battle took place. The army then wrote a letter to Hadhrat Umar (informing him that death was storming towards them (because the enemy outnumbered them) and he should reinforce them with more troops.

Hadhrat Umar significant replied to their letter by writing:

"Your letter requesting me for reinforcements has reached me. I shall therefore refer you to one who is a more powerful helper and who has a ready army. He is Allaah (1996). Ask Him for assistance because Muhammad (1996) was assisted at Badr when his forces were less than yours." (2)

Another narration states that Hadhrat Umar added, "When this letter reaches you, I want you to fight them without writing back to me." The narrator says, "We then fought them and defeated all of them within a distance of four Farsakh (approximately twelve miles). We also earned a large amount of booty. When we discuss the matter, Hadhrat Iyaadh proposed that we exchange ten of the enemy prisoners for each one of ours.

Hadhrat Muhammad, Hadhrat Talha and Hadhrat Ziyaad all report that after leading the Zuhr salaah, Hadhrat Sa'd (See instructed a youngster to recite the Surah of Jihaad (Surah Anfaal). The youngster was from amongst the Qura (learned scholars of the Qur'aan) and Hadhrat Umar (learned scholars of the Qur'aan) and Hadhrat Umar (learned had appointed him to be with Hadhrat Sa'd (See all the time. All the Muslims there had learnt the Surah of Jihaad and when the youngster recited it to the soldiers beside him, soon it was recited in the entire regiment. This lighted up the hearts and eyes of the Muslims and they all derived tranquillity from reciting it.

Another narration states that because the Muslims had learnt the Surah of Jihaad, Hadhrat Sa'd (1988) commanded them to recite it to each other, (1)

Hadhrat Ja'íar bin Abdullaah bin Hakam reports that when Hadhrat Khaalid bin Waleed lost his hat during the Battle of Yarmook, he gave the order for it to be found. When the people failed to find it, he again gave the command for them to search for it. This time, they managed to find it. It happened to be an old hat, so Hadhrat Khaalid see explained. He said, "When Rasulullaah for performed Umrah and had his hair shaved off, people raced around him (to get some of it). I managed to beat them to the forelocks and kept it in this hat. Whenever I participate in battle with these hairs on me, I am always granted victory." (3) Another narration states that Hadhrat Khaalid see used to say. Hadhrat Sa'd Since then drew lots and the opportunity fell to the lot of someone, who then called out the Adhaan." (5) conquest of Islahaan which took place under the command of Hadhrat Nu'maan bin Mugarrin (Sies). Part of the narration states that when Hadhrat Nu'maan (Sies) (and his army) arrived (at Islahan), there was a river separating him from the city. Hadhrat Nu'maan (Sies) sent Hadhrat Mughiera bin Shu'ba (Sies) as an envoy.

The Persian ruler of the area was Dhul Haajibayn. He consulted with his courtiers saying, "Do you think that I should sit before him in battledress or with the pomp and splendour of a king?" When they advised him to rather sit with the pomp and ceremony of a king, he did so. He sat on his throne, placed his crown upon his head and was surrounded by two rows of his courtiers dressed in velvet and wearing earrings and bangles.

When Hadhrat Mughiera spear and shield with him and started poking holes in the carpet upon which the courtiers stood in their rows. In this way, he tore the carpet so that the people may take it as an ill omen (a foreboding that their kingdom will also be torn apart).

Addressing Hadhrat Mughiera (Dies), Dhul Haajibayn said, "You Arabs have been afflicted with starvation and hardships, because of which you have left your land (and come here). If you please, we shall supply you with grains and you may return to your land."

Hadhrat Mughiera then started to talk. After duly praising Allaah, he said, "We, the Arab people, used to consume carrion and although others wielded power over us, we never wielded power over anyone. Allaah then raised a Nabi from amongst us, who was amongst our most noble people, of the highest lineage and the most truthful. He promised us that these lands will fall to us and we have always found his promises to be true. Now that I have seen the exquisite garments you have here and the fine luxuries, I do not think that any of the people with me will want to leave without them..." The narration still continues further. (1)

The Incidents of Hadhrat Rib'ee (1996), Hadhrat Hudhayfah (1996) and Hadhrat Mughiera (1996) with Rustam at Qaadisiyyah

Hadhrat Muhammad (1966). Hadhrat Talha, Hadhrat Amr and Hadhrat Ziyaad all reports that Hadhrat Sa'd bin Abi Waqqaas (1966) sent for Hadhrat Mughiera (1966) and few others and said to them, "I intend sending you to those people (the Persians). What have you to say about it?" They all said in one voice, "We shall do as you command and do no more. If a situation arises concerning which there are no directives from you, we shall look for what is best and most beneficial for the people and discuss that with them."

Hadhrat Sa'd with then said to them, "Such is the behaviour of intelligent and experienced people. Go and get ready." Hadhrat Rib'ee bin Aamir with then said, "The non-Arabs have their own peculiar ideas and etiquette and if we all go to them, they will feel that we are placing them on a pedestal. Do not send more than one person." When the other agreed with this, Hadhrat Rib'ee wolunteered to go first. Hadhrat Sa'd with then sent him and Hadhrat Rib'ee will be to meet Rustam in his cantonment.

However, the sentries at the bridge stopped Hadhrat Rib'ee sizes and sent a message to Rustam, informing him of the arrival. Rustam consulted with some leaders of Persia, asking, "What are your opinions? Should we boast only about our military superiority or should we make them feel worthless (by displaying our wealth and riches)?" They were all unanimous about making the Muslims seem worthless, so they made a display of their opulent commodities, they laid out exquisite carpets and cushions and spared nothing in their effort. A golden throne was made for Rustam and he dressed most lavishly. Expensive rugs and cushions woven with gold thread were also laid out.

Hadhrat Rib'ee was arrived on his short, long-haired horse, carrying a shining sword. His scabbard was a pouch made of old cloth and his spear was tied with a leather strap. He also carried a shield made of cow's hide, the face of which had round patches of red leather that resembled rotis⁽¹⁾. He also carried his bow and arrows with him. When he came to the court and reached the first of the rugs, he was told to alight from his horse. He however rode the horse on the rug and alighted only when it stood properly on the rug. He then tore up two cushions, plerced the horse's reins through them and tied the horse up. All this while, the people there were unable to stop him. Hadhrat Rib'ee knew well that they were displaying everything to him to make him feel inferior, so he wished to get the upper hand over them (because of which he did what he did to show them that their wealth held no attraction for him).

The armour Hadhrat Rib'ee was wearing flowed over him like a dam and he wore the hide of a camel over it like a cloak. He had made a hole in the hide, drew it over his head and tied it about his waist with a cord made from plant fibres. Hadhrat Rib'ee was amongst the hairiest of all Arabs and his hair was tied with the leather reins of a camel. His hair was separated into four locks that stood like the horns of a mountain goat.

The people told him to put down his weapons, to which he replied, "I have not come here by my own accord, so you cannot instruct me to drop my weapons. It is you who have sent for me, so if you do not want me to come as I please, I might as well go back." When this was reported to Rustam, he said, "Allow him in. He is but one person." Hadhrat Rib'ee was arrived, leaning on his spear that had a sharp head. He took short steps and tore the rugs and cushions (with the spear) as he walked. There was no cushion or rug that he did not ruin, leaving them all torn and tattered after him.

When he came up to Rustam, the sentries surrounded him. Hadhrat Rib'ee then sat on the ground and stuck his spear into the rug. "What made you do that?" they asked, Hadhrat Rib'ee replied, "We do not like to sit on those decorated places of yours." Rustam then addressed Hadhrat Rib'ee saying, "What brings you here?" "Allaah has sent us," Hadhrat Rib'ee replied, "Allaah has sent us to remove whoever. He wills from servitude to man and to lead him to the servitude of Allaah, Allaah has sent us to remove them from the narrowness of this world towards its vastness and from the oppression of other religions towards the justice of Islaam...," The narration then continues, as has been quoted in the chapter discussing the Da'wah that the Sahabah gave during the Khilaafah of Hadhrat Umar government of the courtiers (when they criticised Hadhrat Rib'ee sappearance), "Shame on you! Do not look at clothing but rather look at the prudence, the speech and the personality. The Arabs care little for clothing and food but are covetous about their lineage. They do not dress like you and have different tastes."

The Persians then approached Hadhrat Rib'ee was to have a look at his weapons, regarding them to be inferior. He said to them, "Do you wish to show me your military prowess and I shall show you mine?" He then drew his sword from his cloth pouch and it flashed like a flame of fire, "Sheath it!" they called out (in terror). He then sheathed his sword. They then fired arrows at his shield while he fired arrows at theirs. Their shield was shattered while his shield remained intact. He then addressed them saying, "O Persians! While you have given great importance to food and drink, we treat it with little ceremony." He then went back after giving them time (three days) to consider their position.

The following day, the Persians sent a message saying that they wanted the same person sent back to them. Hadhrat Sa'd however sent Hadhrat Hudhayfah bin Mihsin which the also arrived in simple attire as Hadhrat Rib'ee wore. When he also came to the first rug, he was told to alight from his animal. He however said, "That I would have done if I had come to you for my own needs. Ask your king whether I have come for his need or for mine. If he says that it is for my own need, he is lying and I shall return and leave you alone. However, if he says that it is for his own need, then I shall come as I please."

Rustam instructed the sentries to allow Hadhrat Hudhayfah (Fig. 1) in and he rode up to Rustam who was seated on his throne. "You may get off your animal," Rustam said. "I shall not," Hadhrat Hudhayfah (When he saw that Hadhrat Hudhayfah (What is the matter that you have come and not your companion who came yesterday?" When Rustam received from Hadhrat Hudhayfah way and addressed his companions saying, "Shame on you people! Do you not see what I see? The first man came to us yesterday and defeated us on our premises. He degraded what we were enamoured with, stood his horse on our opulence and even tied his horse to it. He took a good omen from what he did and returned to his people, taking some of our soil with him. That was apart from his superior intelligence. Today this other man arrived and stood over us, also taking a good omen from it by taking our land after expelling us from it." Rustam however infuriated the others and they also infuriated him (by refusing to listen to him).

The following day, the Persians again asked for someone to be sent to them and this time, Hadhrat Mughiera bin Shu'ba was sent. (1) Another narration continues the narrative, staying that when Hadhrat Mughiera will reached the bridge to cross over into Persian territory, he was halted by the sentries who first sought permission from Rustam to allow him in. The Persians, however, did not leave out any of the pomp and ceremony in their effort to make the Arabs feel inferior. Therefore, when Hadhrat Mughiera will arrived, the Persians still boasted their opulence. They wore crowns, garments woven from gold threads and carpets were laid out the distance that an arrow travelled. The only way to reach the king was over this length of carpet.

Hadhrat Mughiera who also wore four locks of hair walked up to Rustam and sat with him on his throne and cushion. The courtiers sprang up, grabbed at him and brought him down, even hitting him mildly. Hadhrat Mughiera addressed them saying, "We have always heard that you people were intelligent, but I do not think that there is any nation more foolish than you. We Arabs treat each other as equals and do not make slaves of each other unless circumstances of war demand. I had always thought that you people also practice equality amongst yourselves just as we do. Rather than doing what you just did, it would have been better if you just told me that some of you prevail as masters do so others. If sitting beside Rustam was not palatable to you, we will then not do so again. I would have not come to you had you not sent for me, but today I can see that your sovereignty is soon to vanish and that you will be vanquished because no power can survive with such a way of life and with such a mentality."

(Hearing this) The common people shouted, "The Arab is right!" To this, the leaders remarked, "By Allaah! He has made a statement towards which our slaves will always be referring us! May Allaah destroy our elders! How foolish were they to regard these people (the Arabs) as insignificant (they should have realised the threat and wiped them out a long time ago)..." The narration then continues to mention the questions Rustam asked and the replies Hadhrat Mughiera gave him. (1)

Paying no Heed to the Numbers of the Enemy and their Resources

What Hadhrat Thaabit bin Aqram said to Hadhrat Abu Hurayrah said about this on the Occasion of the Battle of Mu'ta iladhrat Abu Hurayrah ("Peports," I participated in the Battle of Mu'ta. When the Mushrikeen arrived, we saw what none of us could ever hope to match. Their numbers were overwhelming, as were their weapons, their horses, their velvet, silk and gold. The sight actually made my eyes squint. It was then that Thaabit bin Aqram ("O Abu Hurayrah! It appears that you are seeing an overwhelming adversary?" I certainly am, I replied. He then said, "You were not with us at Badr. It is not with large numbers that we are assisted (but by the power of Allaah)."

The Letter Hadhrat Abu Bakr Wrote to Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas Wife in this regard

"Salaamun Alayk

Your letter detailing the enormous force that the Romans have gathered has reached me. When we were with Nabi Allaah never assisted us with large numbers and a large concentration of troops. There were times when we fought with Rasulullaah with only two horses and our condition was so poor that we had to share camels. When we were with Rasulullaah in the Battle of Uhud, we had only one horse, which Rasulullaah rode. Despite this, Allaah granted us victory and assistance against our enemies. O Amr! Remember that the one who is most obedient to Allaah is the one who most detests sin. Obey Allaah and command your companions to obey Allaah as well."

once said to Hadhrat Khaalid (), "The Romans are so many and the Muslims so few!" To this, Hadhrat Khaalid () remarked, "The Muslims are so many and the Romans so few! An army is large only when they receive Allaah's assistance and they are few when Allaah does not assist them. Numbers do not matter. By Allaah! I wish that my (horse) Ashqar recovers from his injury (incurred because of the long and speedy journey from Iraq to Shaam) and that the Romans were double in number." (1)

What the Enemy had to Say about the Sahabah Gaining Victory over them

The Statement of one of the Apostates Concerning the Valour of the Sahabah

Hadhrat Zuhri reports that after Hadhrat Abu Bakr 500 assumed the office of Khilaafah, some Arabs left the fold of Islaam, Hadhrat Abu Bakr 500 then personally marched against them, but when he reached a watering place near Bagee, he sensed that the safety of Madinah would be jeopardised. He therefore returned to Madinah and placed Allaah's Sword Hadhrat Khaalid bin Waleed bin Mughiera wife in command of an army. Others were recruited to join him and Hadhrat Abu Bakr (Siess's instruction to him was to march to the locality of the Mudhar tribe, where he was to wage war against all those who forsook Islaam. He was then to march to Yamaamah to fight Musaylama Kadhaab (false prophet). Hadhrat Khaalid left and it so happened that he first fought Tulayha Kadhaab Asadi (another false prophet), who was joined by Uyaynah bin Hisn bin Hudhayfah Fazaari. Allaah gave the Muslims victory. When Tulayha saw how badly defeated his troops were, he exclaimed. "Shame on you! Why are you being defeated so?" One of his men replied saying, "I shall inform you of the reason for our defeat. There is not a single man amongst us who does not want his companion to be killed before him. On the other hand, we are fighting people who would love to be killed before their companions."

Tulayha was a furious fighter and martyred both Hadhrat Ukaasha bin Mihsin and Hadhrat Ibn Aqram (Sizes) on that day. However, when the truth dawned on Tulayha, he left the battlefield on foot and went on to accept Islaam and enter into the Ihraam for Umrah... The narration still goes on. (2)

The Statement the King of Alexandria made to Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas (1986) in this regard Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas Sales says, "I was the commander of the Muslim army that marched to Alexandria. The king of the city made a request saying, 'Send out one of your men to me so that I can speak to him and he can speak to me.' 'None but I shall go to him,' I said and I left. Both he and I had a translator and two stages were set up for us. 'Who are you people?' he asked. My reply was: 'We are Arabs. We are people accustomed to thorns and acacia trees (not lush gardens). We are also the custodians of Allaah's House. We had the most inhospitable of lands, led the harshest of lives, ate carrion and looted each other. We led the worst of lives anyone could ever lead until a man emerged from amongst us. He was not the most prominent of us, neither was he the wealthiest. He told us that he was Allaah's Nabi and commanded us to do things that we did not know about. He also forbade us from doing what we had been doing and what our forefathers had been doing. We therefore opposed him, falsified him and refused to accept his words.

Eventually people from outside came out and said to him, 'We believe in you, we believe what you say, are prepared to follow you and to fight whoever fights you. He therefore went to them. We then went after him and fought him, but he prevailed over us and defeated us. He then turned to the other Arabs around him and defeated them as well. If those behind me know what luxurious lives you people lead, every one of them would come here to you and join you in it.'

The king laughed and said, 'Your prophet told you the truth. Our prophets also came to us with the same message your prophet brought and we remained steadfast on their teachings until kings started to preside over us. Their behaviour with us conformed with their whims rather than with the teachings of the prophets. If you people adhere to the teachings of your prophet, you will prevail over everyone you engage in battle and you will defeat anyone who tries to attack you. However, as soon as you do what we did by forsaking the teachings of the prophets and by acting on your desires, you will become just like us, You will then neither be more than us in number nor any stronger."

Hadhrat Amr bin Al Aas ($1366) says, "I have not spoken to anyone afterwards who gave me any better advice than he." (1)

A Roman Leader's Statement to Heraclius concerning the Reasons for Triumphs of the Sahabah

Hadhrat Abu Is'haaq reports that no enemy could stand his ground before any of the Sahabah for even the time it took between two successive squeezes of a camel's teats when it is milked. Heraclius was in Antioch at the time when his Roman army returned defeated from a battle (against the Muslims). "Shame on you!" Heraclius said to them, "Tell me about those people you were fighting against. Are they not humans like you?" "They certainly are," the men replied. "Then were you more in number or were their numbers more?" "On every occasion we were several times more in number than they," came the reply. "Then what is the matter," Heraclius asked, "Why were you still defeated?"

An elderly leader explained. He said, "It is because they stand in salaah all night, they fast all day, they fulfil their promises, they enjoin good, they forbid from evil and are just towards each other. It is also because we drink wine, we fornicate, we do what is prohibited, we break our promises, we rob, we oppress, we enjoin what is forbidden, prohibit people from acts that please Allaah and we spread anarchy on earth." Heraclius said, "You are telling me the truth." (!)

A Christian Arab Describes the Sahabah (1966) to the Commander of Damascus

Hadhrat Yahya bin Yahya Ghassaani reports that two men from his tribe reported, "When the Muslims set up camp outside Jordan, we talked amongst ourselves that Damascus would soon be under siege. We therefore went to do our business in Damascus before that happened. We were still there when the commander of Damascus sent for us.

When we came before him, he asked, 'Are you two Arabs?' When we replied in the affirmative, he asked further, 'Are you Christians?' 'Yes,' we replied "He then said, 'One of you will have to spy on them to learn about their intentions. The other will stay behind to look after his companion's belongings.' One of us then went and stayed with the Muslims for some time before returning.

He said, 'I have come to you from people who are thin and who ride fine horses. They are monks by night, brave horsemen by day and can even attach feathers to their arrows, carve them out by themselves and straighten their spears to perfection. If you were to speak to someone sitting beside you, he would be unable to hear you because they were always reciting the Qur'aan and engaging in Dhikr in loud voices." The commander then turned to his companions and said, "Such people have come to you against whom you can offer no resistance." (2)

Hadhrat Urwa reports that when the two armies confronted each other (during the Battle of Yarmook), Qubuqalaar (the Roman general) sent for an Arab man whom the narrator believes was a man from the Yazeed bin Haydaan family of the Qudhaa'ah tribe. His was known as Ibn Huzaarif. Qubuqalaar's instruction to the man was, "Infilirate the ranks of these people, stay with them for a day and a night and then report their condition to me."

Because he was Arab, he blended into the Muslim army undetected and stayed with them for a day and a night. When he then returned, Qubuqalaar asked him what he had found out. He replied, "They are monks by night and valiant horsemen by day. Even if their king's son had to steal, they would amputate his hand and should he commit adultery, he will be stoned so that the law is enforced."

To this, Qubuqalaar remarked, "If what you say is true, then being underground is better than clashing with them above the ground, I wish that Allaah would leave me alone with them, without assisting either me against them or them against me (in which case our larger numbers would win the day)," (1)

A Persian Spy Describes the Sahabah to Rustam

Hadhrat Ibn Rufayl narrates that when Rustam camped at Najaf, he sent a spy from there to the Muslim army. The spy infiltrated their ranks so well at Qaadisiyyah that he appeared to be one of them. He saw them brushing with the Miswaak before every salaah, performing salaah and then dispersing to their respective tents. He then returned and informed Rustam about their condition and about the lives they led.

Rustam interrogated him thoroughly, even asking what it was that the Sahabah ate. To this the spy replied, "By Allaah! Although I stayed with them an entire night, I did not see them eat anything. All I saw them do was to suck on some sticks in the evening, when they went to sleep and just before dawn.

Rustam then proceeded and when he camped somewhere between Hisn and Aleeq, he happened to cross paths with the Muslim army. Hadhrat Sa'd Mu'addhin had just called out the Adhaan for the Fajr salaah and Rustam saw them all preparing. He then instructed the Persians to mount their animals. When they asked him the reason, he said, "Did you not see that when the announcement was made amongst your enemy, they all started to prepare to fight you." The spy corrected him saying, "They are only preparing for salaah."

Rustam then said the following words in Persian, the translation of which is: "A voice came to me in the morning. It was the voice of Umar, talking to those dogs (the Arabs) and teaching them some wisdom." After they had crossed the river, they again happened to cross paths as Hadhrat Sa'd will have a Muaddhin called out the Adhaan for salaah. Hadhrat Sa'd will then led them in salaah. This time, Rustam remarked, "Umar has now eaten my liver." (2)

A Roman Describes the Sahabah (1996) to Heraclius

Hadhrat Abu Zahraa Qushayri reports from a man of the Qushayr tribe that as Heraclius was leaving for Constantinople, he met with a Roman who had been held captive by the Muslims and who had subsequently escaped. "Tell me about these people," Heraclius asked the man. The man said, "I shall describe them to you as if you are actually looking at them. They are valiant horsemen by day, monks by night and they never take anything from their non-Muslim subjects without paying its full price. They never see anyone without first greeting with Salaam and they remain glued to anyone they meet in combat until the matter is settled." To this, Heraclius remarked, "If what you say is true, they will certainly be the inheritors of this land beneath my feet." (1)

The Statement that the Emperor of China made about the Sahabah

(The Emperor of Persia) Yazdgird once wrote to the Emperor of China to seek reinforcements. Addressing the Persian envoy, the Chinese Emperor said, "I know well that it is the duty of any Emperor to assist another against those who are overpowering him. However, I want you to describe to me these people who are driving you out of your lands because I gather from what you said that they are fewer in number than you. From what you have described to me, people as few as them cannot overpower an adversary as many as you unless there is tremendous good in them and rot within you." "You may ask me whatever you please about them," the envoy said.

The Emperor then asked, "Do they fulfil their promises?" "Yes," the envoy replied. The next question was, "What do they tell you before they engage you in combat?" "They invite us to accept one of three options. We either accept their religion, in which case they treat us as they treat each other. Otherwise, we may accept to pay the Jizya and thus receive their protection. The final option is to face them in battle."

The Emperor then asked, "How obedient are they towards their leaders," "They are the most obedient of all people towards their leaders," came the reply. The Emperor further asked, "What do they regard as lawful and what do they regard as unlawful?" When the envoy gave him a detailed reply, the Emperor asked, "And do they forbid what has been made lawful for them or make lawful what has been forbidden for them?" "This they do not do," the envoy replied. The Emperor then said, "Such a nation will never be destroyed as long as they regard what is lawful as lawful and what is unlawful as unlawful."

The next question the Emperor asked was about the clothing the Sahabah wore. When the envoy described it to him, he then asked about the modes of transport the Sahabah will used. The envoy described the Arab horses that the Sahabah will used in detail, after which the Emperor remarked, "Those make excellent fortresses." The envoy then went on to describe the camels that they used and even explained how they sit and then get up with their loads. The Emperor (who had probably never seen a camel before) notes, "That is common with all animals that have long necks."

The Chinese Emperor then wrote back to Yazdgird saying, "It is not ignorance of my duty that prevents me from sending to your aid an army so large that while the first of it is in (the Persian city of) Marw, the last is still here in China. However, the description of these people whom your envoy has described to me tells me that if they had to come up against a mountain, they would certainly shatter it. If they are left to advance and retain their qualities, they will soon remove me from my kingship. Enter into a treaty with them and be content to abide by the clauses of the treaty. You should however never attack them as long as they do not attack you." (1)

This is the last narration that I wish to include in this book.

All praise is for Allaah, Who has guided us to this because we would never have been rightly guided had Allaah not guided us.
